

A Text-Book of

HIGHER

ENGLISH GRAMMAR

COMPOSITION

&

TRANSLATION

Join Now

Telegram

Click Here

P. K. De Sarkar

48TH EDITION

CONTENTS

PART I

GRAMMAR

	CHAPTER	PAGE
I.	SENTENCES	1
II.	THE SUBJECT AND THE PREDICATE	2
III.	PHRASES AND CLAUSES	3
IV.	PARTS OF SPEECH	4
V.	NOUNS—CLASSIFICATION	5
VI.	NOUNS—NUMBER	8
VII.	NOUNS—GENDER	18
VIII.	NOUNS—CASE	22
IX.	ADJECTIVES	27
X.	DETERMINERS—ARTICLES	35
XI.	PRONOUNS	46
XII.	VERBS—PRINCIPAL AND AUXILIARY	60
XIII.	TENSES	63
XIV.	VOICE	79
XV.	MOOD	90
XVI.	VERBALS OR NON-FINITE VERBS (INFINITIVES, PARTICIPLES, GERUNDS AND VERBAL NOUNS)	91
XVII.	AUXILIARY, DEFECTIVE AND ANOMALOUS VERBS	98
XVIII.	QUESTION TAGS	103
XIX.	THE SEQUENCE OF TENSES	106
XX.	TENSES IN CONDITIONAL SENTENCES	107
XXI.	ADVERBS	110
XXII.	PREPOSITIONS	116
XXIII.	CONJUNCTIONS	119
XXIV.	INTERJECTIONS	125
XXV.	NEGATIVE SENTENCES	126
XXVI.	INTERROGATIVE SENTENCES	128
XXVII.	DIFFERENCES IN THE USES OF A FEW WORDS	142
XXVIII.	USE OF SOME WORDS AND PHRASES	154
XXIX.	SAME WORDS USED AS DIFFERENT PARTS OF SPEECH	157
XXX.	APPROPRIATE PREPOSITIONS	163
XXXI.	GROUP VERBS	197
XXXII.	DIRECT AND INDIRECT NARRATION	221
XXXIII.	PHRASES	251
XXXIV.	CLAUSES	254
XXXV.	SENTENCES : SIMPLE, COMPLEX, COMPOUND	262
XXXVI.	ANALYSIS OF SENTENCES	265
XXXVII.	ANALYSIS (CONTINUED)	268

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটিস

প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

Join Now

Click Here

Join Now

Click Here

XXXVIII.	A FEW DIFFICULTIES IN ANALYSIS	275
XXXIX.	SYNTAX	283
XL.	MISCELLANEOUS CORRECTIONS	297
XLI.	IDIOMS	342
XLII.	IDIOMATIC USES OF A FEW WORDS	377
XLIII.	TRANSFORMATION OF SENTENCES	388
XLIV.	SYNTHESIS OR JOINING OF SENTENCES	415
XLV.	SPLITTING UP SENTENCES	431
XLVI.	PUNCTUATION	436
XLVII.	DIFFERENCE BETWEEN WORDS	446
XLVIII.	SYNONYMS	467
XLIX.	DISTINCTION BETWEEN PHRASES AND SENTENCES	473
L.	SUBSTITUTION OF SINGLE WORDS FOR PHRASES OR CLAUSES :	478
LI.	(a) ANTONYMS OR WORDS WITH OPPOSITE MEANINGS	481
	(b) APPROPRIATE COLLECTIVE WORDS	482
	(c) APPROPRIATE WORDS FOR PARTICULAR SOUNDS	483
	(d) MISCELLANEOUS	484
	(e) SIMILIES	484
	(f) YOUNG OF ANIMALS AND BIRDS	484
	(g) HOME FOR ANIMALS AND BIRDS	485
	(h) DIMINUTIVES	485
	(i) CAUSATIVE FORMS OF VERBS	486
LII.	FORMATION OF WORDS	486
LIII.	INTERCHANGE OF PARTS OF SPEECH	491
LIV.	VERB PATTERNS AND WORD ORDERS	500
LV.	FIGURES OF SPEECH	510
LVI.	SPELLING	515
	INDEX.	517

PART II

COMPOSITION

I.	LETTER-WRITING	523
II.	PRECIS-WRITING	597
III.	STORY-WRITING	635
IV.	AMPLIFICATION OR EXPANSION OF THOUGHT	649

1. Where there is a will there is a way. 649 ; 2. A man is known by the company he keeps. 649 ; 3. Industry (or, Dilligence) is the mother of good luck. 650 ; 4. Procrastination is the thief of time. or, 5. Defer not till tomorrow what you can do today. 650 ; 6. United we stand, divided we fall. or, 7. Union is strength. 650 ; 8. God helps those who

PART - I
A TEXT-BOOK OF Higher English Grammar

CHAPTER I

SENTENCES

① A Sentence is a group of words giving a complete sense¹.

(যে শব্দ-সমষ্টি একটি পূর্ণ অর্থ প্রকাশ করে তাহাকে sentence বা বাক্য বলা হয়).

In the following examples, the groups of words on the left are not sentences, because they do not make a complete sense ; but those on the right do so, and hence, they are sentences :-

Did it	I did it.		Is	Is he ill ?
Can do	I can do it.		A good boy	A good boy said this.

② Sentences may be divided into five classes, each of which may be further subdivided into two,—Affirmative (i.e., affirming something, হ্যাঁ-বাচক) and Negative (i.e., denying something, না-বাচক) :-

(a) Assertive (সাধারণ বর্ণনাত্মক) sentences make a simple statement : I know him. I do not know him.

(b) Interrogative (প্রশ্নবোধক) sentences ask questions : Why is he there ? Why is he not there ?

(c) Imperative (আদেশ, বা অনুরোধমূলক বা উপদেশমূলক) sentences express command or request : Come here. Do not come here.

(d) Optative (ইচ্ছাবোধক) sentences express a wish : May he live long.

(e) Exclamatory (আবেগসূচক) sentences express a sudden feeling or emotion : How nice ! Alas ! he is no more !

Note

Some make a different division. They classify sentences as :

(i) Statements, which simply affirm or deny something, as in (a) above.

(ii) Questions, which ask questions, as in (b) above.

(iii) Desires, which contain some desire, order or request, as in (c) and (d) above.

(iv) Exclamations, which express a sudden feeling or emotion, as in (e) above.

¹ In writing, the beginning and end of a sentence are indicated respectively by a capital letter and by a full stop, or a note of exclamation or interrogation. A sentence may consist of one or more words. The one-word sentences are, as a rule, intelligible only in connection with a particular situation. (Art. 268)

In exclamations—Good ! What !

In imperatives—Wait. Stop.

Others—Certainly. Impossible. Yes. No. What ?

E EXERCISE 1

Say what kind of sentence each of the following is :

- | | |
|--------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| 1. I know you. | 11. Why is he not present here? |
| 2. Will he go? | 12. What a pity! |
| 3. Come at once. | 13. May you succeed. |
| 4. How foolish! | 14. Is he ill? |
| 5. God save him. | 15. He does not like this. |
| 6. He did not see me. | 16. Please do not say so. |
| 7. When did you come here? | 17. May he not suffer. |
| 8. Give me a pen. | 18. The sun shines in the sky. |
| 9. Oh, could I be there! | 19. Try, try again. |
| 10. I asked him this question. | 20. May God help you. |

CHAPTER II*THE SUBJECT AND THE PREDICATE

③ Look at the following sentences :

- | | |
|-------------------|-----------------------------|
| Ram sings. | His name is known. |
| The dog barks. | A clever boy will act thus. |
| His work is done. | My brother has gone. |

Each of the above sentences may be divided into two parts, thus :

Subject	Predicate	Subject	Predicate
Ram	sings.	His name	is known.
The dog	barks.	A clever boy	will act thus.
His work	is done.	My brother	has gone.

The first parts denote the persons or things about whom or which something is said. They are called Subject.

The Subject is a word, or a group of words, that denotes the person or thing about whom or which something is said (যাহার সম্বন্ধে বা যাহাকে উদ্দেশ্য করিয়া কিছু বলা হয় তাহাকে). It must be a noun or a noun-equivalent, and may consist of any number of words.

The second parts denote what are said about the subjects. They are called Predicate.

The Predicate is a word, or a group of words, that denotes what is said about the subject (Subject সম্বন্ধে যাহা বলা হয় তাহাকে). It must contain at least a finite verb, expressed or understood.

④ The Subject is often understood in some sentences, especially in Imperative ones. Thus, Go there = Go you there. Sit down = Sit you down. In analysing such sentences, the subject has to be supplied.

E EXERCISE 2

Divide the following sentences into Subjects and Predicates :

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--|
| 1. I know you. | 11. That young boy is my brother. |
| 2. Pandey has done this. | 12. The faithful dog followed its master. |
| 3. Nobody loves a bad boy. | 13. The poor man came to me for help. |
| 4. The wicked boy told me this. | 14. Honesty is the best policy. |
| 5. Three boys came to my house. | 15. The little girl began to dance in joy. |
| 6. Our school is a big one. | 16. Barking dogs seldom bite. |
| 7. I love my mother country. | 17. A little learning is a dangerous thing. |
| 8. Give me a book. | 18. A guilty mind is always suspicious. |
| 9. Come at once. | 19. Cheap goods are dear in the long run. |
| 10. Is he there? | 20. Everybody's business is nobody's business. |

CHAPTER III

PHRASES AND CLAUSES

5) Let us look at the following sentences :

- | | |
|--|--|
| Come at once . | I know that he is ill . |
| He came to see me . | The boy who did it is my brother. |
| She was at the point of death . | I went after he had gone . |

The groups of words written in italics in the examples on the left above do not make complete sense, and do not contain any finite verb, expressed or understood, but are used as single parts of speech. Such groups of words are called Phrases.

A Phrase is a group of words that does not make a complete sense, and does not contain a finite verb, expressed or understood, but is used as a single part of speech (যে শব্দসমষ্টি মিলিতভাবে এক একটি অর্থ প্রকাশ করিতেছে বটে, কিন্তু বাক্যের সম্পূর্ণ অর্থ প্রকাশ করে না এবং ইহাদের কোন Finite verb নাই).

The groups of words written in italics in the examples on the right above contain subjects (he, who, he respectively) and predicates (is ill, did it, had gone respectively) of their own, but form parts of longer sentences. Such groups of words are called Clauses.

A Clause is a group of words having a subject and a predicate of its own, but forming part of a bigger sentence (যে শব্দসমষ্টি এক একটি sentence আলাদাভাবে গঠন করিয়াছে, কারণ ইহাতে Subject বা Predicate আছে, কিন্তু উহা বৃহত্তর একটি sentence-এর অংশ মাত্র).

E EXERCISE 3

Point out the Clauses and Phrases :

- | | |
|------------------------------------|---|
| 1. I met him on the way. | 4. Tell me when he will arrive. |
| 2. He did it in a careless manner. | 5. Tell me the time of his arrival. |
| 3. I knew the name of the boy. | 6. The boy who came to see me is my friend. |

- | | |
|---|---|
| 7. I knew what the name of the boy was. | 13. Come at once. |
| 8. This is the boy who helped me. | 14. She is a girl of tender age. |
| 9. Come as soon as you can. | 15. He was absent on account of illness. |
| 10. The clock that was lost has been found. | 16. He was absent because he was ill. |
| 11. There is a tree in front of my house. | 17. He walked with firm steps. |
| 12. There is a tree that stands in front of my house. | 18. The sun shines in the sky. |
| | 19. He has lost the pen which I gave him. |
| | 20. If you do this you will succeed. |

CHAPTER IV

PARTS OF SPEECH

⑥ Words are generally divided into eight classes or Parts of Speech according to the work they do in a sentence :

(1) A Noun is a word which names any person or thing :— man, book, gold, India, country, sweetness, honesty, air.

(2) An Adjective is a word which adds something to the meaning of a noun :— He is a good boy. This is a dark room. Give me a little milk. Many men were present.

Note

According to A.B.C. of English Usage (Oxford) adjectives also qualify pronouns, and "He seems angry" is given there as an example. We have also uses like "Ah, miserable me!" (though colloquial).

(3) A Pronoun is a word used for a noun or a clause :— Ram is not here ; he is ill. He failed, which broke his heart.

(4) A Verb is a word which states something about a person or a thing :— He walks. I go. The sun shines. The rose smells sweet.

(5) An Adverb is a word which generally adds something to the meaning of a verb, an adjective, or another adverb :— He walks fast. He is very clever. He did it quite easily. (See Art. 263)

(6) A Preposition is a word placed before a noun or a noun-equivalent to show its relation to some other word in the sentence :— The book is on the table. He came to me. She is in the garden.

(7) A Conjunction is a word which joins words or phrases or clauses :— He said this to Ram and Shyam. He sat behind you, but in front of me. As he was ill, he did not go to school.

(8) An Interjection is a word which expresses some sudden feeling or emotion :— Alas ! Hark ! Bravo !

Note

Formerly, Articles (A, An and The) were classed as a separate part of speech ; but now they are classed as adjectives.

E EXERCISE 4

State the parts of speech of the words in the following sentences :

1. I know Ram who gave you the book.
2. The school in which I read has a very good Headmaster.
3. India is a very large country.
4. My friend went there and returned soon after.
5. Bravo! this is very nicely done.
6. The girl whom you saw in my room is Patnaik's sister.
7. My mother and your sister were quite happy to see the sight.
8. Gold is a very valuable metal.
9. The tree fell, but nobody was hurt.
10. Put the book on the table.
11. He came just in time.
12. Your friend will be very sorry if you do it.
13. He came into the room after I had left it.
14. He speaks fluently and well.
15. The kind man gave me a piece of cloth and some money.
16. Your brother or his friend has done the work.
17. Give me a glass of water to drink.
18. The old woman begged me for help.
19. As you are ill, you should take rest for some time.
20. He told me about the matter.
21. Kamala, my sister, is an intelligent girl.
22. I hope you will do the work in two days.

CHAPTER V

NOUNS—Classification

⑦ Nouns are of five different kinds :—

- | | | |
|--------------|---|---------------------|
| I. Concrete | { | (a) Proper |
| | | (b) Common or Class |
| | | (c) Collective |
| | | (d) Material |
| II. Abstract | | (e) Abstract |

⑧ A Concrete Noun is the name of an object of sense, that is, an object which can be seen, touched, heard, smelt or tested : boy, dog, song, flower, milk.

⑨ An Abstract Noun is the name of a quality, action or state belonging to an object : softness, smile, wealth, silence.

Note

(a) Generally all nouns ending in -ness, -tion, -hood, -ship, -dom, -ment, -ism, -th, -ic, -cy, are Abstract : goodness, kindness, education, childhood, friendship, kingdom, attachment, Gandhism, strength, justice, infancy, etc.

(b) Names of sciences, arts and diseases are now treated as Abstract Nouns : music, politics, grammar, malaria, etc. "But when different kinds or attacks of a disease are meant, they become Common Nouns. Thus, 'I had one of my headaches'; Fevers are generally preceded by chills or rigour." —Wren.

⑩ A Proper Noun is the name of one particular person, place, thing or event (or group of persons or places) as distinct from every other (একটি নির্দিষ্ট প্রাণী, জায়গা, বস্তু বা ঘটনার নিজস্ব নাম বুঝায়) : Ramesh, the Ganges, Calcutta, the Himalayas, the French Revolution, the Ramayana, the Hindus.

⑪ (a) A Common or Class Noun denotes no one person or thing in particular but is common to any and every person or thing of the same kind (একজাতীয় প্রাণী বা বস্তুর সকলকেই বুঝায়).

Thus, man (not any particular man, but any and every man), book (not any particular book like the Bible, the Vedas, the Koran, etc., but any and every book), river (not any particular river like the Ganges, the Indus, but any and every river), country (not any particular country, but any and every country) are Common Nouns.

(b) There are a few Nouns, generally classed as Common, which are sometimes called Singular Noun, because there is only one of each of them known to us : earth, sun, moon, etc.

(c) When God and Lord refer to the Almighty, they are Proper ; but when they refer to the different gods of mythology and temporal lords, they are Common.

⑫ A Collective Noun is the name of a group or collection of persons or things taken as a whole. (একজাতীয় প্রাণী বা বস্তুকে একত্র করিয়া বুঝায়).

Thus, in "a flock of sheep", "sheep" is a Common noun, because it stands for any and every sheep ; but flock is a Collective Noun, because it stands for all the sheep referred to, taken together, and not any one sheep taken separately. Similarly, in "an army of soldiers", "a crowd of people", army and crowd are Collective Nouns, as they stand respectively for all the soldiers and people referred to, taken together.

The Noun of Multitude is practically the same as the Collective Noun. But a distinction is often made between them :—

(a) A Collective Noun denotes one individual whole (একই প্রকারের অনেকগুলির সমষ্টি বুঝায়) ; hence, the verb is singular. The army was defeated. The committee has approved the decision.

(b) A Noun of Multitude denotes the individuals of the group (সমষ্টিগতভাবে সকলকে না বুঝাইয়া স্বতন্ত্রভাবে বুঝায়) ; hence the verb is plural, although the noun is singular in form. The Jury (the men on the Jury) were divided in their opinions.

Note

(1) According to Fowler, the Collective Noun is the same as the Noun of Multitude. "They (Nouns of Multitude) are treated as singular or plural at discretion, and sometimes, naturally without discretion." —MEU (under Number).

(2) Some again call the Noun of Multitude the Individual Noun.

⑬ A Material Noun denotes the matter or substance, of which things are made (যে material বা পদার্থ দ্বারা কোন জিনিস গঠিত হয় তাহাকে). It is also called the Mass Noun.

Thus, river is a Common Noun, but water, of which it is made, is a Material Noun ; sheep is a Common Noun, but mutton, the flesh of a sheep, is a Material Noun.

⑭ Nouns can also be classified generally as Countable and Uncountable :

(a) Countable nouns stand for something that can be counted (যাহা এক, দুই করিয়া গণনা করা যায়) : boy, apple, men, trees, house, etc. Only countable nouns have a plural form and can be used with the indefinite article (a, an) in the singular or many, few, a few, several, etc., in the plural.

a school, a boy, an umbrella, many cows, few books, several boys.

(b) Uncountable nouns stand for something that cannot be counted though they can be measured (যাহা এক, দুই করিয়া গণনা করা যায় না কিন্তু যাহার পরিমাপ করা যায়) : water, air, grass, glass, wood, sand, etc. Such nouns have no plural form and are not used with the indefinite article. They are preceded by much, little to denote amount or quantity :

much money, little water.

Some of these can, however, be both countable and uncountable according to the context in which they are used, with a change in the meaning :

paper	=	the substance on which we write. (Uncountable)
a paper	=	a newspaper, a piece of paper. (Countable)
glass	=	the material. (Uncountable)
a glass	=	a tumbler. (Countable)
wood	=	The table is made of wood. (Uncountable)
wood	=	The bungalow is in the middle of a wood. (Countable)
copper	=	metal. (Uncountable)
copper	=	coin. (Countable)

(15) A Proper Noun becomes Common :—

(a) When it is used in the descriptive sense to denote an object of a similar character to itself. (নির্দিষ্ট বিশেষ মানুষ বা স্থানকে না বুঝাইয়া অনুরূপ অন্য মানুষ বা স্থানকে বুঝায়) : Valmiki is the Homer (= a great poet like Homer) of India.

(b) When it applies to several persons of the same name (একই নামের অনেককে বুঝায়) : I know the Patels of Bombay. There are two Surens here.¹

(16) Material and Abstract Nouns become Common :—

(a) When they are particularised (কোন বিশেষ দ্রব্য বা গুণ বুঝায়) :

The water of this tank is clear. The gold of Golconda is pure. They praised the honesty of the boy. He committed a theft.

(b) When they denote things instead of the material, and objects possessing the quality instead of the quality itself (উপাদান না বুঝাইয়া উপাদানে তৈরী জিনিস, এবং গুণ না বুঝাইয়া গুণবিশিষ্ট ব্যক্তি বা বস্তু বুঝায়) :

He was put in irons (chain made of iron). He is a Justice (= Judge) of the High Court. She is a beauty (a beautiful lady). This use of the Abstract Noun is known as Abstract for Concrete.

(17) A Collective Noun becomes Common when it denotes more groups than one : The armies of the allies came in time.

Note

When a Proper, Material, Collective, or Abstract Noun becomes Common, it must (i) either take an article ("a", "an", or "the") before it, or (ii) be in the plural number.

(18) An Abstract Noun becomes Proper when it is personified, that is, when it is spoken of as an individual person (যখন গুণটিতে ব্যক্তি-বৈশিষ্ট্য আরোপ করা হয়). It must then be written with a capital letter, as Proper Nouns are : He is a child of Fortune.

(19) A Common Noun becomes Proper when it denotes a particular person or thing, as distinguished from the class (যখন সাধারণভাবে সকলকে না বুঝাইয়া কোন বিশেষ লোক বা জিনিসকে বুঝায়) : Let our Father (= God) bless us all. He was confined in the Tower (i.e., the Tower of London).

¹ Some regard Patels and Surens in these examples as Proper Nouns. There may be some justification for such a contention, but it is much simpler to regard them as Common.

(20) A Common Noun is sometimes used to express an abstract idea: Check the beast (= beastly passions) in you. The father (= fatherly affection) in him could not bear the sight. This is known as Concrete for Abstract.

EXERCISE 5

Classify the Nouns in the following sentences :

1. Justice is a noble quality.
2. He is a Justice of the Peace.
3. The cleverness of the boy is admirable.
4. Fish live in water.
5. Fish is good for food.
6. She is a beauty.
7. The iron of this pillar is good.
8. He is the Milton of India.
9. I am fond of mutton.
10. The Jury consists of four men.
11. The Jury were divided in their opinion.
12. The crowd were dispersed.
13. The patriot in him could not bear the insult.
14. Who invented paper?
15. This paper is not good.
16. I teach them grammar.
17. This pen does not write well, but the ink is good.
18. Rice is the principal food of the Bengalees.
19. The Duttas of this village are rich.
20. Iron is the most useful metal.

CHAPTER VI

NOUNS—Number

(21) In English there are two numbers :— Singular and Plural. When one thing is spoken of, the noun is singular ; but when more than one thing is spoken of, the noun is plural.

(22) Rules for forming the plural :

(a) Most nouns form their plural by adding s to the singular :—

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
Girl	Girls	Eye	Eyes
House	Houses	Book	Books
Ant	Ants	Table	Tables
Car	Cars	Chair	Chairs
Cat	Cats	Pen	Pens
Cow	Cows	King	Kings
Dog	Dogs	Tree	Trees
Bird	Birds	Pencil	Pencils
Doll	Dolls	Leg	Legs
River	Rivers	Room	Rooms
Brother	Brothers	Lion	Lions
		Sister	Sisters

(b) Nouns ending in s, ss, sh, x, ch (soft) and z take es in the plural :—

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
Gas	Gases	Bench	Benches
Glass	Glasses	Box	Boxes
Bush	Bushes	Fox	Foxes
Bus	Buses	Fish	Fishes

Singular	Plural		Singular	Plural
Ass	Asses		Dish	Dishes
Class	Classes		Watch	Watches
Inch	Inches		Branch	Branches
Loss	Losses		Topaz	Topazes

But when ch is pronounced as k, only s is added :—

Singular	Plural
Monarch	Monarchs
Stomach	Stomachs

(c) Nouns ending in y preceded by a consonant or qu change y into i and add es in the plural :—

Singular	Plural		Singular	Plural
Body	Bodies		Sky	Skies
Army	Armies		Soliloquy	Soliloquies (সংগতোক্তি)
City	Cities		Baby	Babies
Country	Countries		Copy	Copies
Lady	Ladies		Fly	Flies

But if y is preceded by a vowel, add only s :—

Singular	Plural		Singular	Plural
Boy	Boys		Key	Keys
Day	Days		Monkey	Monkeys
Play	Plays		Toy	Toys

(d) Nouns ending in f or fe change f or fe into v before adding es :—

Singular	Plural		Singular	Plural
Calf	Calves		Thief	Thieves
Half	Halves		Wife	Wives
Life	Lives		Knife	Knives
Leaf	Leaves		Wolf	Wolves
Shelf	Shelves		Loaf	Loaves

But nouns ending in ief, ff, oof, rf, eef, generally take only s :—

Singular	Plural		Singular	Plural
Chief	Chiefs		Reef	Reefs (জলমগ্ন ছোট পাহাড়)
Cliff	Cliffs (খাড়া পাহাড়)		Roof	Roofs
Handkerchief	Handkerchiefs		Dwarf	Dwarfs (বামন)
Proof	Proofs		Puff	Puffs

Note

(i) But safe (সিন্দুক) — safes; strife (বিবাদ) — strifes; thief — thieves.

(ii) Some take both the forms :— staff—stuffs (সৈন্য বিভাগ), staves (sticks); wharf (জেটি) —wharfs, wharves; scarf (চাদর)—scarfs, scarves.

(e) Nouns ending in o preceded by a consonant generally take es in the plural :—

Singular	Plural		Singular	Plural
Hero	Heroes		Mango	Mangoes
Buffalo	Buffaloes		Potato	Potatoes
Mosquito	Mosquitoes		Volcano	Volcanoes

Exceptions (ব্যতিক্রম) — Canto-s (কাব্যের সর্গ), halo-s (জ্যোতির্মণ্ডল), piano-s, manifesto-s, photo-s, memento-s (স্মৃতিচিহ্ন), dynamo-s, portico-s.

(f) Nouns ending in o preceded by a vowel generally take only s in the plural :—

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
Bamboo	Bamboos	Radio	Radios
Cuckoo	Cuckoos	Studio	Studios
Folio	Folios

(g) Some nouns form their plural by change of vowels :—

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
Man	Men	Louse (উকুন)	Lice
Woman	Women	Mouse	Mice
Foot	Feet	Goose (রাজহাঁস)	Geese
Tooth	Teeth

(h) Some nouns add en :—

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
Ox	Oxen	Brother	Brethren
Child	Children		(also brothers)

(23) Nouns with two plural forms of different meanings :

Singular	Plural
Brother	{ Brothers—sons of the same parents (সহোদরগণ). { Brethren—members of the same society (এক সমাজ বা প্রতিষ্ঠানের লোকসকল).
Cloth	{ Cloths—kinds or pieces of cloth not made up into garments (বস্ত্রখণ্ড সমূহ). { Clothes—garments (পোষাক).
Die	{ Dies—stamps for coining (মুদ্রার ছাঁচ). { Dice—cubes used for games (খেলার ঘাঁটিসকল).
Fish	{ Fish—collectively (একত্র কতকগুলি মাছের সংখ্যা). { Fishes—separate fishes (ভিন্ন ভিন্ন জাতের মাছ). (See Art. 40f)
Genius (প্রতিভাশালী ব্যক্তি)	{ Geniuses—men of talent (প্রতিভাশালী ব্যক্তিগণ). { Genii—spirits (ভূতপ্রেতগুলি).
Index	{ Indexes—tables of contents (সূচীপত্রগুলি). { Indices—signs in Algebra (বীজগণিতের চিহ্নবিশেষ).
Penny	{ Pennies—number of coins (পেনি নামক মুদ্রার সংখ্যা). { Pence—amount in value (পেন্সে প্রদত্ত মোট মূল্য).
Sail	{ Sail—number of ships (জাহাজের সংখ্যা). { Sails—sails of a ship (বাদামগুলি বা পালসমূহ).
Shot	{ Shot—bullets (গুলিসকল). { Shots—number of times fired (যতবার গুলি ছোড়া হয়).

He has two brothers. He was cheered by his brethren in the class.

He will give these cloths to the poor. Put on your clothes.

The dies for the pictures in the book are ready. Let us have a game of dice (এক বাজী পাশা খেলা).

There are many fish in the tank. He bought both the fishes.

We should honour our geniuses. God Shiva came with his genii.

Consult the indexes at the end of the book. This is a sum of indices.

Give me pennies for this shilling. The book costs 18 pence.

The fleet consisted of 20 sail. The boat hoisted all the sails.

The enemies were stopped by our shot. We fired three shots.

(24) Nouns with two meanings in the singular but one in the plural :

Singular	Plural
Abuse { 1. wrong use, অপব্যবহার 2. reproach, তিরস্কার	Abuses = wrong uses
Foot { 1. part of the body 2. infantry, পদাতিক সৈন্য	Feet = parts of the body
Force { 1. body of armed men, সৈন্য বা পুলিশ দল 2. strength, শক্তি	Forces = troops (সৈন্য বাহিনী)
Horse { 1. an animal 2. cavalry, অশ্বারোহী সৈন্য	Horses = animals
Issue { 1. result, ফল 2. child or children	Issues = results
Light { 1. lamp, বাতি 2. light of a lamp	Lights = lamps
People { 1. a nation 2. persons (always plural)	Peoples = nations
Practice { 1. habit, অভ্যাস 2. exercise in an art, ব্যবসায়	Practices = habits

I have never heard any abuse (গালাগালি) from him. There has been an abuse of power. There have been abuses of power.

He came on foot. The foot charged the enemy. Man has two feet.

A strong police force was sent there. He took me there by force. The German forces spread over the north of France.

The horse (or, Horses) can run fast. Our horse charged the enemy.

What was the issue of the fight? He died without any issue. What were the issues of the war?

He is enjoying the sun-light. Put out the light (or, one of the lights).

The Americans are a rich people (nation). People are happy here. Different peoples (nations) have different customs.

Give up this bad practice (or, these bad practices). This lawyer has a good practice.

(25) Nouns with one meaning in the singular but two in the plural :

Singular	Plural	Meanings
Arm—part of the body	Arms	{ 1. parts of the body 2. weapons, অস্ত্র
Circumstance—fact, ঘটনা	Circumstances	{ 1. facts 2. condition, অবস্থা
Colour—hue, বর্ণ	Colours	{ 1. hues 2. a flag, পতাকা
Custom—habit	Customs	{ 1. habits 2. revenue duties, শুল্ক
Effect—result	Effects	{ 1. results 2. goods
Manner—method	Manners	{ 1. methods 2. behaviour, ব্যবহার

Singular	Plural	Meanings
Minute—1/60 of an hour	Minutes	{ 1. 1/60 parts of an hour 2. proceedings of a meeting (see Footnote p. 13)
Moral—a moral lesson	Morals	{ 1. moral lessons 2. moral conduct
Number—quantity	Numbers	{ 1. quantities 2. verses, কবিতা
Pain—suffering, যন্ত্রণা	Pains	{ 1. sufferings 2. trouble, কষ্ট, ক্রেশ
Part—portion	Parts	{ 1. portions 2. ability, গুণ
Premise—proposition, প্রস্তাবনা	Premises	{ 1. propositions 2. buildings and their land, জমি-সহ বাড়ী
Quarter—fourth part	Quarters	{ 1. fourth parts 2. lodgings ¹ , বাসগৃহ
Spectacle—a sight	Spectacles	{ 1. sights 2. eye glasses, চশমা

Raise your right arm. Man has two arms. The prisoners gave up arms.
Under what circumstance (or, circumstances) did you do it? His circumstances are poor.
This is of white colour. The sunlight has seven colours. They entered the city with their colours (পতাকা) flying.

The Hindus have the custom of burning the dead. Respect the customs of these tribes.
What is our income from customs duty?

This will have a good effect. This will have good effects. He has sold off his personal effects.

He did it in a clever manner. The two men did the same thing in two different manners.
His manners are rude.

He came in a minute (or, in two minutes). The minutes of the last meeting were confirmed.

What is the moral of the story? The story teaches us two morals. The morals of these boys are bad.

What is the number of the house? I have noted down the numbers of the taxis. He sang the praise of God in numbers.

I have a pain in the stomach. This pill will remove all your pains. He took great pains (ক্রেশ) to help me.

He has done his part of the work. They have done their parts of the work. He is a man of parts.

His premise is (or, premises are) wrong. A meeting was held in the school premises.

It is a quarter to three (পৌনে তিনটা). He has finished three quarters of the work. He will get free *quarters*¹.

It was a horrible spectacle. He was charmed by the spectacles there. He has lost his pair of spectacles.

26) Nouns having different meanings in different numbers :

Singular

Plural

Advice—counsel, উপদেশ

Advices—information, সংবাদ

Air—atmosphere, বায়ু

Airs—proud manners, চাল

¹The word 'quarters' when used to refer to accommodation or lodging is always plural. Hence it should always take a plural verb and pronoun. As :

The Principal will get free quarters. They are situated on the bank of the river Ganges. The servants' quarters are very near to them.

Corn—grain, শস্য	Corns—hard growth on the feet, পায়ের কড়া
Good—benefit, উপকার	Goods—things, জিনিস
Iron—the metal, লৌহ	Irons—chains made of iron, লোহার বেড়ী
Physic—medicine, ওষুধ	Physics—natural science, পদার্থ বিদ্যা
Return—coming back	Returns ¹ —statistics, হিসাবপত্র
Sand—the material, বালি	Sands—sandy places, বালুকাময় স্থান বা বালুকাবেলা বা মরুভূমি

Follow my advice. Advices of despatch of goods have been received.

The morning air is fresh. He has the airs of a rich man.

He grows corn in the field. He has corns on his right foot.

This will do you some good. He has lost all his goods.

Iron is a useful metal. He was put in irons.

Physic alone will do him no good. He is strong in physics.

I await his return. He has submitted his income-tax returns.¹

Mix more sand with lime. He crossed the sands (= desert) of Arabia.

Note

Hangings = things hung, curtains; belongings = things that belong; leavings = things left; sweepings = things swept. Similarly, savings, earnings, surroundings, etc. are always used in the plural in these senses. 'Vegetables' also is always used in the plural.

(27) Nouns singular in form but plural in sense :

aristocracy , অভিজাত শ্রেণী	cattle ³
nobility ² , জমিদার শ্রেণী	poultry ² , হাঁস, মুরগী
gentry ² , ভদ্র সম্প্রদায়	people , লোকসকল
clergy ² , যাজক সম্প্রদায়	vermin ² , ক্ষতিকারক পোকামাকড়
	folk ⁴ , জনসাধারণ

The aristocracy (or gentry, or nobility, or clergy) are on the king's side. Cattle are grazing in the field. Who are those people? Try to kill those vermin. The old folk have gone.

Note

(a) When 'people' means nation, its plural is 'peoples'.

(b) The modern tendency is to treat aristocracy, nobility, gentry, clergy, cattle like other collectives—singular or plural according to sense. See Art. 12.

(28) Nouns plural in form but singular in use :

gallows , ফাঁসীকাঠ	politics
mathematics	smallpox , বসন্ত রোগ
news	whereabouts ⁵
physics

A gallows was raised there. The news is true. Smallpox has broken out there. Mathematics (or physics, or politics or ethics="ics" -অন্ত সমস্ত বিজ্ঞান বা কলার নাম) is my favourite subject. His whereabouts is not known.

Note

Some assert that politics is singular when used as the name of a science, but plural when used with a demonstrative or qualifying word to denote some particular examples: Politics is my favourite subject. But, His politics (political principles) are always changing.

¹"Returns (statistics), minutes (proceedings of a meeting) are sometimes quoted, but singular usages have been developed. ('I have sent in my income-tax return'. 'The first minute was badly drafted.')" —Smith.

²Egerton Smith's Oxford Grammar.

³The cattle is sold; The cattle are in the hay. — MEU.

⁴POD.

⁵*Current English Usage* by F.T. Wood (p. 255); also Good English by G.H. Vallins (p. 19).

(29) Nouns that have no plural forms :

alphabet , বর্ণমালা	luggage
expenditure , ব্যয়	offspring (child or children)
furniture , আসবাবপত্র	poetry
information	scenery

He has learnt the alphabet. He has sold all his furniture or luggage. All his expenditure is shown here. These are my offspring. I got all the information I wanted. These flowers by the riverside are a beautiful scenery. He writes good poetry.

(30) Nouns which have no singular forms :

aborigines , আদিম অধিবাসী	billiards , একরকম খেলা	jeans , জিন্ কাপড়ের প্যান্টালুন	scissors , কাঁচি
alms , ভিক্ষা	bowels , অন্ত্র	measles , হাম	shears , কাপ্তে
amends , ক্ষতিপূরণ	dregs , তলানি	mumps , গালফুলা রোগ	spectacles , চশমা
annals , ইতিবৃত্ত	deer	nuptials , বিবাহ	tidings , সংবাদ
ashes , ছাই	eaves , ঘরের ছাঁইচ্	obsequies , শেষকৃত্য	thanks , ধন্যবাদ
assets ¹ , সম্পত্তি	entrails , নাড়ীভূঁড়ি	odds , ন্যূনাধিকভাবে তারতম্য	trousers , প্যান্টালুন
auspices , প্রসাদ, আনুকূল্য	fetters , শৃঙ্খল	pliers , সাঁড়াশি বিশেষ	vitals , জীবনীশক্তি
bellows , হাপর	glasses , চশমা	proceeds , আয়	wages ² , বেতন

Note

(a) Of these, *alms*³, *amends*⁴, *mumps*⁵, *odds*⁶, *tidings*⁷, and wages are sometimes treated also as singular. All the rest are plural.

(b) Trousers, jeans, scissors, glasses, pliers and names of many similar divided objects are plural, and they have no singular forms: Your jeans are too tight (not, jean is). Where are my glasses?— They're on your nose.

(31) Nouns which have the same form in both the numbers :

*Apparatus*⁸ (সাজসরঞ্জাম), aircraft, *cannon*⁹, corps (সৈন্যদল), deer, *innings*¹⁰, *means*¹¹, *public*¹², salmon, series, sheep, species, swine, trout and the nouns of ¹But we have such uses as 'a doubtful asset', 'he is a great asset to the club'. Fowler characterises this as a 'false form' and remarks, "Most of those who use it are probably unaware that, though now treated as plural, assets is itself (cf. riches) a singular; the s is not a plural termination." — MEU.

But, as the A.B.C. of English Usage puts it, "There are sentences where asset is useful should (like many other words in the past) take its place in English against all etymological prejudice."

Good English — How to write it by G.H. Vallins also writes, "Such expressions as 'His voice was a real asset' are by now too well established to be summarily dismissed To frown on asset is mere pedantry."

²But a wage-earner, a living wage. "At a wage or wages of £5 a week..... a fair day's work for a fair day's wage" (COD).

"The wages of sin is death is an archaism; we do not now say, his wages is, but are, a pound a week." —MEU under are, is.

³"Usually as singular," (COD). The POD has "ask for an alms" and also "your alms are asked".

⁴"Plural now treated in E as singular" (COD). "A full amends" (POD).

⁵"Plural, usually with singular verbs" — POD. Also COD.

⁶"Plural often treated as singular" (ibid). We have "What's the odds?" and "The odds are that he will do it" there.

⁷"Plural, usually with singular verb" (ibid).

⁸"POD and COD give apparatuses as the plural of apparatus."

⁹"Words having a plural, but whose singular used in a collective sense, and treated as either singular or plural, is generally preferred to it, e.g., shot; cannon —MEU. "Collective sing. for plural" — (POD). Chamber's T.C.D. has cannons too.

¹⁰"The plural inningses is colloquial only, innings (ordinarily plural) being used for either number: an innings, or several innings." — MEU.

¹¹"But "means = 'income' takes a plural verb: My means are not equal to the demand put upon them" — A.B.C. of Eng. Usage. Also MEU.

¹²"The public is the best judge, are the best judges, of that — POD and COD."

number, weight or money, such as dozen, score, yoke, stone (weight), hundredweight, when used after a numeral, especially if they join with the numeral to make a compound adjective (as in 'two-ton lorry'). The singular meaning is expressed by putting a singular adjective, such as a, an, one, this, that, etc. before them. A deer, one sheep; but, two deer, two sheep.

Note

(a) An eight-anna coin; a ten-rupee note; an eight-day clock; a ten-year old child; but, ten years old; two dozen pencils; six pound or pounds of butter.

(b) But when the nouns of number are preceded by many and some, or, when they are not preceded by numerals, the plural inflexion is used; as, many dozens; some dozens; hundreds of people.

(c) As measures of distance, fathom, foot and yard have sometimes the singular forms even with plural numerals: The tree is 10 foot (also 10 feet) high. It is 3 yard (also yards) long. The river is 50 fathom (also fathoms) deep.

(d) "The names of various animals, etc., when spoken of collectively as objects of hunting, are used with plural force without inflexion: He has gone to shoot tiger in Nepal; I am going to shoot duck, green pigeon, partridge" — E. Smith, Oxford Eng. Grammar.

③② True Singulars are nouns in which the final s is a part of the original singular noun, and not a sign of the plural; as alms, eaves, riches, summons. Of these eaves and riches are now used as plurals, but the last has the plural summonses. For alms, see Art. 30 Notes.

③③ True Plurals are nouns in which the final s is really a sign of the plural; as, amends, annals, auspices, bellows, gallows, innings, means, news, remains. Of these, amends, means and innings are used in both numbers; gallows and news are used as singulars; the rest are used as plurals. Thus:—

The news is true. His means are (or, is) fare.

I have made amends (or, a full amends) for his loss.

The annals of Rajasthan are full of such deeds.

③④ (a) The Plural of Compound Nouns (except nouns ending in full and fall) is generally formed by adding s to the important word; as,

Governors-General (Governor-Generals is also used); passers-by; fathers-in-law, commanders-in-chief; maid-servants, brothers-in-law; on-lookers; but mouthfuls, handfuls, pitfalls (চোরাগর্ত), waterfalls (জলপ্রপাত), spoonfuls.

(b) But Compound Nouns written without hyphen take s to form the plural: Armchairs, bookcases, grandfathers, pickpockets.

③⑤ In Nouns ending in man, the plural is formed by changing man into men when man is used in the sense of a human being; as,

Englishmen, noblemen, workmen.

When however, the final man does not mean a human being, but is a part of the word itself, the plural is formed by adding s only; as Germans, Mussalmans, Brahmans.

"Mankind. Singular number, referred to by it and its, not they and their." — Current English Usage by F. T. Wood.

③⑥ Plurals of letters of the alphabet and of numbers are formed by adding ('s):

B.A.'s, D.D.'s, cut your t's and dot your i's, 3's, 5's, etc.

Some add only s in the plural, leaving the apostrophe for the genitive.

He hit two 4's (4s) and two 6's (6s).

Three B.A.'s (B.A.s) and two M.A.'s (M.A.s) were selected.

Note

"The modern usage, however, is to do away with the apostrophe (') and add only s; as, B.Sc.s; M.B.s" —Smith.

(37) Plurals of Abbreviations : Single letters are doubled :

pp. for pages, ll for lines, MSS. for Manuscripts.

Curt forms take s :— Secs. for sections, etc.

(38) Miscellaneous :

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
Mr	Messrs	Mrs Brown	The Mrs Browns
Mrs, Madam ¹	Mesdames	Miss Brown	{ The Miss Browns The Misses Brown
Madam ¹	Ladies
Master Brown	{ The Masters Brown The Master Browns	Man-servant	Men-servants
		Woman-servant	Women-servants
Mr Brown	{ Messrs Brown The Mr Browns	Lord-Justice	Lords-Justices
		Knight-Templar	Knights-Templars

Note

(a) "The form the Misses Brown is still used on formal occasions, e.g., in written invitations; but at other times, and especially in conversation, the Miss Browns is more common."

(b) "The form, Messrs Smith, is limited to business language, the form, the Mr Smiths, being the one in general use."

(39) Foreign Plurals :

Singular	Plural	Singular	Plural
Agendum ² (বিচার্য বিষয়)	agenda	Crisis (সঙ্কটাপন্ন অবস্থা)	crises
Appendix (পরিশিষ্ট)	appendices	Radius	radii
Analysis (বিশ্লেষণ)	analyses	Erratum (শুদ্ধিপত্র)	errata
Axis (অক্ষ)	axes	Focus (কেন্দ্র)	foci (or focuses)
Bandit (বোম্বটে)	banditti (or bandits)	Formula	formulae (or formulas)
Basis (ভিত্তি)	bases	Hypothesis (অনুমান)	hypotheses
Cherub (স্বর্গীয় দূত)	cherubim (or cherubs)	Seraph (প্রথমশ্রেণীর স্বর্গদূত)	seraphim (or seraphs)
Medium	media	Terminus (শেষ প্রান্ত)	termini (or terminuses)
Memorandum (স্মারকলিপি)	memoranda	Vertex (শীর্ষ)	vertices
Oasis (মরুদ্যান)	oases	Phenomenon	phenomena

N.B. The tendency of modern English is to reject all foreign forms.

¹The English word is madam, "As a prefix to a foreign lady's name, instead of Mrs, Madame is right, with plural Mesdames. Madam ... suffers from having no plural, ladies being the substitute" — MEU.

²"Agenda, though in form plural, has been admitted to the language as a singular word. Nobody would say "the agenda for Monday's meeting have not yet reached me. If a word is needed for one of the components of the agenda, say 'item No. so of the agenda,' not, 'agendum No. so,' which would be the extreme of pedantry'. If one is wanted for the plural of the word itself it must be agendas or agenda papers." —The Complete Plain Words by Sir Ernest Gowers. See also Current English Usage by F. T. Wood.

④0 The name of a country, or a thing, though plural in form, is treated as singular: as “The United States of America is a rich country”; “The Folk Tales of Bengal is a nice book;” “The Netherlands is famous for her dairy products.”

Note

(a) Counsel in the sense of ‘barrister’ has the same form in both the numbers: He engaged two counsel to defend his case.

(b) Word in the sense of ‘promise’ or ‘speech’ has no plural: He gave me word (not words). He is a man of his word. He sent word.

(c) When the same nouns are joined by to, after, etc., they are used in the singular: as, from generation to generation; day after day. Ship after ship is sailing by. Letter after letter was sent to him from the USA. Generation to generation has maintained the tradition of the family.

(d) More than one is “treated as compound of one, and ... agrees with a singular noun and a singular verb.” But More than two is treated as a compound of two, and hence followed by a plural noun and a plural verb. More than one man was present there. More than two boys were present there.

(e) Fruit—(“Usu. pl.) vegetable products fit for food (usu. fruits of the earth); plant’s or tree’s edible product of seed with its envelope (also collect, in sing, as feeds on fruit)—COD.

(f) Fish has two plural forms, e.g., fish and fishes. “Fish may always be used as the plural whether thought of individually or collectively. Fishes is a rarer plural and only used when thought of individually”—Wood. The sea here abounds in fish. I do not like fish. “We’ll go and look at the fishes in the aquarium.”

(g) Half, heaps, lots, two-thirds, three-fourths, most, etc. take singular verbs when they are followed by singular nouns with of but plural verbs when followed by plural nouns with of: Half of our work was done; Half of the apples were bad. “There is heaps of ammunition. There are heaps of cups. There is lots of work to do; Lots of people think so,”—MEU (under Number, sec. 12). Two-thirds of the work is done; Two-thirds of the men were killed. Most of the hall was empty. Most of the boys have come. Most of the time is lost. (See also Art. 311).

(h) After one and a half use plural nouns and singular verbs —MEU: One and a half lemons was enough. [See also Art. 346 (m)].

(i) “Twice two is four and twice two are four are equally correct.”—MEU under is, sec. 2.

(j) All can be used as singular or plural: All is lost in the fire. All’s well. All are present in the meeting. All are invited.

(k) Number—“Though grammatically singular, a number of, when it means several or many, is treated as plural and takes a plural verb: A number of people were present. But ‘the number of people present was greater than we expected’; since here number has the more definite meaning of a numerical total”—Wood, also Gowers (p. 187). [See also foot note P. 298, and Art. 457 Note (c)].

(l) Majority ‘is’ or ‘are’? —The word ‘majority’ follows the same rules for number as other collective nouns; but when it means ‘most’, ‘the greater part,’ it has a plural verb.

The majority is scanty but sufficient. The majority are in my favour. The majority of my friends agree.

(m) “The greater/greatest part is singular when it refers to amount or quantity, plural when to number. The greater part of the land is uncultivated. The greater part of the apples are bad.” —Wood.

(n) None is “singular when the reference is to amount or quantity (‘None of the food was wasted’). When number is indicated, either, singular or plural, according to the sense. ‘Of his three sons none has any great ability.’ ‘None of the suggestions was acceptable’. (Singular, because none individualises, taking each one singly.) ‘None of the letters have been opened yet.’ ‘A number of people are expected but none have arrived yet.’ (Plural, because none has the meaning ‘not any’)—Wood. (See also Art. 155).

(o) ‘Nouns like century, age, etc. mostly take the plural form when referring to more than one, and qualified by more than one adjunct: in the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries; between the ages of 14 and 18’. —Zandvoort.

(p) The words hundred, thousand, lac, million, dozen, score, when preceded by a definite numeral, or by several or a few, are never made plural: one hundred boys; five hundred men; two thousand and five pounds; three million people; rupees three lac (not, lacs) one million rupees; one dozen or two dozen pencils; five score eggs; a few hundred boys; several hundred or dozen boxes. But when these words are not preceded by numerals and used 'merely to convey the idea of a large number' or are preceded by some, many, they are made plural: many dozens; some dozens; hundreds of people; thousands of ants; scores of animals; many thousands; lacs and lacs of rupees.

Gross never takes a plural suffix and is always followed by of: a gross of pins; two gross of pencils.

'After a definite numeral, pair is found both with or without the plural suffix' — Zandvoort: I have one pair or two pair (s) of shoes. But I want some more pairs of shoes.

(q) Hair is singular when used in a collective sense but plural when number is meant: She has combed her hair. His hair is white. I found two gray hairs on his coat.

(r) A great deal of, plenty of take singular verbs when they are followed by an uncountable noun but plural verbs when followed by plural countable nouns: A great deal of time is lost. A great deal of problems were served. Plenty of houses are available here. Plenty of sugar is stored in the godown.

(s) 'Police is normally used as a plural: The police are (not, is) looking for a fair-headed man in his twenties'. — Practical English Usage, Michael Swan.

E EXERCISE 6

(a) Indicate the numbers of: — furniture, gallows, mathematics, series, means, cattle, agenda, summons, riches, apparatus, pence, auspices, thanks, wages, sheep, physics, news, gentry, people.

(b) Give the plurals of: — Mr, Miss, Mrs, man-servant, Miss Baker, Mrs Baker, formula, cherub, basis, Governor-General, son-in-law, foot-man, fisherman, Frenchman, gentleman, clergyman, German, Norman.

(c) Fill up the blanks: —

- | | |
|---|-------------------------------------|
| 1. News—brought to us. | 6. Alms—distributed among the poor. |
| 2. Mathematics—taught by him. | 7. Thanks—due to him. |
| 3. Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare—an interesting book. | 8. Three counsel—engaged by me. |
| 4. Cattle—grazing on the green. | 9. Fish—abundant in this tank. |
| 5. The gentry—present there. | 10. The people—running away. |
| | 11. People—not like it. |

CHAPTER VII

NOUNS—Gender

(41) There are four Genders in English:—

- Masculine, denoting male persons or animals: man, bull, boy, lion.
- Feminine, denoting female persons or animals: woman, cow, sister.
- Neuter, denoting lifeless things: book, table, tree.
- Common, denoting animals of either sex: parent, person, sovereign, child, servant, teacher, student, cousin.

Note

The term 'common gender' is objected to on the ground that "strictly, there cannot be a common gender any more than there can be a common sex. Some words, however, are common to two genders."

④② All Material and Abstract Nouns are Neuter, because they denote things and qualities without life.

④③ All Collective Nouns are Neuter, because they denote groups, and groups as such have no life.

④④ There are three different ways by which Masculine nouns are changed into Feminine :—

(A) By changing the word : as, man — woman, boy — girl.

(B) By adding — ess to the Masculine ; as, author — authoress.

(C) By adding a feminine word before or after the Masculine : as, he-goat—she-goat ; grandfather—grandmother.

A. By changing the word :—

Masculine	Feminine	Masculine	Feminine
Bachelor	maid, spinster	Horse	mare
Boar	sow	Husband	wife
Boy	girl	King	queen
Brother	sister	Lad	lass
Bull, ox	cow	Lord	lady
Cock	hen	Male	female
Dog	bitch	Monk, friar	nun
Drake	duck	Nephew	niece
Drone	bee	Papa	mamma
Earl	countess	Ram	ewe
Father	mother	Sir, sire	madam, dame
Fox	vixen	Sire (a beast)	dam
Gander	goose	Son	daughter
Gentleman	{ lady gentlewoman	Tailor	seamstress
Hart	roe	Uncle	aunt
		Wizard	witch

B. By adding "ess" to the Masculine :—

(a) Without any change in the form of the Masculine :—

Masculine	Feminine	Masculine	Feminine
Author	authoress	Lion	lioness
Baron	baroness	Patron	patroness
Count	countess	Peer	peeress
God ¹	goddess	Poet	poetess
Heir	heiress	Priest	priestess
Host	hostess	Prince	princess
Jew	jewess	Shepherd	shepherdess

¹God has no feminine in the sense of the Almighty.

(b) By omitting the vowel of the last syllable of the Masculine :—

Masculine	Feminine	Masculine	Feminine
Actor	actress	Negro	negress
Benefactor	benefactress	Songster	songstress ¹
Enchanter	enchantress	Tempter	temptress
Hunter	huntress	Tiger	tigress
Instructor	instructress	Traitor	traitress

(c) In a less regular way :—

Masculine	Feminine	Masculine	Feminine
Abbot	abbess	Master (boy)	miss
Duke	duchess	Mr	Mrs
Emperor	empress	Murderer	murderess
Governor	governess ²
Master (teacher, owner, etc.)	mistress

C. By adding a Feminine word :—

Masculine	Feminine	Masculine	Feminine
Bull-calf	cow-calf	Man-servant	{ maid-servant
Foster-father	foster-mother		{ woman-servant
Grandfather	grandmother	Milkman	milkmaid
Great-uncle	great-aunt	Merman	mermaid
He-goat	she-goat	Peacock	peahen
Landlord	landlady	Schoolmaster	schoolmistress
		Washerman	washerwoman

(45) Nouns of Common Gender :—

(a) Common	Masculine	Feminine
Calf	bullock	heifer
Child	son, boy	daughter, girl
Deer	hart, stag	roe, hind
Fowl	cock	hen
Horse	stallion	mare
Monarch } Sovereign }	king, emperor	queen, empress
Orphan	boy (without parents)	girl (without parents)
Parent	father	mother
Person	man	woman
Pig	boar	sow
Servant	man-servant	maid-servant
Sheep	ram	ewe
Spouse	husband	wife
Student	male student	female (or, girl) student
Teacher	male teacher	female (or, lady) teacher

¹"Songster was originally feminine; but it came to be used as masculine, and a new feminine, songstress, was formed." —Oxford High School Grammar.

²*Governess* means tutoress; (She was placed under a kind governess); but governor never means tutor, —it means ruler and is a common gender.

(b) The following nouns of common gender take male and female before them in the Masculine and the Feminine respectively ; baby, bird, cousin, enemy, friend, infant, pupil, scholar, singer.

(46) Miscellaneous :—

Masculine	Feminine	Masculine	Feminine
Alexander	Alexandrina	Henry	{ Henrietta
Charles	{ Charlotte	Hero	{ Harriet
Czar	{ Caroline	Sultan	heroine
John	Czarina	Testator	sultana
Joseph	Jane	Viceroy	testatrix
Signor	Josephine	William	Vicereine
	Signora		Wilhelmina

(47) Masculine derived from Feminine : Bridegroom (from bride), widower (from widow).

(48) Double Feminines : seamstress, songstress, spinstress.

(49) Some Feminine Nouns have no corresponding Masculine :

Amazon (a woman of masculine manners, মর্দানী)

Blonde (a fair girl, গৌরাসী)

Coquette (a woman who amuses herself by seeking admiration from others, মিথ্যা ভালবাসা প্রদর্শনকারিনী)

Dowager (a widow with a dower, বৃত্তিভোগী বিধবা)

Flirt (a woman flirting with men, কৃত্রিম প্রেমের খেলা যাহারা খেলে)

Nurse (a female nurse)

Prude (a woman of affected modesty, কৃত্রিম লজ্জাবতী)

Shrew (a scolding woman, কলহপ্রিয়া রমণী)

Siren (a charming but wicked woman, কুহকিনী)

Virgin (a maiden, কুমারী)

(50) Some Masculine Nouns have no corresponding Feminine forms : captain, judge, knight, person, squire.

(51) A few Masculine Nouns are sometimes used as nouns of Common gender : actor, author, colt, fox, goose, dog, hound, horse, man, painter, poet, etc.

(52) A few Feminine Nouns are sometimes used as nouns of Common gender : bee, cow, duck, etc.

Note

Women are now taking up work formerly considered exclusively men's and vice versa. This has given rise to a difficulty in finding out feminine forms for such words as, chairman, president, lawyer, advocate, doctor, etc. and masculine forms for words as nurse, house-maid, etc. Chairwoman is not correct English and the modern use is Chairperson to refer to woman. Similarly, lady doctor.

(53) Personified Objects : Inanimate objects or qualities are sometimes spoken of as if they were persons. A noun thus personified begins with a capital letter. Personified things are regarded as :—

(a) Masculine when they are remarkable for strength, courage, greatness, etc., as :

Death, Sun, War, Time, June, Summer, Autumn, Winter, Thunder, Anger, Day, Fear, Revenge, etc.

(b) Feminine when they are remarkable for beauty, softness, grace, fertility, gentleness, etc., as :

Hope, Peace, Liberty, Modesty, Earth, Moon, Truth, Nature, Religion, Church, Mercy, Night.

(54) Young children and lower animals are usually regarded as Neuter :

The child is following its mother. The bird returns to its nest.

(55) Names of ships, countries and fine arts are generally regarded as feminine :

The Titanic sank with almost all her passengers. India demands all of us to love her. Poetry has her charms.

E EXERCISE 7

Indicate the genders of the following :—

husband	fear	prince
cow	death	Mr
author	mountain	priest
early	ship	madam
sovereign	England	sir
tiger	son	person
hero	governor	orphan
pig	lady	virgin
mouse	king	bride
lion	companion	cousin
lad	head	bee
shepherd	virtue	horse
water	parent	Miss
grief	widow	actor

CHAPTER VIII

NOUNS—Case

(56) Definition — A case is the relation of a noun or a pronoun to other words in a sentence, or the form which shows such a relation.

(57) There are three principal cases in English :—

(A) Nominative Case

(B) Objective Case

(C) Possessive Case

(A) Nominative Case

Examine the following sentences :

(a) Ram hit the dog. (b) The boy wants his mother.

In (a), Ram is the agent or subject of the verb hit. It is the answer to the question, 'Who hit the dog?' Similarly in (b) boy is the subject of the verb wants. It is the answer to the question, 'Who wants his mother?'

When a noun (or, pronoun) is the agent or the subject of a verb, it is said to be in the Nominative Case.

প্রতিদিনের Current Affairs, বিভিন্ন Update, গুরুত্বপূর্ণ খবর, চাকরির খবর, Motivational Quotes...

Join Now

Click Here

Telegram

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস

প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

WhatsApp

Join Now

Click Here

বিভিন্ন প্রতিযোগিতামূলক পরীক্ষার জন্য গুরুত্বপূর্ণ Free Study Materials, PDF ইত্যাদি দিয়ে থাকি...

Note

(i) The term Nominative and Subject are not always identical. The term Nominative can be applied only when the action proceeds from a simple noun or pronoun. But it cannot be applied when the subject consists of a number of words such as a phrase or clause. The terms can be used indifferently only when the subject is a simple noun or pronoun.

(ii) The Nominative or Subject is the answer we get by asking the question “who ?” or “what ?” with the verb.

(B) Objective Case

Again in (a) above, if we ask the question, “What did Ram hit ?” we get the answer dog. Dog is thus the object of the verb hit.

In (b) if we ask the question, “Whom does the boy want ?” we get the answer mother. Mother is thus the object of the verb wants.

When a noun (or, pronoun) is the Object to a verb or a preposition, it is said to be in the Objective Case.

Note

(i) The objective case is divided into the Accusative and the Dative. If the noun or pronoun is the direct object, it is in the accusative case, but if it is the indirect object, it is in the dative case. Thus, in “I gave him a book”, book is accusative and him dative.

(ii) The Object is the answer we get by asking the question “whom ?” or “what ?” with the verb.

A noun (or, pronoun) which comes after a preposition is also said to be in the Accusative Case :

He sat on a chair. I went to that place.

(C) Possessive Case

Examine the sentences :

I went to Bose's house. The boy's book is on the table.

Bose's house = house belonging to Bose ; boy's book = book belonging to the boy. The form of the noun Bose is changed to Bose's and of boy changed to boy's to show ownership or possession. The nouns Bose's and boy's are, therefore, said to be in the Possessive Case.

The Possessive Case denotes ownership or some other relationship.

The possessive answers the question “Whose ?”

Note

“Recent authorities prefer to retain the old name, Genitive, since the name possessive for genitive is misleading. The genitive case not only expresses possession, but is also used to convey other meanings. For example, in the phrase, ‘Ram's book’, the genitive case clearly denotes possession ; but in ‘Ram's fever’, ‘three months' imprisonment’, ‘a yard's length’, ‘prime minister's address’, it does not”.

(58) Nouns in Apposition — When two nouns are used together to denote the same person or thing, the second is said to be in apposition to the first.

Mr Chatterjee, our Headmaster, is a good man (Nom.).

He beat my brother, a young boy (Obj.)

I went to Mr Bose the poet's house (Possessive).

A. The Nominative Case

(59) Different kinds of the Nominative :—

(a) The Nominative of Address or Vocative Case or Case of Address is the case used in addressing or calling a person or an object :

Saral, come here. Adieu, adieu, my fatherland.

(b) Nominative Absolute is a Noun or a Pronoun which, coming before a participle, is not grammatically connected with the rest of the sentence :

The sun having set, we left the place. Dinner (being) over, the guest left the table.

(60) Position of the Nominative :— The Nominative is generally placed before the verb :—

Ram goes. Birds fly.

Exceptions—But it is placed after the verb (or after the auxiliary, if there be any) in the following cases :

(a) In Interrogative sentences : Is he ill? Who is he?

(b) In Imperative sentences : Go (you) home.

(c) Sometimes, in exclamations : How glad am I to see you!

(d) In Optative sentences : Long live Ram. May you be happy.

(e) In Conditional clauses without if or though :

Had I been present (= If I had been present), I would have prevented him. Were he present, he would have opposed you.

(f) When the sentence begins with here, there, or with a negative (no sooner, not only, never, no longer, little, few, etc.) :

Here are five men. There lived an old man in the village. No sooner had he left the room than it fell down. Not only was he present, but he delivered a lecture also. Never have I seen such a man. No longer are they ready to follow you. Little did they think that they would suffer. Few were the men present there.

(g) Sometimes, in quoting the words to another :

"I can do the work", said he.

(h) In emphatic sentences :

Down went the ship.

(i) After neither and nor meaning and not :

He was not present, nor was his brother. He could not go, neither could I.

(j) Sometimes after the adverbs so, the more, etc. in the second clause of the sentence :

As you sow, so shall you reap. The more you read, the more will you learn.

B. The Objective Case

(61) Different kinds of Objects :—

(a) Direct Object or Accusative (मुख्यकर्म); Indirect Object or Dative (सौपकर्म) —

Some transitive verbs (tell, give, ask, teach, etc.) take two objects. One of these is direct and is called the Direct Object or Accusative (मुख्यकर्म). The other is indirect and is called the Indirect Object or Dative (सौपकर्म).

The former is generally a thing; the latter is generally a person or an animal :—

He gave me (Ind. Object.) a book (Dir. Object). I told him (Ind. Obj.) this (Dir. Obj.).

(b) Retained Object—Some transitive verbs take two objects in the active voice. In the passive, one of these becomes the subject, but the other is retained as object and is called the Retained Object :

He was given a book.

(c) Cognate Object— The object of an intransitive verb of kindred meaning or sense (সমার্থজ্ঞাপক) is called a Cognate Object :

I ran a race. He lived a pure life.

(d) Factitive Object— A transitive verb (usually of naming, making, and thinking) sometimes requires, besides its object, some other word, usually denoting office or rank, to make the sense complete (কোন কোন সক্রমিক ক্রিয়ার অর্থপূরণের জন্য উহার কর্মের পর পদবীজ্ঞাপক একটি noun দরকার হয়). This word is called the Factitive Object :

He called me a fool. I took him prisoner.

(e) Adverbial Object— A noun in the objective case is sometimes used adverbially to denote distance, place, time, value, amount, weight, or manner ; this object is called the Adverbial Object :

The school is one mile from here. This cost me three rupees. He was there ten years. He went home. He was bound hand and foot.

C. The Possessive or Genitive

⑥2 The Possessive (or Genitive) is ordinarily used with nouns denoting Animate or Personified objects. It is generally formed by adding an apostrophe and s ('s) to the noun :

man, man's ; men, men's ; children, children's.

Exceptions :— There are three cases in which the s after the apostrophe is omitted to avoid too many hissing sounds :—

¹(a) After plural nouns ending in s :

boys' pens ; birds' nests.

(b) When the last syllable of a singular noun ends with s or ce and the noun is followed by "sake" :

goodness' sake ; conscience' sake ; justice' sake. (But we say also pity's sake.)

(c) Generally, when the last syllable of a singular noun begins and ends with s :

Moses' laws. But, we must say, Pares's pen ; Venus's beauty ; Keats's poem ; Dickens's novel.

Note

Personal pronouns do not take any apostrophe (') to form genitives : yours (not your's), its, ours, hers, theirs. It's is the contracted form of it is. (See Art. 108)

⑥3 The Possessive of Compound Nouns or names consisting of several words, and of Nouns in Apposition is formed by adding ('s) to the last word :

Governor General's car ; son-in-law's house ; Asoke the Great's reign ; the king of Japan's throne ; Ram, my brother's house.

⑥4 When there are two or more separate nouns joined by and, ('s) is added to the last if joint possession is meant ; but if separate possession is meant, ('s) is added to each noun (And দ্বারা যুক্ত noun-গুলি যদি যৌথ অধিকার বুঝায় তবে সর্বশেষে noun-এর পরে 's দিতে হয়, আর যদি ভিন্ন ভিন্ন অধিকার বুঝায় তবে প্রত্যেকটির পরেই 's বসে):

¹There is a laudable tendency in modern usage to omit the apostrophe, especially in plural nouns, where the nouns are adjectival without any real possessive sense ; "Boys School," "Students Union," "Miners Federation", — Good English by G.H. Vallins.

Dutta and Ghose's firm = one firm belonging to both.

Dutta's and Ghose's firms = two separate firms, one belonging to Dutta and the other belonging to Ghose.

(65) Nouns denoting Inanimate objects are not generally put in the possessive case. Possession in such cases is denoted by the preposition of, or sometimes by using the noun as adjective. Thus, we write :

"the door of the house" (not, house's door) ; "the days of winter or winter days" (not, winter's days) ; "the door of the cottage or cottage door" (not, cottage's door).

Exceptions— But, even in the case of Inanimate objects, the Possessive inflexion ('s) is often used with :

(i) Nouns denoting personified things :

Fortune's favour, India's hope, Death's door.

(ii) Nouns denoting dignified objects :

The ocean's roar, the sun's rays, the country's call.

(iii) Nouns denoting time, space, or weight :

Time — a day's journey ; a week's leave ; three days' absence.

Space — a yard's length ; a stone's throw ; a needle's point.

Weight — a pound's weight ; a ton's weight.

(iv) A few familiar phrases for the sake of shortness :

A boat's crew, wits' end, to one's heart's content, at arm's length.

(66) The Elliptical or Absolute Possessive—Nouns denoting house, shop, etc. may be omitted after the possessive case of Nouns, but not after the possessive case of Pronouns unless the words denoting house etc. have been previously used (House, shop প্রভৃতি কথাগুলি Noun-এর possessive case-এর পরে উহা থাকিতে পারে। কিন্তু ওই কথাগুলির পূর্বে উল্লেখ না থাকিলে উহারা Pronoun-এর possessive case-এর পর উহা থাকিতে পারে না।). Thus :

I went to Ghose's (= Ghose's shop or house). He has gone to the taylor's (= taylor's shop). I went to St. Paul's (= St. Paul's Cathedral). This is my book ; where is yours ? (= your book).

(67) Double Possessive — Both the forms, ('s) and of, are used when possession is expressed of one out of many.

A book of Ram's = refers to only one of many Ram has.

A picture of the queen = a likeness of her.

A picture of the queen's = one of many in her possession.

The news of Ram = news about Ram.

This news of Ram's = news that Ram brings.

E EXERCISE 8

(a) Give the possessive forms of:—

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. Lady | 7. the house of my friend, Jatin |
| 2. mistress | 8. the chair of Mr Bose, Principal of the College |
| 3. James | 9. the firms of Ghose and Mitter |
| 4. the laws of Moses | 10. the firm of Ghose and Mitter |
| 5. the generals of the armies | 11. the house of Patel and Sharma |
| 6. the conquest of Alexander the Great | 12. the houses of Patel and Sharma |

- | | |
|--------------------------------|--|
| 13. for the sake of conscience | 18. the shops of Dutt and Bose |
| 14. the tales of the fairies | 19. the country of Ramani and Mahammud |
| 15. the dramas of Kalidas | 20. the countries of Ramani and Mahammud |
| 16. the flight of eagles | |
| 17. the heroes of England | |

(b) State the cases of the Nouns and the Pronouns :—

- | | |
|---|-----------------------------------|
| 1. The police arrested the dacoits. | 9. Boys, attend to what I say. |
| 2. The teacher teaches in the class. | 10. Gentlemen, lend me your ears. |
| 3. He teaches me English. | 11. I shall teach you a lesson. |
| 4. I was taught English by him. | 12. Bring me a book. |
| 5. The moon having risen, we began the journey. | 13. He showed me a sight. |
| 6. I saw Ram, brother of Shyam. | 14. It is three feet high. |
| 7. He was elected chairman of the meeting. | 15. He walked ten miles. |
| 8. They have fought a good fight. | 16. Rahim's brother is a fool. |

CHAPTER IX

ADJECTIVES

(68) Adjectives have two uses :—

(a) Attributive— Adjectives are said to be used attributively when they are placed close to and before the noun which they qualify (Noun এর পূর্বে বসে); as, a good boy, a red ball, an angry person. An adjective so used is called an Epithet.

A few adjectives, such as, former, olden, etc., can be used only attributively :

He is a former teacher of this school. This practice prevailed in olden times.

(b) Predicative — Adjectives are said to be used predicatively when they express what is declared of some person or thing, and come after the verb (Verb-এর পরে বসে); as,

The boy is good. The ball is red.

There are a few adjectives, such as, alone, asleep, afraid, alike, aloof, alive, ashamed, awake, aware, content, etc., which can be used only predicatively. Thus, we can write only :

He is alone. She is asleep. I am content. We are afraid.

(69) Classification— Adjectives may be generally arranged under the following groups :—

(a) Proper — derived from some Proper Nouns : Indian, British, Vedic, Islamic.

(b) Qualitative — describing the quality or state of a thing :

He is an honest boy. Help the poor man. The brave man faced the angry crowd. This is a large city. The foolish old crow tried to sing.

(c) Quantitative or Numeral— denoting quantity or number :

Give me some sugar.

There were many men there.

There is little water in the bottle.

Any man can do this.

He is the first boy of the class.

I saw a few men there.

Give me two rupees only.

All men are mortal.

This is his third attempt.

He took little care of the thing.

He took great pains to do the work.

The whole village came out to see him.

This is a single storied house.

(d) Distributive — each, every, either, neither :

Each boy was fully prepared. Give a rupee to every beggar. Either pen will do. He will join neither side.

(e) Demonstrative — this, that, such, same :

I know this (or that) man. Such examples are rare. This is the same thing as that.

(f) Interrogative — which, whose, and what, when they are used with nouns to ask questions :

Which boy did it? What book do you want? Whose pen is this?

[What is used in a general sense, but which requires a particular person or thing to be pointed out from a group.]

(g) Emphasising — own, very :

This is my own house. I did it with my own hand. This is the very boy I spoke of. I am the master of my own time. This is the very thing I want.

E EXERCISE 9

Point out the Adjectives in the following sentences, and state which class each of them belongs to :—

1. I gave the poor man some rice and one rupee.
2. The good boy obeys his parents.
3. The kind man helped the blind old woman.
4. Every man in the big hall stood up to cheer the great leader.
5. Few men can raise such a heavy load.
6. There are fertile fields on either side of the river.
7. Which boy did it?
8. The wise old man supported the young boy.
9. The cruel king caused great sufferings to his people.
10. Most boys are fond of sweets.
11. I told the whole story to my aged mother.
12. She has a soft heart and cannot stand such a painful sight.
13. He is the first boy of the class.
14. The kind man helped my younger brother at that time.

Comparison of Adjectives

(70) Most Adjectives of Quality, and four Adjectives of Number and Quantity (much, little, many, few) have degrees of comparison.

(71) There are three degrees of comparison :—

(a) The Positive degree is the simplest form of the adjective :

tall, beautiful.

(b) The Comparative degree is the form used when a comparison is made between two persons or things :

He is taller than you. It is more beautiful than that.

(c) The Superlative degree is the form used when more than two things, or sets of things, are compared.

He is the tallest boy in the class. She is the most beautiful of all.

Rules of Comparison

(72) Adjectives of one syllable are compared by adding er and est in the Comparative and Superlative degrees respectively :

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
black	blacker	blackest
high	higher	highest strong	stronger	strongest
tall	taller	tallest
weak	weaker	weakest
cold	colder	coldest
great	greater	greatest small	smaller	smallest
long	longer	longest
bold	bolder	boldest
hard	harder	hardest
poor	poorer	poorest
rich	richer	richest
kind	kinder	kindest
young	younger	youngest

Exceptions :

(i) When the Positive ends in e, the e of er and est is dropped :

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
able	abler	ablest
brave	braver	bravest
wise	wiser	wisest
large	larger	largest
pale	paler	palest

(ii) When the Positive ends in y preceded by a consonant, y is changed to "i" before er and est :

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
busy	busier	busiest
easy	easier	easiest
dry	drier	driest

But when a vowel precedes y, it is not changed :

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
gay	gayer	gayest
grey	greyer	greyest

(iii) If the positive ends in a single consonant preceded by a single vowel, the consonant is doubled before adding er and est.

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
big	bigger	biggest
fat	fatter	fattest
hot	hotter	hottest
red	redder	reddest
sad	sadder	saddest
thin	thinner	thinnest

But if it ends in two consonants, or has two vowels before the final consonant, the latter is not doubled :

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
cool	cooler	coolest
long	longer	longest
weak	weaker	weakest
thick	thicker	thickest

(73) Adjectives of more than two syllables and most Adjectives of two syllables are compared by adding more and most, or less and least :

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
active	more active less active	most active least active careful	more careful less careful	most careful least careful beautiful	more beautiful less beautiful	most beautiful least beautiful difficult	more difficult less difficult	most difficult least difficult interesting	more interesting less interesting	most interesting least interesting important	more important less important	most important least important

(74) All adjectives of two syllables ending in le, y, er and ow are generally compared as adjectives of one syllable :

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
noble	nobler	noblest
happy	happier	happiest
tender	tenderer	tenderest
narrow	narrower	narrowest
holy	holier	holiest
pretty	prettier	prettiest clever (1)	cleverer	cleverest
heavy	heavier	heaviest ugly	uglier	ugliest
easy	easier	easiest

Note

(1) The forms more clever – most clever, and less clever– least clever are also used.

(75) Irregular Comparison :

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
bad, evil, ill	worse	worst
far	farther	farthest
fore	former (time)	foremost, first (position)
good	better	best
hind	hinder	hindmost
late	later, latter	latest, last little	less, lesser	least many, much	more	most near	nearer	nearest, next
nigh	nigher	nighest, next old	older, elder	oldest, eldest

(76) Words not adjectives in the positive degree, but used as such in the comparative and the superlative :—

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
forth	further	furthest
in	inner	inmost, innermost
out	outer, utter	{ outermost, uttermost
up	upper	{ outmost, utmost uppermost, upmost

(77) Adjectives without a Comparative form :

Positive	Superlative	Positive	Superlative
down	downmost	southern	southernmost
eastern	easternmost	top	topmost
head	headmost	western	westernmost
northern	northernmost

(78) Adjectives expressing shape or material or time or the highest or lowest degree of some quality cannot be compared : *round*¹, *square*¹, earthen, golden, daily, annual, *perfect*¹, extreme, eternal, chief, Almighty, infinite, complete, supreme, *unique*², universal, dead, empty, etc.

(79) Comparatives are followed by than, except in examples under Art. 81 given below :

Ram is taller than Shyam. I am weaker than he.

When, however, selection is implied, the comparative is preceded by the and followed by of :

Ram is the taller of the two.

(80) When objects of the same class are compared by means of a comparative (একই জাতীয় জিনিসের মধ্যে তুলনা বুঝাতে), their separation or exclusion should be distinctly shown by the use of any other, all other or no other :

He is better than any other boy (or, all other boys, — not any boy) in the class. No other boy (not, no boy) is so good as he.

But in a comparison by superlatives other is not used :

He is the best of all the boys (not, all other boys). The Himalayas are the highest of all mountains.

(81) The Comparatives (originally Latin) inferior, junior, prior, senior, superior are followed by 'to', not by 'than' :

He is inferior to me in strength. You are junior to him in service. He is superior to you in every respect. He is senior to you in service.

1. "Strictly speaking, a thing cannot be more square, more round, more perfect. But we still say, for instance, "This is the most perfect specimen I have seen". — Wren and Martin.

"Words like full, perfect, etc. which express completeness may be used in the comparative to denote a nearer approach to the complete notion : e.g. 'A fuller account will appear next month.' 'We could not have had a more perfect day for the garden party.'" — Current English Usage by F. T. Wood.

2. "Modern English Usage" allows quite, almost, nearly, really, surely, perhaps, absolutely, in some respects, to modify "unique". But nothing can be rather, somewhat, very, comparatively "unique", because there can be no degree of uniqueness.

(82) Comparatives followed neither by than nor by to : former, latter, hinder, upper, inner, outer, elder, utter, etc. These are followed by of when selection is implied :

He got the upper hand. I am a member of the upper of the two chambers. He is a former teacher of this school. I want the former of the two.

(83) The use of that in such comparisons as the following should be carefully noted :

Ram's house is better than that of Jadu. The brother of Karim is taller than that of Abdul. The population of India is larger than that of France. His name is as familiar as that of your brother.

If the first sentence were written as, "Ram's house is better than Jadu", it would have meant a comparison between Ram's house and Jadu, as man— an absurdity. Similarly, in other sentences.

Conversely, note the absence of that in the following :

India is larger than France. The Indus is longer than the Ganges. I love your brother as much as Jadu.

(84) (a) Superlatives are generally preceded by the and followed by of, except when they are qualified by possessive pronouns or when they qualify the vocative case :

He is the wisest of the brothers. He is my dearest friend. Dearest friend, come here at once.

(b) The Absolute Superlative or Superlative of Eminence— The Superlative, often with a most, is sometimes used to express a very great degree of a quality, with no idea of comparison (কোন গুণের আধিক্য বুঝাইতে, — তুলনা বুঝাইতে নয়—অনেক সময় most ব্যবহৃত হয়) :

It is a most interesting book. He is a most wicked man. He received me in the politest way.

(c) Superlative with "any" — We often have such sentences as :

He is the most popular of any man here. The Americans are the richest of any people in the world.

Though not strictly grammatical, the usage has come to stay.

(85) Double Comparatives or Superlatives should not be used. We should say :

I am happier (not, more happier) than he. He is the noblest (not, the most noblest) of the brothers.

(86) Adjectives of different degrees cannot be joined by and :

Incorrect : He is the strongest and very tall boy in the class.

Correct : He is the strongest and tallest boy in the class.

Incorrect : This town is more populous and very prosperous.

Correct : { This town is more populous and more prosperous.
This town is very populous and very prosperous.

(87) Use of some adjectives explained :

(a) Which and what may be used for persons and things in all genders and numbers :

Which book or books do you want? What boy or boys can do it? Which man or men will go?

(b) Either means (i) one or other of two, or (ii) each of two, and is followed by a singular noun (see Art. 145 and footnote, page 57).

This can be done in either way (one way or the other).

There are towns on either bank (i.e., both banks) of the Ganges.

(c) Neither means not either (i.e., not the one and not the other), and is followed by a singular noun :

I want neither pen.

(d) Preferable has a comparative force, and hence does not require more before it. It is followed by to. Thus, we should write :

Health is preferable (not, more preferable) to riches.

(e) Each and Every are followed by the singular number. In phrases like every three hours, every = each group of.

Note

Do not use the comparative degree after the word comparatively, which in itself contains the idea of comparison (Comparatively-র পরে comparative degree হয় না). Thus, write, "I am comparatively well (not better)" today. "He is comparatively rich."

(88) An Adjective is sometimes used as a Noun in the following cases :

(a) As an Abstract Noun (singular) :

He is a lover of the good (= goodness in general) and the true (= truth in general).

(b) As a Common Noun denoting a whole class : it is then preceded by the, and has a plural sense :

The rich (= rich persons) are not always happy. The brave (= brave persons) deserve rewards.

(c) As a name for some particular part of a thing :

He was given the white (= the white portion) of an egg. He entered into the thick (= thickest parts) of the forest.

(d) As a complete noun :

Respect your betters.

A few other Adjectives of this kind are Indians, Europeans, Moderates, Liberals, mortals, nobles, etc. They take the possessive inflexion and the plural sign like other Nouns.

(e) In a number of phrases :

at all, at best, at last, at present, in general, in short, in secret, before long, for good, for better, on high, from bad to worse, the long and the short, in black and white, etc.

(89) Nouns are often used as Adjectives (Epithet Nouns) :

a letter box, a gold chain, a goods train, the summer vacation, etc.

E EXERCISE 10

(a) Fill up the blanks with proper degree forms of the words in brackets :—

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. He is — than his brother (tall). | 6. Iron is — of all metals (useful). |
| 2. He is the — boy in he class (good). | 7. He is the — of the two (wise). |
| 3. He is the — boy in the class (bad). | 8. You are — to me than life (dear). |
| 4. This is the — day of his life (proud). | 9. He is the — of the two boys (good). |
| 5. Iron is — than gold (useful). | 10. He is — than what he was yesterday (bad). |

DETERMINERS, ARTICLES

90) Read the following sentences :

Which book do you want ?	That is our school.
Some boys are playing.	Have you any money ?
Many girls were singing.	Every boy will get a prize.
This house is mine.	All men are mortal.
Where is your house ?	This is his third attempt.
Give me a pen.	Put a little sugar in the cup.
The pen is red.	Neither of the boys went there.
Give me an umbrella.	Three persons were injured in the accident.

In the above sentences, the italicised words which, some, many, this, your, a, the, an, our, any, every, all, third, a little, neither, three are words that fix the nouns that follow them.

Such words are called Determiners.

91) The following classes of words come under the term Determiners :

- (a) Articles— a, an, the.
- (b) Interrogative Adjectives— which, what, whose.
- (c) Possessive Adjectives— my, your, his, her, our, their, its.
- (d) Demonstrative Adjectives— this, that, these, those.
- (e) Distributive Adjectives— each, every, both, neither, either.
- (f) Adjectives of Quantity and Number— one, two, three, etc ; some, many, any, (a) few, (a) little, several, much, all, enough, first, fifth, great, whole, etc.

ARTICLES

92) A, An and The are called Articles.

NOTE: Formerly Articles were classed as a separate part of speech ; but now they are classed as Adjectives.

93) A and An are called Indefinite Articles, because they do not point out any particular person or thing :

a book = any book ; a girl = any girl.

They are used only before singular countable nouns.

94) The is called the Definite Article, because it points to some particular person or thing :

the boy = the boy of whom we are speaking or who is known ; the girls ; the air ; the grass.

The definite article can be used before singular or plural nouns, whether Countable or Uncountable.

95) As a general rule, a Common Noun in the singular number should have an article before it.

Thus, we cannot say, "I have seen tiger" ; we should say, "I have seen a or the tiger".

But a Common Noun in the plural does not require the unless we want to particularise.

Boys love games; but The boys (= those already referred to, or those before us) are playing.

(96) "A" is used before

(a) a consonant :

a boy, a word, a B.A., a cow, etc.

(b) such vowels that have the sound of "yu" :

a ewe, a useful thing, a unit, a European, a university, a U.N. spokesman, etc.

(c) "O", when it is sounded as in "one" :

a one-rupee note, a one-eyed person, a one-man committee, etc.

(97) "An" is used before

(a) a vowel :

an eye, an idiot, an ox, an umbrella, etc.

(b) a consonant beginning with a vowel sound :

an M.A., an M.D., an heir, an honest boy, an hour, an S.D.O, an F.R.C.S.

N.B. 'An was formerly used before an unaccounted syllable beginning with h (an historical work); but now that the h is sounded, the distinction has become pedantic, and a historical should be said and written; similarly an humble is now meaningless and undesirable" —MEU.

(98) Other uses of 'A' and 'An' :

(a) Generalizing "A" or "An" — A or An is sometimes used before a noun to indicate a class (সাধারণভাবে সকলকে বুঝাতে) :

A son should obey his father. An ant is an industrious creature.

(b) A is used as a preposition—

He went a hunting (= on hunting). Potatoes sell at one kilo a (per) rupee. I get sixty rupees a month.

(c) A is used in the sense of a certain :

A Mr Bose came to see me.

(d) A and An are also used in a number of phrases :

in a temper, to have a cold, to take an interest in, in a hurry.

(e) A is sometimes used to mean a single or any :

There was not a man to support him, though no one spoke a word against him openly.

(f) A sometimes means one like :

He thinks he is a Sarat Chandra.

(g) A is used before other determinatives like few, little, lot of :

There are a few apples on the table. There are a lot of books in the library.
There is a little water in the jug.

Note

It is also possible to say: 'few apples', 'little water' but such constructions convey different meaning. They will mean 'not many', 'not much'.

(h) A or An is also used in certain exclamatory sentences beginning with 'what' :

What a thing to say! What an awful comment to make!

99) Rules for the use of “The” : The is used before :

(a) (i) The names of :

Rivers (নদী)	:	The Ganga, the Thames, the Brahmaputra
Seas (সমুদ্র)	:	The Black Sea, the Arabian Sea
Gulfs (উপসাগর)	:	The Persian Gulf, the Gulf of Mexico
Mountain ranges ¹ (পর্বতমালা)	:	The Himalayas, the Alps
Groups of islands ¹ (দ্বীপপুঞ্জ)	:	The Andamans, the West Indies, the Philippines
Ships (জাহাজ)	:	The Titanic, the Harshavardhan
Newspapers ² (খবরের কাগজ)	:	The Ananda Bazar Patrika, the Bartaman
Holy books ³ (ধর্মগ্রন্থ)	:	The Gita, the Bible, the Quoran
Noted public places and historical buildings (সাধারণের স্থান এবং ঐতিহাসিক বাড়ী)	:	The Secretariat⁴, the cinema, the theatre, the High Court, the Assembly House, the Tajmahal, the Victoria Memorial Hall
Important events (বিখ্যাত ঘটনা)	:	The French Revolution, the Sepoy Mutiny, the Gulf War, the Durga Puja
Trains, planes and spacecraft (ট্রেন, প্লেন বা আকাশযান)	:	The Rajdhani Express, the Kaniska, the Skylab, the Sputnik, the Bombay Mail
Deserts (মরুভূমি)	:	The Sahara, the Gobi
Shops, hotels, restaurants, institutions, clubs, theatres, etc. where the name is not a personal one.	:	The Taj Bengal, the Army and Navy Stores, the Blue Fox, the Great Eastern Hotel, the Calcutta Club, the National Library, the Globe Cinema, etc.

(ii) Descriptive geographical or significant names :

The Punjab, the Deccan

(iii) The name of a country that is a union of smaller entities :

The United Kingdom (the U.K.), the United Arab Emirates (the UAE).

(iv) The name of a country that is plural in form :

The Netherlands, the United States of America (the U.S.A.)

(b) Singular Common Nouns to represent a whole class :

The dog is a faithful animal. The cow eats grass. (Generalizing ‘The’).

(c) Nouns to point out a person or thing known or already referred to :

Come into the garden (the garden before the speaker). I went to the club. I do not like the fellow (the fellow already referred to). (Familiar ‘The’).

(d) Singular nouns referring to things of which only one exists, and before directions, e.g. north, south, east, west when they are nouns :

the earth, the sun, the sky, the east, the west

He lives in the south (noun : an area in the south).

¹ But not before a single mountain or a single island : Everest, Greenland, Java.

² Articles (a, an, the) are usually in practice included into the body of sentences, and not included in the title. We write “Have you seen the Daily Telegraph today? rather than seen The Daily Telegraph....” —Good English by G.H Vallins.

³ We say, ‘The Paradise Lost of Milton’, but ‘Milton’s Paradise Lost’; ‘The Twelfth Night of Shakespeare’ but ‘Shakespear’s Twelfth Night’.

⁴ The Parliament—but member of Parliament.

But, Go south (adverb : in a southern direction).

(e) Superlatives :

He is the best of them.

(f) Comparatives : (i) as adverbs :

The more the merrier. (Instrumental 'The') ; The earlier, the better.

(ii) as contrast :

He is the cleverer of the two boys.

(g) A national name (জাতীয়তাবাচক শব্দ) with a plural notion to denote a people collectively. Without the, such a noun indicates the language of the people.

{ The English (= the English people) are industrious.
 { English (= the language) is a rich language.

{ The French (= people of France) fought hard.
 { I am learning French (= the language).

(h) Adjectives with a plural notion, to indicate a whole class of persons (Adjective এর পূর্বে, সেই গুণাঙ্কিত সমস্ত মানুষকে বুঝাতে). But we should not combine both the forms.

The rich (= rich men) are not always happy.

Rich men are not always happy.

The rich man is not always happy.

But not, The rich men are not always happy.

There is a school for the blind in the city.

(i) Common Nouns as a substitute for the Possessive Adjective :

I struck him on the (his) head ; He stared at me in the (my) face. (Possessive 'The') ;

He was wounded in the leg.

(j) Nouns defined by adjectives or adjectival phrases or clauses :

the black dog ; the immortal Kalidas ; The men who came here yesterday are my friends.

(k) Some Adjectives and Common Nouns in the singular number to express an abstract idea :

Do not leap in the dark. The future (= futurity) is unknown to us. Check the beast (= animal nature) in you. The mother (= motherly feelings) in her could not bear the sight.

(l) Adjectives, to denote particular parts of things :

He likes the yellow of an egg. He entered the thick of the forest.

(m) Ordinal numbers written in letters ; but when written in Roman notation, no article is used.

George the Fifth (but, George V) ; Chapter the Second (but, Chapter II)¹.

(n) Nouns, to indicate a profession :

He joined the Bar or the Church (became a lawyer or a clergyman).

¹ In writing the date we nowadays omit the and of but in reading that date we generally put them in : March 10th (The tenth of March) ; 16th August (The sixteenth of August, or August the sixteenth).

(o) The names of musical instruments :

He plays the violin.

But, he has a violin.

(p) The plural names of families :

the Browns, the Boses.

(q) Proper, material and abstract nouns to make them Common :

Kalidas is the Shakespeare of India. The water of the Ganga.

(r) The is sometimes used before a noun to give it the force of a superlative :

He is the singer of the day.

(s) A unit of measurement to mean 'every' :

My car does forty miles to the gallon. Eggs are sold by the dozen. Cloth is sold by the metre. He gets paid by the hour.

(t) An adjective qualifying a proper noun following it :

The late Pandit Nehru, the Great Mahatma Gandhi, the immortal Sarat Chandra.

100 Omission of Articles : No article is used :

(a) Before Proper, Material, or Abstract Nouns, except when they are particularised :

Ashoka (but, the kind Ashoka), Homer (but, the Homer of India), gold (but, the gold of Australia), honesty (but, the honesty of the boy).

(b) Before Common Nouns in the plural number, except when they are particularised :

dogs bark ; cows eat grass ; but, the dogs of my house ; the cows that I bought.

(c) Often before a Common or Collective Noun, preceded by the phrases kind or species or sort of, or when used in its widest sense :

What kind or sort of man is he? He is a different kind of man. Man, bird and beast — all are subject to death. Always keep good company. But we say : The banian is a kind of tree. Malaria is caused by a species of mosquito.

(d) Before man in the sense of mankind, and before father, mother, and baby when a particular one of them is meant (সমগ্র মনুষ্যজাতি অর্থে man, এবং বক্তার বাবা, মা, শিশু অর্থে father, mother ও baby-র পূর্বে) :

Man is mortal. Father or Mother (i.e., my father or mother) says so.

(e) Cook, nurse, etc. take no article in the sense of 'our cook', 'our nurse' :

Cook has given notice.

(f) In many idiomatic phrases :

To take root (to be firmly established) ; to call to mind (to remember) ; to give ear to (to hear) ; to set foot on ; by boat ; at night ; send word ; at home ; to attend school ; by land ; on horseback, etc.

(g) Before the words school, church, prison, hospital, college, court, market and a few other names of localities, besides table and bed. These take no article when we think of the use made of the building or object.

Ram goes to school at 10 o'clock (to learn). Ram has gone to the school (not to learn but just to see the place). They took him to hospital (for treatment). They took him to the hospital (just to see the place). Rabin once hit a ball right over the top of the school (school building).

(h) Before the names of squares, buildings, parks, streets, etc., consisting of

The objective forms me, us, her, him, them are used as direct and indirect objects of verbs or after prepositions :

I saw her .	I gave him a book.
He talked with me .	Ram spoke to her .
We tried for him .	Between him and me .

(b) In formal English, when the pronoun comes after the verb to be, the nominative form of the pronoun is the grammatically correct usage :

Who's there ?	It is I .
Was it he ?	Yes, it was he .

In informal conversation, however, the objective form is often used after the verb to be (See Art. 470, Note) :

Who's there ?	It's me .
Was it he ?	Yes, it was him .
I wouldn't have done this, if I were him .
Do you think he did it ?
I amn't sure. It might have been him .

(In formal English It might have been he is preferred).

But the nominative form must be used when the pronoun acts as subject of a verb and is followed by a clause :

It was he (not him) who helped me.
It was I (not me) who arranged for the meeting.

(c) When a pronoun is put with some other word in the objective case, the pronoun must also be in the objective case :

The boy is known to him and me (not I).
I brought this for you and him (not he).
The book may be given to Ram or me (not I).
You abused both him and me (not I).

(d) The case of the pronoun following than and as has to be determined by mentally supplying the verb (See Art. 472) :

He is more intelligent than I (am).
He is taller than I (am).
He knows you more than (he knows) me.
He is not so strong as you (are).
He loves you as much as (he loves) me.
I don't have more money than he (has).

In colloquial style, however, the objective form is often used in place of nominative after verb to be followed by an adjective :

He is more intelligent than me (than I am).
He is taller than me (= than I am).
You are cleverer than him (= than he is).
He is richer than us (than we are).
He is several years older than me (than I am).

(e) With transitive verbs, choice of the subject and object forms depends upon the sense of the complete sentence :

I know you better than he (does) (= he knows you).
I know you better than him (= I know him).
You like her as much as I (= as I like her).
You like her as much as me (= as you like me).

He helped you as well as I (= as well as I helped you).

He helped you as well as me (= as well as he helped me).

(f) 'Between' is a preposition and any pronoun that follows it must be in the objective case :

Between you and me.

Between her and she.

Between him and me.

Between Ajoy and me.

Between you and him.

'But' when used as a preposition is followed by a pronoun in the objective case :

Nobody was present there but me (not I).

None but him (not, he) passed the test.

'Let' is followed by a pronoun in the objective case :

Let us go.

Let him and me do the job.

106 It will be seen that the Possessive Cases of most of the Personal Pronouns have two forms. Of these :—

(a) My, thy, her, its, our, your, their are called Possessive Adjectives, because, like adjectives, they are used before nouns : my book, your name, its colour. They are also called Pronominal Adjectives because they are formed from pronouns.

(b) Mine, thine, hers, ours, theirs are called Possessive Pronouns, because they are now used without the noun and instead of the noun to which they refer : Whose coat is this ? It is mine (= my coat). (See Art. 108).

(c) His is used both independently and before a noun ; as, This book is his. or, This is his book.

107 Double Possessive— Hers, ours, theirs are called Double Possessives, because they are twice inflected, r and s being two possessive suffixes.

108 Mine, thine, hers, ours, yours, theirs are used :—

(a) When the noun is understood : "Whose book is this ? It is mine." "This is my pen ; where is yours ?"

(b) When a verb comes between the noun and the pronoun : "This book is mine". "This house is theirs."

(c) When the pronoun is preceded by of : This book of mine is cheap.

Caution : The Possessive forms hers, ours, yours, its, theirs, etc. should never be written with the apostrophe. Thus, it is wrong to write her's, it's, your's or yours', theirs' or theirs', etc. Its should not be confounded with it's which means it is or it has.

109 Possessive of Interest is the possessive case of Personal Pronouns sometimes used familiarly to express interest :

Our hero (= the man in whom I and my readers have taken so much interest) now left the field.

110 The Gender and Number of Personal Pronouns :—

(a) The pronoun must be of the same gender and number as the noun for which it stands but when the sex is uncertain, or not clearly stated, we commonly use the neuter pronoun it (Pronoun-এর number ও gender উহা যে Noun-এর পরিবর্তে বসিয়াছে তদনুযায়ী হয়। Noun-টি স্ত্রী কি পুরুষ বুঝা না গেলে আমরা সাধারণতঃ উহার পরিবর্তে it ব্যবহার করি) :

The boy (or boys) has (or have) done his (or their) work. The girl (or girls) has (or have) done her (or their) work. It is a healthy baby.

(b) But when the neuter form is not allowable, we sometimes use two pronouns, one masculine and the other feminine :

Every member can express his or her views.

Every boy or girl may do as he or she likes.

Sometimes we use only the masculine form : Every candidate must bring his own pen. Each must do his best.

(111) The uses of “we” — We denotes the speaker and others, male and female. It is used for “I” —

(a) When one speaks for several (একজন মাত্র লোক আরও অনেকের প্রতিনিধিরূপে কথা বলেন). This is called the Representative “we” : We welcome your Excellency (as the Chairman of a Municipality would say). We find the prisoner guilty (as the foreman of the jury would deliver his verdict).

(b) By a person in high authority or official capacity (রাজা বা কর্তৃস্থানীয় একজন লোক). This is called the Royal “we”. We (the King) follow the footsteps of our ancestors.

(c) By the editor of a newspaper, to represent the whole people (জনসাধারণের প্রতিনিধিরূপে পত্রিকার সম্পাদক). This is called the Editorial “we” : We support the measures proposed by Government.

(d) To represent mankind at large : We must do our duty.

(112) Thou is seldom used except in : —

(a) Poetry : as, Thou art, O God !

(b) Prayer : as, Thou (i.e., God) lovest us all.

Formerly, it was used in expressing familiarity or contempt : as, Thou art a mean fellow.

(113) You is now used both in the singular and in the plural with always a plural verb : Ram, you are a wise man (sing.). Boys, you are to do this (plu.).

(114) Ye is an old form and is now used chiefly in :—

(i) Poetry : Ye, Hills and Dales.

(ii) Some familiar phrases : How d’ye do ? (POD).

(115) Uses of “It” : It is used—

(a) For lower animals, unless we clearly wish to refer to them as male or female. The dog follows its master.

(b) For little children, male or female : The child (or baby, or infant) is crying for its mother.

(c) As the preparatory or provisional subject to refer to an infinitive or a clause after it (পরবর্তী infinitive ও clause-এর পরিবর্তে) : It is good to swim. It is known that he is dead.

(d) For an inanimate object, clause or phrase, or the idea contained in it: Buy the book and give it to him. Honesty is the best policy; he knows it. To swim is good; it improves health.

(e) As the provisional object for an object to come after (পরবর্তী কোন object-এর পরিবর্তে): I consider it wrong to do so. I consider it wrong that you should behave in this way.

(f) To emphasise (জোর দিবার জন্য) a word or a phrase: It is you (It was they) that did it. It was with difficulty that I did it.

(g) Impersonally, as the subject of impersonal verbs: It rains.

(h) As the subject of the verb "to be" to refer to time, weather, etc. (Time, weather ইত্যাদি বুঝাইতে "to be" verb-এর subject রূপে). It (= the time) is 5 o'clock now. It (= the weather) is hot today. It (= the distance) is six miles from here.

(i) As a sort of Cognate Object (Cognate object রূপে): I shall fight it (= the fight) out to the last.

(116) Arbitrary use of "It" — It may be applied to all members, genders, and persons when it is used at the beginning of a sentence for emphasis: It was I (or you, or she, or he, or they) that did it. It was these books that I wanted.

E EXERCISE 12

(a) Point out the Personal Pronouns and state the person, number and gender of each:—

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|--|
| 1. He told me to follow him. | 11. He told them that they should mind their business. |
| 2. I have lost the book you gave me. | 12. It is known that you helped him. |
| 3. Do as I tell you. | 13. I know that it was they that did it. |
| 4. I have sent your brother to him. | 14. We should do what you tell us to do. |
| 5. They are angry with me. | 15. It was these books that I wanted. |
| 6. A friend of yours asked me for it. | 16. It is five o'clock now. |
| 7. You have wronged me. | 17. I thought it was wrong to oppose him. |
| 8. It is a pleasure to talk with him. | 18. This pen is his, where is mine? |
| 9. This book is his, not yours. | 19. It was with pleasure that I did the work. |
| 10. We will follow you. | 20. It is said that you gave them that advice. |

(b) Put correct Pronouns in the blank spaces:—

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. He is older than — (me, I). | 16. He came here to see you and — (me, I). |
| 2. He is as strong as — (they, them). | 17. You are not so poor as — (him, he). |
| 3. None is so blind as — that will not see (them, they). | 18. It is — who is responsible for this. (him, he). |
| 4. He knows that it was — who did the work. (I, me) | 19. The boy is known to him and — (I, me). |
| 5. Let — go there (we, us). | 20. What would you do if you were — (he, him)? |
| 6. Who did it? It was not — (I, me). | 21. They asked my brother and — to see him. (I, me). |
| 7. It was — that did it (I, me). | 22. All the girls except — were present there (her, she). |
| 8. He and — went there together (I, me). | 23. I do not think — (they, them) are more competent than — (us, me). |
| 9. They are better than — (we, us). | 24. It is — (her, she) who got the prize, not — (I, me). |
| 10. Let you and — start at once (I, me). | 25. I cannot depend on a man such as — (he, him). |
| 11. Can you sing as well as — (they, them)? | |
| 12. Nobody will go there but — (I, me). | |
| 13. It is — who can help you (he, him). | |
| 14. She reads in the same class as — (they, them). | |
| 15. Who is right between you and — (he, him)? | |

Demonstrative Pronouns

(117) The words this, that, these, those, such, so, the same, one, when used alone, are Demonstrative Pronouns; when used with nouns, they are Adjectives. (So cannot be used as an adjective):

This (or That) is my house. What I mean is this. Such (= what was suggested) was not my object.

These are called Demonstrative Pronouns as they point out some objects to which they refer.

This and these refer to something that is near to the speaker in position, time or thought; that and those denoting something being more distant: This house is ours, not that.

(118) The uses of this and that as Pronouns:—

(a) When two nouns have been mentioned before, this refers to the latter, and that to the former (পরের জিনিষটি বুঝাইতে this এবং আগের জিনিষটি বুঝাইতে that ব্যবহৃত হয়):

“Work and play are both necessary; this (= play) gives us rest, and that (= work) gives energy.” “Dogs are more faithful than cats; these (= cats) attach themselves to places, and those (= dogs) to persons.”

(b) They are often used for preceding nouns or clauses:

The book is better than that (= book) of Jadu. I have read Latin, and that (I have read Latin) at Oxford. He went there, and this (= the fact that he went there) proves his courage.

(119) Such as a Demonstrative Pronoun stands for a noun or phrase; it may be used for either number: If you are my friend (or friends), show yourself (or yourselves) as such.

(120) The same is a Demonstrative Pronoun in “I will do the same as you (= that which you do).”

The use of the same for it in such sentences as “He filed a petition, I have gone through the same,” is now restricted only to legal documents.

(121) So is a Demonstrative pronoun after say, think, tell, etc.: as, “I said or think so”, where so = this or that.

In “I was talking to so & so”; “We walked a mile or so” (= about the distance) so is an Indefinite Demonstrative.

(122) One and its plural Ones are Demonstrative Pronouns when they stand for preceding nouns:

He got a prize last year, but did not get one (= a prize) this year. These oranges are not ripe; please send me some ripe ones (= oranges).

E EXERCISE 13

Fill up the blanks with Demonstrative Pronouns:—

1. This boy is taller than —.
2. — is a lame excuse.
3. — was a lame excuse.
4. If you are a friend, prove yourself as —.
5. His house is bigger than — of Jadu.
6. These things are better than — supplied by him.

প্রতিদিনের Current Affairs, বিভিন্ন Update, গুরুত্বপূর্ণ খবর, চাকরির খবর, Motivational Quotes...

Join Now

Click Here

Telegram

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস

প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

WhatsApp

Join Now

Click Here

বিভিন্ন প্রতিযোগিতামূলক পরীক্ষার জন্য গুরুত্বপূর্ণ Free Study Materials, PDF ইত্যাদি দিয়ে থাকি...

(127) The uses of who (nominative) and whom (objective) are very often confused. Carefully note the following :

The man who (not whom) came here was my uncle.
 I know Mr Sarkar, who (not whom) is a big businessman.
 He is a person whom (not who) you can trust well.
 He is a person who (not whom), I believe, is quite trustworthy.
Who (not whom) do you think has done it?
 These are the boys who (not whom) were present there.
 These are the boys whom (not who) I saw there.
 To whom (not who) do you want to talk?
 Please tell me to whom I should speak.
 The boys, of whom you are speaking, came to see me.

Note

"Whom is the technically correct accusative form and is used in formal written and spoken English. In ordinary conversation, however, it is much more common to use who as the accusative form, so that we can say :

Whom did you meet? (formal) or Who did you meet? (informal)

There is no difference in meaning but the second is more usual than the first. Similarly we can say :

Whom did you help? or Who did you help?

In formal English the preposition is immediately followed by whom :

With whom did you go?

But in ordinary spoken English it is more usual to move the preposition at the end of the sentence. The whom then normally changes to who :

Who did you go with? — Thomson & Martinet

Similarly, we can write :

Who (whom) else did you see? — I saw his brother.

Who (whom) did she pay? — She paid Sita.

Who did you give it to?

The last three examples in Art. 127 above can then be written as :

Whom do you want to talk to? or Who do you want to talk to?

Please tell me whom I should speak to; or Please tell me who I should speak to.

The boys, whom you are speaking of, came to see me. or The boys, who you are speaking of, came to see me. (See Art. 280)

(128) Compound or Generalizing relatives whoever, whatever, whichever, and the more emphatic forms whosoever, whatsoever, give the meaning of totality :

Whoever (= anybody who) comes is welcome. He got whatever (= anything that) he wanted. Take whichever (= any which) you please.

(129) Uses of who and which :—

(a) Restrictive— Who and which have a restrictive force when they limit or define the meaning of the antecedent : This is the boy who did it. This is the book which I bought.

(b) Continuative, Co-ordinate or Conjunctive— Who and which have sometimes a continuative force and are used only to make some additional statement about the antecedent. They may then be replaced by a conjunction and a pronoun : You must obey your parents, which (= and this) will win you the love of others. I saw your father, who (= and he) recognised me.

Note

(a) No 'comma' is generally placed before the Relative Pronoun when it is used in the restrictive sense ; but when it is used in the continuative sense, it generally takes a comma before it. But see Art. 418 Note (b).

(b) Another distinction is that who and which in the latter may be replaced by a conjunction and a pronoun (as in examples above).

(c) Who and which are also used adverbially to imply a cause (কারণ) or a purpose (উদ্দেশ্য) :—

Cause — Dutt, who (= because he) had been found guilty, was fined. The picture, which (= because it) was spoiled, has been thrown away.

Purpose — I shall send my brother who will (= that he may) do the work. He has sent me a dog which will (= that it may) guard my house.

130 That is always used in a restrictive sense. It is used instead of “who” and “which” :—

(i) After Adjectives in the superlative degree :—

He is the best man that I ever saw.

(ii) After same, any, all, only, one, etc. that require a defining clause after them :—

Is this the same that (also, as) you showed me before? (Pocket Oxford). All that I want is this. He is the only boy that did it. Answer any that you can.

(iii) After the Interrogatives who and what :—

Who is the boy that did it? What is it that you want?

(iv) After two antecedents, one requiring who and the other which :—

Many are the men and countries that I saw.

131 And which, but which— As the Relative itself is like a conjunction, it is wrong to use and or but before which except to join two clauses adjectival to the same antecedent :

I have seen the picture, which you have painted and which is very lifelike. I went to his house, which is far away from the town but which can be reached easily by motor car.

But it is wrong to write :

He asked me to go there, but which I refused.

There was a shower of rain, and which confined us indoors.

132 As is a Relative Pronoun when it comes after the same, such, as much, as many, and is applied to both persons and things :

This is the same book as that. Only such boys as have passed need apply. I give him as much (or, as many) as he required.

Note

As is not always a Relative Pronoun whenever it comes after another as.

Thus, in ‘Come as soon as you can’, ‘I shall work as hard as possible’, the second as is a Conjunctive Adverb.

133 As is sometimes used independently as a Relative Pronoun for an unexpressed Antecedent to be gathered from the main sentence : This is true, as (= a thing which) I said before. Mr Bose, as (= which fact) is well-known, is a rich man.

134 The same is also followed by that : This is the same book that I lost.

Note

Rules for the use of “that” or “as” after “the same” :—

¹(a) Where the verb is expressed after it, we may use both as and that : This is the same book as (or, that) I lost.

¹But A.B.C. of English Usage condemns the use of that after same even in such cases, and asserts that same should always be followed by as.

(b) But when the verb is understood, we always use as : This is the same book as mine.

Note

The use of who or which after same and such is coming into vogue ; but it is better for students to avoid it.

(135) But is used as a Relative Pronoun when it means that not (যে না). As it has a negative sense, and is used after a negative word, it is sometimes called a Negative Relative : There is no man but (who not) wishes to be happy.

(136) Relative Pronouns agree in number, gender and person with their antecedents.

I who am your master say so. You are the person (or persons) who is (or are) guilty. This is the lady that lost her ring. It is useless to me who am ill.

(137) Omission of a Relative Pronoun— The Relative Pronoun is often omitted when it is the object of a verb or of a preposition. He is the man (whom) I saw. The book (which or that) I bought is lost. I know the day (on which) he came.

(138) A noun or pronoun in the Possessive Case should not be used as the antecedent to a Relative Pronoun (Possessive case-এর কোন noun বা pronoun কখনও Relative Pronoun-এর antecedent হইতে পারে না). Thus, instead of writing, "I went to the man's house who is my friend," we should write, "I went to the house of the man who is my friend."

E EXERCISE 14

(a) Join the following sentences with Relative Pronouns :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. I know the boy. He did it. | 10. A boy came to me. His name I do not know. |
| 2. The book is lost. I bought it. | 11. I shall tell it to Ram. You know him. |
| 3. Delhi is the capital of India. It is an old city. | 12. A boy came to me. I had never seen him before. |
| 4. This is the girl. You helped her. | 13. This is a nice pen. I bought it yesterday. |
| 5. You gave me a pen. It is a good one. | 14. The doctor prescribed a medicine for me. I have bought it. |
| 6. Here is the book. You lost it. | 15. I have got the thing. I wanted it badly. |
| 7. I helped the men. Their houses were burnt down. | 16. You must obey me. I am your superior. |
| 8. You have taught me a lesson. I shall not forget it. | 17. The cows are returning home. They were grazing in the field. |
| 9. These are your friends. They have come to see you. | 18. Our Headmaster is respected by all. There he goes. |

(b) Point out the Relative Pronouns and their Antecedents :—

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. The book which I bought is lost. | 12. This is the book you gave me. |
| 2. My father, whom you saw, will come tomorrow. | 13. Where is the boy I sent to you ? |
| 3. Delhi which is the capital of India is an old city. | 14. He is a scholar who has won great fame. |
| 4. Do you know the girl who came here ? | 15. The dog that saw the fox ran after it. |
| 5. Patanaik whom you know is the owner of the house that you saw. | 16. There goes our Headmaster who is respected by all. |
| 6. This is the same book as I want. | 17. There is no mother but loves her child. |
| 7. Such water as we found was impure. | 18. The people, who are poor, begged for help. |
| 8. Attend to what I tell you. | 19. This is what we all want. |
| 9. It is the best novel I have ever read. | 20. Bring me the book that is on the table. |
| 10. There is none here but knows me. | 21. I know none but was aware of it. |
| 11. She is the only girl that was present. | |

(c) Fill in the blanks :—

1. Such boys — were absent will be punished.
2. Only such things are wanted — will help us.
3. This is the boy — I saw there.
4. This is the girl — told me the story.
5. I am sorry for the boy — brother is dead.
6. I am sorry for the boy — failed in the examination.
7. There is no man — does not wish to be happy.
8. The same person — helped me once will help me again.
9. He is the most wicked person — ever lived.
10. He is the only man — knows the truth.
11. What is it — you want ?
12. The shepherd and the dog — were on the hill were killed by the tiger.
13. It is the best thing — may be had.
14. She is the only girl — can do it.
15. Give me any pencil — you can spare.
16. Many were the men — I saw.
17. Many were the men and countries — I saw.
18. This is true, — I said before.
19. I who — your master tell you this.
20. You are the person who — to blame.
21. You are the persons who — to blame.
22. I am the man who — done the work.
23. It is I who — guilty.
24. He knows us who — his neighbours.
25. It is too difficult for me who — a mere boy.
26. It is I who — responsible for this.
27. It is you who — responsible for this.
28. It is they who — responsible for this.

Interrogative Pronouns

(139) Interrogative Pronouns who, which, what with whose and whom, ask question :— Who are you ? Whom do you want ? What do you want ? Which is the house ?

They are also used to ask indirect questions : Tell me what you want. I asked who he was.

(140) Difference in use :

(a) Who is applied to persons, and is indefinite : Who goes there (i.e., the person is not known) ?

(b) Which is applied to both persons and things, and refers to one out of a group : Which of these do you want ?

(c) What is applied to things, and a person's profession : What do you want ? What is he ? He is a doctor.

(141) Note carefully the following distinctions :—

Who is he ? — enquires about the name or parentage of the person.

The answer should be of the form— He is Sri Ramesh Chandra Bose ; or He is Ramesh, my son ; or He is Ramesh, of whom I spoke to you.

What is he ? — enquires about the profession or social status (পেশা বা পদ কি ?). The answer should be of the form— He is a lawyer or a teacher.

Which is he ? — wants him to be pointed out from a definite group (সম্মুখে উপস্থিত দলের মধ্যে কোন জন ?). The answer should be of the form— He is the man on the extreme right, or with a black shirt on, etc.

(142) The Interrogative what is often used in exclamation in the sense of 'how great' : What folly ! What a clever boy you are !

(143) What not is placed after an enumeration, almost in the sense of 'etc.' : He took with him books, paper, scissors, and what not (= what else did he not take ?) — Rowe and Webb.

E EXERCISE 15

Fill in the blanks with Interrogative Pronouns :—

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. — do you see there?
 2. — is the name of the boy?
 3. — are the things in your bag?
 4. — is the best girl here?
 5. — will he vote for?
 6. — of the men there is your friend?
 7. — is that man there?
 8. — is he, — a pleader or a teacher?
 9. — are your things here?
 10. — do you consider wrong?
 11. — of these things you prefer?
 12. — were you speaking to?
 13. — is the man, an engineer? | 14. — of these pens is yours?
 15. Of — are they talking?
 16. — shall you do now?
 17. With — did you go there?
 18. — material is the toy made of?
 19. — is to be blamed for this?
 20. — of the boys took part in the drama?
 21. To — did you give the book?
 22. — are you speaking to?
 23. — shall you do now?
 24. — pen do you want, — the red one or the green one?
 25. — shall I choose, Partha or Sandip? |
|---|--|

Distributive Pronouns

144 Each, either and neither are called Distributive Pronouns because they separate one person or thing from a group.

145 Either and neither are always used of two persons or things. Either means (i) each of *two*¹ : Either will do. (ii) One or other of two : Either of you may go. Neither = not either : Neither of them was present.

146 (a) Each is used of any number, say, two or fifty : Each of the two or ten boys was fined.

(b) Each is always singular if it has no antecedent : Each has his own ideas.

(c) When the antecedent is plural, each also is plural : The boys each have done their works ; we each (they each) have done our (have done their) works—F.T. Wood.

147 Distributive Pronouns take singular pronouns and verbs : Neither of them is ill. Each of the girls has done her work.

Reflexive and Emphatic Pronouns

148 Reflexive and Emphatic Pronouns are formed by adding -self to my, your, him, her, it and -selves to our, your, them :— myself, yourself, himself, herself, itself, ourselves, yourselves, themselves.

¹“The sense each of the two, as in the room has a fireplace at either end, is archaic, and should be avoided except in verse or in special contexts”—MEU. But Sir Ernest Gowers writes in The Complete Plain Words, “Its use in the sense of each of two is common, and there does not seem to be any ground for Fowler’s dictum.”

(149) Though the same in form they are different in use :

(i) They are Reflexive when the doer is both the subject and the object of the action expressed by the verb :

I hurt myself. He lost himself. They hurt themselves.

(ii) They are Emphatic when used with nouns or pronouns for the sake of emphasis :

"I myself saw the man" and "I saw the man himself" are more emphatic than "I saw the man."

(iii) Sometimes the Emphatic Pronoun is separated from the preceding noun or pronoun :

I did it for myself.

Note

(a) Emphatic Pronouns can never stand alone as subjects. Hence it is incorrect to write :— "His brother and myself were present." "Myself will do it." But we can write, "His brother and I myself were present." "I myself will do it." (See Art. 474).

(b) "An Emphatic Pronoun may refer to a person who is not the doer of the action, e.g., I saw the minister himself; whereas a Reflexive Pronoun invariably denotes a person who is the doer as well as the person affected by the action, e.g., The boy hid himself inside the bush (obj. of a verb). Lila looked at herself in the mirror (obj. of a preposition.) He thinks little of himself (obj. of a preposition).

(150) Difference between Reflexive and Emphatic Pronouns :—

An Emphatic Pronoun is generally (except when separated, as stated above) in apposition with another word. In the examples given in Art. 149(ii) myself and himself are in apposition with I and man respectively. A Reflexive Pronoun never stands in this relation : it refers to the subject, but is never itself in the nominative case.

E EXERCISE 16

(a) Fill in the blanks with verbs :—

- | | |
|------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1. Each of them — got a prize. | 4. Neither of the things — good. |
| 2. Either of these — acceptable. | 5. Each of them — come with books. |
| 3. Neither of the girls — present. | 6. Neither of them — done the work. |

(b) Say whether the Pronouns with 'self' or 'selves' below are Reflexive or Emphatic :—

- | | |
|----------------------------------|---|
| 1. I hurt myself. | 8. Do not praise yourself so much. |
| 2. He himself was present there. | 9. I do not like it myself. |
| 3. I myself know it. | 10. He talked of himself for a long time. |
| 4. I know myself. | 11. What do you know about yourself ? |
| 5. I know it myself. | 12. The poor animal will hurt itself. |
| 6. He will do it himself. | 13. He availed himself of the leave. |
| 7. He gave himself much trouble. | 14. They themselves were present there. |
| | 15. Do it yourself. |

Indefinite Pronouns

(151) Indefinite Pronouns do not point out any particular person or thing, like the Demonstrative, but refer to persons or things in a general manner (কোন বিশেষ ব্যক্তি বা বস্তুকে না বুঝাইয়া সাধারণভাবে কোন ব্যক্তি বা বস্তুকে বুঝায়). They are any, one, none, aught, naught, other, another, several, many, few, all, some, they.

Note

(a) Most of these are also used as Adjectives :— Any man can do it. Some men came to me. I saw another boy.

(b) One, body, and thing are sometimes compounded with Indefinite Pronouns, which are then called Compound Indefinite Pronouns : anyone, nothing, anything, anybody, etc. In any one, any is an adjective, and one is the numeral : Any one of them will do.

(152) Any, as a Pronoun, is used only in interrogative and negative sentences. It may be both singular and plural and may refer to both persons and things.

Have you seen any man (or men), or dog (or dogs) there? No, I have not seen any. I want a few chairs; can you give me any?

(153) Some, as a Pronoun, is plural, and may be used for both persons and things : Some say, he will come. He has many books; some are new, some old.

(154) One — As an Indefinite Personal Pronoun, one is always followed by one, one's and one (in the nominative, possessive, and objective), and not by he, his, and him. Thus :—

One must do one's duty. One does not know when one will die.

Note

When every or no stands before one, use he, his or him after it. Everyone did his duty. No one knows when he will die.

(155) None— “It is a mistake to suppose that the pronoun is singular only and must at all costs be followed by singular verbs, etc; the Oxford Dictionary explicitly states that plural construction is commoner.” —MEU. “None of them is or are, according to sense..... None of this concerns me None but fools have ever believed it.” — (COD).

(156) Others— always refers to persons, and not things. In the latter case, other things or etc. is used. Thus we say, “Dutta, Bose, Patel and others were present”; but we cannot say, “Idleness, luxury, extravagance and others were his ruin.”

It can, however, be used of things, only when the things already mentioned have been specially defined; as, The mangoes that you gave me and others (= other mangoes) also are exhausted.

(157) They is used indefinitely in the sense of people generally. They (people in general) say a war will break out.

(158) Many and few are sometimes used as substantive pronouns : Many are called, but few are chosen.

Reciprocal Pronouns

(159) Each other is generally used when two are referred to, one another when more than two are referred to : Dutt and Sharma struck each other. The boys fought with one another.

But “This differentiation is neither of present utility nor based on historical usage." — MEU. See also Wood. In fact this distinction is not observed even by the best writers.

E EXERCISE 17

Point out the Pronouns in the following sentences, and classify them. In the case of Relative pronouns, point out their Antecedents also.

1. Whose book is this?
2. This is the book which I bought last year.
3. Who is to help you when you return home?
4. They say the king who was ill has come round.
5. The dog that I saw in the street is his.
6. They played with one another.
7. Few have seen a book like it.
8. I cannot allow such behaviour as this.
9. Whoever wants to pass must attend to what his teacher says.
10. Who is he that is standing at the gate?
11. What is the meaning of this?
12. I myself saw the man.
13. I saw the man myself.
14. He cut himself with the knife which I had given him.
15. I shall avail myself of the leave.
16. He asked who I was.
17. There is none but wishes to be happy.
18. One must do one's duty.

CHAPTER XII

VERBS—Principal and Auxiliary

160 Verbs are divided into two main classes :—

(a) When a verb is used independently, it is called a Principal Verb : call, go, work, etc.

(b) When a verb is used only to help some other verb to form voices, moods and tenses, it is called an Auxiliary Verb (auxiliary = helping). The only verbs that can be so used are can (POD and COD), be, have, shall, will, may, do.

161 Most of the Auxiliary Verbs may also be used as Principal Verbs :

Auxiliary

I am helped by him.
He has gone.
We eat that we may live.
He does not know it.
I shall do it.
He will do it.

Principal

I am happy.
He has a dog.
You may go.
He did it.
You shall do it.
I will do it.

Note

(a) Let also is an "auxiliary supplying 1st and 3rd persons of an imperative in exhortations (let us play), commands (let it be done at once), assumptions (let AB = CD), and permissions (let him do this work)" — POD.

(b) Some regard can as a principal verb, with the Infinitive without to following it as its object. He can do (= to do) it. She can (to) sing. But both POD and COD treat it as an Auxiliary only.

162) Principal Verbs are divided into two classes :—

(a) Transitive verbs are those that require an object to make the sense clear : He did this. I love him. Who made it ?

Note

Some transitive verbs (like tell, teach, ask, show, give, send, etc.) take two objects, Direct and Indirect. [See Art. 61(a)].

(b) Intransitive verbs are those that do not require any object to make the sense clear : He sleeps. I run. Birds fly.

163) Causative Verbs are intransitive verbs used transitively in the sense of causing a thing to be done. A few intransitive verbs have different forms to express the causative idea ; as, set for sit, fell for fall, etc.

Intransitive	Transitive (Causal)
Don't move .	Move the table.
Birds fly .	He flies (উড়ায়) a kite.
Water boils .	Boil this water.
Rise early.	Raise your hands.
The tree falls .	He fells the tree with an axe.
Sit here.	Set (বসাইয়া দেওয়া) the lamp here.
Lie still.	Lay (রাখা) it here.
Rice grows here.	He grows rice in this field.

164) Factitive Verbs are Transitive Verbs of Incomplete Predication. They are usually of naming, making and thinking and require some other word or words besides their objects to complete the sense (এই Transitive Verb-গুলি শুধু object দ্বারা পূর্ণ অর্থ প্রকাশ করে না, অন্য word-এর দরকার হয়) : He called me a fool. They made him king.

Note

The word or words that are required to complete the sense are called Complements.

165) Copulative Verbs are Intransitive Verbs of Incomplete Predication, requiring some other word or words besides the predicate verb to complete the sense (এই Intransitive Verb-গুলি অন্য word ভিন্ন পূর্ণ অর্থ প্রকাশ করে না) : He is ill. She seems tired.

166) Quasi-Passive Verbs are verbs used in the Active Voice with a Passive force : Rice sells (= is sold) cheap. This fruit tastes sweet (= is sweet when it is tasted). (See Art. 205).

167) Subjective Complements :— Complements of Intransitive and Passive verbs relate to the Subject and are called Subjective Complements : He is a fool. I was made president.

Note

The common intransitive verbs requiring such complements are the verbs to be, become, seem, appear, remain, look, grow : He is angry with me. He became alert. You seem displeased. He looks miserable. He remains discontented. He grew up quite healthy.

The verbs to be, look, grow, remain, become, etc., can also be used as verbs of complete predication : God is. Look at me. This plant will not grow. Remain there. Such a conduct does not become you.

168) Objective Complements :— Complements of Transitive and Active verbs relate to the Object and are called Objective Complements : I struck him dead. I saw him go.

Note

Verbs of naming (name, call, term, etc.), making (make, create, appoint, etc.) and thinking (think, consider, suppose, believe, etc.), generally take objective complements : He called me a fool. We named him Ramesh. He made me miserable. They appointed (or elected) me chairman. I consider him honest. He thinks the man spiteful.

The objective complement may be used after other verbs too : I cut him short. He bought the house new. He painted the house red.

(169) Prepositional or Group Verbs are verbs which, grouped with prepositions, are used as single transitive verbs : He laughed at them. He acted on this rule.

(170) A Transitive verb becomes Intransitive when

(a) The verb is used in such a general sense that the object can be easily understood from the context : Fire burns. We eat to live.

(b) The reflexive pronoun is omitted : Move (yourself) aside. He keeps (himself) aloof. He drew (himself) near me.

(c) An Adverb is added to the verb : Cholera has broken out.

(d) The verb is used quasi-passively : Rice sells cheap.

(171) An Intransitive verb becomes Transitive when it is used

(a) Grouped with prepositions : He laughs at me. We act on this rule.

(b) In a causal sense : He flies (causes to fly) a kite. I grow (cause to grow) corn in my field. (See Art. 163).

(c) With over and with placed before it : We withstood the attack. He overcame the difficulties.

(d) With a Reflexive or Personal object : They sat them down.

(e) With a Cognate object : He ran a race.

Note

There are five different forms of the cognate object :—

(i) Strictly cognate, both in form and in meaning : He lived a happy life. He dreamt a dream. We sang a song.

(ii) Strictly cognate in meaning, but not in form : He went a long way. They fought a battle.

(iii) Partially cognate, containing a noun descriptive of the cognate noun understood : They shouted applause (= shouted a shout of applause). He ran a great risk (= a course of great risk). He had to grope his way (= make his way by groping).

(iv) An adjective qualifying the cognate noun understood : He did his best (doing). He breathed his last (breath). He tried his hardest (trial or attempt).

(v) Cognate noun expressed by "it" : We must fight it (= the fight) out. They lorded it (= acted the part of the lord) over us.

E EXERCISE 18

(a) Pick out the verbs and state whether they are Transitive or Intransitive. In case of Transitive Verbs, pick out the objects :—

1. I know the boy who is there.
2. The sun shines in the sky and gives us light.
3. He went home and gave a doll to his sister.
4. Put the lamp on the table.
5. He came yesterday and finished the work.
6. The boy hurt himself.
7. Tell the truth if you would win respect.
8. The horse can run fast.
9. He cut his finger with a knife.
10. He told me the story.
11. Cows eat grass.
12. The teacher rebuked her for she had not done her lesson.
13. Everybody loves a good boy.
14. He lived a long life.
15. The tiger killed a goat and carried it away.

(b) In the following examples, pick out the verbs, complements, and objects :—

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|--|
| 1. I saw Ram go home. | 13. He is flying a kite. |
| 2. He has a pen to write with. | 14. I have no time. |
| 3. I ran a race. | 15. He has done his best, but I have done nothing. |
| 4. I made him prisoner. | 16. I like a fool to be punished. |
| 5. I played the fool. | 17. They found me asleep. |
| 6. He fought his best. | 18. He did me a great kindness. |
| 7. He laughed a loud laugh. | 19. They laughed at me. |
| 8. It blows a heavy gale. | 20. Strike the snake dead. |
| 9. Rice sells very dear. | 21. He was selected captain. |
| 10. This fruit tastes sweet. | 22. This was told me by him. |
| 11. Your argument hears very sound. | 23. They found him guilty. |
| 12. Fare thee well. | |

CHAPTER XIII

TENSES

(172) The Tense is the change of form in a verb to express the time of an action. There are three principal tenses :—

(a) The Present Tense describes an action in the present time :

I go. He writes. They are playing.

(b) The Past Tense describes an action in the past time :

He wrote. They were playing.

(c) The Future Tense describes an action in the future time :

I shall go. He will write. They will be playing.

(173) Each of these principal tenses has four forms :— Indefinite, Continuous, Perfect, Perfect Continuous.

(174) The Present Indefinite (or Simple Present) Tense is used to refer to :

(a) A universal or general truth (নিত্য সত্য বুবাইতে) : The earth is round. Honey is sweet. Honesty is the best policy.

(b) An habitual or permanent action (অভ্যাস বুবাইতে) : He works hard. This watch keeps good time. He takes bath in the Ganga everyday.

(c) A future action, when the futurity is indicated by the context (নির্দিষ্ট ভবিষ্যত কালের ক্রিয়া বুবাইতে) : He will go home when you come. The school closes on the 15th.

(নির্দিষ্ট ভবিষ্যত = Present Indefinite)

Note

This usage is common with verbs of motion : Come, go, start, return, etc.

(d) Past events in order to make the narrative more vivid (অতীত ঘটনাকে উজ্জ্বল করিয়া প্রকাশ করিতে). This is called the Historic or Graphic Present : Alexander now rushes upon the enemy.

(e) A present action (বর্তমান ক্রিয়া বুবাইতে) : It rains. How he walks.

Note

But more often, the present continuous tense is used in such cases : It is raining. He is walking. See Art. 175 below.

(f) Quotations from authors (কোন গ্রন্থকারের লেখা উদ্ধৃত হইয়াছে বুঝাইতে) : Goldsmith says, "Handsome is that handsome does."

(g) The present perfect tense (এইমাত্র কাজটি হইল বুঝাইতে) : I hear (= have heard) he is ill. I am told (= have been told) that he will come.

Note

- (a) If the subject is in the third person, singular number, add s or es to the verb.
 (b) In all other cases the main verb is used straight away.

(175) The Present Continuous Tense expresses :

(a) (i) An action going on at present (কাজটি বর্তমানে চলিতেছে বুঝাইতে) : I am writing. He is sleeping.

(ii) A future action (আসন্ন ভবিষ্যত কালের ক্রিয়া বুঝাইতে) : I am going there tomorrow.

(b) This tense is not generally used with verbs of perception or verbs denoting a feeling or emotion, or verbs of knowing, thinking, etc., such as, believe, feel, hear, hope, know, like, love, see, understand, want, wish, wonder. Other verbs not used in this tense-form are belong, consist, contain, matter, possess, resemble, etc. Thus,

I feel (not, am feeling) unwell. I hope for the best. I wish you success. I want a pen. It matters little. I wonder where he is. This picture resembles that.

But am feeling, is looking are now used even by good writers.

Look at the following sentences :

Sentence structure : Subject + am/is/are + verb + ing

I am going.

We are going.

You are going.

You (pl.) are going.

He is going.

They are going.

Note

- (a) In this tense, the verb takes 'ing' after it.
 (b) Before the verb, use 'am' if the subject is 'I', and 'is' if the subject is in the third person, singular number (he, she, it, Amal, etc.). In all other cases use 'are'.
 (c) Verbs ending in 'e' drop 'e' before taking 'ing' :
 He is coming (come + ing).
 The sun is rising (rise + ing).

(176) The Present Perfect Tense is used :

(a) To express an action just finished (কাজটি এইমাত্র শেষ হইয়াছে বুঝাইতে) : I have done my duty. The sun has set.

(b) To express a past action the results of which still continue (কাজটি পূর্বে শেষ হইলেও ফল এখনও চলিতেছে বুঝাইতে) : I have done a great wrong (i.e., I am still suffering from the consequences of my doing the wrong). He has been laborious (i.e., He is now reaping the fruits of his laborious habits).

(c) To express an action done in a space of time not yet gone out fully (কাজের সময়টি এখনও চলিতেছে বুঝাইতে) : I have been laborious from my boyhood (i.e., am laborious still).

(d) To express a future perfect when preceded by when, before, after, as soon as, etc. : I shall go there after (or when) I have finished the work.

Note

(a) The Present Perfect Tense form of some intransitive verbs signifying motion or change, as, go, come, set, rise, etc., is sometimes formed with the verb be : He is gone. The sun is set. The moon is risen.

(b) As the Present Perfect denotes the present time, it cannot be qualified by an adverb or phrase denoting past time : He died (not, has died) last night. I came (not, have come) here yesterday.

Look at the following sentences :

Sentence structure : Subject + has/have + verb (Past Participle form)

I have done it.	We have done it.
You have done it.	You (pl.) have done it.
He has done it.	They have done it.
He has gone away.	They have gone away.
I have called him.	We have called him.

Note

In this tense, if the subject is in the third person, singular number use 'has', and in all other cases use 'have', before the Past Participle form of the verb.

(177) The Present Perfect Continuous Tense expresses that the action has been going on for some time and is not finished yet (ক্রিয়াটি পূর্বে আরম্ভ হইয়া এখনও চলিতেছে বুঝাইতেছে) :

I have been doing this for six months. It has been raining since Monday last.

Look at the following sentences :

Sentence structure : Subject + has/have + been + verb + ing

He has been living here for a long time.
I/You have been suffering from cold since Friday last.

Note

(a) In this tense, the verb takes 'ing' after it and it is preceded by "has been" if the subject is in the third person, singular number, and by "have been" in all other cases.

(b) 'For' refers to a 'period of time' and 'since' refers to a 'point of time' in the past.

(178) The Past Indefinite (or Simple Past) Tense is used to denote :

(a) A single act in the past (অতীত ক্রিয়া বুঝাইতে) : I did it.

(b) An action actually going on in the past : "While they danced (= were dancing) we sang (= were singing)."

(c) An habitual action in the past (অতীত অভ্যাস বুঝাইতে) : He studied (= used to study) hard. He held his class here.

Note

We also sometimes use the Past Indefinite—

(a) To denote an action begun a short time before and perhaps continued up to the time of speaking (কাজটি অল্প পূর্বে আরম্ভ হইয়া এখনও চলিতেছে, এই অর্থে) : I came (= have come) to ask you to vote for Mr. Dutta.

(b) As a polite or deprecatory form of address (বিনয় বা তিরস্কার বুঝাইতে) : Could (= can) you please tell me the time? Was (= is) this the sort of thing you wanted? — Tipping.

(179) The Past Continuous Tense denotes that an action was going on in the past (কাজটি অতীতকালে চলিতেছিল বুঝাইতে) : He was reading when I saw him. They were playing football.

Look at the following sentences :

Sentence structure : Subject + was/were + verb + ing

I was reading .	We were reading .
You were reading .	You (pl.) were reading .
He was reading .	They were reading .
The boy was sleeping .	The girls were dancing .

Note

(a) In this tense the verb takes 'ing' after it.

(b) Before the verb, use 'was' for singular subjects in the first and third persons and 'were' for all other cases.

(180) The Past Perfect Tense expresses an action complete before another past action (কোন অতীত ক্রিয়ার পূর্বে আর একটি ক্রিয়া সম্পন্ন হইলে অধিকতর অতীত ক্রিয়াটি বুঝাইতে) : He had left before I came. The train had started before I reached the station.

Note

- (a) In this tense, use 'had' before the past participle form of the verb.
 (b) If the sentence contains "before" or "after", the Past Perfect Tense stands before "before" but after "after". As an aid to memory, boys may remember, "Before before, after after". He had come before I did. He left after I *had gone away*¹.

(181) The Past Perfect Continuous Tense denotes that an action had been going on at or before some point of time in the past (একটি অতীতকালের পূর্ব হইতে আর একটি কাজ চলিতেছিল এই অর্থে অধিকতর অতীত কালটি বুঝাইতে) : I had been working when he came. He had been suffering from fever before he came here.

Sentence structure : Subject + had been + verb + ing

Note

In this tense, the verb takes 'ing' after it and is preceded by 'had been'. The form is the same for both singular and plural in all persons.

(182) The Future Indefinite Tense denotes an action that will happen in the future (ভবিষ্যতে কোন কাজ হইবে বুঝাইতে) : I shall do it. He will go home.

Look at the following sentences :

Sentence structure : Subject + will/shall + verb

I shall go .	We shall go .
You will go .	You (pl.) will go .
He will go .	They will go .
He will come .	We shall sing .

Note

In this tense, the verb is preceded by 'shall' in the first person (I, we) and 'will' in the second (you) and third (he, she, it) persons, both in singular and plural.

(183) The Future Continuous Tense represents an action as going on at some future time (ভবিষ্যতে কোন কাজ চলিতে থাকিবে বুঝাইতে) : I shall be sleeping at that time. He will be doing it.

Sentence structure : Subject + shall/will + be + verb + ing

Note

In this tense, the verb takes 'ing' after it and it is preceded by 'shall be' in the first person and 'will be' in the second and third persons, both in singular and plural.

(184) The Future Perfect Tense denotes that an action will be completed at some point of time in the future (ভবিষ্যতে দুটি কাজের মধ্যে অধিকতর অতীত কালটি বুঝাইতে) : He will have done this before you come (= will come). But see Art. 335, Para 3.

Look at the following sentences :

Sentence Structure : Subject + shall/will + have + verb (Past Participle form)

I shall have gone there before you come. They will have finished the work before you reach. We will have met him before he leaves.

Note

(a) In this tense, the Past Participle form of the verb is preceded by "shall have" in the first person and "will have" in the second and third persons, both in the singular and plural.

(b) The modern use is to write the above three sentences as :

I shall go there before you come.
 They will finish the work before you reach.
 We will meet him before he leaves.

N.B. The Future Perfect Continuous Tense is no longer in practical use, and hence not treated here.

¹But the modern tendency is to use the Past Indefinite tense even for Past Perfect. COD has 'This was after he became famous' under after. See also under before there.

CONJUGATION

[To conjugate a verb is to show its chief parts. In a wider sense it means all the forms to denote Mood, Tense, Voice, Number and Person. But the chief parts of a verb are the Present, the Past and the Past Participle; all other parts can be easily formed from them.]

(185) Verbs are divided into two classes according to the way in which they form their Past Tense and Past Participle :—

(a) Strong Verbs are those that form their Past Tense by changing an inside vowel of the Present, but never by the addition of suffix (কেবল ভিতরের কোন vowel পরিবর্তন করিয়া যে সকল verbs-এর Past Tense হয় তাহারা strong verbs). The Past Participle may, however, sometimes end in en or n :

Sing, sang, sung; Drive, drove, driven.

(b) Weak Verbs are those that form their Past Tense by adding -d or -t, with or without a change of the inside vowel (যে সকল verb-এর শেষে d, t যোগ করিয়া Past Tense হয়, তাহারা weak verbs.):

Leap, leaped, leaped; Dream, dreamt, dreamt.

Note

(a) Formerly Strong verbs were called Irregular, and Weak verbs were called Regular. But these names are misleading and have been given up now.

(b) "Some weak verbs seem to belong to the strong conjugation, because they change the vowel; as, teach, taught; seek, sought; say, said; but they are weak because they add -d or -t for the past tense."

(186) Some weak verbs ending in -d or -t in the Present Tense :

(i) Have the same form in three tenses : cut, cut, cut; cost, cost, cost; hit, hit, hit; let, let, let; put, put, put.

(ii) Change the -d of the Present into -t in the Past and the Past Participle : bend, bent, bent; build, built, built; lend, lent, lent; sent, send, sent; spend, spent, spent; etc.

(iii) Only shorten the vowel in the Past Tense and the Past Participle : bleed, bled, bled; feed, fed, fed; meet, met, met.

The decisive mark of the strong conjugation is, therefore, not the vowel change, but the absence of the suffix "d" or "t" in the Past Tense.

(187) Conjugation of a few verbs :

Present	Past	Past Participle
Abide, থাকা, মানিয়া চলা	abode, abided	abode, abided
Arise, ওঠা	arose	arisen
Ask, জিজ্ঞাসা করা	asked	asked
Awake (1), জাগা, জাগান	awoke	awoke, awaked
Be	was, were	been
Bear (to carry), বহন করা	bore	borne
Bear (to give birth to), প্রসব করা	bore	born
Beat, প্রহার করা	beat	beaten
Become	became	become

(1) But see Art. 188 Note (c).

Present	Past	Past Participle
Befall, ঘট	befell	befallen
Beget, জন্ম দেওয়া	begot	begotten, begot
Begin, আরম্ভ হওয়া	began	begun
Bend, বাঁকান	bent	bent, bended
Bid (command, offer), আদেশ করা, নিলামে ডাকা	bade, bid (1)	bidden, bid (1)
Bind, বাঁধা	bound	bound, bounden
Bite, কামড়ান	bit	bitten, bit
Bleed, রক্তপাত করা	bled	bled
Blow, ফুঁ দেওয়া	blew	blown
Break, ভাঙ্গা	broke	broken
Breed, প্রসব করা	bred	bred
Bring, আনা	brought	brought
Build, তৈরী করা	built	built
Burn, পোড়ান	burnt (2)	burnt (2)
Burst, ফেটে পড়া	burst	burst
Buy, কেনা	bought	bought
Call, ডাকা	called	called
Can, পারা	could	could
Cast, ছাঁচে ঢালা	cast	cast
Catch, ধরা	caught	caught
Chide (to rebuke), তিরস্কার করা	chid	chidden, chid
Choose, পছন্দ করা	chose	chosen
Cling, লাগিয়া থাকা	clung	clung
Clothe, পোষাক পরান	clothed, clad	clothed, clad
Come, আসা	came	come
Cost, দাম হওয়া	cost	cost
Creep, হামাগুড়ি দেওয়া	crept	crept
Cry, কাঁদা	cried	cried
Cut, কাটা	cut	cut
Dare (to venture), সাহস করা	dared, durst	dared
Dare (to challenge), দ্বন্দ্ব আহ্বান করা	dared	dared
Deal, আচরণ করা	dealt	dealt
Die, মরা	died	died
Dig, গর্ত করা	dug	dug
Do, করা	did	done
Draw, আঁকা	drew	drawn

(1) "In the auction sense, the past and p.p. are both bid (He bid up to £ 10 ; Nothing was bid). In other senses, the past is ... bade ... the p.p. is bidden, but bid is preferred in some phrases, esp. Do as you are bid." —MEU.

(2) "Occasionally 'burned'—COD. "Burnt is the usual form, esp. in the p.p. : burned tends to disappear." —MEU.

Present	Past	Past Participle
Dream, স্বপ্ন দেখা	dreamed, dreamt	dreamed, dreamt
Drink, পান করা	drank	drunk, drunken
Drive, চালানো	drove	driven
Dwell, বাস করা	dwelt	dwelt
Eat, খাওয়া	ate	eaten
Fall, পতিত হওয়া	fell	fallen
Feed, খাওয়ানো	fed	fed
Feel, বোধ করা	felt	felt
Fell (to cause to fall), ফেলে দেওয়া	felled	felled
Fight, যুদ্ধ করা	fought	fought
Find, খুঁজিয়া পাওয়া	found	found
Flee, পলায়ন করা	fled	fled
Fling, নিক্ষেপ করা	flung	flung
Flow, স্রোত বহা	flowed	flowed
Fly, উড়া	flew	flown
Forbid, নিষেধ করা	forbade	forbidden
Forget, ভুলে যাওয়া	forgot	forgotten
Forgive, ক্ষমা করা	forgave	forgiven
Forsake (to abandon), ত্যাগ করা	forsook	forsaken
Found (to establish), স্থাপন করা	founded	founded
Freeze, জমাট করা	froze	frozen
Get, পাওয়া	got	got, gotten
Gilt, গিল্টি করা	gilt, gilded	gilt, gilded (1)
Give, দেওয়া	gave	given
Go, যাওয়া	went	gone
Grave (to engrave), খোদাই করা	graved	graved, graven
Grind, গুড়ো করা	ground	ground
Grow, জন্মান, বৃদ্ধি পাওয়া	grew	grown
Hang (to suspend), ঝুলান	hung	hung
Hang (to take life by hanging), ফাঁসিতে ঝুলান	hanged	hanged
Hear, শোনা	heard	heard
Help, সাহায্য করা	helped	helped
Hide, লুকান	hid	hid, hidden
Hit, আঘাত করা	hit	hit
Hold, ধরা	held	held

(1) "p.p. usu, gilded in the fully verbal use and in fig. use as adj., gilt as adj. in lit. sense"—
COD.

Present	Past	Past Participle
Hurt, আহত করা	hurt	hurt
Keep, রাখা	kept	kept
Kneel, হাঁটু গাড়িয়া বসা	knelt	knelt
Know, জানা	knew	known
Lay (to put), রাখা	laid	laid
Lead, পথ দেখানো, নেতৃত্ব দেওয়া	led	led
Lean, ঝোঁকা	leant, leaned	leant, leaned
Learn, শেখা	learnt, learned	learnt, learned
Leave, ত্যাগ করা	left	left
Lend, ধার দেওয়া	lent	lent
Lie (to rest), থাকা	lay	lain
Lie (to speak falsely), মিথ্যা বলা	lied	lied
Light, জ্বালান, অবতরণ করা	lighted, lit	lighted, lit (1)
Loose, ঢিলা করা	loosed	loosed
Lose, হারান	lost	lost
Make, তৈরী করা	made	made
Mean	meant	meant
Meet, সাক্ষাৎ করা	met	met
Melt, গলান	melted	melted, molten
Mow	mowed	mowed, mown
Pass, অতিক্রম করা	passed	passed, past (2)
Pay	paid	paid
Play, খেলা করা	played	played
Put	put	put
Read	read	read
Rid (make free)	rid, ridded	rid
Ride	rode	ridden
Ring, ঘণ্টা বাজান	rang	rung
Rise, উঠা	rose	risen
Run	ran	run
Saw, করাত দিয়ে কাটা	sawed	sawed, sawn
Say	said	said
See	saw	seen
Seek, খোঁজ করা	sought	sought
Sell	sold	sold
Send	sent	sent

(1) "Both verbs (kindle, descend) make lighted or lit for past tense and past participle ; but lighted is commoner for past participle, especially that of the first verb used attributively : Is the fire lighted or lit ? But, Holding a lighted candle."—MEU.

(2) When the p.p. has passed into an adjective, we use past ; but in the verbal sense we use passed.

Present	Past	Past Participle
Set	set	set
Sew, সেলাই করা	sewed	sewed, sewn (COD) (1)
Shake, কাঁপা, কাঁপান	shook	shaken
Shed, খসান, ঝরান	shed	shed
Shine	shone	shone
Shoot, গুলি করা, তীর ছোঁড়া	shot	shot
Show	showed	showed, shown
Shrink, সঙ্কুচিত হওয়া	shrank	shrank, shrunk
Shut, বন্ধ করা	shut	shut
Sing	sang	sung
Sink, ডুবা	sank	sunk, sunken
Sit	sat	sat
Slay, হত্যা করা	slew	slain
Sleep	slept	slept
Slide, গড়াইয়া যাওয়া	slid	slid
Smell	smelt	smelt
Sow, বপন করা	sowed	sown, sowed (COD) (2)
Speak	spoke	spoken
Spell	spelt	spelt
Spend	spent	spent
Spill, চলকইয়া ফেলা	spilt, spilled	spilt, spilled
Spin, সূতা কাটা	spun	spun
Spit	spat	spat
Split	split	split
Spread	spread	spread
Spring, লাফান	sprang	sprung
Stand	stood	stood
Steal	stole	stolen
Stick, লাগিয়া থাকা	stuck	stuck
Sting, ছল ফুটান	stung	stung
Stride, লম্বা লম্বা পা ফেলা	strode	stridden (rarely)
Strike, আঘাত করা	struck	struck, stricken
Strive, চেষ্টা করা	strove	striven
Swear, শপথ করা	swore	sworn
Sweep, ঝাড়ু দেওয়া	swept	swept
Swell, ফুলা, ফুলান	swelled	swelled, swollen
Swim, সাঁতার কাটা	swam	swam
Swing, দোলা	swung	swung

(1) "The first is perhaps, contrary to general belief, both the older form and ... slightly the commoner in modern English" (MEU).

(2) "But the p.p. sown is four times as frequent ... as sowed." (MEU).

Present	Past	Past Participle
Take, লওয়া	took	taken
Teach, পড়ানো	taught	taught
Tear, ছিঁড়িয়া ফেলা	tore	torn
Tell, বলা	told	told
Think, চিন্তা করা	thought	thought
Throw, নিক্ষেপ করা	threw	thrown
Thrust, ঠাক্কা দেওয়া	thrust	thrust
Tread, মাড়ান	trod	trod, trodden
(1) Wake (rise from sleep)	woke	{ waked, rarely woke or waken
(1) Wake (rouse from sleep)	waked
Wear, পরিধান করা, ক্ষয় পাওয়া	wore	worn
Weave, বুনা	wove	woven
Weep, কাঁদা	wept	wept
Wet, ভিজানো	wetted, wet	wetted, wet
Win, জয় করা	won	won
Wind (ওয়াইণ্ড) (to twist), জড়ানো	wound	wound
Work, কাজ করা	worked	worked, wrought
Wring, মোচড়ানো	wrung	wrung
Write, লিখা	wrote	written

Note

(a) The past participle forms italicised above are used chiefly as participial adjectives, and not as parts of verbs: as bended (not bent) knees; bounden (not bound) duty; drunken (not drunk) man; ill-gotten (not got) money; hidden (not hid) motive; graven (not graved) image; molten (not melted) lead; shrunken (not shrunk) limb; sunken (not sunk) eyes; famine-stricken (not struck) people.

"The forms built, burnt, dreamt, dwelt, knelt, leapt, smelt, spelt, split have established themselves, instead of the forms in -ed (builded, burned, etc.) which, though quite common in the literature of the past, are now merely the regular stock-in-trade of minor poets, or are used only in certain set expressions: 'I burned (not burnt) with indignation', 'dreamed a dream'."—Good English by G.H. Vallins.

(b) Note also the following uses:-

Thus,

A burnt (not burned) child.

He is clothed (not clad) with shame.

A lighted (not lit) candle.

Roast (not roasted) meat.

Mown (not mowed) grass.

Sown (not sowed) field.

Hewn (not hewed) stone.

A gilt (not gilded) frame.

The gilded (not gilt) hill top.

Laden (not loaded) with guilt.

Panic stricken, famine stricken.

Conscience-stricken (not struck).

But, awe-struck, thunder-struck, moon-struck, etc.

A burnt child dreads the fire. His house was burnt or burned. We prayed to him on bended knees. He is bent down with age. It is our bounden duty to help the poor. He is bound to me by ties of love. I found him drunk. I found him in a drunken state. He has got the thing. Ill-gotten wealth cannot last. The snow has melted. Red-hot molten iron came out of the furnace. Give me a lighted candle. The candle was lighted or lit. He must have some hidden motive. He kept it hidden or hid in the ground. I grieve for the past days. The time has passed away. A well was sunk there. He has sunken eyes. We crossed the shrunken stream on foot. The stream has shrunk muck. This is made of wrought iron. He worked hard to get the thing. The people were panic-stricken. The famine-stricken or malaria-stricken people left the land. He was awe-struck, or terror-struck, or thunder-struck.

(1) A.B.C. of English Usage and MEU. See also Art. 188 (c).

188 A few confusing verbs :

- (a) Lie (Intrans. — to rest, থাকা)—lay—lain
- Lie (Intrans. — to speak falsely, মিথ্যা বলা)—lied—lied
- Lay (Trans. — to put, রাখা)—laid—laid

Lie is intransitive, but lay in the present tense is transitive. So laid is transitive, and belongs to lay (রাখা) but lain is intransitive and belongs to lie (থাকা). Lay is also the past tense of lie.

Thus: It lay or has lain (not has laid) here for some time. Lay (not lie) it here. He laid or has laid (not has lain) it here. He has lain (not laid) in bed. He laid (not lay) himself down in bed. The hen has laid (not lain) two eggs. I hate him because he lies (not lays).

- (b) Strike—struck—struck, stricken
- Stroke—stroked—stroked

{ He struck me.
He stroked (patted) the cat on the back.

Also, stroke is the noun form of strike, but never its past tense.

{ He died from sun-stroke.

(c) "Awake has past awoke rarely awaked, and past participle awaked rarely awoke; wake has past woke rarely (and that usually in transitive sense) waked, and past participle waked rarely woke or waken; awaken and waken have -ed" —MEU.

(d) "Await, wait—Await is always transitive, but wait is not always intransitive. I am awaiting to hear your decision is not English; I await, and I wait, your decision are equally good." —MEU. Also I wait for you to decide, or, I wait for your decision.

(e) Carefully note the spelling and use of the words lose, loose, and loss. These are very often confused :—

- lose (verb) —cease to have, fail to obtain: I do not want to lose the money.
- loose (adj.) —free, not tied up: The box was tied loose. I always prefer loose clothes.
- (verb) —make free or loose: 'Wine loosed his tongue.'

loss (noun) —that which is lost: He suffered a great loss in the business.

(f) Carefully note the uses of the past and past participle forms of fly, flee, and flow. The common confusions are :—(i) flown for flowed. Thus, we should write, "The river has overflowed (not overflown) the banks," because flowed belongs to flow, but flown belongs to fly. (ii) Between to flee and to fly: To flee has the underlying sense of to escape, whereas to fly means to run or hurry. It is only occasionally that fly is used in the sense of flee (but in the present tense only): He is compelled to fly or flee from the country; but he fled for his life. The bird has flown (not fled or flowed) away. The man has fled (not flown) away.

189 The following verbs have no change :

Bet, burst, cast, cost, cut, hit, hurt, let, put, rid, set, shed, shut, split, spread, thrust.

190 Below is the full conjugation of the verb to love in the Indicative Mood.

		Indefinite	Continuous	Perfect	Perfect Continuous
Present	Active	I love.	I am loving.	I have loved.	I have been loving.
	Passive	I am loved.	I am being loved.	I have been loved.
Past	Active	I loved.	I was loving.	I had loved.	I had been loving.
	Passive	I was loved.	I was being loved.	I had been loved.
Future	Active	I shall love.	I shall be loving.	I shall have loved.	I shall have been loving.
	Passive	I shall be loved.	I shall be being loved. (no longer in use)	I shall have been loved.	loving. (not in use)

8. A group of officials—(go) to Europe next week. They—(attend) a conference in Hamburg. They—then—(visit) a number of other countries to enquire about trade prospects. They—(take) a few assistants with them. So I—(go) with my officer. I am sure I—(have) a very nice time there. You—(write) to me regularly, won't you?

(k) Correct :—

1. He was died last year.
2. The book lied on the table.
3. I am living here for a long time.
4. He is suffering from fever for a week.
5. He is reigning for three years.
6. Akbar has reigned for about fifty years.
7. I have broken the chair yesterday.
8. My father has died yesterday ; he left me a large fortune.
9. I live in Calcutta for ten years and have no wish to leave it.
10. I have seen him yesterday, and am seeing him even now.
11. Wherever I went, I have seen nothing but misery.

CHAPTER XIV

VOICE

(191)

The hunter killed the lion.

The lion was killed by the hunter.

The above two sentences have the same meaning but their forms are different.

In the first sentence, the subject (the hunter) is the doer of the action (killed); that is, the subject is active. The verb "killed" is, therefore, said to be in the Active voice.

In the second sentence, the subject (the lion) is acted upon and it is the receiver of the action (was killed); that is, the subject is not active, but passive. The verb "was killed" is, therefore, said to be in the Passive voice.

(192) Definition — Voice is the form of the verb which shows whether the Subject acts or is acted upon.

(193) There are two Voices :—

(a) When the subject of the sentence is the doer or actor, the verb is Active (কর্তৃবাচ্য).

He runs. I did it. He said this.

(b) When the subject of the sentence is acted upon, the verb is Passive (কর্মবাচ্য).

It was done by me. This was said by him.

(194) Rules for changing the Active Voice into the Passive :—

(1) (a) The object in the Active Voice becomes the subject in the Passive (Active-এর Object-টি Passive-এর Subject হয়).

(b) The subject in the Active Voice becomes the object in the Passive, generally preceded by the preposition by (Active-এর Subject-টি Passive-এর Object-এ পরিণত হয় এবং তাহার পূর্বে সাধারণত: by বসে।).

(c) The Verb is changed into the Past Participle form and is preceded by some form of the verb to be (Active-এর Verb টি Past Participle form-এ পরিবর্তিত করিয়া তাহার পূর্বে 'to be' verb-এর আবশ্যকীয় form বসাইতে হয়).

195) Note the following example :

Here the subject (the hunter) in the Active voice has become the object the Passive voice ; and the object (the lion) in Active voice has become the subject in the Passive voice. Similarly :

Active :	Rani reads a book.	Active :	He did the job.
Passive :	A book is read by Rani.	Passive :	The job was done by him

196) The following table shows forms of verb “to be” in different tenses in the Active and Passive Voice.

Tense	Active voice	Passive forms
Simple Present	do ; does	is/am/are + done
Present Continuous	am/is/are doing	am/is/are + being + done
Present Perfect	has/have done	has/have + been + done
Simple Past	did	was/were + done
Past Continous	was/were doing	was/were + being + done
Past Perfect	had done	had + been + done
Simple Future	will/shall do	will/shall + be + done
Future Perfect	will/shall have done	will/shall + have + been + done
Can/May/Must (modals)	do	can/may/must + be + done

Look at the changes from Active to Passive Voice in different tenses. Learn them by heart.

	Simple	Continuous	Perfect
Present Tense	Active : I do it. Passive : It is done by me.	I am doing it. It is being done by me.	I have done it It has been done by me.
Past Tense	Active : I did it. Passive : It was done by me.	I was doing it. It was being done by me.	I had done it. It had been done by me.
Future Tense	Active : I shall do it. Passive : It will be done by me.	I shall be doing it. (no form)	I shall have done it. It will have been done by me.

Note

Perfect Continuous Tenses are not used in the Passive.

(197) Here are a few more examples of changes from Active Voice to Passive Voice :

(i) Present Tense

(a) Simple Present

Active
 Children like sweets.
 He sells fish in the market.
 She loves me.
 I help him.

Passive
 Sweets are liked by children.
 Fish is sold by him in the market.
 I am loved by her.
 He is helped by me.

(b) Present Continuous

Active
 I am reading a book.
 They are drawing pictures.
 She is cooking rice in the kitchen.
 Are you writing a letter ?

Passive
 A book is being read by me.
 Pictures are being drawn by them.
 Rice is being cooked by her in the kitchen.
 Is a letter being written by you ?

(c) Present Perfect

Active
 I have seen him.
 The girls have sent the flowers.
 Partha has written these letters.
 They have brought the statue from Kolkata.

Passive
 He has been seen by me.
 The flowers have been sent by the girls.
 These letters have been written by Partha.
 The statue has been brought by them from Kolkata.

(ii) Past Tense

(a) Simple Past

Active
 He did it.
 They bought toys.
 She helped me.
 He stole my book.

Passive
 It was done by him.
 Toys were bought by them.
 I was helped by her.
 My book was stolen by him.

(b) Past Continuous

Active
 I was doing the work.
 He was reading a book.
 They were calling the boys.
 Were the boys throwing stones ?

Passive
 The work was being done by me.
 A book was being read by him.
 The boys were being called by them.
 Were stones being thrown by the boys ?

(c) Past Perfect

Active
 They had done the work.
 We had won the match.
 She had sewn the cloth.
 Had you lent the book ?

Passive
 The work had been done by them.
 The match had been won by us.
 The cloth had been sewn by her.
 Had the book been lent by you ?

(iii) Future Tense

(a) Simple Future

Active
 I shall do it.
 He will do the work.
 I shall buy a house.
 He will not hurt you.
Shall we help her ?

Passive
 It shall be done by me.
 The work will be done by him.
 A house will be bought by me.
 You will not be hurt by him.
Will she be helped by us ?

(b) Future PerfectActive

Mr Roy will have taught this class.
 I shall have written the letter.
 She will have drawn the picture.

Passive

This class will have been taught by Mr Roy.
 The letter will have been written by me.
 The picture will have been drawn by her.

(iv) Passive of Verbs with ModalsPassive form : Modal + be + Past Participle of main verbActive*

He can do the work.
 We may help her.
 You must take this medicine.
 The boy should read the book.
 He might take your help.

Passive

The work can be done by him.
 She may be helped by us.
 This medicine must be taken by you.
 The book should be read by the boy.
 Your help might be taken by him.

(v) Interrogative sentencesActive*

Do you know him?
 Does he want this?
 Did he take tea?
 Was he taking tea?
 Are you reading the book?
 Have you done the work?
 Where did you see him?
 Who will do the work?
 What did they do?
 Why have you bought this?

Passive

Is he known to you?
 Is this wanted by him?
 Was tea taken by him?
 Was tea being taken by him?
 Is the book being read by you?
 Has the work been done by you?
 Where was he seen by you?
 By whom will the work be done?
 What was done by them?
 Why has this been bought by you?

For Interrogative sentences beginning with auxiliary verbs like Do, Did, Does, etc, the following steps may be followed to convert them to Passive ones:

- Step-1 : Change the sentence into Assertive.
 Step-2 : Change it into Passive.
 Step-3 : Change it into an Interrogative one.

As :

Sentence	:	Do you know him?	Did he take tea?
Step-1 (Assertive)	:	You know him.	He took tea.
Step-2 (Passive)	:	He is known to you.	Tea was taken by him.
Step-3 (Interrogative)	:	Is he known to you?	Was tea taken by him?

Note that who in the active becomes by whom in the passive.

Note

(i) Only Transitive verbs (i.e. verbs taking an object to complete a sense) can be used in the Passive Voice. Since Intransitive verbs do not have objects, they cannot be used in the passive form. But there are some exceptions, see Art. 200.

(ii) Though, theoretically, all transitive verbs can be made passive, sometimes in practice the passive form is not used. As :

"We had a nice dinner yesterday" would not be used in the passive as "A nice dinner was had by us yesterday".

(iii) The doer of the action of a passive verb (i.e. object) may sometimes be preceded by some preposition other than by :

Active

His conduct annoyed me.
This news will please you.
His behaviour charmed me.
Smoke filled the room.
I know him.
His result surprised me.

Passive

I was annoyed at his conduct.
You will be pleased with this news.
I was charmed at his behaviour.
The room was filled with smoke.
He is known to me.
I was surprised at his result.

(iv) In the Passive Voice, sometimes the Object is understood. In changing such sentences into the Active Voice the Object has to be mentally supplied and then formed into the Subject. Thus :

Passive

It is said he will come.
He is expected soon.
My book has been lost.
The house was blown down.
The lion is called the king of beasts.
The shed was burnt to ashes.
The injured were taken to a hospital.

Active

Men say he will come.
We expect him soon.
I have lost my book.
The storm blew down the house.
People call the lion the king of beasts.
Fire burnt the shed to ashes.
They took the injured to a hospital.

198 The Passive Voice of verbs with two objects is formed by changing either of the two objects into the Subject, and retaining the other as the Object, called the Retained Object. (দুই Object-বিশিষ্ট Tr. verb-কে Passive করার সময় যে কোন Object-কে Subject করিয়া অপরটিকে Retained Object রূপে রাখিতে হয়।)

Active

He gave me a book.

Passive

I was given a book by him.
A book was given me by him.

E EXERCISE 20

Change the voice of verbs :—

- | | |
|------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 1. The girl knows it. | 11. My father helped him. |
| 2. He said this to me. | 12. He is called Netaji. |
| 3. I shall do the work. | 13. He was punished by the teacher. |
| 4. He told me the story. | 14. I promised him a reward. |
| 5. They sent me a box. | 15. They asked him a few questions. |
| 6. It is known to all. | 16. It was seen there. |
| 7. They have lost the thing. | 17. The man was seen walking there. |
| 8. When will you make it? | 18. He was punished for misconduct. |
| 9. I shall give him a book. | 19. She gave me two cups. |
| 10. Who saw the man there? | |

199 In changing the voice of complex sentences the voices of both the Principal and Subordinate clauses should be changed. The Introductory It also may be sometimes used (Complex sentence-এর Voice পরিবর্তনে Principal ও Subordinate —দুরকম clause-এরই voice পরিবর্তন করিতে হয়).

Active	:	I know that he did the work.
Passive	:	It is known to me that the work was done by him ; or, That the work was done by him is known to me. (But both are bad English).
Sentence	:	It is said that they know it.
Change of voice	:	Everybody says that it is known by (or to) them.
Passive	:	What cannot be cured must be endured.
Active	:	We must endure what we cannot cure.

(200) An Intransitive Verb may be changed into the Passive :

(i) When it takes a cognate object in the Active Voice :

The battle was fought at this place.The race you speak of was run yesterday.

(ii) When it is a Prepositional or Group verb :

*Active*They laugh at us.He dispensed with my services.*Passive*We are laughed at by them.My services were dispensed with by him.E EXERCISE 21

Change the voice of verbs :—

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. He says that he knows you. | 8. I know that the lion is called the king of beasts. |
| 2. I thought that you did it. | 9. They fought a good fight. |
| 3. He knows that it was done by me. | 10. They laughed at me. |
| 4. It is said that he saved the boy. | 11. He prevailed on me to go there. |
| 5. It is expected that he will win the prize. | 12. He has brought out a new book. |
| 6. I shall help you if it is done in time. | 13. He was called out by his friends. |
| 7. They beat the thief when he was caught. | 14. They have worked out the sum. |
| | 15. They carried on the work. |

(201) Double Passives should be avoided, because they are liable to give a wrong meaning. Thus,

He ordered the spy to be shot cannot be changed into "The spy was ordered (by him) to be shot (double passive)," because the latter sentence implies that he gave the order to the spy. Other examples :—

Incorrect : The evil was sought to be corrected.Correct : They sought to correct the evil.Incorrect : A meeting was proposed to be held.Correct : They proposed to hold a meeting.Or, It was proposed to hold a meeting.Or, It was proposed that a meeting should be held.(202) Objects that cannot be used as Subjects in the Passive :

(a) The Reflexive object. Thus, "He killed himself" cannot be changed into "Himself was killed by him." The Passive form would be "He was killed by himself." But this is not a good grammatical sentence. The Active form should be used.¹

Note

Carefully guard against the error 'was availed of.' Avail always requires a reflexive object, which cannot become the subject in the passive voice. He availed himself of my offer cannot be changed into My offer was availed of by him, because the object of availed is himself, not offer, which is governed by of. Moreover, what about himself?

(b) The Factitive object. Thus, "They made him king" becomes "He was made king by them" in the passive.

(c) The Adverbial object. Thus, "He worked an hour," where hour is an adverbial object, cannot be changed into "An hour was worked by him."

¹According to MEU, "The conversion of active verb sentence into a passive verb one of the same meaning—e.g. of you killed him into He was killed by you—is a familiar process. But it sometimes leads to bad grammar, false idiom, or clumsiness."

(203) If the Active verb is in the Imperative mood, the word 'let' is usually placed at the beginning in the Passive Voice. There are other ways also.

Active	Passive
Do it.	Let it be done.
Tell him to go.	Let him be told to go.
	Or, He should be told to go.
Keep your word.	Your word should be kept.
Put up a tent.	Have a tent put up. (Smith)
Please keep off the grass.	You (or, visitors) are requested to keep off the grass. (Smith)
Enter by this door.	You are requested to enter by this door.
Help the poor.	The poor should be helped.
Take the medicine regularly.	The medicine should be taken regularly.

(204) Passive of Infinitives is done by retaining the 'to' followed by 'be' and the past participle form of the verb.

Active : to + do
Passive : to + be + done

Active	Passive
I am to buy a book.	A book is to be bought by me.
I have to do the work.	The work has to be done by me.
It is time to tell him the truth.	It is time for the truth to be told to him.
You are to post the letters today.	The letters are to be posted by you today.
He has no money to spend.	There is no money to be spent by him.

(205) Some transitive verbs are active in form but passive in sense; they are also called Quasi-passive verbs. This usage is called by some the Middle Voice :—

This book reads well (= sounds to or affects a reader well when it is read). It tastes sweet (= is sweet when it is tasted). This book is printing (= is being printed). The cows are milking (= are being milked). The rose smells sweet (= is sweet when it is smelt.) The house is building (= is being built). The floor feels smooth (= is smooth when it is felt).

Note

Such expressions as He is gone, He is come are not passive, since go and come are intransitive, and cannot be used in the passive voice. They are merely alternative forms of He has gone, He has come. [See Art. 176 Note (a)]. But there is a slight difference in meaning between the two forms. In He has gone, emphasis is laid on the time of the action; but in He is gone, emphasis is laid on the state of the agent, i.e., his absence, and not on the time of action.

Miscellaneous Examples

Passive :	A promise should be kept.
Active :	One should keep one's promise.
Passive :	My pen has been stolen.
Active :	Someone has stolen my pen.
Passive :	I was obliged to go.
Active :	Circumstances obliged me to go.
Passive :	Nothing can be gained without labour.
Active :	We can gain nothing without labour.
Passive :	Why was he refused admittance?
Active :	Why did they refuse him admittance?

Passive : Indiscipline should not be encouraged.

Active : We should not encourage indiscipline.

Note

In the above examples, the agent with by has been omitted in the passive constructions.

206 When to use the Passive Voice: The very construction called the passive voice is used in specific situations. They are the following :

(a) When it is not necessary to say who performed the action : The fine textile materials are made in India.

(b) When it is preferable not to mention the performer or doer : Ram was told that his English was not satisfactory for college work.

(c) When we wish to emphasise the receiver rather than the performer or doer : A man was knocked down by a lorry here.

(d) In situations of social and historical significance : America was discovered by Columbus.

(e) In invitations, requests and announcements : Passengers are requested not to smoke in the bus.

(f) In newspaper reports : Calcutta was lashed by a thunder shower on Friday morning.

(g) To describe mechanical process and in giving scientific descriptions : In an internal-combustion engine the mixture of air and petrol is compressed in the cylinder by a piston.

EXAMPLE WORKED OUTA. Active to Passive :—

Active : I must do it.

Passive : It must be done by me.

Active : He is flying a kite.

Passive : A kite is being flown by him.

Active : The servant cooked our food

Passive : Our food was cooked by the servant.

Active : He sent me a present.

Passive : A present was sent to me by him.

Or, I was sent a present by him.

Active : They hoped to win the match.

Passive : It was hoped by them that they would win the match.

Active : They speak French.

Passive : French is spoken by them.

Active : Did you send the book.

Passive : Was the book sent by you ?

Active : She was reading a book.

Passive : A book was being read by her.

Active : Someone knocked at the door.

Passive : The door was knocked at.

Active : You cannot hope that the boys will answer all the questions correctly.

Passive : It cannot be hoped that all the questions will be answered by the boys correctly.

- Active* : Please keep the book on the table.
Passive : You are requested to keep the book on the table.
- Active* : They elected him secretary of the club.
Passive : He was elected secretary of the club.
- Active* : We use this house very rarely.
Passive : This house is used very rarely by us.
- Active* : Someone will serve the food soon.
Passive : The food will be served soon.
- Active* : We will not allow them to enter the room.
Passive : They will not be allowed to enter the room.
- Active* : People say that he is a spy.
Passive : It is said that he is a spy.
- Active* : We know that the earth is round.
Passive : It is known that the earth is round.
- Active* : You could not understand what I told him.
Passive : What was told to him (by me) could not be understood by you.
- Active* : People in Egypt speak Arabic.
Passive : Arabic is spoken in Egypt.
- Active* : Listen to me.
Passive : I should be listened to.

B. Passive to Active :—

- Passive* : This book must be read by every student.
Active : Every student must read this book.
- Passive* : The thief was caught by the police.
Active : The police caught the thief.
- Passive* : She was given a book by her father.
Active : Her father gave her a book.
- Passive* : The tree has been uprooted.
Active : A strong wind has uprooted the tree.
- Passive* : My book has been lost.
Active : I have lost my book.
- Passive* : The door should be kept closed.
Active : You should keep the door closed.
- Passive* : My suggestion was not accepted.
Active : They did not accept my suggestion.
- Passive* : A meeting was held and speeches delivered.
Active : They held a meeting and delivered speeches.
- Passive* : Teak wood has been used in these furniture.
Active : We have used teak wood in these furniture.
- Passive* : Silence must be maintained in the library.
Active : Readers must maintain silence in the library.
- Passive* : The club was established in 1957.
Active : They established the club in 1957.
- Passive* : It is said that he is the best boy in the class.
Active : They (or, people) say that he is the best boy in the class.
- Passive* : You are expected to be faithful.
Active : We expect you to be faithful.

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস
 প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

▶ Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

of the UNICEF very soon. According to the minister, Rs. 35 lakhs — (collect) from the exhibition football match held last Sunday.

8. On December 2, 1982, the first permanent artificial human heart — (implant) in an American dentist, Barney Clark. The fist-sized heart, which —(keep) Clark alive for 111 days, — (develop) in Salt Lake City which — (rank) only 50th in size among American cities. The desert valley where the city — (locate) — (settle) in 1848 by Mormon pioneers.
9. Jute fibre — (obtain) from jute plant. In India it — (cultivate) mostly in West Bengal. Fertile soil — (require) for its cultivation. The field — (plough) and manure — (apply) to make it fertile.

CHAPTER XV

MOOD

207 A Mood denotes the mode or manner in which a statement is made by the verb (Verb দ্বারা যে Mood-এ বা ভাবে বাক্যটি বর্ণিত হয় তাহাকেই Mood বলে). There are three moods :— Indicative, Imperative, and Subjunctive.

NOTE : Formerly the Infinitive also was called a mood ; but some modern grammarians do not regard it as such, because it “merely names the action in an indefinite way, without reference to the mode or manner.”

208 The Indicative Mood is used :—

- (a) To state a fact : I do. He goes. He does not go.
- (b) To ask questions : Is he ill? Do you like it?
- (c) To express a supposition which is taken as a fact (অনুমানকে সত্য বলিয়া প্রকাশ করিতে) : If he goes there he will be punished (taking it as a fact that he will go there). If it rains you must not come (taking it as a fact that it will rain).

209 The Imperative Mood is used only in the present tense and in the Second Person :

- (a) To give orders : Go there. (= Go you there). Sit down (= Sit you down).
- (b) To make request : Come in, please.
- (c) To advise : Do not tell a lie. Be steady.
- (d) To entreat : Save me. Help! Have pity on us.
- (e) Sometimes to express a supposition : Read (= if you read), and you will learn. Move (= unless you move), or you die.
- (f) Sometimes, absolutely : Give me some money, say fifty rupees.

210 (1) The Subjunctive Mood is used to express :—

(a) A condition or supposition contrary to fact (যাহ বাস্তবিক ঠিক নয় তাহ ঠিক অনুমান করিতে):

If I were you (i.e., but I am not), I should not do it. Had he been present, he would have opposed you. 'Were he here, I would tell him this.'

Sometimes the condition is expressed in the Imperative form : 'Come weal, come woe (Whether weal or woe comes), I shall go there.'

(b) A wish (ইচ্ছা বুঝাইতে) (this is called the optative use) :

Long live the King. May he be happy. Had I been there !

(c) A proposal, intention or order not yet carried out (কোন প্রস্তাব, সঙ্কল্প বা আদেশ বুঝাইতে,— যাহা এখনও কার্যে পরিণত হয় নাই) :

Resolved that the proceedings of the last meeting be confirmed. The sentence is that he be hanged by the neck.

(2) The form of the Subjunctive is the same in all numbers and persons :

In the present tense it is that of the infinitive without "to" : If you or he or I want ; If you or Ram or I go ; If you or they or we be.

In the past tense it is that of the Indicative past : If he or I went ; Though you went.

But, in the case of the verb "to be," the present form is be, and the past form is were for all numbers and persons : If he or they were ; Though I were.

Note

The tendency of modern English is to discard the Subjunctive.

A few more examples of the Subjunctive Mood :

If he were (not was) there, he would have come.

I wish this were (not was) possible.

I would go there if I were (not was) you.

I wish I could (not can) have the things.

If it be (not is) sin to work hard, I am a sinner.

E EXERCISE 23

Indicate the moods of the verbs in the following sentences :—

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. Sit down. | 9. May God bless you. |
| 2. Work and you will succeed. | 10. Were I rich, I would have helped you all. |
| 3. Do not talk. | 11. If he is there, he will help you. |
| 4. I warn you lest you should fail. | 12. If he be there, he will help you. |
| 5. Touch it, and you die. | 13. Be steady. |
| 6. Follow me, or you will be punished. | 14. We eat that we may live. |
| 7. Wish that he were here. | |
| 8. He went there so that he might see the sight. | |

CHAPTER XVI

VERBALS OR NON-FINITE VERBS

(211) Verbals include (1) Infinitives, (2) Gerunds, and (3) Participles.

The Infinitive

(212) The Infinitive is formed by adding to, expressed or understood, before the verb : He came to play. Learn to read. I saw him (to) go.

¹"The subjunctive mood is in its death throes, and the best thing to do is to put it out of its misery as soon as possible." —Somerset Maugham in A Writer's Note-book.

"The subjunctive mood is dying; the indicative is superseding it more and more." —The Complete Plain Words by Sir Ernest Gowers.

(213) The sign of the Infinitive is omitted :—

(a) After the active voice of the verbs *please, see, let, make, know, feel, hear, bid*¹, need, behold, watch, dare (but see Art. 236) :

Please (to) go there.

I saw him (to) go home.

Let him (to) come

He need not go there.

He made me do it.

We heard him say so.

I watched him go.

I have known him (to) go there.

But when these verbs (except let) are in the passive voice 'to' is not omitted.

He was seen to come.

I was made to sit down.

Ram was heard to say so.

But he was let go.

(b) After the auxiliaries and defective verbs can, do, has, have, may, must, shall, should, will, would :

Can you (to) do this ?

I will (am willing to) go.

Do (to) go there.

(c) After the verb had in such phrases as had better, had rather, had sooner, had as soon ... as, etc. :

I had better or had sooner (to) go.

You had rather (to) remain here.

(d) After than, except, as, better, and also but when it is preceded by do :

He is better able to walk than run

(= than he is able to run).

He did nothing but (to) laugh.

He did everything except (to) carry out my order.

He did not so much as (to) say he was sorry.

Better (to) be with the dead.

(214) Two Infinitives : Simple or Noun Infinitive and Gerundial (or Qualifying) Infinitive.(215) The Simple or Noun-Infinitive (ইহা Noun-এর মত ব্যবহৃত হয়) is used :—

(i) As the subject of a verb : To err is human. To walk is good for health.

(ii) As the object of a verb : He likes to swim. I taught him to read. He was taught to read (retained object).

(iii) As the complement of a verb : He seems to be rich. I saw him go. I ordered him to be punished.

(iv) As the object of the prepositions about, but, except, and also of than used as a preposition : He is about to die. I cannot but (to) go there. He did nothing else than or except (to) laugh (Nesfield).

(v) Absolutely, in exclamation or interrogation : To think that he would do so ! And now what to do ?

(216) The Gerundial Infinitive (ইহা Adjective বা Adverb-এর মত qualify করে) is used to express purpose, cause, condition or results, and may be attached :—

(i) Adverbially to a verb : He came to see me. It came to pass. We eat to live.

¹The use of to after bid is coming into vogue. Pocket Oxford has—Bid him go or to go.

(ii) Adverbially to an adjective : I am sorry to hear this. He is ready to go. I am anxious to learn.

(iii) Adjectivally to a noun : I have a house to let. Here is a chair to sit on.

(iv) Absolutely or Parenthetically to a sentence : To tell you the truth, I do not trust him. To be brief, I am ruined.

Note

(a) How to distinguish between a Simple Infinitive and a Gerundial Infinitive : The best way of finding out whether an infinitive is simple or gerundial is to expand it. If it becomes a noun clause it is a simple infinitive; but, if it becomes an adjectival or an adverbial clause it is a gerundial infinitive.

(b) In colloquial English, when the verb has been already used, the verbal part of the infinitive is sometimes dropped, and to alone is used : 'Will you go home?' 'I like to (to go home)'. 'Has he done the work?' 'He ought to (= to have done)'.

(217) The Split Infinitive is the name given to an infinitive form in which the main verb is wrongly separated from to by some word between [কখনও কখনও Infinitive-এর to এবং verb এর মধ্যে অন্য শব্দ বসাইয়া এ দুটিকে পৃথক (split up) করা হয়। এটা ঠিক নয়।] : I request you to kindly help me. I request you to quickly do this. The correct forms are—I request you to help me kindly. I request you to do this quickly.

But the use of the Split Infinitive has come to stay and occasionally serves a clear and useful purpose. Thus, in "Police schools have been started to better train rural constables," better cannot be shifted without injury to the sense of diction.

E EXERCISE 24

Pick out the infinitives and say how each is used :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. He came to see me. | 13. To err is human. |
| 2. I like to do it. | 14. He came only to find that his father was about to die. |
| 3. To walk in the morning is good for health. | 15. Give me water to drink. |
| 4. He wants to go home. | 16. He wept to hear the news. |
| 5. He laughed to see me in trouble. | 17. He was taught to swim. |
| 6. I am glad to hear this. | 18. To be brief, I missed the train. |
| 7. He was, to put it briefly, entirely to blame. | 19. You are to blame. |
| 8. To speak the truth, I consider him a fool. | 20. I like you to be honest. |
| 9. He was about to cry out. | 21. He seems to be clever. |
| 10. He did nothing but laugh. | 22. I allowed him to go. |
| 11. Give him a chair to sit on. | 23. You had better go. |
| 12. They expect to pass. | 24. I had rather wait. |
| | 25. I could not but go there. |

PARTICIPLES, GERUNDS AND VERBAL NOUNS

(218) Participles are forms of verbs which partake of the nature of both an adjective and a verb. They are of two classes :

(a) Present Participles express an action going on and not completed, and are formed by adding '-ing' to the verb.

(b) Past or Perfect Participles express an action complete, and are formed by adding ed, d, t, en, or n to the verb : cleared, heard, learnt, broken, shown, etc.

(219) A Participle can be used in three ways :—

(a) As an attributive adjective ; as—

This is a charming scenery. A rolling stone gathers no moss.
He is a learned man. Try to recover your lost health.

Note

When a Participle is used as an adjective before the noun it qualifies it is called a Participial Adjective.

(b) Predicatively, to complete the sentence ; as—

The scenery looks charming. We saw him running away.
She appears to be learned. The chair lay broken into pieces.

(c) Absolutely ; as—

God willing, we shall do it tomorrow. This done (having been done), they all left the place. The dinner (being) over, the party broke up.

Note

(a) The construction in (c) is called the Nominative Absolute construction. Most of the participles that have practically become prepositions once belonged to this construction :— Considering his age (= his age being considered), he has done well. Supposing this (= this being supposed) to be true, what will you do? Other examples :— according (to), assuming, concerning, speaking, etc.

(b) Since, Participles partake of the nature of verbs as well, they take objects when formed of transitive verbs : I saw him doing it. I heard you saying this. Having done the work, he returned home.

(220) The Unattached Participle— The participle should be employed with a noun or pronoun which it qualifies. The omission of such a noun or pronoun is wrong.

For example, in 'Standing on the shore, my eye roams over the sea,' standing appears to qualify eye, while the writer means a person. The correct form should, therefore, be— While one is standing on the shore, one's eye, etc. or, As I am standing, etc. Similarly —

Incorrect

While walking in the garden my foot slipped.
Going home, my hat was blown off.
On entering the class, it was found empty.
Writing the letter it was posted.

Correct

While I was walking etc.
As I was going home etc.
On entering the class, the teacher found it empty.
Writing the letter I (or he) posted it.

But the following form exceptions :—

(a) In absolute construction : Roughly speaking, the two are equal.

(b) Participles that have passed into prepositions : Regarding the proposal, I have nothing to say.

(221) (a) Used adjectivally, the Present Participle is active in meaning, but the Past Participle is Passive, since it has a passive force implied in it : A burning house = a house that is burning. A burnt house = a house that has been burnt.

(b) The Past Participle sometimes expresses habit, state or character : A well-read man = a man who has read much and well. A plain-spoken man = a man who speaks out plainly.

222 A Gerund is a noun-verbal in -ing, and is used :—

- (a) As the subject of a verb : Walking is a good exercise.
- (b) As the object of a verb : I learn drawing. Stop playing.
- (c) As the object of preposition : He is fond of riding.
- (d) As a complement : It is a capital saying.
- (e) As a part of compound noun : a sleeping room ; drinking water ; a walking stick ; laughing gas.

Note

(a) A Gerund may also take an object : I am fond of reading books. He likes playing tennis.

(b) Examples given in (e) above should be carefully distinguished from participial adjectives in -ing, as in 'a sleeping dog,' 'singing birds.' The examples mean a room for sleeping, water for drinking, a stick for walking (or, to walk with), where sleeping, drinking, walking are nouns and are, therefore, to be classed as gerunds.

(c) Sometimes the letter a (shortened form of on) is placed before the gerund in a prepositional sense. This set him athinking. He went ahunting.

"In such constructions as 'The house is building,' 'He is a long time coming,' the verb in-ing is regarded as a gerund with the preposition a or on, understood, governing it."—Yates.

223 Gerund with Possessives— (a) The Pronoun governing a Gerund should be in the possessive case¹.

I like your doing this.

He insisted on my going there.

But when the Pronoun has no real possessive, it is in the objective case, and the form in -ing following it is no longer a Gerund but a Participle :

Please oblige me by all leaving the room.

I have doubts about this happening at all.

(b) The Noun governing a Gerund should also be in the possessive case with 's, if it can take that inflection :

I am glad at your father's coming here.

I was prepared for your friend's saying this.

(c) But the construction with the Participle and the Adj., rather than with the Gerund and the Possessive, is necessary :—

(i) When the noun is the name of a lifeless thing :

There is a chance of the milk turning.

There is no hope of the discussion resulting in any good.

(ii) When the noun is a plural in—s :

I do not like boys playing here.

But,—I do not like children's playing here.

(iii) When the verbal is in the passive :

I insist on the man being punished.

Note

With the name of a person, either usage is permissible :

We insisted on Smith's joining us.

We insisted on Smith joining us.

¹"That the possessive of all pronouns that have the form should be used instead of the objective or subjective is hardly disputed." .. The Kings's English by Fowler & Fowler.

Sometimes the constructions have different meanings :—

I was interested in Robinson's running (= in the way in which R. ran),
I was interested in Robinson running (= the fact that R. ran). —Westaway.

(224) Gerundive Participles—Participles are sometimes used to imply Gerunds or Gerundial Nouns in addition to qualifying the nouns as participles. They are then called Gerundive Participles ; as, I depend on the wall being built at once.

Note

In the above case, how are we to parse "being built"? "It is not enough to say that it is an ordinary participle : for it does more than qualify the noun 'wall'. The sentence does not mean 'I depend on the wall,' but 'I depend on the wall being built at once', that is 'on the immediate building of the wall.' There is, therefore, a gerund or gerundial noun implied in the participle "being built." —Nesfield.

(225) Fused Participles—We often come across sentences like the following :—

Women having the vote reduces men's power. The children wanting to go is quite natural. I did not know of him leaving the town.

In the first sentence, the subject is neither women (because reduces is singular), nor having (for that would leave women in air, with no grammatical connection whatever), but a compound notion formed by the fusion of the noun women with the participle having. Participles so constructed are called Fused Participles. Grammatically, having must be the subject, i.e., it must be a gerund, not a participle and the accompanying noun or pronoun must be a possessive, qualifying it.

Similarly, in the second sentence, there is a fusion of the noun children, with the participle wanting. In the third sentence, leaving is the object of the preposition of, i.e., it is a gerund, and must be qualified by the possessive his. Hence, the sentences should be corrected as :

Women's having, etc. ; The children's wanting, etc. ; I did ... of his leaving the town.

(226) A Verbal Noun is a verbal in -ing with the definite article before and the preposition of after it. (See also Art. 227).

He is engaged in the writing of a letter. I discourage the reading of such books.

(227) Present Participles, Gerunds and Verbal Nouns distinguished :

1. A Present Participle is a verb and adjective combined. But it is primarily an adjective, qualifying a noun, though it takes an object after it when formed from a transitive verb : I found him reading, or reading a book. Playing tennis he gained health.

2. A Gerund is a verb and noun combined. But it is primarily a noun and is used as an ordinary noun in a sentence—i.e., as subject, object, complement—and may also have an object like a verb when it is formed from a transitive verb : His reading is bad. He is engaged in reading a book. Seeing is believing. He is fond of playing football.

3. The Verbal Noun is a noun only. It is practically a Gerund preceded by the and followed by of. See Art. 226.

Some, however, recognise no distinction between a Gerund and a Verbal Noun. "The term verbal noun is applied to the infinite parts of the verb that act as nouns, i.e., the Infinitive Mood and the Gerund. By some grammarians it is used particularly of the infinite part in -ing that has divested itself completely of verbal force and become a pure noun"¹.

"It is guarded from all possible verbal activity by the definite article before and the preposition of after it." —A.B.C. of English Usage.

¹According to them, in the examples under (2), reading is a verbal noun in the first sentence, but a gerund in the second. In the third sentence both seeing and believing are verbal nouns.

(228) Wrong Use of Infinitives— “Though the Infinitive and the Gerund are almost synonymous and though both can be used as Nouns, English idiom requires the use of the Gerund in some case, and the use of the Infinitive in other cases. Neither of them can be used indiscriminately. It is a question, not of grammar, but of idiom.” Thus write :

Abstain from speaking evil of others. (Not, to speak).

He is addicted to gambling. (Not, to gamble).

He aimed at becoming a good painter. (Not, to become).¹

I assisted him in doing the work. (Not, to do).

He is bent on going there.

He is capable of doing this.

He has no chance of winning.²

He is confident of winning.

The Hindus have the custom of burning the dead.

He was debarred from competing.

I am desirous of going there³.

He despairs of getting the prize.

Desist from opposing me.

He is disqualified for holding the post.

Don't forget the duty of helping the poor.

The navy is equal in strength to performing the task.

He is an expert in inventing stories.

She excels in painting.

He has no excuse for being late.

He is fearful of going out alone.

Finish doing it.

I am fond of playing tennis.

I hindered him from doing it.

I insist on your doing this. (Not, on you to do this).

I am intent on going there. (Not, intent to go there).

He is justified in doing this.

He meditates resigning.

I am under the necessity of going there.

He objects to doing the work.

He has a passion for studying.

He persisted in saying this.

Give up the practice of laughing at others.

Practise swimming.

Who prevented you from going there ?

He takes pride in doing this.

He prohibited us from doing it.

He repented of doing (or having done) it.

Refrain from speaking evil of others.

He resigned himself to failure (not, to fail).

He is right in saying this.

He succeeded in doing the work.

I thought of going to the place.⁴

¹But “aim to make is good American” —A.B.C. of Eng. Usage; and “this is gaining ground in English” —Good English by G.H. Vallins.

²But Webster's International Dictionary has—a chance to escape.

³But Universal Eng. Dict. (Oxford) by Wyld has—desirous of success, to succeed.

⁴But POD has—He thought to deceive me, to be king.

Note

Verbs of prevention (viz. abstain, debar, desist, disqualify, hinder, prevent, prohibit, refrain, etc.) except forbid are always followed by from and a gerund.

Sometimes both forms are allowed :

He is afraid to go (or, of going) there.

I had the opportunity to do (or, of doing) it.

E EXERCISE 25

Parse the following forms in "ing" :—

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. I am dull of hearing. | 13. Regarding the truth of the statement, I can say nothing. |
| 2. I am tired of hearing the story. | 14. Entering the room, I found him sitting on a chair. |
| 3. This is a printing machine. | 15. Considering his age, he has made much progress. |
| 4. He is printing his book. | 16. He is sleeping. |
| 5. The book is printing. | 17. He went away weeping. |
| 6. He is engaged in the profession of printing. | 18. Success is attained by working diligently. |
| 7. I am prepared for the coming event. | 19. Working diligently, he finished the work in three days. |
| 8. I am tired of waiting. | 20. Singing songs is a sign of joy. |
| 9. Further waiting is useless. | 21. Leaving the house, he spent his time in walking. |
| 10. She is a waiting maid. | |
| 11. Lying is a sin. | |
| 12. He is eating fruit. | |

CHAPTER XVII

AUXILIARY, DEFECTIVE & ANOMALOUS VERBS

(229) (a) Auxiliary Verb :—See Art. 160 (b).

(b) Defective Verbs are those that do not possess all the usual forms of a verb : may, shall, will, can, owe, need, must, ought, dare, quoth, worth.

(c) Anomalous Verbs are those that have parts formed irregularly : be, can.

(230) Be (the various forms of the verbs are— be, am, is, are, was, were, being, been) is used—

(a) As an auxiliary,

(i) To form the passive voice : He is known. I was beaten.

(ii) To form the continuous tense : I am writing. He was reading.

(iii) With the infinitive, to express expectation or possibility (আশা বা সম্ভাবনা বুঝাতে infinitive-এর সঙ্গে) : I am to go there. He was to have gone home.

(iv) With the past participle of an intransitive verb, to form an alternative perfect tense : The sun is set. He is gone. (See Art. 205, Note).

(b) As an Intransitive principal verb, of

(i) Complete predication, when it means to exist : God is. Can such things be (exist) ?

(ii) Incomplete predication : He is a good boy.

Note

The form be is occasionally used instead of are, but its use is becoming rare : The powers that be.

(231) Have (its forms are—has, have, having, had) is used—

(a) As an auxiliary, to form perfect tenses : I have seen the man. He has done it.

(b) As a principal verb, meaning “to possess”, “to take part in” : I have a pen. We had a game of cricket.

(c) With the Infinitive, to express ‘obligation’ (বাহ্যতা বুঝাইতে Infinitive-এর সঙ্গে) : I have to go. He has to do it.

(d) To mean “cause” (করিয়ে নেওয়া অর্থে) : Have it done now.

(232) Do has two functions :—

(a) As an auxiliary, it is used—

(i) Immediately before “present and past tenses, Indicative, of other verbs for the sake of emphasis.” (Nesfield). Do go there. I did go there.

(ii) In a negative sentence with “not” : Do not go there.

(iii) In asking a question : Did you go there ?

(b) As a principal verb, it is used—

(i) As a transitive verb (= perform) : Do your duty.

(ii) As an intransitive verb (= act) : This will do. Do as I tell you.

(iii) As a substitute for a preceding verb to avoid repetition (পুনরুক্তি দোষ এড়াইতে পূর্বে ব্যবহৃত কোন verb-এর পরিবর্তে). (Hence it is called a pro-verb or a substitute verb) : He walks faster than I do (= walk).

(233) Must has no change of form. The Infinitive without to following it is its object. It now refers only to Present and Future times, and expresses

(a) Compulsion : You must do it.

(b) Determination : I must see him punished.

(c) Certainty : He must be mad. We must all die.

(d) Duty : We must obey our parents.

Note

To denote past certainty, have is often added to must : You must have done it = it is certain that you did it.

(234) (1) May¹ is used as—

(a) A principal verb (with an Infinitive as object) to denote

(i) Permission : Yo may go now. May I come ?

(ii) Possibility : He may pass. It may rain.

Note

The past form might is sometimes used with a present or future meaning to express greater doubt : He might recover (i.e., the chance is very slight).

(b) An Auxiliary verb, to form a subjunctive, denoting

(i) A wish : May you be happy. May God bless you.

(ii) A purpose : He works hard that he may pass.

¹C.O.D. and P.O.D. treat may as an auxiliary only.

(2) Might expresses a mild form of request :— Might I go now? With the perfect infinitive have, it indicates failure on account of an unfulfilled condition :

He might have recovered if he had proper nursing.

(235) Can expresses [See Art. 161, Note (b)]

(i) Power or ability : He can run. I can help you.

(ii) Permission : You can go—POD.

Note

"Can is sometimes used wrongly instead of May, and vice versa. Can denotes positive ability or physical possibility ; whereas may rather implies that there is no physical or normal obstacle to an action : e.g., 'If you look at a cow's hooves, you can (not may) see that they are cloven.' 'May I go' (not can)" —Oxford Grammar.

The past form could is sometimes used for can

(i) To mean 'feel inclined to' : I am so glad at the news that I could almost dance for joy.

(ii) 'As a polite form of address' : Could (= can) you tell me the time? — Tipping.

(236) (a) Dare in the sense of challenge is conjugated in all moods and tenses and is followed by an infinitive with to, and has dared for its past tense :

He dares or dared me to fight. I dare you to do it.

(b) Dare (in the sense of venture) : the third person singular in the present tense is

(i) Dare, usually followed by the infinitive without to, chiefly but not solely, in negative and interrogative sentences.

(ii) Dares, usually followed by the infinitive with to in affirmative sentences :

He dares to do it. He dare not do it. Dare he do it? No, he dare not. Yes, he dare (= dare do it), or, Yes, he dares (= dares to do it).

(c) In the past tense, either dared or durst is used :

He dared or durst not do it. He dared do it.

He dared to do it. Dared he do it? Dared he to do it?

"But 'dared' is the standard form in modern literary English" — A. B. C of Eng. Usage; also Good English by Vallins; "but 'durst' is still used as a past tense, usually with 'not' and followed by the infinitive without 'to.'" — Good English by G.H. Vallins.

Note

I dare say simply means, 'I believe,' 'probably'.

(237) (a) When Need means to want, it is conjugated in all moods and tenses, and is followed by a noun or the infinitive with to : He needs (or needed, or will need) rest. It needs (or, needed) to be done.

(b) When Need means to be under the necessity, it is used only in negative and interrogative sentences and in the present tense only, followed by the infinitive without to, the third person singular being need, not needs. The past idea is sometimes shown by using the perfect infinitive without to after the word :

He need not do it. What need he care for me?

Note

(a) In such phrases as 'He must needs do this,' needs is really a possessive case with the apostrophe before s omitted. So needs = need's = of necessity = necessarily. Needs has, therefore, become an adverb.

(238) Ought expresses duty or obligation. It has the same form in the present and the past, but, reference to past time is indicated by using a perfect infinitive after it. It is transitive, almost always followed by to, and the infinitive following is its object : You ought to go there. You ought to have gone there.

Shall and Will

(239) Shall expresses simple futurity in the first person, command, promise or threat by the speaker in the second and third persons (শুধু ভবিষ্যৎকাল বুঝাইতে first person-এ এবং বক্তার দৃঢ়সঙ্কল্প বা আদেশ বুঝাইতে second ও third person-এ “shall” বসে); as,

I shall go (simple futurity).
 You or he shall go (I command).
 He shall be punished (I threaten).
 He shall get a prize (promise)

(240) Will expresses simple futurity in the second and third persons, determination and intention of the speaker in the first person (শুধু ভবিষ্যৎকাল বুঝাইতে second ও third person-এ এবং বক্তার দৃঢ়সঙ্কল্প বা আদেশ বুঝাইতে first person-এ “will” বসে) ; as,

I will go there (my determination or promise).
 You will succeed (simple futurity).
 He will win the prize (simple futurity).

Simple futurity is expressed by	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{I shall} \\ \text{You will} \\ \text{He will} \end{array} \right.$	\parallel	Command, threat, promise or determination of the speaker is expressed by	$\left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{I will} \\ \text{He shall} \\ \text{You shall} \end{array} \right.$

The following verse will be an aid to memory :

Shall in the First person simply foretells ;
 In Will a threat or a promise dwells ;
Shall in the Second and Third does threat,
Will then simply foretells a future feat.

(241) In Interrogative Sentences.

In Interrogative sentences, shall indicates simple futurity, command or desire of the person spoken to in the first person ; simple futurity in the second ; command or desire of the person spoken to in the third :

Shall I go ? (Simple futurity, or desire or command)
Shall you go ? (Simple futurity)
Shall he go ? (Is it your wish that he should go) ?

In Interrogative sentences, will is never used in the first person, but denotes intention or wish of the person spoken to in the second person, and simple futurity in the third person :

Will you go ? (Is it your desire or intention) ?
Will he go ? (Simple futurity)

Note

$\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Shall I ?} \\ \text{Shall you ?} \\ \text{Will he ?} \end{array} \right\}$	Simple enquiry as to what is about to happen. (ভবিষ্যৎ সম্বন্ধে সাধারণ প্রশ্ন)
	$\left. \begin{array}{l} \text{Shall I ?} \\ \text{Will you ?} \\ \text{Shall he ?} \end{array} \right\}$	Enquiry as to the will or desire of the person spoken to about a future action. (যাহাকে বলা হইতেছে তাহার ইচ্ছা কি প্রশ্ন করা হইতেছে)

242 Should and Would follow the same rules as shall and will when they are used as auxiliaries.

243 Should is also used as a principal verb to express :

(a) Duty or obligation in all persons : You should go there. You, he or I should do it. Boys should obey their teachers.

(b) Condition, desire, necessity, approval or disapproval, etc. in all persons : I am anxious that he should pass.

Should you (= if you should) go there, I would punish you. I should go if I were you. A simple child, what should it know of death? I did not know that he should treat me thus.

(c) Modesty in the first person : I should like it.

244 Would is also used as a principal verb :

(a) To denote condition or uncertainty. If you would (also should) go there you would see a new sight.

(b) To denote past determination, habit, or action repeated occasionally and irregularly, in all persons : I repeatedly told him to go, but he would not (determination). While in Calcutta, he would go to the Maidan (habit).

Note

Never write "He would read in this college," because would can never be used of an action done regularly and continuously.

(c) To denote wish in all persons : Do as you would be done by. Would to God, he would come round soon.

(d) To soften down an expression : I hope you would kindly lend me the book.

Note

(a) I would like is wrong, as the idea of liking is already contained in would. But it is used even by good writers, and is given in COD under which (3).

(b) Subjunctive constructions beginning with "should" or "would" should be followed by "should" or "would", instead of by shall or will. Thus, instead of writing, "Should you pass, he will give you a prize" we should write, "Should he would give, etc".

(c) After words denoting intention, desire, anxiety, etc. (but not hope or expectation) the auxiliary verb in a clause introduced by that is shall or should, not will or would. I desire that he should win. I intend that my son shall or should be a lawyer. He is anxious that I shall (or, should) recover soon.

245 Examples :—

{ The school should be closed tomorrow—a certainty and can be spoken only by one in authority.
The school will be closed tomorrow—may be said by anybody.

{ You or he shall be punished—I threaten.
You or he will be punished—a mere statement, the speaker having nothing to do with the punishment.

{ Shall I go there? —Is it your wish that I should go there?
Shall I (or you) die, if I (or you) go there? —a simple enquiry about a future event.

{ Shall he be punished? —Is it your intention to punish him?
Shall you or I be punished? —a simple enquiry.
Will he be punished? —a simple enquiry.
Will you be punished? —Is it your wish to be punished?

- { Who will say to me nay? —an appeal.
 Who shall say to me nay? —a challenge.
 { What shall you or I do if you fail? —a simple enquiry.
 What shall he do if he fails? —What do you desire him to do?
 What will you do if you fail? —What is your desire if you fail?

E EXERCISE 26

(a) Explain the force of the italicised words in the following :—

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. You should speak the truth. | 11. Tomorrow shall be a holiday. |
| 2. I should like to do it myself. | 12. You shall get the thing tomorrow. |
| 3. Would you kindly send me the book? | 13. The boy shall be whipped. |
| 4. Would that he were present. | 14. Shall you go home? |
| 5. I would go to his house when I was there. | 15. Shall he go home? |
| 6. I shall go home. | 16. Will he go home? |
| 7. You shall go home. | 17. Will you go home? |
| 8. He shall go home. | 18. Will he come? |
| 9. The boy shall not leave the room. | 19. Shall he come? |
| 10. Tomorrow will be a holiday. | 20. Shall I come? |
| | 21. Will you go to the place? |

(b) Correct :—

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| 1. I dared not to leave the room. | 5. He dare not to challenge me. |
| 2. He durst leave the room. | 6. Ramesh dares go home. |
| 3. He dare me to the race. | 7. He needs not help me. |
| 4. Jadu dare Ram to fight with him. | 8. Dutt needs not to be anxious. |
| | 9. Bose need not to be anxious. |

(c) Fill in the blanks with 'shall', 'will', 'should', 'would' as required in the following sentences :—

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. The thief — be punished by me. | 13. The magistrate ordered that the prisoner — be released. |
| 2. I assure you that I — help you. | 14. You — do your duty, if you — shine in life. |
| 3. I promise that you — have the money. | 15. Probably there — be a storm this evening. |
| 4. He — control his temper. | 16. You — leave the room, or I — punish you. |
| 5. I — not have been so hasty. | 17. — he stand first in the examination he — be rewarded. |
| 6. I — have my own way. | 18. He desires that you — not go there. |
| 7. Every man — surely die some day. | 19. I intend that you — be a professor. |
| 8. — you kindly give me that post? | |
| 9. — you confer the boon on me? | |
| 10. I — be always grateful to you. | |
| 11. They expect that I — make a speech. | |
| 12. Ask the man and he — tell you. | |

CHAPTER XVIII

QUESTION TAGS

(246) Auxiliaries are very helpful, specially in conversational English, in the framing of short answers, agreements, disagreements, etc. They are also used in the formation of Question Tags.

(247) Question Tags are short phrases added to sentences, statements asking for agreement or confirmation. In affirmative sentences, the question tag is formed by repeating the auxiliary in interrogative form in the negative, expecting the answer 'yes' :

Ram is a good boy, isn't he? (not is he?)
 You can speak French, can't you? (not can you?)
 He has gone, hasn't he?
 Ruby is coming tomorrow, isn't she?
 Rabi would like to go there, wouldn't he?
 You will do this, won't you?
 You have a dog, haven't you?
 These are for sale, aren't they?

In negative sentences, the question tag is formed by repeating the auxiliary in interrogative form in the affirmative, expecting the answer 'no' :

Raju is not a good student, is he? (not isn't he?)
 Maya can't speak Hindi, can she? (not can't she?)
 You need not come, need you?
 They will not go, will they?
 You have'nt read the book, have you?
 The captain did not agree to this, did he?
 You don't know him, do you?
 They haven't any house, have they?
 That was not correct, was it?

When there is no auxiliary, the question tag is formed by the use of the verb 'to do' in the proper form (do, does, did, don't, doesn't, etc.) :

They went to Bombay, didn't they?
 He came to the party, didn't he?
 He speaks French well, doesn't he?

Note

- (a) The subject of the question tag must be a pronoun, never a noun.
- (b) The negative interrogative form of the auxiliary is always used in the contracted form: isn't, can't, doesn't, etc.
- (c) Guard against common errors, as :
- You are coming to school, isn't it? —Incorrect.
 You are coming to school, aren't you? —Correct.
 You haven't been to school, is it? —Incorrect.
 You haven't been to school, have you? —Correct.
- (d) They are ... aren't they?
 You are ... aren't you?
 He is ... isn't he?
 but,
 I am ... aren't I? (not amn't I?)

(248) If there are two auxiliaries in the verb, only the first one is used in the formation of the question tag.

You should have done this, shouldn't you?
 The girl has been crying since morning, hasn't she?

(249) For everyone and everybody as subjects of the main clause, the subject of the question tag is normally "they" : [See Art. 481 (a) Note.]

Everybody can't be clever, can they?
Everyone present made a wild rush for the door, didn't they?

The subject of the tag for everything must always be singular "it" and not "they" :

Everything looked beautiful, didn't it ?

Everything has gone wrong today, hasn't it ?

(250) "When each follows the pronoun (we each, they each, you each), verbs, pronouns and possessive adjectives, in both main sentence and tag, agree with the plural pronoun :

"We each have our problems, haven't we ?" —WOOD

(251) The tag for imperative sentences usually begin with "will" :

Please ask the boys to come in, will you ?

Kindly do me a favour, will you ?

Write down your name, will you ?

Note

For a positive request or command, the tag can be either positive or negative :

Close the door, will you ?

Close the door, won't you ?

Please lend me some money, will you ?

Please lend me some money, won't you ?

But for negative requests or commands, the tag can only be positive :

Don't go there, will you ?

Please don't make noise, will you ?

(252) Statements with no (adj.), none, no one, nothing, hardly, barely, scarcely, seldom, nowhere convey negative idea. So they take positive question tags with them :

No book is allowed, is it ?

None could tell the address, could they ?

You met no one there, did you ?

Nothing was said, was it ?

He hardly smokes, does he ?

You hardly know her, do you ?

He scarcely speaks with her, does he ?

You seldom come here, do you ?

He goes nowhere nowadays, does he ?

(253) When anybody, anyone, no one, nobody, none, neither, are used as subjects, the subject of the question tag is normally they.

Anybody can cross the river, can't they ?

Anyone could have done it, couldn't they ?

No one would object, would they ?

Neither of them complained, did they ?

None came to his help, did they ?

Nobody has ever said this, have they ?

(254) When 'Let' means 'a suggestion', the question tag begins with 'shall' :

Let's go there, shall we ?

Let's us finish the job now, shall we ?

But when 'Let' expresses permission, the question tag begins with 'will'.

Let them play here, will you ?

Let her come in, will you ?

But, He will let her go home tomorrow, won't he ?

(255) If the main clause begins with an introductory 'there', the subject of the question tag is 'there'.

There is some milk in the pot, isn't there? (not, isn't it?)

There are four girls in the class, aren't there? (not, isn't there?)

There is no doctor here, is there? (not, isn't it?)

(256) Used as a subject in the statement, this/that becomes 'it' and these/those becomes 'they' in the question tag.

This (or, That) is a big house, isn't it? (not, isn't this?)

These (or, Those) are toys, aren't they? (not aren't these?)

E EXERCISE 27

Add appropriate question tags to the following :—

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|--|
| 1. He is at home,— | 20. I was right,— |
| 2. You knew that,— | 21. You ought to go out,— |
| 3. He can trust him,— | 22. He couldn't answer him,— |
| 4. He will go there,— | 23. She speaks German,— |
| 5. I was right,— | 24. He usually comes late at night,— |
| 6. Your son is an engineer,— | 25. They used to live here,— |
| 7. She didn't go there,— | 26. She carried the umbrella,— |
| 8. It isn't strong,— | 27. She does not speak German,— |
| 9. You aren't angry,— | 28. They are clever,— |
| 10. He came yesterday,— | 29. You haven't had tea yet,— |
| 11. You have not met him,— | 30. He sings well,— |
| 12. They do not know me,— | 31. Let us go out for a walk now,— |
| 13. The students have done well,— | 32. Shut the door,— |
| 14. We must go now,— | 33. You never met him,— |
| 15. She can't do this,— | 34. None was ready to go,— |
| 16. They were allowed to play,— | 35. You hardly know her,— |
| 17. You won't be long,— | 36. No one appeared to be honest,— |
| 18. They will never come,— | 37. These houses are large,— |
| 19. You needn't go there,— | 38. There are three schools in the village,— |

CHAPTER XIX

THE SEQUENCE OF TENSES

(257) The Sequence of Tenses is the principle in accordance with which the tense of the verb in the subordinate clause follows the tense of the verb in the principal.

(258) The main rules are :

Rule I. If the verb in the Principal clause be present or future, the verb in the Dependent clause may be in any tense [Principal clause-এর verb (এখানে, will say, says) present বা future tense-এর হইলে Dependent clause-এর verb যে কোন tense-এর হইতে পারে]; as,

He will say
or
He says

{ that he does it.
that he did it.
that he will do it.

Rule II. But if the verb in the Principal clause be in the past tense, the verb in the Dependent clause should be in the corresponding past tense (Principal clause-এর verb past tense-এর হইলে Dependent clause-এর verb-ও অনুরূপ past tense-এ হয়); as,

He said that	{	he did it. he had done it. he would do it.
--------------	---	---

But when the Dependent clause expresses universal truth or an habitual fact, the verb is not changed (যদি Dependent clause-টি কোন চিরন্তন সত্য বা অভ্যাসগত ঘটনা প্রকাশ করে তাহা হইলে Principal clause-এর verb-টি past tense-এ হইলেও Dependent clause-এর verb-টি present tense-এ থাকে):

He said that	{	honesty is the best policy. man is mortal. he takes bath in the Ganges every day.
--------------	---	--

Rule III. When the Dependent clause denotes comparison, or does the work of an adjective, any tense in the Principal clause may be followed by any tense in the Dependent:

He loves you or, He loved you or, He will love you	}	more than he	{	loves me. loved me. will love me.
I see the man or, I saw the man or, I shall see the man	}	who	{	does the work. did the work. will do the work.

E EXERCISE 28

Fill in the blanks with verbs:—

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. He was sorry that I — not help him.
2. I could not go as I — suffering from fever.
3. He did not know that the earth — round.
4. I learnt that he — ill, but — not go to see him.
5. He failed because he — not listen to the advice of his friends.
6. He had an attack of diarrhoea because he — too much. | 7. As the storm blew, we — not start.
8. He said that examples — better than precept.
9. When I called at the house he — gone away.
10. I was glad to hear that you — won the prize.
11. He said that he — come shortly.
12. I did not know when he — come.
13. I thought that he — come in time. |
|--|---|

CHAPTER XX

TENSES IN CONDITIONAL SENTENCES

- (259) Conditional sentences have two parts :
 (a) If clause (conditional clause)
 (b) Main clause

If it rains, I shall not go.

In the above sentence, "If it rains" is the if-clause (or, conditional clause) and "I shall not go" is the main clause.

Conditional sentences are of three types and each type contains a different pair of tenses.

The verb in the if clause (conditional clause) is in the present tense ; the verb in the main clause is the future simple. It does not matter which comes first. This type of sentence implies that the action in the if-clause is quite probable.
As,

If he runs, he'll reach there in time. (He may run, or may not)
You will fail if you do not work hard.

Note that the meaning here is present or future but the verb in the conditional clause is in the present tense, not a future tense.

(a) If the reference is to an action in the present tense, the tenses of both the conditional clause and main clause are present. As,

If you do not read, you fail.

If you heat ice, it turns into water.

If there is a shortage in supply, the prices go up.

If you remain absent, you lose your job.

(b) If the reference is to a future action, the main clause is in future tense but the conditional clause remains in the present tense :

If I go there, I shall see him.

If I get the money, I shall help you.

If you read well, you will pass.

(c) When the main clause signifies an order or an instruction, imperatives are used instead of future tense in the main clause :

If you meet him, ask him to ring me up.

If he is ill, tell him not to come tomorrow.

(d) In polite requests, both the clauses could be in future tense :

If you will wait for a moment, I will just go and bring my purse.

I would be grateful if you would send somebody to receive me at the station.

261 Type II

(a) The verb in the if-clause is in the past tense ; the verb in the main clause is in the conditional tense :

If I had money, I would lend you some.

(But I haven't money. The meaning here is present.)

If you tried to force me, I would resist by all means.

(The meaning here is future)

Note that Past Tense in the if-clause is not a true past but a subjunctive.

(b) Imaginary condition :

If I were you, I should accept the offer.

If he was/were here, he would know the real story.

Which would you take if you were offered a choice ?

(c) Note the variations of the main clause :

If you tried again, you might succeed. (possible result)

If I knew your brother, I could see him. (ability)

প্রতিদিনের Current Affairs, বিভিন্ন Update, গুরুত্বপূর্ণ খবর, চাকরির খবর, Motivational Quotes...

Join Now

Click Here

Telegram

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস

প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

WhatsApp

Join Now

Click Here

বিভিন্ন প্রতিযোগিতামূলক পরীক্ষার জন্য গুরুত্বপূর্ণ Free Study Materials, PDF ইত্যাদি দিয়ে থাকি...

If he had the qualifications he could get a job. (ability or permission)

If you knew she was in trouble, you should have helped her.

(d) Note the variations of the if-clause :

If you were going by car, you would reach much early.

If he had taken your advice, he would be a successful man now.

262 Type III

The verb in the if-clause is in the past perfect tense, the verb in the main clause is in the perfect conditional. The time referred to is past ; the condition cannot be fulfilled because the action in the conditional clause did not happen.

If I had tried sincerely, I would have got the post. (But, I didn't get because I didn't try sincerely)

If you had written to me, I would have sent you the book by post. (But, you didn't write)

If we had met him there, we could/might have told him the whole story.

Had we met him there, we could have told him the whole story ('If' is omitted and 'had' placed at the beginning)

Note

(a) The continuous form of the perfect conditional may be used in the main clause :

If I had not been there, you would have been facing a great trouble there.

(b) Past perfect continuous can also be used in the if-clause :

If you had been noting it seriously, you would not have missed it.

EXAMPLE WORKED OUT

Put the verbs in brackets into the correct forms :

- If he (comes), I (be) happy.
- If I (have) a house I couldn't use, I (sell) it.
- If he (admit) his guilt, I (not punish) him.
- If you (protest), the party (expel) you.
- If I (be) you, I (not do) it.
- If it rains, we (not go) to school.
- If you had asked me to do it, I (do) it.
- If you send him on Monday, he (reach) there on Tuesday.
- If he (not read) the letter thoroughly, he would have missed the point.
- If I had been you, I (not agree) to the proposal.
- If you (go) on a diet, you would lose weight.
- If he had all the wealth in the world, he (not be) happy.
- If he (be) only fifteen, he still (be) at school.
- If the earth suddenly (stop) spinning, we would all fly off it.
- If you had told me that you wanted to go there, I (help) you.

- Ans.
- If he comes, I shall be happy.
 - If I had a house I couldn't use, I would sell it.
 - If he had admitted his guilt, I would not have punished him. or, If he admits his guilt, I would not punish him.
 - If you protest, the party expels you.
 - If I were you, I should not do it.
 - If it rains, we shall not go to school.
 - If you had asked me to do it, I would have done it.
 - If you send him on Monday, he would reach there on Tuesday.
 - If he had not read the letter thoroughly, he would have missed the point.
 - If I had been you, I would not have agreed to the proposal.
 - If you go on a diet, you would lose weight.
 - If he had all the wealth in the world, he would not be happy.

13. If he was/were only fifteen, he would still be at school.
14. If the earth suddenly stopped spinning, we would all fly off it.
15. If you had told me that you wanted to go there, I would have helped you.

E EXERCISE 29

Put the verbs in brackets in the correct forms :

1. If he comes today, he (meet) my brother.
2. If you (shout), I would complain to the teacher.
3. If he (leave) now, he will be sorry afterwards.
4. If I had time, I (visit) him.
5. If he (work) all night, he would finish in time.
6. If I (be) you, I (do) the job.
7. If you (read) well, you get good marks.
8. If I (go) there, I could see him.
9. If you had been in my position, you (realise) the difficulty.
10. If I (know) you were still in Bombay, I would have gone to your place.
11. What you (do) if you missed the train?
12. If the weather (be) good, we would have started early.
13. If I were not so ill, I (go) with you.
14. He would have refused even if they (offer) him twice as much.
15. If only you had started early, you (reach) in time.

CHAPTER XXI

ADVERBS

(263) Definition — An Adverb is a word which generally qualifies a verb, an adjective or another adverb ; but it also qualifies a sentence or any part of speech except a Noun and a Pronoun. [But see Note (b).]

- (a) Verb : He walks slowly.
- (b) Adj. : This is a very beautiful picture.
- (c) Adv : This can be done more easily.
- (d) Participle : It is a very charming scene.
- (e) Preposition : He came right through the field. I arrived long before the time.
- (f) Conjunction : I hate him simply because he is a liar. He came just after I had left.
- (g) Sentence : Unfortunately I failed. Evidently, you are wrong.

Note

(a) In the examples given in (e) above, the adverbs right and long may be taken as qualifying the whole phrases through the field and before the time. Similarly, simply and just in the examples in (f) may be taken as qualifying the whole adverbial clauses because he is a liar and after I had left respectively.

(b) Adverbs never qualify Nouns or Pronouns. This is the work of Adjectives. A few confusing examples may be considered below :

This pen is certainly mine. Do not give me too many. He is almost a drunkard. I am, yours sincerely, Ramesh.

In the first two sentences, certainly and too are really concerned with the adjectival elements of mine and many respectively, and therefore, the adverbs virtually qualify adjectives.

In the third sentence, almost qualifies the whole phrase 'a drunkard' (and not is, as stated by Nesfield, unless we are to altogether lose the force of the word).

In the last sentence, Nesfield parses sincerely as modifying the adjective element in yours. "But this is certainly not allowable; the 'sincerity' implied in yours sincerely refers to the speaker, not to the person addressed. The difficulty may be obviated by treating sincerely as qualifying am."

But a reference to the Oxford University Clarendon Press on this point by the present writer has brought forth the following reply "... It becomes clear therefore that to say that an adverb cannot qualify a pronoun is to take too narrow a view. No doubt the current view that an adverb cannot do so has been taken over from Greek and Latin. You will find further discussion of the way in which adverbs may qualify pronouns in".

(264) Classification of Adverbs—Adverbs are divided into three classes according to their use :

(a) Simple or Independent Adverbs are those that merely qualify some word or sentence : He reads well. I can run fast. Unfortunately, I failed.

(b) Conjunctive or Relative Adverbs are those that not only qualify a word but also connect two clauses. When the antecedent is expressed, the adverb is Relative ; but when it is not expressed, it is Conjunctive. Thus in : "I know why he did it" and "I know the reason why he did it," the first why is Conjunctive, and the second why Relative. The principal adverbs of this kind are how, when, why, where, while.

(c) Interrogative Adverbs are those that are used in asking questions, direct and indirect : Why are you sorry ? How did you do it ? Tell me when he will come. Do you know where he lives ?

(265) Simple Adverbs are subdivided into many classes according to their meaning :

(a) Adverbs of Time or Frequency show when or how often a thing happens :
Now, then, when, early, always, before, daily, ever, never, soon, while, ago, already, twice, once, immediately, today, yesterday, frequently, etc.

(b) Adverbs of Place show where a thing happens :
There, where, hither, thither, near, above, after, below, hence, etc.

(c) Adverbs of Manner or Quality show how a thing is done :
Well, badly, ill, aloud, thus, wisely, quickly, how, highly, etc.

This is the largest class of adverbs and in it are included nearly all those derived from adjectives and ending in ly : carefully, narrowly, dutifully, peacefully, etc.

(d) Adverbs of Quantity or Degree or Number show how much or to what extent a thing happens :

Almost, enough, half, hardly, every, much, too, less, least, more, little, rather, abundantly, quite, once, twice, etc.

(e) Adverbs of Cause and Effect show why a thing is done, and its effect :
Why, therefore, wherefore, accordingly, consequently, hence (for that reason).

(f) Adverbs of Order show the order in which a thing is done :
First, second, secondly, last, lastly, etc.

(g) Adverbs of Affirmation and Negation express affirmation or negation :

Yes, no, not, certainly, perhaps, indeed, probably, possibly, nay, truly, really, etc.

(266) “The” as an adverb : “The” is sometimes used as a Relative Adverb of quantity (= by how much, to what extent) followed by its antecedent ‘the’, which is a Demonstrative Adverb of quantity (= by so much ; to that extent) ; as, ‘The (Rel. Adv.) more, the (Dem. Adv.) merrier.’ ‘The sooner, the better.’

(267) “There” is an Introductory Adverb when it is used merely to introduce a sentence, with no meaning of place : There is a man there. There lived in this village a man named Suren.

(268) Yes and No—(a) These are often classed as adverbs, but in reality they are substitute words or sentence words, standing for whole sentences. Thus, in “Is he in? Yes (or No),” Yes (or No) clearly stands for the sentence, He is in (or He is not in). A few other words often so used are certainly, sorry, capital, pardon, etc.

(b) The use of “yes” and “no” should be carefully noted.

Yes is a substitute for an affirmative sentence, but No is a substitute for a negative sentence. Thus :

Has he gone ?	{ Yes (i.e. , He has gone)
	{ No (i.e. , He has not gone).
Didn't he go ?	{ Yes (i.e. , He did go).
	{ No (i.e. , He did not go).

Note

The use of not in a question often implies that an affirmative reply is expected. Thus, when one asks, “Is he not a good boy?” one expects that the answer would be “Yes”.

(269) (a) As follows—In modern English ‘The construction in as follows is impersonal, and the verb should always be singular’ (OED) : My reasons are as follows. —POD.

(b) Else is an adverb, not a conjunction. Hence, it is wrong to write, “Hurry up, else you will miss the train.” Write “Hurry up, or (or, or else) you will miss the train.” (COD., Chambers, Wood ; but Nesfield uses it as conj. also).

(270) First is itself an adverb and hence does not require -ly. So, in enumeration, we should write, first, secondly, thirdly : But Fowler rightly remarks, “It is the pedant that begins his list with first.”

(271) Seldom or never, seldom if ever—It is to be noted that the above are the correct forms, and not seldom or ever :

He seldom or never (not, ever) comes to me. Such a boy is seldom or never (or, seldom if ever) seen in this village.

(272) Other Parts of speech used as Adverbs :

(a) Noun—He went home. The wall is breast high.

Note

(i) Nouns used adverbially are generally nouns of weight, distance, time, place, value, measurement, etc. Sec Art. 61 (e).

(ii) Next June, next Friday, etc. can be used as adverbs without a preposition (shall begin it next June); but if next is put after the noun, idiom requires a preposition (may be expected in June next, on Monday next)—MEU. Similarly with last Sunday, etc.

- (b) Pronoun— He is none the better today.
 (c) Adjective— He is dead drunk. He sat silent.
 (d) Verb— Smack (making a sharp noise) went the whip.
 (e) Preposition— Down went the ship. I told you before.

(273) Adverbs (mostly Adverbs of Manner and Adverbs of Quality) are compared like Adjectives with er and est, more and most, or irregularly :

(a) Adverbs of one syllable form their comparative and superlative by adding -er and -est respectively.

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
fast	faster	fastest
soon	sooner	soonest
late	later	latest
long	longer	longest
hard	harder	hardest
slow	slower	slowest

(b) Adverbs ending in -ly form their comparative by adding more and less and superlative by adding most and least before them :

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
slowly	more slowly less slowly	most slowly least slowly wisely	more wisely less wisely	most wisely least wisely rapidly	more rapidly less rapidly	most rapidly least rapidly quickly	more quickly less quickly	most quickly least quickly swiftly	more swiftly less swiftly	most swiftly least swiftly

But, early earlier earliest.

(c) Some Adverbs form their comparatives and superlatives in an irregular way :

Positive	Comparative	Superlative
well, good	better	best little	less	least
much	more	most
forth	further	furthest

(d) Many Adverbs do not have any comparative form :

now, then, here, there, once, already, almost.

Since both Adjectives and Adverbs have the characteristic of comparison, we shall have to consider the function to distinguish between the two. Adjectives will make comparison about Nouns ; adverbs will make comparison about verbs, adjectives and other adverbs.

(274) Adverbial Phrases are two or more words having the force of an Adverb :
Now and then, by and by, off and on, up and down, in time, in short, in vain, heart and soul, bag and baggage, by no means, etc.

(275) Degree Adverbs can be classified as : Intensifiers and Downtoners.

(a) Intensifiers are adverbs that heighten the effect of the verb, adjective or another adverb : certainly, surely, entirely, fully, indeed, completely, absolutely, extremely, really, just, etc.

I will certainly help you.

We completely agree with you.

(b) Downtoners are adverbs that tone down the effect of the verb, adjective or another adverb : partly, slightly, little, nearly, almost, barely, more or less, etc.

The job is nearly complete.

The iceberg was barely visible.

(276) Sentence-Adverbs are those (then, now, so, perhaps, indeed, therefore, yet, accordingly, however, moreover, otherwise, thus, consequently, besides, etc.) that qualify the whole sentence. They usually stand at the beginning of the sentence :

Then, this is your story. Perhaps he is innocent. Now, what is your aim in life? Accordingly, we went by the other road ; and so we escaped the danger. Moreover, we were given some food.

Bear in mind that most of these adverbs are also used as ordinary adverbs qualifying simple words : He is so ill that he cannot walk. I shall go there then. What will you do now ?

(277) Quasi-Adverb is the term applied to a few adjectives that are sometimes used idiomatically as adverbs : He acted contrary to my advice. He arrived prior to that. Some other adverbs of this kind are : previous, preparatory, pursuant, preliminary, regardless, irrespective, etc.

(278) General Rules for the Position of Adverbs :—

A. (a) The Adverb usually follows an Intransitive Verb :

He lives there. He came early.

Exceptions— But adverbs of time, such as, always, seldom, never, ever, often, sometimes, frequently, etc. are placed before all verbs other than the verb to be :—He frequently told me this. He always supports me. They seldom do it. I never (or often) go there. He sometimes talks too much. But—

He is always cheerful. I am often busy. They are never late.

(b) The Adverb usually follows the object :

I did it quickly. He felt it keenly. You have learnt your lesson well. He sent the letter late. He did the work boldly.

Exceptions— But, for the sake of emphasis, the adverb sometimes changes its position :—Silently and slowly he entered the room. Cheerfully he gave me the news.

(c) The Adverb usually comes between the Auxiliary and the Principal Verb : I have often seen him there. I shall never go there. He has carefully examined the case. I shall certainly go.

(d) The Adverb precedes the Adjective it qualifies :— I am rather sorry for you. I am very happy.

But enough, when an Adverb, always follows the word it qualifies :— I am strong enough to walk. He was wise enough to accept the offer.

Note

As an Adjective, however, enough may be placed either before or after the Noun it qualifies : I have enough strength to go there ; I have strength enough to go there.

(e) An Adverb is placed first in a sentence (i) to qualify the whole sentence, and (ii) for the sake of emphasis :

(i) Happily he did not die. Fortunately he was present there.

(ii) Down went the Royal George.

Particular care has to be taken in the use of only. How the meaning of the sentence is changed by the change of place of the word will be clear from the following examples :—

(i) Only he agreed to help that boy (i.e., no one else agreed to do it).

(ii) He only agreed to help that boy (i.e., he agreed to help, but did not actually help).

(iii) He agreed only to help that boy (i.e., to do nothing else).

(iv) He agreed to help only that boy, or, to help that boy only (i.e., to help no one else).

What part of speech is only in (i)? Nesfield treats it as an adjective qualifying the Pronoun 'he'. But, according to the POD, it is an Adverb. This is rather puzzling. Clearly the word qualifies 'he'. How, then can it be an Adverb unless we admit that an Adverb may qualify a Pronoun also? See also Art. 263, Note (b).

B. Word order of Adverbs of Manner, Place and Time :

Though absolute rules cannot be made in these cases, the tables below indicate the normal order :

(a)	Subject/verb	How	Where	When
	She works	hard	in the garden	on Sundays.

(b) But when the verb is a verb of movement like come, go, jump, run, etc., we are usually most interested in where someone is going. So the order is :

Subject/verb	Where	How	When
He returned	home	as usual	in the evening.

(c) When there are a number of long adverbial phrases or we want to emphasise the time, we can put the time adverbial (when) at the beginning of the sentence :

When	Subject/verb (obj.)	How	Where
As soon as he saw me	he took me	hurriedly	home.

E EXERCISE 30

Put the words in brackets at proper places :—

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|--|
| 1. I go there (never, seldom). | 11. He comes late (never). |
| 2. He has left the place (already). | 12. I felt it (keenly). |
| 3. He supports me (always). | 13. I am sorry (rather). |
| 4. He finished the work (quickly). | 14. He has examined the paper (carefully). |
| 5. The boy has done his part (well). | 15. He is strong to go there (enough). |
| 6. I have seen him (often). | 16. I have seen him (never). |
| 7. He has gone home (already). | 17. He is sorry for you (rather). |
| 8. He talks too much (sometimes). | 18. I shall do it (never). |
| 9. He is active (very). | 19. He has examined the case (already). |
| 10. He comes in time (always). | |

PREPOSITIONS

(279) Definition — A preposition is a word placed before a noun or a noun-equivalent to show its relation to some other word in the sentence : He came to me. Put it on the table.

Note

(a) Preposition may also govern other parts of speech used as noun : From here, before now, for good, in short, about to go.

(b) Prepositions may govern phrases and clauses as well : It depends on how you do your duty. I shall go to where you have come from. I am ignorant of how to do it.

(280) Prepositions sometimes follow the words they govern when the object is an interrogative or relative pronoun understood ; particularly the relative that is never governed by a preposition preceding it :

What is this for? Where do you come from? This is the boy that I spoke of. This is the boy (whom) I spoke to.

(281) Phrase Prepositions or Prepositional Phrases are phrases used as preposition :— on account of, instead of, in spite of, by means of, owing to, by dint of, in accordance with.

He could not come on account of illness. In spite of hard labour he failed in the examination. Instead of coming here, he went home.

(282) Participial Prepositions are present or past participles which are now used as prepositions :— Do you know anything concerning or regarding the proposal? The river flows past the town. See Art. 219 (c), Note (a).

(283) Disguised Prepositions :—In examples like 'Rice sells one kilo a rupee', 'He comes twice a week', etc., a is not the Indefinite Article, but a weakened form of the Preposition on. So also in ahead, asleep, ahunting, etc.

(284) Than— The word is normally a Conjunction, following a comparative degree. But it is also used as a Preposition in some cases, particularly before Relative and Personal Pronouns.

"Than whom is standard English today, admitted and blessed by the Oxford Dictionary"—Good English by G.H. Vallins. See also The Complete Plain Words by Sir Ernest Gowers.

We selected your son than whom no better man was available. He is better than me in every respect. No one other than him was present there. He did nothing else than (to) laugh. He got more than (what) he asked for. See also MEU under than—sec. 6.

(285) The same word may be an Adverb or a Preposition :

He went on (Adverb). Sit on the bench (Preposition).

Sit down (Adv.). The boat goes down the river (Prep.).

(286) Use of a few Prepositions :

At

At 8 o'clock ; at dawn (but in the dawn, in the day) ; at bed-time ; at first ; at last ; at first sight, at noon ; at night (but not at day), at home ; at school ; at the door ; at play ; at work (I found them at play or at work, খেলায় বা কাজে নিযুক্ত) ; at dinner ; at ease ; at sea ; He studied at this university ; at a distance ; at short notice ; at liberty (The prisoner was set at liberty, মুক্ত) ; I did not expect such treatment at your hands

(= from you); shouted at the boys; look at me; very good at cricket; at full speed; You will hear at the latest by Saturday; at all places; to sit at (not under) the feet; at present (I am busy at present, বর্তমানে); at any moment; to sell a thing at three for a rupee; at war; at any time; at peace (The two countries are at war or at peace with each other.); at the office; at the age of sixty; I shall see you at Dewali at his house; at hand (The examination is at hand, খুব সন্নিকটে); one at a time; at things; at the same time; at school; at the beginning; at the meeting; good at mathematics; at the third attempt; at regular intervals; at 25, Chowringhee Road.

By

To travel by boat or rail or car (but on foot or horseback or cycle); by day (but in the day); by or at night (but in the night); a machine driven by steam or petrol or electricity; to be destroyed by fire or earthquake; to know one by name or sight (I know him by name, I know him by sight.); to teach by example; to live by coaching, teaching, etc.; made by machinery; by next Sunday¹; by heart (মন দিয়ে); by chance; to send a letter by post (ডাকে) or hand (লোক মারফৎ); to inform a person by letter or telegram or messenger; to sell things by the kilogram or the metre or the dozen (Fish is sold here by the kilogram. Cloth is sold by the metre. Eggs are sold by the dozen.); to pay by cheque (but in cash or notes); die by poison or accident; done by hand; by word of mouth; older by five months; It is 10-30 by (not in) my watch; by this time; die by thousands; struck by lightning; a room ten feet by fifteen; live by the river; sit by me; I did this work all by myself.

Note

¹*By* expresses the limit of time within which something is to be done.

For

Crying out for fear; a house for sale; to take for granted; For God's sake, help me; For (= in spite of) all his wealth he is unhappy; to sell a thing at three for a rupee; good for health; many men working for the company; time for going out; respect for the elders; He cares for nothing; a prize for mathematics; silent for shame; to flee for life; wise for (considering that he is) a boy; I speak for (= on behalf of) my class; He left for home; ready for (against) emergencies; word for word (প্রতিটি বাক্য); train for Kolkata; bought a car for Rs. 3 lakh; change it for another; look for something; send for a doctor; They are all for helping the needy; big for his age; for five weeks; passengers for Kolkata; get ready for school; go for a walk; read for pleasure; hope for the best; ask for money; a taste for music; have a liking for her; unfit for the post; ruined for life.

In

In India; in 1986; in February; to be in a place (room or garden or village or heaven); in ruins (The town is in ruins now.); to be in the dark; in the sun (Dry the cloth in the sun.); to be in danger; in haste; in a difficulty; in arms (The people are in arms against the king); to be in power (His party is in power now.); threw dust in (not into) my eyes; in office (চাকুরিতে নিযুক্ত) (He is not in office now); in truth (In truth, I know nothing of the matter); to be in trouble; ten or twelve in number; in a whisper; to be in readiness; to be in good (or bad) health; in debt; He is in; to be ready in five minutes; playing in the park; in the shade; in his presence or absence (I did this in his presence or absence.); Take the work in (not on) hand; in time (He came in time, ঠিক সময়ে); in general (People in general are ignorant of the matter.) ; pay in (not with) cash or notes (but by cheque) ; fill in (or up) the forms ; in a hurry ; in secret ; in the open ; in time of war ; in a temper ; in reply ; in addition to ; pay in advance ; written in ink or in pencil ; to be in the army or the navy or the police ; in summer ; in pain ; standing in the corner of the room (but, the house at the corner) ; a holiday in the mountains (but, at the sea side) ; sitting in an armchair (but, on a chair without arms) ; a ride in a motor cycle ; wounded in the leg ; in sorrow ; in the morning (but on the morning of Sunday) ; in the evening (but, at night, at midnight, at noon) ; in the day time ; in the afternoon ; at ten o'clock in the night (but, he came at night.) ; a man in his thirties ; a slope of one in ten ; dressed in white ; people standing in rows ; in a loud voice ; in great numbers ; rich in minerals, lying in bed (but, sitting on the bed) ; train running in time ; a lecturer/reader in (not, on or of) Chemistry.

On

On Sunday ; on 4th May ; on Christmas Day ; to lie on one's bed ; to be on the way (He is on the way to office.) ; a speech on the subject ; came on holiday (on business) ; a picture on the wall ; write on this paper (but in a book) ; a house on fire ; to play on a musical instrument ; live on rice, on a small income ; live on capital invested ; He is on (not in) that committee ; Kolkata is on the Hooghly ; a house on the main road (or, on Chowringhee Road) ; a picture on the wall ; a ring on his finger ; shops on both sides ; on the north side of the city ; on land, on sea (but, in the air) ; on the road (I met him on the road.) ; on hire or trial ; a fruit on the tree ; on foot or on horseback ; to be on (not in) good terms with him ; to be on duty ; on oath (He said this on oath.) ; an essay on a subject ; on time (punctually) (train running on time) ; on trial ; on demand ; on request ; to work on (not with) an empty stomach ; houses on the left ; a lunch on the train ; news on TV ; a lecture on (not, in) a topic.

Note

1. on time : (at the appointed time, নির্দিষ্ট সময়ে)

in time : (not late, early enough, নির্দিষ্ট সময়ের পূর্বে বা মধ্যে)

2. 'on' is used for dates and for particular days or specified parts of days, 'at' for a point of time ; 'in' for a portion of the day :

I shall see you on October 5th/on Sunday/on Christmas Day/on Sunday afternoon/at 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

3. "Dr Watson is at ... University, where he lectures in English literature. This term he is lecturing on the nineteenth century novelists." — Wood.

Of

Speak of him ; Do not lose sight of (not from) the fact ; knowledge of (not on) English ; beg a thing of (not from) him ; made of wood ; a packet of cigarettes ; three of them ; He comes of (not from) a good family ; born of (not from) rich parents ; died of (not from) cholera ; cured of illness ; the whole of India ; the city of Kolkata ; It was good of you to help me ; professor of English.

Note

(i) Dr. Sen is the Professor of English in the University of Calcutta (but, at Calcutta University).

(ii) "A college always takes at ; Professor of Philosophy at King's College, University of London.

The same is true of Reader and Lectuer ; but whereas a professor is Professor of his subject, readers and lecturers are described as 'Reader/Lecturer in Modern History, Psychology, Latin, etc.'" — Wood.

To

Go to bed (শোওয়া, I go to bed at 10 p.m.) ; Add this to (not with) that ; sweet to taste; They fought to the last man (যতক্ষণ পর্য্যন্ত একজন লোকও অবশিষ্ট ছিল); He did it to his cost (এই কার্য করিয়া সে ক্ষতিগ্রস্ত হইয়াছিল); Sing to the harp (বীণা সহযোগে গান করা); What is he to you (তোমার কি সম্পর্কীয়)?; beaten to death; Seven is to fourteen as two is to four; Rise to high rank; five minutes to six.

Under

Under water or a tree; to be under another (অন্যের অধীন) (He works under me.); under trial (বিচারাধীন) (He is under trial now.); under sentence (দণ্ডাজ্ঞাপ্রাপ্ত) (He is under sentence of death.); a post under government; under repair; to be under arms (অস্ত্রশস্ত্রে সজ্জিত); (About ten percent of the people there are under arms.); under consideration (বিবেচনাধীন) (Your application is under consideration.); under Rs. 100.

E EXERCISE 31

(a) Pick out the Prepositional Phrases and Prepositions :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. He sat on the bench. | 5. He stood in front of the door. |
| 2. He looks after my estate. | 6. Potato sells at five rupees a kilo. |
| 3. He is senior to me in respect of age. | 7. He goes there thrice a week. |
| 4. In view of his ill health he was let go without any punishment. | 8. I sent for him. |

(b) State the parts of speech of the italicised words :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. He came down . | 7. He could not call up my name. |
| 2. The boat flowed down the stream. | 8. He pulled me up . |
| 3. He ran on . | 9. The meeting broke up . |
| 4. We sat on the bench. | 10. The rebels were brought under . |
| 5. Please come in . | 11. The case is under trial. |
| 6. There was none in the room. | |

(c) Fill in the blanks with prepositions :—

- | | |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1. He came here — rail. | 11. We live — rice. |
| 2. This train is running — time. | 12. He came — power very soon. |
| 3. He said this — oath. | 13. This food is not — my taste. |
| 4. I am — the know of the thing. | 14. I met him — the way. |
| 5. He came — foot. | 15. Send the news — wire. |
| 6. He is — school. | 16. He was beaten — death. |
| 7. I know him — name. | 17. He is — power now. |
| 8. He is — work now. | 18. I did this — you. |
| 9. She is playing — a sitar. | 19. The proposal is — consideration. |
| 10. Don't go out — the sun. | 20. I paid him — cash. |

CHAPTER XXIII

CONJUNCTIONS

(287) The same word may be an adverb, a preposition or a conjunction :

I saw him before. (Adverb)

He stood before me. (Preposition)

He shall do it before I return. (Conjunction)

(288) Compound Conjunctions are groups of words that are sometimes used to do the work of single conjunctions :

Ram as well as Karim went there. He acted as if (or as though) he were mad. I shall help you in case you fail.

(289) Conjunctions in pairs—Certain conjunctions are used in pairs ; they are sometimes called correlative conjunctions or correlatives (But, see Art. 488) :

Either he or his brother is guilty. Neither he nor his brother is guilty. Both he and his brother are guilty. Not only he but his brother also will go.

(290) Conjunctions are divided into two main classes :—

(i) Co-ordinating Conjunctions join words or phrases or clauses of equal rank : He said this to him and me. He sat behind you, but in front of me. You may go ; only make no noise.

(ii) Subordinating Conjunctions are those that join a subordinate or dependent clause to a principal clause : He said that he was ill. As I am ill, I cannot go. I shall go if you come.

Note

(a) Clauses are co-ordinate when one is not dependent on another nor enters at all into its construction : I am ill, but he is well. You are healthy and you have got money.

(b) One clause is said to be subordinate to, or dependent on, another when it depends upon the other. The clause on which the subordinate clause depends is called the Principal clause.

(c) Bear in mind that subordinate clauses too may be co-ordinate to each other. This is the boy who came here and gave the information. He said that he would come but would not stay.

(291) Co-ordinating Conjunctions are of four kinds :

(a) Cumulative or Copulative, that simply add :

And : I read and he writes.

Both—and : Both he and his brother will go.

As well as : He as well as his brother will go.

Not only—but also : Not only he but his brother also will go.

Also : He was there, and you also.

(b) Alternative or Disjunctive, denoting a choice between two things :

Either—or : Either he or his brother will go.

Neither—nor : Neither he nor his brother will go.

Or : Read or you will fail.

Otherwise : Work hard, otherwise you will fail.

(c) Adversative, denoting a contrast between two ideas :

But, yet, still : He is poor, but (yet, still) he is honest.

However : You are guilty ; however, I pardon you this time.

Nevertheless : I am ill ; nevertheless, I shall compete.

On the contrary : I do not hate him ; on the contrary, I love him.

While, whereas : You failed, while (whereas) your brother passed.

Only : You may come ; only make no noise.

(d) Illative, denoting an inference :

Therefore, so, consequently : He did not work ; therefore (so, consequently) he failed.

For : I do not like him, for he is a wicked boy.

Note

For may be regarded as weakened because, and the clause introduced by it may look like a subordinate one. But modern grammarians hold that, as a conjunction, it is co-ordinating. "It introduces a statement by way of explanation as a kind of afterthought While a causal clause beginning with since, because, may precede the main sentence, that beginning with for must always follow it."

(292) Subordinating Conjunctions indicate :—

(a) Time :

Till, untill : Wait till it is night. Wait until I return.

After : He came after I had left.

Before : He died before he could do the work.

When : He came when I was there.

While : Don't go out while it rains.

Since : I have not seen him since I came.

Note

The compound conjunctions, as long as, as soon as, so long as fall under this class.

(b) Cause or Reason :

As, since : As (since) I am ill, I cannot go.

Because : He cannot work because he is ill.

Note

(i) Good English requires that the clause introduced by as, the causal conjunction, should precede the main clause.

(ii) The clause giving the reason in sentences containing expressions "the reason is", "the reason why" is introduced by that, and not by because or due to or on account of :

The reason why he failed is that he did not work hard.

The reason why he failed is because he did not work hard. (Incorrect)

The reason of his failure is that he did not work hard.

The reason of his failure is because he did not work hard. (Incorrect)

But, the reason of his failure is (not, due to) his idleness.

(c) Purpose :

That, in order that, so that : He works hard that (in order that or so that) he may win the prize.

Lest : I worked hard lest I should fail.

Note

(i) Lest expresses a negative purpose, and should not, therefore, be followed by a negative. Thus, we cannot write, "He was afraid lest he should not pass." We must write instead, "He was afraid lest he should fail." It is also to be noted that 'lest' is followed by 'should' or the present subjunctive, never by will or would : Lest we forget ; lest he be angry.

(ii) In order that, so that, etc. are followed generally by may or might, in some context, by shall and should, but never by can or could, or will or would :

He encouraged me that (or, in order that) I might not lose heart. He works hard that (in order that) he may pass. I give you this advice so that you may succeed. He is making provision for you so that you may not fall in want. I give you this advice in order that nothing should be forgotten. (MEU).

(d) Apposition :

That : He wrote to us that he would come.

(e) Condition :

If : I shall go if you come.

Unless : I shall fail unless you help me.

Whether—or—not : I shall go there, whether you like it or not.

Provided : I shall help you provided you obey me.

(f) Effect :

So—that : He worked so hard that he fell ill.

Such—that : He is such a fool that I cannot rely on him.

(g) Comparison :

As—as : He is as tall as you.

Than : He is taller than you (are).

So—as : I am not so tall as you (are).

Note

Generally, as—as is used in both positive and negative sentences, but so—as is used in negative sentences. But COD has under as "It is not so (or as) easy as you think."

(h) Manner :

As—so ; As you sow, so shall you reap.

According as : They will be chosen according as they are fit.

As if, as though : He behaves as if (or, as though) he were (not is) mad (= as he would have acted if he were mad). It looks as if new men had (not have) sprung up.

Note

As if, as though should invariably be followed by a past conditional, not by a present form (would, not will ; could, not can ; did, not does ; was or were, not is ; had gone, not has gone ; knew, not knows)—MEU. See examples given above. But Wood justifies "He works as if he is drunk" (p. 25).

(i) Concession :

Though (although) : Though (although) he is poor, he is honest.

As : Poor as (= though) I am, I am honest.

However : However strong he may be, he cannot do this.

Whoever : Whoever you may be, I cannot allow you here.

Whatever : Whatever you may say, I do not believe you.

EEXERCISE 32*(a) Put proper Conjunctions in the blank spaces :—

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1. He left — I had come. | 10. He is poor — honest. |
| 2. Time — tide wait for none. | 11. Wait — I return. |
| 3. I do not know — he was here. | 12. He works — you play. |
| 4. — I am ill I cannot go. | 13. I tried hard, — I failed. |
| 5. Is he a friend — a foe? | 14. Beware — you should fall. |
| 6. He was sorry — he could not pass. | 15. I love him — he is honest. |
| 7. I shall do it — I am allowed. | 16. He is — honest — you. |
| 8. He is so ill — he cannot walk. | 17. He is not — honest — you. |
| 9. I wonder — he will come. | |

(b) Point out the Conjunctions in the following sentences, and state whether they are co-ordinating or subordinating :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. I went there when he was ill. | 10. Though you are strong, I care a straw for you. |
| 2. He is rich but miserly. | 11. I hear that he has come. |
| 3. Not only he but his father also was present. | 12. He asked whether you had come. |
| 4. You may like it or not, it matters little. | 13. Do not go before I come. |
| 5. If you read you will learn. | 14. Sit down that you may not be hurt. |
| 6. Either he or his friends did it. | 15. As he is ill, he cannot come. |
| 7. I cannot help you, for I am ill. | 16. You have opposed me ; therefore I cannot help you. |
| 8. He works while you play. | 17. However rich you may be, I do not care for you. |
| 9. You are wrong, however, you are pardoned this time. | |

SENTENCE CONNECTORS OR SENTENCE LINKERS

293 Read the passage carefully :

A lady paid Rs. 116.50 to Bowbazar Post Office for sending a parcel of some books to her friend in England. Unfortunately all that her friend in England received was a half torn packet containing only one book. While writing to her friend in Calcutta, the addressee said, "I was baffled (হতবুদ্ধি) on receiving the packet. Even Mother Teresa was complaining in our (local) newspapers that the money sent to her from abroad had been taken away by postal thieves in India."

Actually, the problem is not as acute in the rest of India as it is in Calcutta. But the Postal authorities seem to be callous to attend to this problem. As a matter of fact, the authorities don't want to realise the seriousness of the problem.

In the above passage it can be seen that the italicised words or groups of words provide some link with different sentences and facts to make a sensible passage. These linking words are known as Sentence Linkers or Sentence Connectors. Note that the sentences in the passage remain independent but the flow of expression through these sentences is best achieved by the use of the linkers.

Sentence linkers establish link between two sentences, and even between two passages.

In the first passage the words unfortunately, while, even have helped to make the passage a connected whole by establishing links with the previous sentences.

In the second passage, the word actually has set a link with the first passage. Similarly the words but and as a matter of fact have also acted as sentence linkers.

Note

1. "You should remember that sentence linkers don't necessarily always join two or more sentences into one. They only help to maintain the sequence of expression between one sentence and the next in a more sensible way".

2. "Two unlinked clauses may be grammatically unlinked; for example, they may be separated in writing by a full stop (.) ; or a semicolon (;). But that does not mean that there is no connection between them. It means, rather, that the connection is implicit, and has to be inferred by the reader". (Jan and Svatrik)

294 Conjunctions and Sentence Linkers should not be confused. Conjunctions join two or more sentences into one sentence :

He does not live in this house. His brother also does not live here : Neither he nor his brother lives in this house.

Sentence Connectors or Sentence Linkers, on the other hand, help in maintaining link between different consecutive sentences to write connected ideas :

Ram is not in Calcutta now. His brother is not here. Both of them, however, will come here next month.

Note the uses of some of the most commonly used sentence connectors/linkers :

He is a very strong man. Actually he broke a slab of stone with a single blow.

He is very poor. Naturally, I often give him some money.

Dr. Sen is known to me. In fact, we were at the same class at the Presidency College.

It rained heavily last night. As a result, all the streets have become waterlogged.

He jumped over 6 metres today. Still he could not break the existing record.

He worked hard. Finally he became successful.
 I allowed him to stay in my house. Furthermore, I helped him with some money also.
 Somen has gone to London. Also, his wife has accompanied him.
 It is late to go for a walk now. Besides, it is raining.
 My bus broke down on the way. However, I reached the office in time.
 I appreciate his argument with Sujan about equal pay for men and women. Indeed,
 I support the argument.
 I think so. In fact, I agree with you.
 You don't want to be an engineer. Then, what do you want to be?
 He was found travelling without any ticket. Therefore, he was punished.
 I'm not going to help him with money. Moreover, he does not deserve my help.
 You told me about this. Otherwise, I would have gone there.

EXAMPLE WORKED OUT

Combine the following sentences in as many ways as you can by using the list of linkers given in brackets. (so, as, yet, although, therefore, but):—

1. We missed the last bus. We had to walk home.
2. The task was very difficult. We managed to complete it.
3. It was a fine day. They decided to go for a walk.
4. The train was late in arriving. I missed my appointment.
5. I warned him of danger. He took no notice.
6. He had finished his work. He left the office early.
7. The ground was unfit to play on. The match had to be abandoned.
8. No public transport was running. The employees were on strike.
9. He tried repeatedly. He could not succeed.

- Ans :
1. (i) We missed the last bus, so/therefore, we had to walk home.
 (ii) As we missed the last bus, we had to walk home.
 (iii) We had to walk home, as we missed the last bus.
 2. (ii) Although the task was difficult, we managed to complete it.
 (ii) The task was very difficult, yet/but we managed to complete it.
 (iii) We managed to complete the task although it was difficult.
 3. (i) As it was a fine day, they decided to go for a walk.
 (ii) It was a fine day, so/therefore they decided to go for a walk.
 (iii) They decided to go for a walk, as it was a fine day.
 4. (i) As the train was late in arriving, I missed my appointment.
 (ii) The train was late in arriving, so/therefore I missed my appointment.
 (iii) I missed my appointment as the train was late in arriving.
 5. (i) I warned him of danger, yet/but he took no notice.
 (ii) Although I warned him of danger, he took no notice.
 (iii) He took no notice although I warned him of danger.
 6. (i) As he had finished his work, he left the office early.
 (ii) He left the office early as he had finished his work.
 (iii) He had finished his work, so/therefore he left the office early.
 7. (i) The ground was unfit to play on, so/therefore the match was abandoned.
 (ii) As the ground was unfit to play on, the match was abandoned.
 (iii) The match was abandoned as the ground was unfit to play on.
 8. (i) As the employees were on strike, no public transport was running.
 (ii) The employees were on strike; so/therefore no public transport was running.
 (iii) No public transport was running as the employees were on strike.

9. (i) He tried repeatedly, yet/but he could not succeed.
 (ii) Although he tried repeatedly, he could not succeed.
 (iii) He could not succeed although he tried repeatedly.

E EXERCISE 33

I. Choose the suitable linking words from the list below and fill in the following blanks with them :—

- (a) There is acute water shortage in our locality ; ——— , the Municipality is going to provide us with a deep tubewell.
 (b) The Headmaster is very angry ——— the boys made a noise.
 (c) ——— it was sunny outside, she didn't use her umbrella.
 (d) The policeman stopped the car, ——— the children could cross the road.
 (e) I don't want to go ; ——— I don't have a proper dress.

[THE LIST : so, because, however, moreover, although, though]

II. Join each pair of sentences using suitable linking words :—

- (a) He is poor. He is honest.
 (b) She did not come to school. She was ill.
 (c) He will not come. His brother will not come.
 (d) You have opposed me. I shall help you.
 (e) You must walk. You will miss the bus.
 (f) I shall get ready. Do not go till then.
 (g) The iron is hot. Strike it now.
 (h) I do not hate you. I love you.

II. Fill in the blanks with suitable sentence connectors given in brackets :—

- (a) He always speaks the truth. ——— (Indeed/Therefore) I like him.
 (b) He worked hard this year. ——— (In general/Because of that) he became successful.
 (c) It is a nicely written story. ——— (From my point of view/Actually) it should be given an award.
 (d) I am glad to meet you after a long time. ——— (By the way/Moreover) what are you doing today?
 (e) ——— (Basically/As result) he is a good boy. This is why I like him.
 (f) Ramen could not answer all the questions. ——— (Besides/Nevertheless/In any case) he hopes to get a good mark.
 (g) Sri Basu is a good teacher. ———, he is a good poet. (Besides/As well as)
 (h) He gave me money. ———, he gave me advice. (As well as/In addition to)
 (i) He insulted me. ——— I love him. (Although/Still)
 (j) He is rich. ——— he is dishonest. (Yet/Though)
 (k) Ranjan is a good boy, ——— his brother is wicked. (but/although)
 (l) I could not come to school yesterday ——— I was sick. (as/therefore)

CHAPTER XXIV

INTERJECTIONS

(295) An Interjection is not properly a part of speech, since it does not enter into the construction of the sentence :— Ah ! alas ! (grief) ; hurrah ! (joy) ; fie ! (reproof) ; tut ! tut ! pish ! (disgust or contempt) ; hark ! hush ! lo ! (attention) ; bravo ! hear ! (approval) ; ho ! hallo ! (a call).

(296) (a) Interjectional Phrases :— Many phrases are used interjectionally, forming no part of the structure of sentences : For shame ! Good gracious ! Good heavens !

(b) A few groups of words of an interjectional character like the following, whether followed by the exclamation mark or not, are not Interjections, but rather elliptical sentences :

How awful ! = How awful it is ! What a mess ! = What a mess it is ! Well done ! = It is done well !

E EXERCISE 34

(a) Construct sentences, using Interjections expressive of :

Joy, surprise, attention, approval, sorrow, caution, despair, contempt.

(b) Pick out the Interjections from the following sentences and point out such of them as form a part of the construction :

Foolish fellow ! Alas ! I am undone ! Alas for the evil day ! Shame upon you ! Oh ! what fine things ! Fie ! Fie ! Oh, that he were present ! Nonsense ! Hush ! What noise is this ! Fie upon the traitor !

CHAPTER XXV

NEGATIVE SENTENCES

(297) Negative sentences are formed usually by using “no” and “not” in the sentences.

(a) Sentences with verb “to be” (am, is, are, was, were) as Principal verb are made negative usually by placing “not” after the verb :

I am not a student.	We are not students.
You are not a doctor.	You are not doctors.
He is not a businessman.	They are not businessmen.
He was not happy.	The boys were not present.
I was not ill.	You were not at home.

Sometimes “no” is also used : There is no student in the class room. He is no friend of mine. Miss Green is no beauty.

(b) Verbs “to have” (has, have, had) as Principal verb take “no” after them to form negatives :

I have no car.	We have no house.
You have no sister.	You had no brother.
He has no servant.	They have no friend here.
I had no money.	We had no dog.
Amit had no enemy.	They had no servants.

Note

Sentences with verbs “to have” (has, have, had) as Principal verb can also be made negative by placing “do not” or “does not” in the Present Tense and “did not” in the Past Tense before them. The form of the main verb remains unchanged in such cases :

I do not have any car.
(or, I have no car.)
You do not have any sister.
(or, You have no sister.)
He does not have any car.
(or, He has no car.)
I did not have any money.
(or, I had no money.)

We do not have any house.
(or, We have no house.)
They do not have any friend here.
(or, They have no friend here.)
Amit did not have a dog.
(or, Amit had no dog.)

(c) Sentences with verbs other than “to be” and “to have” as Principal verb can be made negative by placing “do not” or “does not” in the Present Tense and “did not” in the Past Tense before them. The form of the main verb remains unchanged in such cases :

I do not know him.	We do not like him.
He does not help his brother.	They do not read in this school.
You did not come yesterday.	We did not play.
Ram did not play.

(298) Sentences containing Auxiliary verbs (am, is, are, was, were, has, have, had, shall, will, can, must, etc.) are made negative by placing “not” after the auxiliaries :

You will not be happy.	I shall not be present.
We shall not have a holiday tomorrow.	You will not do the work.
She cannot sing.	He is not laughing.
You are not writing a letter.	She is not reading now.
They were not playing.	You have not done the job.
I have not seen him.	He was not playing.
I was not taking bath.

Note

- (a) If there are more than one auxiliaries, the word not is placed after the first auxiliary. As,
You should not have done this.
He has not been coming to school since Friday last.
- (b) Sometimes negatives can be formed by writing “no” after will have and shall have. The word no in such cases comes before a noun.
You will have no holiday today.
I shall have no medicine now.

(299) In negative Imperative sentences the verbs take “do not” before them :

Do not run in the sun.
Do not tell a lie.
Do not quarrel with others.

(300) Negative sentences can also be formed in many cases without using words “no” or “not” :

He never tells a lie. None of them was present there. He is still unable to walk. I know nothing about this matter.

E EXERCISE 35

Frame the following into negative sentences :

You were singing. I like him. They drank the milk. I write letters to him. They will help you. I have seen him. My brother has such a book. I shall play with you. I was present there at that time. He quarrels with me. He has friends here. He became successful in the examination. I want a friend like you. There is a girls' school in the town. I was playing in the field. Run in the rain. He may come tomorrow. They have done the job. You have a house. He wants to go there. You should have gone there. She has been reading the book since this morning. I have been living here for ten years. Open the door.

CHAPTER XXVI

INTERROGATIVE SENTENCES

Wh-WORDS

- (301) Statement : You are ill.
Question : Are you ill?

The first sentence is an ordinary statement but the second sentence asks a question.

Sentences that ask questions are called Interrogative sentences.

Questions may be of two types :

1. Yes/No Questions — These questions can be answered by 'Yes' or 'No':
2. Wh-Questions — These are questions that cannot be answered by 'Yes' or 'No': They need specific answers.

(302) Rules for framing of Interrogative Sentences

Read the following sentences :

- | | |
|---|--|
| (a) Statements I am ill.
 We are happy.
 They are busy.
 He is a teacher.
 Ram is brighter than his brother. | Interrogative Am I ill?
 Are we happy?
 Are they busy?
 Is he a teacher?
 Is Ram brighter than his brother? |
| (b) Statements I was absent.
 You were present.
 He was ill.
 They were happy. | Interrogative Was I absent?
 Were you present?
 Was he ill?
 Were they happy? |
| (c) Statements I have a pen.
 You have a big house.
 He has a bicycle.
 They have many friends. | Interrogative Have I a pen?
 Have you a big house?
 Has he a bicycle?
 Have they many friends? |
| (d) Statements I had many books.
 You had no servant.
 The girl had a brother. | Interrogative Had I many books?
 Had you no servant?
 Had the girl a brother? |

Rules :

When the Principal verb is “to be” (am, is, are, was, were) and “to have” (has, have, had), it is used at the beginning of Interrogative Sentences and the Subject comes immediately after it.

(e) Statements

You live in Delhi.
He plays cricket.
They want some food.
He called you.
You saw the picture.

Interrogative

Do you live in Delhi?
Does he play (not plays) cricket?
Do they want some food?
Did he call (not called) you?
Did you see (not saw) the picture?

The verb forms are :

play — do + play
sing — do + sing run — do + run

plays — does + play sings — does + sing runs — does + run

sang — did + sing played — did + play ran — did + run

Rules :

For Principal verbs other than “to be” and “to have”, Interrogative Sentences are formed by using do or does in the present tense and did in the past tense at the beginning of the sentences. The Subject comes immediately after it. The form of the Principal verb remains unchanged in such cases, Thus,

play = do + play
plays = does + play
played = did + play, etc.

(f) The Interrogative sentences at (c) and (d) above can also be written as below :

Have I a pen ?	or	Do I have a pen ?
Have you a big house ?	or	Do you have a big house ?
Has he a bicycle ?	or	Does he have a bicycle ?
Had I many books ?	or	Did I have (not had) many books ?
Had you no servant ?	or	Did you have (not had) no servant ?
Had the girl a brother ?	or	Did the girl have (not had) a brother ?

The verb forms are :

Do + have Does + have Did + have

From above it will be seen that :

Interrogative sentences with verb “to have” as the Principal verb can also be formed by using “do” or “does” in the present tense and “did” in the past tense at the beginning of the sentence. The form of the principal verb have remains unchanged in such cases.

303

Statement

I am playing.
 You are going home.
 He is calling me.
 You have done this.
 He was suffering from fever.
 He can walk now.
 I may go there tomorrow.
 You shall go now.
 He will come soon.
 They had left the town.
 You were running in the field.

Interrogative

Am I playing?
 Are you going home?
 Is he calling me?
 Have you done this?
 Was he suffering from fever?
 Can he walk now?
 May I go there tomorrow?
 Shall you go now?
 Will he come soon?
 Had they left the town?
 Were you running in the field?

Rules :

(a) Auxiliary verbs (is, was, am, are, were, has, have, can, may, must, etc.) are always used at the beginning of Interrogative Sentences and the subject comes immediately after them.

(b) When there are two auxiliaries, only the first one is used at the beginning of the sentence to make the sentence Interrogative.

You should have gone there.

He has been living here for five years.

Should you have gone there?

Has he been living here for five years?

304 Negative Interrogative Sentences*NounsStatement*

Prafulla is not strong.
 Biren was not well.
 The boys were not present there.
 Pramila did not eat.

Interrogative

Is not Prafulla strong?
 Was not Biren well?
 Were not the boys present there?
 Did not Pramila eat?

Pronouns

He is not strong.
 He was not well.
 You were not present there.
 You did not eat.

Is he not strong?
 Was he not well?
 Were you not present there?
 Did you not eat?

Rules :

(a) In an interrogative sentence, the word "not" usually comes after a Pronoun but before a Noun.

(b) The contracted negative word (isn't, wasn't, don't, etc.) always comes before the Subject, whether Noun or Pronoun :

Wasn't Biren ill? Isn't he strong?

Don't the boys know it? Didn't they go there?

EEXERCISE 36

A. Change the following into Interrogative form. One has been done for you :—

I. He is well now. (Ans. Is he well now?) The earth is round. The book was yours. You are a doctor. The boys were happy. I am taller than you. You have a car. She has a pen. You had two pencils. They are your friends. The boy had fever. He has two brothers. I have a sister. We had a servant.

II. We eat rice. (Ans. Do we eat rice?) He goes to school. You went there. The boys play in the field. They left the place. The boy came to me. You talked to him. Lila dances well. He got a pen. She reads in class X.

III. You have done the work. (Ans. Have you done the work?) The boys are playing. He is going to school. Rita can sing. He was talking with you. I shall give him a book. He will come tomorrow. The boy has gone to sleep. You were telling a story. The child was crying. He may come. The man has come home.

B. Change the following into Interrogative sentences :—

The boy does not read. She was not well. Anil is not happy. The teacher was not present. The girl did not sing. We did not go there. He is not weak. They were not absent. She did not do the sum. We were not displeased with him.

Wh-QUESTION WORDS

(305) Interrogative sentences often begin with who, which, what, whom, whose, when, where, why and how. These are called Wh-question words.

Wh-words may be classified into three groups.

(i) Interrogative Pronouns : who, which, what, whom and whose.

(ii) Interrogative Adjectives : what, which, and whose.

(iii) Interrogative Adverbs : where, when, how and why.

These Wh-group of words are used to elicit information.

Look at the following sentence :

The people of this village elect him the President every year.

Using Interrogative Wh-words we can identify the following :

(i) the subject, (ii) object, (iii) complement and (iv) adverbial from the above sentence.

(i) Who elect him the President every year ?

Ans : The people of this village (subject).

(ii) Whom do the people elect the President every year ?

Ans : him (object).

(iii) What do the people elect him every year ?

Ans : the President (complement).

(iv) When do the people elect him the President ?

Ans : every year (adverb).

(306) Use of Wh-words in framing Interrogative Sentences

To ask questions, the Wh-question words are used at the beginning of the sentences in accordance with the general rules for framing of interrogative sentences as discussed before. Note the use of different Wh-words below :

A. Who (कौ ?)

Who is an interrogative pronoun and is used as the subject. It asks about persons only and is indefinite.

Who is that man (i.e., the person is not known) ? He is Ramen, my brother.

Who took my book ? Subir took it.

B. Whom (কাহাকে ?)

Whom is an interrogative pronoun. It is the object form (accusative) of who and is applied to persons only.

Whom do you want ?

I want Mr Mukherjee.

Whom did you see ?

I saw his son.

Whom did he meet yesterday ?

He met my brother.

Whom does this pen belong to ?

This pen belongs to my sister.

“Whom is the technically correct accusative form and is used in formal written and spoken English. In ordinary conversation, however, it is much more common to use who as the accusative form, so that we can say :

Whom did you meet ? (formal) or Who did you meet ?

There is no difference in meaning but the second is more usual than the first. Similarly we can say :

Whom did you help ? or, Who did you help ?” —Thomson & Martinet.

Similarly :

Who (whom) else did you see ?

I saw the king.

Who (or whom) did she pay ?

She paid Sita.

Note

Normally preposition is immediately followed by whom :

With whom did you go ?

To whom did you give it ?

To whom do you want to speak ?

It is more usual to move the preposition at the end of the sentence. The whom then normally changes to who :

Who did you go with (i.e. with whom did you go) ? — I went with my father.

Who did you give it to (i.e. to whom did you give it) ? — I gave it to Ajoy.

Who (whom) do you want to speak to ?

C. Whose (কাহার ?, কাহাদের ?)

Whose is the possessive form of who. It means ‘of which’, ‘of whom’ and is used for persons in all genders and persons. It could be both adjective and pronoun, e.g.,

1. Whose books are these ? (adj.) They are mine.

2. Whose are these ? (pron.) They are mine.

3. Whose house is this ? (adj.) It is Amal’s.

Note

Whose in (1) and (3) qualifies ‘books’ and ‘house’ respectively.

D. What (কি ?)

What is a general interrogative pronoun and adjective used for things and a person’s profession. It generally asks about (a) a thing ; (b) a selection from an indefinite number of alternatives ; (c) size, colour, state or amount ; (d) a person’s profession or social status.

What is this ?

This is a box.

What delayed you ?

Traffic jam delayed me.

What did they eat ?

They ate some snacks.

What is he ?

He is a doctor.

What was his father ?

He was a teacher.

What do you want ?

I want some money.

- | | |
|---|-------------------------------|
| (1) What papers do you read ? | I read The Statesman . |
| (2) What height is this building ? | It is 10 metres high. |
| (3) What colour do you want ? | I want the red one. |
| (4) What sum do you want ? | I want five hundred rupees. |

Note

(a) What in (1), (2), (3) and (4) above qualifies 'paper', 'height', 'colour' and 'sum' respectively.

(b) When what is used with prepositions, the preposition is normally placed at the end of the sentence :

What did you lift it with? (i.e. with what)—I lifted it with a pulley.

What is this tool used for? (i.e. for what purpose)—This is used for cutting steel.

What did you do that for? (i.e. why)—I did that to help my friends.

E. Which (কোনটি ?)

Which is an interrogative pronoun and adjective and is applied to both persons and things. It refers to one out of a group.

Which of these do you want? I want the cheapest one.

Which boy did it? The boy in the white shirt did it.

Which of them is the youngest? Manab is the youngest.

Which boy do you like best? I like Sandip best.

Which college did he go to? He went to Scottish Church College.

Note

Which is used instead of who and what when the choice is selective or restricted.

1. Q. Who do you want to talk to? (general inquiry)

Ans. I want to talk of Mr Bose.

Q. There are three Boses here; which do you want?

or Which Bose do you mean? We have three Boses here.

2. What will you like to have? (general inquiry)

but, There's tea, coffee and cold drink; which will you have?

Note carefully the following distinctions :

(a) Who is he? —enquires about the name or parentage of the person.

The answer should be of the form : He is Mr Rathin Sarkar ; or He is Rathin Babu, my neighbour ; or be of the form : He is Rathin Babu, of whom I spoke to you.

(b) What is he?—enquires about the profession or social status (পেশা বা পদ কি ?). The answer should be of the form : He is a businessman ; or He is a teacher, etc.

(c) Which is he?—wants him to be pointed out from a definite group (সম্মুখে উপস্থিত দলের মধ্যে কোন্ জন ?). The answer should be of the form : He is the man on the extreme right. or, He is the man with the blue coat on, etc.

F. Why (কেন ?, কি কারণ ?)

Why is an interrogative adverb and it means "for what reason", "with what purpose" and is usually answered by 'because', 'for', etc.

Why was he absent? He was absent because he was ill.

Why are you sorry? I am sorry for losing my purse.

Note

The sense of 'why' can also be expressed by "what for" :

What for did you go there?

What did you go there for? (colloq.)

G. When (কখন ?, কোন্ অবস্থায় ?)

When is an interrogative adverb used to ask about the time. It means 'at what time', 'on what occasion', etc.

When will he come ?

When did this happen ?

When will you be present here ?

He will come at 4 p.m.

It happened yesterday.

I shall be present here during the Puja holidays.

H. Where (কোথায় ?)

Where is an interrogative adverb used to ask about "in or to what place or position", "in what direction", "in what situation", etc.

Where do you live ?

Where is your brother ?

(1) Where does he come from ?

(2) Where are you going to ?

Where did we get up to (i.e. what point did we reach) ?

Where shall we be (i.e. what will be our situation) if a nuclear war starts ?

I live in Delhi.

He has gone to school.

He comes from Delhi.

We are going to Bombay.

We got up to a final settlement.

We shall be all doomed to die.

Note

In (1) and (2) above, where is used with a preposition following the verb, meaning what place ?

I. How (কিভাবে ?, কি উপায়ে ?, কোনভাবে ? কিরূপে ? কতটা ?)

How is an interrogative adverb and it means "in what way". It can be used to frame interrogative sentences in various contexts to mean :

(a) In what way or manner, by what means :

How did you do it ?

How did you come ?

How did you escape ?

How is the word spelt ?

How can I go there ?

How could you believe it ?

I did with my own hands.

I came by train.

I escaped with the help of my friends.

It is spelt G-e-n-u-i-n-e.

You can go by a taxi or by bus.

Because I had faith in him.

(b) To what extent, in what degree :

How tall is the building ?

How old is he ?

How often do you go there ?

How fast do you drive ?

How many pictures are there ?

How much do you want ?

It is 9 metres tall.

He is fifty years old.

I go there once a week.

I drive 80 km. per hour.

There are twenty pictures there.

I want five hundred rupees

(or, half of the property).

How long would you take to do the work.

I shall need three days to do the work.

(c) In what state of health, in what condition :

How are you ?

How is your father ?

How do you do ?

How is the building now ?

I am quite well.

He is not keeping well.

I am quite well.

It is totally ruined.

(d) Asking for opinion, agreement, decision, explanation etc.

How is the picture ?	It is very nice.
How about going for a walk ?	That would be fine.
How do you find your new job ?	It is quite good.

How's that ? (What is the explanation of that ? or, What is your opinion of that ? or, Is the batsman out or not out (in cricket) ?

Note

Interrogative pronouns, who, what and which do not admit of any auxiliary verb when used to frame a question word in the nominative, i.e., as subject. For other question words, e.g., when, how, why, where, however, an auxiliary verb is a must to frame a question.

Who goes there ?
Who came here ?
What delayed him today ?
What made you happy ?
Which boy did it ?
Which men come to you every day ?

But,

When did you go there ? (not, When you went there ?)
How does he go there ? (not, How he goes there ?)
Why do you come to me ? (not, Why you come to me ?)
Where did they meet ? (not, Where they met ?)

(307) Questions to suit Given Contents

Sometimes Wh-words are provided, and students are asked to frame questions with them to suit some given contents. A careful study of the contents would enable the student to frame questions easily. Take the following examples :

1 (a) What

Content : A silver disc.
 The full moon looks like it.

(b) How

Content : 40 kilometres an hour.
 He drives his car.

(c) Where

Content : He was in Delhi.
 He went to Bombay.

Ans : (a) What does a full moon look like ?
 (b) How fast does he drive his car ?
 (c) Where did he go from Delhi ?

2 (a) What

Content : It was thundering.
 He woke up.

(b) How

Content : A smart young lady.
 She is just 18.

(c) Why

Content : Reading trash is useless.
 We must not waste time in it.

Ans : (a) What made him wake up ?
 (b) How old is the smart young lady ?
 (c) Why waste time in reading trash ?

- 3 (a) Who
Content : Sandip, my son.
He has painted the drawing.
- (b) What
Content : My name is Partha.
- (c) Where
Content : My aunt's house is at Ballygunj.
I shall go there.

Ans : (a) Who has painted the drawing.
(b) What is your name?
(c) Where will you go?

- 4 (a) What
Content : Very idle. He failed in the examination.
- (b) How
Content : Many mangoes on the table.
She took five mangoes.
- (c) Whose
Content : There's house on the top of the hill.
It is Mr. Sen's.

Ans : (a) What was the cause of his failure in the examination?
(b) How many mangoes did she take from the table?
(c) Whose house is there on the top of the hill?

- 5 (a) What
Content : This is a tool.
This is used for boring.
- (b) Why
Content : A price has been put on his head.
He has committed a lot of crime.
- (c) How
Content : He snores.
He disturbs others' sleep.

Ans : (a) What is the use of this tool?
(b) Why has a price been put on his head?
(c) How does he disturb other's sleep?

- 6 (a) Which
Content : The Telegraph.
He reads it regularly.
- (b) When
Content : She wants to see us.
Will come tomorrow.

Ans : (a) Which paper does he read regularly?
(b) When will she come to see you?

- 7 (a) Why
Content : Drenched in the heavy rains in the afternoon.
He caught cold.

(b) Whom

Content : Dr. Roy, my friend.
You should see him immediately.

Ans: (a) Why did he catch cold?
(b) Whom should I see immediately?

8 (a) What

Content : He received an urgent message.
He left suddenly.

(b) How

Content : The boy fell down.
He broke his leg then.

(c) Why

Content : I was upset at the news.
I could not speak.

Ans: (a) What made him leave so suddenly?
(b) How did the boy break his leg?
(c) Why could you not speak?

9 (a) Why

Content : Extremely cold last night.
He sneezed

(b) What

Content : He saw the football match between England and Holland.
Great excitement.

(c) Who

Content : The Monkey's Paw (a short story).
The author is W. W. Jacobs.

(d) Why

Content : Big traffic jam.
He arrived late at college.

Ans: (a) Why did he sneeze last night?
(b) What was the cause of his great excitement?
(c) Who wrote "The Monkey's Paw"?
(d) Why did he arrive late at college?

10 (a) Whom

Content : She is Anita.
She lives with her parents.

(b) Which

Content : Many boys took part in the race.
Tarun, my brother, won it.

(c) Whose

Content : The car is parked in the garage.
It belongs to Ramen.

Ans: (a) Whom does Anita live with?
(b) Which boy won the race?
(c) Whose car is parked in the garage?

11 (a) What

Content : He is my brother. He is a doctor.

(b) Whom

Content : This is a house. It belongs to me.

(c) Which

Content : There are three pens. She likes the red one.

Ans: (a) What is your brother?(b) Whom does the house belong to?(c) Which of the three pens does she like?12 (a) What Content : Sudden outbreak of Cholera. He died.

(b) Why

Content : Inadequate supply of petrol. He cannot drive the car.

(c) How

Content : Dress of a smart youngman.

The youngman wore a three-piece suit.

Ans: (a) What was the cause of his death?(b) Why can't he drive the car?(c) How was the smart youngman dressed?EXAMPLE WORKED OUT

I. Frame suitable questions appropriate to the following statements. Begin each question with the question word given in brackets :

1. (i) She is a chemist. (What) (ii) I crossed the river in a ferry boat. (How)

Ans: (i) What is she? (ii) How did you cross the river?

2. (i) She reached Calcutta at night. (When) (ii) They swam across the Ganga to come here. (How) (iii) My uncle is a deputy magistrate. (What) (iv) He went to school in the morning. (Where) (v) She purchased a Baluchari saree. (Which)

Ans: (i) When did she reach Calcutta? (ii) How did they cross the Ganga to come here? (iii) What is your uncle? (iv) Where did he go in the morning? (v) Which saree did she purchase?

3. (i) Balaka reads in Class X. (What) (ii) He tried hard to succeed. (How) (iii) I believe in God. (Who) (iv) Our school begins at 11 a.m. (When) (v) She looked up the word in a dictionary. (Where)

Ans: (i) What class does Balaka read in? (ii) How did he try to succeed? (iii) Who do you believe in? or, Who believes in God? (iv) When does your school begin? (v) Where did she look up the word?

4. (i) They made him the President last year. (When) (ii) He covered a distance of five miles. (What) (iii) He reads in Xaviers' School (Which)

Ans: (i) When did they make him the President? (ii) What distance did he cover? (iii) Which school does he read in?

5. (i) Everyone is familiar with the name of Netaji. (Who) (ii) This book was written by Rabindranath. (Whom) (iii) He has been working for three hours. (How).

Ans: (i) Who is not familiar with the name of Netaji? (ii) By whom was this book written? (iii) How long has he been working?

6. (i) His father is a doctor. (What) (ii) Shakespeare's glory can never fade. (When) (iii) This umbrella belongs to my sister (Whose) (iv) Swift wrote Gulliver's Travels. (Who) (W.B.H.S. 1988)

Ans: (i) What is his father? (ii) When can Shakespeare's glory fade? (iii) Whose umbrella is this? (iv) Who wrote Gulliver's Travels?

7. (i) He stayed at home because it was raining. (Why) (ii) Debika is 90 centimetres tall. (How) (iii) Karim came from Bangladesh. (Where) (iv) He wrote this in the tenth year of his imprisonment. (When)

Ans: (i) Why did he stay at home? (ii) How tall is Debika? (iii) Where did Karim come from? (iv) When did he write this?

8. (i) The Government rewarded him for his courage. (Why) (ii) The train runs at eighty miles per hour. (How) (iii) He reads the Statesman. (Which)

Ans: (i) Why did the Government reward him? (ii) How fast does the train run? (iii) Which paper does he read?

9. (i) It is now 5 o'clock. (What) (ii) The better of the two boys got the prizes. (Which) (iii) I am going to Patna tomorrow. (Where) (iv) I like Ram the most. (Whom)

Ans: (i) What is the time now? (ii) Which of the two boys got the prize? (iii) Where are you going to tomorrow? (iv) Whom do you like the most?

10. (i) It occurred near Dharmatala. (Where) (ii) I shall help you to do the sum. (What) (iii) Everybody loves his country. (Who)

Ans: (i) Where did it occur? (ii) What will you do for me? (iii) Who does not love his country?

11. (i) He was ill. His son called in a doctor. (Why) (ii) The train runs three hours late. It is foggy. (What) (iii) Labour problem. The factory was locked out. (Why)

Ans: (i) Why did his son call in a doctor? (ii) What makes the train run three hours late? (iii) Why was the factory locked out?

12. (i) Browning wrote "The Ring and the Book." (Who) (ii) The fisherman lived in a lonely cottage. (Where) (iii) His father is a teacher. (What)

Ans: (i) Who wrote "The Ring and the Book?" (ii) Where did the fisherman live? (iii) What is his father?

13. (i) 'I met a traveller from an antique land'. (Whom) (ii) We shall go by bus. (How) (iii) I am reading. (What) (iv) The priest is leading the young cow to the altar. (Who) (v) Lucy dwelt among the untrodden ways. (Where)

Ans: (i) Whom did you meet? (ii) How will you go? (iii) What are you doing? (iv) Who is leading the young cow to the altar? (v) Where did Lucy dwell?

14. (i) You can go there on foot. (How) (ii) Shakespeare's glory can never fade. (When) (iii) She prefers milk to tea. (Which) (iv) I want to know the particulars of each person. (What)

Ans: (i) How can I go there? (ii) When can Shakespeare's glory fade? (iii) Which one does she prefer - milk or tea? (iv) What do you want to know?

15. (i) I want two hundred rupees. (How) (ii) This book was published in Calcutta. (Where) (iii) They are waiting for the train. (What)
 Ans: (i) How much money do you want? (ii) Where was this book published? (iii) What are they waiting for?

E EXERCISE 37

I. Some statements are given below. For each of these statements frame a question in such a way that the statement becomes its answer:—

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. My sister is a professor. | 17. He is sleeping because he is ill. |
| 2. She won this prize. | 18. I saw some people running. |
| 3. I am her brother. | 19. As the school bus did not come, the students returned home. |
| 4. I go there every week. | 20. He has been working for six hours. |
| 5. Mr. Chowdhuri wants to talk to her. | 21. They reached the place in the evening. |
| 6. They want their money. | 22. I am going to be nineteen this December. |
| 7. They saw me. | 23. The market is just a few minutes' walk. |
| 8. Rita goes to school at 9 o'clock every day. | 24. The players went to Delhi by plane. |
| 9. They can speak English fluently. | 25. He bought five books for me. |
| 10. Please give me that book. | 26. The concert began at 8 p.m. |
| 11. I came here only to visit my father. | 27. We take medicines so that we become cured. |
| 12. They treated him nicely. | 28. I met Sri Roy, the clerk. |
| 13. I am late because I missed the train. | 29. Such a happy day is unlikely to come again. |
| 14. They came running home. | 30. I was born at Santiniketan. |
| 15. Give me the best book available with you. | |
| 16. The boy on the extreme left is sleeping. | |

II. Frame questions appropriate to the following statements. Begin each question with the question words given in brackets:—

It is half past two. (what); I met Mr. Roy, the clerk. (which); They bought this TV set last month. (when); Hilsa is being sold at Rs. 60.00 a kilo. (what); I come from Goalpara town. (which); I am looking at the boy. (who); My friend intends to stay here for a month. (how); He is absent as he is ill. (why); Mr. Dutta lives in this village. (where); He came here yesterday. (when); Niva is my youngest sister. (who); I was late because I missed the bus. (why); Illness prevented me from attending the meeting. (what); The Government rewarded him for his courage. (why); The loud noise drew my attention. (what); She wants only a spoonful of sugar. (how); We made a trip to Digha. (where); He examined the document with care. (how); I know a lot about the boy. (what); Only a small number of people attended the meeting. (how); The pole is 10 metres long. (how); He came in the evening. (when); My friend is a journalist in a big newspaper. (what).

III. Frame questions with the wh-words provided. The questions must suit the given contents. :—

1. (a) How
 Content : He comes here.
 Thrice a week.
- (b) What
 Content : He met with an accident.
 He gave up sports.
- (c) Whom
 Content : Amita, my sister.
 I want to meet her.
2. (a) What
 Content : The train leaves at 6 p.m.
- (b) How
 Content : He came here yesterday.
 He came by train.

- (c) When
Content : We shall visit the temple.
The temple remains open in the morning.
3. (a) When
Content : He takes exercise everyday.
Morning is suitable for him.
- (b) What
Content : He is my uncle.
He is a businessman.
- (c) Why
Content : I am unhappy.
He did not help me at all.
4. (a) How
Content : He is my friend.
He comes almost everyday.
- (b) When
Content : I shall be busy in the morning.
Come to my place after 8 p.m.
- (c) Which
Content : Many shirts.
Give me the red one.
- (d) Whom
Content : Election held.
They made Prabir the secretary this year.
5. (a) Whose
Content : Here are some pens.
These must belong to somebody.
- (b) How
Content : He will come.
He may take some more time.
- (c) What
Content : The train leaves Howrah.
It is at 10 a.m.
6. (a) What
Content : You have a watch.
I want to know the time.
- (b) Who
Content : A story book.
My father gave it to me.
- (c) Whom
Content : I saw Kanwar Singh.
He was lying on the bare mud-floor.
7. (a) Why
Content : Big traffic jam.
She arrived late at home.
- (b) Who
Content : As You Like It. (a drama)
The author is William Shakespeare.
- (c) What
Content : Sudarshan is my brother.
He is a doctor.
8. (a) How
Content : He has been working for six hours.
- (b) Why
Content : As he was ill, he could not attend the meeting.
- (c) Who
Content : The workman saw the approach of a violent storm.

9. (a) How
Content : Only a few people attended the meeting.
I want to know the number.
- (b) When
Content : The solar eclipse will occur this month.
Tell me the date.
- (c) Where
Content : A stranger.
He came from London.
10. (a) How
Content : A gold medal.
The scholar won it in the competition.
- (b) When
Content : Still widely read.
Tagore's glory can never fade.
- (c) Why
Content : Great noise.
The teacher left the class in a rage.
11. (a) What
Content : An Income Tax Officer
His father works here.
- (b) Why
Content : Drenched through and through.
He was absent from the meeting.
- (c) Whose
Content : Ramen, my friend.
His car is parked on the road.

CHAPTER XXVII

DIFFERENCES IN THE USES OF A FEW WORDS

308 Few, a few, the few, not a few :

Few is opposed to many. It has a negative force, meaning almost none (প্রায় কেহই না, যাহা আছে তাহা ধর্তব্যের মধ্যে নয়) : I have few (= practically no) friends here. Few men are free from faults.

A few is opposed to none, and means some (অল্পসংখ্যক) : I have a few friends here. Give me a few more biscuits.

The few (অল্প কয়েকজনের সবাই) has a double force, one negative and the other positive. It means, not many, but all that there are : 'The few friends I had, left me', means, 'I had not many friends, but I had some and they all left me.'

Not a few = a pretty large number (কম সংখ্যক নয়) : 'He gave me not a few (i.e., many) cakes.'

309 Little, a little, the little, not a little :

Little has a negative force, meaning almost nothing (প্রায় কিছুই না, যেটুকু আছে তাহা ধর্তব্যের মধ্যে নয়) : He has little (= almost no) time to spare. I care little for him.

A little has an affirmative force and means a small quantity (অল্প পরিমাণ) : I want a little sugar. I am a little tired.

The little has a double force, one negative, the other positive. It means, not much, but all that is (= অল্প যেটুকু আছে তাহার সবটা). 'The little hope I had, is gone,' means, 'I had not much hope, yet I had some at least, and all of it is now gone'.

Not a little—much (কম পরিমাণ নয়) : 'He gave me not a little trouble.'

(310) Few, little : Few denotes number (সংখ্যা) and is followed by the plural number. Little denotes quantity (পরিমাণ) and is generally followed by the singular.

He has few friends. Give me a few oranges. The few friends he had have left him. There were no fewer than fifty men there.

He has little strength. I have little hope. Give me a little more time. The little milk I had was split. I want no less than that amount.

There were no less than fifty members present in the meeting. (Incorrect).

There were no fewer than fifty members present in the meeting. (Correct).

But, according to Pocket Oxford, less denotes both quantity and number, and we have the following sentence there :— Less than 20 of them remain. Had less men killed but more wounded. Chamber's Dictionary also writes "(arch, & coll) fewer." Current Eng. Usage by F.T. Wood too justifies the use of less for number when qualified by a numeral. But, about the example quoted above from the POD, the present Secretary, Clarendon Press, Oxford, writes, "Our preference is for the expression 'fewer than' in cases of this kind and I shall be advising the editor to correct the Pocket Oxford Dictionary to that form at the next opportunity." (The present author's thanks to Mr. N.N. Ghosal of 23 Beck Bagan Row, Calcutta 17, for this reply). But whom to follow? It is however safe for students to confine less to quantity.

Some uses of less (the comparative degree of little) and fewer (the comparative degree of few) :

Less joy, less meat, less weight, less rain, less heat, less time, less trouble, less money, five rupees less, fewer girls, fewer books, fewer trains.

Lesser is used as an attributive adjective only with the meaning less important : the lesser powers, lesser evils, lesser troubles.

(311) A lot of, lots of :

"These are rather informal. In a more formal style, we prefer a great deal of, a large number of, much or many. There is not much difference between a lot of and lots of; they are both used mainly before singular uncountable and plural nouns, and before pronouns. It is the subject, and not the form lot/lots, that makes a following verb singular or plural. So when a lot of is used before a plural subject, the verb is plural; when lots of is used before a singular subject, the verb is singular.

A lot of time is needed to learn (not, are) a language. Lots of patience is needed, too. A lot of my friends want (not wants) to emigrate. Lots of us think it's time for an election".

—Michael Swan : Practical English Usage.

There is a lot of water in the bucket.

These are a lot of books in the almirah.

I have seen him lots of times (not, time)¹

There is lots of time (not, times) before the lesson begins.

We had lots of time (not, times) before the bus arrived.

Note

¹Time is countable, when it means occasion.

(312) People, a people, peoples :

People = persons generally (লোকসকল, always plural) : People say you are wrong.

A people = a nation (জাতি) : The Americans are a rich people.

Peoples = nations : Different peoples have different customs.

(313) Sometime, some time, sometimes :

Sometime is now confined to the meaning formerly (পূর্বতন, ভূতপূর্ব) : He was sometime Principal of this college.

Some time = Here some is an adjective qualifying time. Hence some time = (i) for some time (কিছু সময়) : I have been writing some time (COD). (ii) Elliptical for at some time or other (কোন সময়ে) : I shall see about it some time.

Sometimes = occasionally (মাঝে মাঝে) : Sometimes he acts thus.

(314) Whole, the whole, all :

Proper Nouns are preceded by all or the whole of, and never by whole alone. Thus, we may write, 'All (or The whole of) India mourns his death,' but not, 'Whole India mourns his death.'

Before Common Nouns, both whole and all are used ; but all is very seldom followed by a singular number while whole takes the before it. 'Give me all mango' will be incorrect ; we should write instead 'Give me all (সবগুলি) the mangoes, or 'Give me the whole mango' (i.e., one entire mango, একটা আস্ত আম).

All denoting quantity may be used before singular nouns preceded by 'the' ; as, All the milk was spilt by the cat.

E EXERCISE 38

Put proper words in the blank spaces :—

(a) Few, little :

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. I have — enemies, but they can do me — harm. | 4. I care — for him. |
| 2. Give me — ink that I may write — more pages. | 5. There is — to be said in support of his shameful conduct. |
| 3. This book can give you — lessons, but has — to teach me. | 6. Give me — you have. |
| | 7. Pour — more milk into the cup. |
| | 8. You can expect — more men. |

(b) Sometimes, sometime, some time :

- | | |
|------------------------------|--|
| 1. He comes to me —. | 5. We must have rest for —. |
| 2. He was — a pleader there. | 6. You may expect me — today. |
| 3. You may expect me —. | 7. He stole my watch — back. |
| 4. He was pleader for —. | 8. He — behaves in a very rude manner. |

(c) Whole, all :

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1. — country knows the story. | 5. He gave me — fruit. |
| 2. Give him — the milk. | 6. I have heard — story. |
| 3. Cholera has spread over — village. | 7. He has spent — of his wealth. |
| 4. — Bengal mourn for him. | 8. He has travelled over — India. |

(d) People, a people, the people :

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|---|
| 1. Different — have different ideas. | 4. What did — of the village say ? |
| 2. — are suffering from malaria. | 5. — are crying for the redress of their wrong. |
| 3. — of Japan are very active. | 6. Control your —. |

(315) Much, many :

Much denotes quantity (পরিমাণ) but many denotes number (সংখ্যা), i.e., things which can be counted. The former is followed by the singular ; the latter, by the plural ; as 'Much water,' 'much money,' 'many rupees.' 'many men.'

(316) Much, very, too, enough :

(a) Much qualifies Adjectives and Adverbs in the comparative degree ; but very qualifies Adjectives and Adverbs in the positive degree. Much also goes with past participles ; but very goes with present participles. Very is, however, used now before past participles (like pleased, tired, delighted, contented, etc.) when they have so completely lost their verbal force as to become true adjectives. (Good English by G.H Vallins ; The Complete Plain Words by Gowers).

I am very happy. He is much happier than before. He is a very clever boy. He is much more intelligent than you. The sight is very charming. He was much charmed. It was a very pleasing sight. He was much (also, very) pleased to see me. I am very tired.

(b) Too implies excess, i.e., that the limit has been exceeded (এতটা বেশি যে ততটা ঠিক নয়). Thus, I am too weak to walk = my weakness has exceeded the limit within which I could manage to walk. It should not be confounded with very. Thus,

He was very late for school = he went to school, but was very late.

He was too late for school = when he reached there, school was over.

He is very intelligent = no comparison.

He is too intelligent for this post = his intelligence is so great that the post is not worthy of him.

It is very bitter = the bitterness is great, yet it can be tasted.

It is too bitter = the bitterness is so great that it cannot be tasted.

Hence in the following sentences, replace too by very :—

His health is too good. I am too pleased to meet you. The mother is too happy at her son's success. He is too weak ; yet he will come. This water is too pure. He writes too neatly.

But, we have the phrase only too glad (cf. I shall be only too glad to have you here) = very glad and not the reverse ; similarly none too pleasant = far from pleasant.

(c) Enough is the opposite of too and means that the proper limit has been just reached (যতখানি দরকার ততটা). Thus,

I am strong enough to walk = I have as much strength as is necessary for me to walk.

Cf. This room is hot enough for me = the heat is agreeable to me, — it is as hot as I wish it to be.

This room is too hot for me = so hot that I cannot remain in it.

Five rupees is enough for this = the price is as high as it should be.

Five rupees is too high for this = the price is more than what is proper.

(317) Any, some :

(a) As Pronouns— see Arts. 152 and 153.

(b) As Adjectives of Quantity or Number : (i) Any is used in negative sentences ; but some, in affirmative sentences :

He did not want any man. I do not see any birds on the tree. He gave me some books. Please give me some milk.

(ii) In Interrogative sentences, both are allowable ; but any is to be preferred :

Is there any man there? Has he any letters for me?

But some is rightly used in questions which are really commands or requests :

Will you give me some water? (= Please give me some water).

(c) As Demonstrative Adjectives, both may be used before either number in affirmative as well as negative sentences ; but any is more indefinite than some :

Any road will lead you there. Any book will do to while away the time. He did not go to any friend. You may have any books you like. Some men are healthy. Some boys must have done this.

318 Anyone, any one :

Anyone is singular and normally takes a singular verb and is referred to by a singular pronoun or possessive adjective : Has anyone a pen he can lend me? — not they. Anyone who wants to enter the competition may send his name — not their. But, when anyone is used in a general, and not an individual or specific sense, so that it has the force of all, without exception, a plural is allowable, since the singular would sound incongruous : Anyone can enter the competition, can't they? — Wood. Anyone is a compound and refers to persons only.

But, when the reference is to things or 'one' has a numerical sense, any one (two separate words) must be used : Which dress would suit you? — any one would do. Any one of you will be suitable for the job.

319 A many, many a :

A many is followed by a plural noun and usually takes 'great' between 'a' and 'many'. Many a is the contracted form of 'Many one' and is followed by a singular noun. Thus, write either, 'I have a great many books of this kind,' or 'I have many a book of this kind', but not 'I have many a books', etc. Many a man wants to get rich quickly.

320 Each, every :

Each refers to one of two or more, but every refers to one of more than two only. Thus, 'Each of the two books' ; 'The boys were fined one rupee each' ; but 'Every boy out of ten has got a prize' ; 'Everybody should do his duty'.

E EXERCISE 39

Put proper words in the blank spaces :—

(a) Much, very :

- | | |
|---|---------------------------------|
| 1. I am — astonished to hear it. | 6. It is a — interesting book. |
| 2. This is a — charming sight. | 7. I was — interested in him. |
| 3. It is a — honest deed. | 8. I am — delighted to see you. |
| 4. He is — more intelligent than your brother. | 9. It is — better than that. |
| 5. He has a — sharper intellect than his brother. | 10. I am — eager to see you. |

(b) Very, too :

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. I am — glad to hear of your success. | 5. He is a — careless boy. |
| 2. He is — honest to deceive anybody. | 6. He is — careless to do it well. |
| 3. I was — slow to catch the train. | 7. His health is — good. |
| 4. He was — slow, and caught the train with difficulty. | 8. It is — hot today ; yet I shall go out. |
| | 9. It is — hot for me to go out today. |

(c) Any, some :

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|--|
| 1. He did not want — help. | 6. You may follow — course you like. |
| 2. Can you give me — help. | 7. Has he — news for me. |
| 3. Have you lost — of your articles? | 8. Has he not — friend there? |
| 4. I have not lost — of my articles. | 9. I want — friend who will stick to me. |
| 5. Will you kindly give me — milk? | 10. — man must have gone there. |

(d) Much, many :

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. He has — money. | 4. He spent — time over the task. |
| 2. He gave me — information on the point. | 5. There was — bloodshed and — families were ruined. |
| 3. — rumours were spread about him. | |

(e) Each, every :

1. — one of us knows the story.
2. I gave a book to — of the two boys.
3. I gave a book to — one of the five boys.

321) Later, latest, latter, last :

Later and latest refer to time (পরবর্তী সময় নির্দেশ করে) and are opposed to sooner or earlier, and first or earliest respectively ; 'This is a later (or the latest) edition of the book.'

Latter and last denote order (পরবর্তী ক্রম বা পর্যায় নির্দেশ করে), and are opposed to former and first respectively. Virtue and vice have their own consequences ; the former brings happiness, the latter, misery. He came last of all.

322) Farther, further : There is practically no difference between the two, further being more popular, except where distance is distinctly in question when farther is used (See MEU) : I have made further progress. He has gone farther than his brother.

323) First, foremost : First denotes order or position, while foremost means most conspicuous ; as, 'He stood first in the examination' ; but, 'He is the foremost player of the team.'

324) Next, nearest : Next (পরবর্তী) denotes order or position, while nearest (নিকটতম) denotes distance ; as, 'I shall go to the next house' (i.e., the house next in position or order) ; but, 'I took shelter in the nearest house when the storm began.'

325) Older, oldest, elder, eldest : Older and oldest are applied to animate and inanimate objects in general, while elder and eldest are applied to persons only of the same family ; as, 'He is older than I.' 'This tree is older than that.' But, 'He is my elder brother' ; 'She is my eldest sister.'

326) Less, lesser : Less is used both as an adjective and as an adverb ; but lesser is used only as an adjective ; as, 'My age is less than yours.' 'He is less strong than I' ; but, 'This is of lesser importance.'

327) Outer, utter : Outer (বাহিরের) denotes position, while utter (সম্পূর্ণ) denotes degree ; as, 'Draw a tangent to the outer circle.' 'This will bring on utter ruin.'

E EXERCISE 40

Put proper words in the blank spaces :—

(a) Later, latter :

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 1. He came — than my brother. | 3. I want the former, and not the —. |
| 2. This is a — edition of the book. | 4. He went — than the appointed time. |

(b) Last, latest :

- | | |
|------------------------------------|------------------------|
| 1. He is the — boy in the class. | 3. What is the — news? |
| 2. I want a book of the — edition. | 4. Who came —? |

(c) Farther, further; farthest, furthest :

- | | |
|--------------------------------|--|
| 1. — examples are unnecessary. | 4. I know nothing — than this. |
| 2. He went the — of all. | 5. I am prepared to go to the — extreme. |
| 3. Thus far and no —. | |

(d) Nearest, next :

- | | |
|---|----------------------------------|
| 1. The chairman took up the — item. | 3. He sits — to me in the class. |
| 2. We ran for shelter to the — house available. | 4. He is my — relative here. |
| 5. He knows — to nothing on this subject. | |

(328) Late, lately : Late = after appointed time (বিলম্বে) : He came late. Lately = recently (সম্প্রতি) : I heard the news lately.

(329) Hard, hardly : Hard = (i) diligently ; as 'He works hard.' (ii) With great force ; as, 'It rains hard.' Hardly = (i) scarcely, কদাচিৎ ; as, 'He hardly works'. (ii) "Harshly, with severity, কঠোরভাবে : The rule worked hardly." —Oxford Dictionary. (iii) "With hardship, কষ্টের সহিত : The husbandman lives hardly." —OD.

Note

But "except in the sense scarcely, the idiomatic adverb of hard is hard, not hardly." —MEU. Both COD, and POD however, give the following meanings to hardly—in a hard manner, with difficulty, harshly, scarcely. Chambers also gives these meanings.

(330) Short, shortly, in short : Short = not long ; as, 'Wait short (i.e., for a short time)'. Shortly = (i) "briefly, সংক্ষেপে : The Attorney General was heard shortly in reply." —Oxford Dictionary ; also COD and Chambers. (ii) Soon, a little while before or after (POD), শীঘ্র : 'I shall be back shortly'. The word is now used in the second sense only. In short—briefly. State in short what you know of it.

(331) Beside, besides : Beside is only a prep. and means (i) near : Sit beside me. (ii) Wide of, অসম্বন্ধ : Your remark is beside the point. Besides is (i) a prep. meaning 'in addition to' (অতিরিক্ত) : I have none to help me besides you. (ii) An Adverb = also, moreover (অধিকন্তু) : It is late ; besides, I am tired.

(332) At present, presently : At present = at the present time, বর্তমানে : I am very busy at present. Presently = very soon (শীঘ্র) and refers to future time : He will come presently.

Note

In modern American English, presently is used in the sense at the present time also.

333) Finally, after all, at last : After all means in spite of all that has gone to the contrary, and should never be used of a natural consequence, for which finally or at last is generally used (বিপক্ষে যাহাই থাকনা কেন তৎসত্ত্বেও। স্বাভাবিক পরিণতি বা অবশেষে অর্থে ইহা ব্যবহৃত হয় না) : Your enemy is after all (in spite of all that you may say against him) an honest person.

Incorrect : He served for thirty years, and after all retired on a pension.

Correct : He served for thirty years, and finally or at last retired on a pension.

334) At last, at least, at length : At last = in the end, after much delay, অবশেষে : I have found you out at last. At least = at the lowest estimate ; if not more, অন্ততঃপক্ষে, খুব কম হইলেও : This will cost me at least fifty rupees. I may not help you with money ; but I may at least help you with advice. At length = (i) after a long time : He was in doubt for a week, but at length came to a definite decision ; (ii) fully, বিস্তারিতভাবে : He has discussed the subject at length in his article.

335) Ago, before : Ago refers to a period of time measured back from now ; but before refers to a specific time in the past :

He came here long ago. He had come here long before (before a specific time in the past). I saw him two months ago. I had seen him two months before (= before the specific time referred to in the report). I went there some time ago. I had gone there some time before (before the time referred to). I went there before (before now).

“As a Conjunction of time it (i.e. before) is followed by a verb in some Present tense, even if the verb in the Principal clause is in the Future tense :— The crops will die before the rains fall or have fallen.” —Nesfield. So also with when and after : When I see (not, shall see) him, I shall give him the message. I shall go there after you come (not, will come).

336) Except, excepting, except for, except that : Except is a preposition meaning ‘not including’ ; as, All the boys except Ram went there.

Excepting is the participle of the verb to except and means ‘leaving out’, ‘excluding’. Excepting is not interchangeable with except and is used in the negative only (= not excepting, i.e., including). Thus : All boys, not excepting (= including) Ram, went there.

Except for is used to denote ‘what is excluded is different from what is included’. It indicates an ‘exception to a general condition’. Thus : All his sons are well established except for the youngest one.

Except that means ‘apart from the fact that’. Thus : She is a good student except that she is sometimes careless.

E EXERCISE 41

Put proper words in the blank spaces :—

(a) At present, presently :

1. I have no work on hand —.
2. What are you doing — ?

3. I shall go there —.
4. He will attend to you —.

(b) Hard, hardly :

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. He worked so — that his health broke down. | 4. I struggled — and have at last succeeded. |
| 2. I can — bear the strain. | 5. He beat me so — that I was almost dead. |
| 3. He has — any friend here. | |

(c) In short, shortly :

- | | |
|--|----------------------------------|
| 1. Give — an account of the excursion. | 3. Write — what you have to say. |
| 2. He will come here —. | 4. — he is the hero of the day. |

(d) Late, lately :

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 1. He came —. | 4. He rises — in the morning. |
| 2. He has — purchased a plot of land. | 5. The train arrived —. |
| 3. He has been ailing —. | |

(e) Beside, besides :

- | | |
|------------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1. He sits — me in the class. | 4. — money, he gave me a house also. |
| 2. There is none — you to help me. | 5. Your remark is — the point. |
| 3. He was — himself with joy. | |

(f) Except, excepting, except for, except that :

1. Everyone was present — Amit and Rana.
2. All — Brown were affected by the measure.
3. This essay is fairly good — some careless mistakes.
4. All men, not — the king, are mortal.
5. I never go out — when my friends ask me.
6. All the boys did well in the examination — a few ones.
7. I knew nothing about his programme — he was likely to see Mr. Roy.

337 By, with : By denotes the agent or doer (যে করে তাকে বুঝায়) ; but with denotes the instrument or the thing with which something is done (যাহা দ্বারা করা হয় তাহা বুঝায়) : The work was done by me with my own hands.

338 At, In : Both are used to denote time and place.

Expression of time :

(a) At is used to refer to a certain moment or point of time :

He will come at 4 p.m.
We got up at dawn and had breakfast at 8 o'clock.

Similarly :

at noon, at sunset, at midnight, at dinner time,
at bed-time, at the beginning.

(b) At is also used for festivals which mark a point of time in the year :

We have a holiday at Christmas/Dewali.

(c) In refers to a space or period of time : :

He will come in an hour/in a few minutes.
He ran the distance in three hours.

Similarly, in the summer, in September, in the year 1980, in the morning, in the evening.

I shall see you at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.
Cricket is played in the winter.

Expression of place :

(a) At refers to a small place, or a village ; in refers to a large place, a country, or district or a large city :

He lives in Kolkata (or in London.)

He lives in the U.S.A.

He lives at Jangipur in the district of Murshidabad.

The train arrives in Delhi at 5 o'clock.

(b) For house and places of residence :

in a bungalow, in a flat,

in a hotel, in a cottage, etc.

He lives in a flat.

At is used to denote a specific one, e.g.

at 12, Chowringhee Road.

at the Oberoi Grand.

In is used to refer to names of streets and roads, e.g.

in Rash Behari Avenue, in Chowringhee Road.

He lives at 25, Rash Behari Avenue in Kolkata ; but, He lives in Rash Behari Avenue. He lives in a house on Rash Behari Avenue.

(c) For places of work :

In denotes the kind of place, e.g., in a bank, in an office, in a shop, etc.

At denotes a specific building or commercial concern, e.g.

at the G.P.O., at the Writers' Buildings, at the Tata Centre, at the railway station, at the National Library.

For a particular department of a business, use in, e.g., He is employed in the Accounts Department at the G.P.O.

(339) In, into : In refers to position or rest inside something ; into refers to motion or change of state ; as :

There is no milk in the pot.

There was nobody in the room.

The girls ran into the hall.

The Ganga flows into the Bay of Bengal.

The ice melted into water.

(340) Among, between : Between is generally applied to two things ; as, 'There is a river between the opposing armies.' But "In expressing mutual relation, 'between' may correctly apply to more than two, as a treaty between six nations". "So also in comparisons, as, 'There is a great difference between New York, London and Paris.' 'Of the five following words each is given a single definition with a view merely to suggesting the natural relation between these.' —MEU under 'Time'. The preposition among is used primarily to mean, 'Surrounded by, or associated with, more than two separate things.' It is regularly followed by a plural or a collective noun. 'Among his books are many late editions.' —Weseen, (See also Current Eng. Usage by F.T. Wood).

(341) Since, for, from, ago : A. For refers to a space of time (অল্প বা দীর্ঘ সময় যাবৎ বা ব্যাপিয়া) : since and from refer to a point of time (= কোন নির্দিষ্ট সময় হইতে) ; but, while since refers only to a past point, from refers to a point of time in all tenses :

He has been here for a week. I have not seen you for many days. It is many days since I saw you last (= since the point of time that I saw you last). He has been here since Monday last. He began English from the age of ten (past). He begins English from today (present). He will begin English from tomorrow (future).

As adverbs, since and ago often mean the same thing. Thus, write either "I saw him long ago or long since." Note that long since = long ago (not, for a long time).

If 'Ago' is used and the event to be dated is by a clause, it should not be followed by the conjunction 'since', but should have the conjunction that. It was ten years ago that (not since) he died. The alternative constructions are : It is ten years since he died. He died ten years ago. Ago since is tautological, because adverbially since = ago.

Note

Carefully guard against the use of ago and since together :

It is five years ago since he came here. (Incorrect).

He last came here five years ago. (Correct).

It is five years since he came here last. (Correct).

B. The use of 'since' in the different parts of speech :

(i) In an Adverb, it has two meanings :

(a) From some past time up to now (সেই সময় হইতে বর্তমান সময় পর্য্যন্ত) :

I met him three years ago and have known him ever since.

He said that he had been healthy since.

The price was high last year ; but it has come down since.

I was with him at school ; but have seen him only thrice since.

In this sense, since follows a verb in the Present perfect or Past Perfect Tense.

(b) Ago (পূর্বে) :

I saw him two months since. He died long since.

In this sense since follows a verb in the Past Indefinite Tense. Modern writers prefer 'ago' to 'since' in this sense.

(ii) As a Preposition, it means from, and is placed before a noun or a phrase denoting some past point of time, and is preceded by a verb in the Perfect Tense :

I have been ill since yesterday. He has been here since January last. They have been here since the 5th instant.

(iii) As a Conjunction, it means from the time when (যখন কিছু হইয়াছিল সেই সময় হইতে), and is followed by a clause with a verb in the Past Indefinite and preceded by a verb in the Present Indefinite or Present Perfect :

I have been ill since you saw me last. It is a month since I saw you last. They have been absent since you left the place.

342 From, of :

Wine is made from grapes.

Steel is made from iron ores.

Here the material has lost its original composition in the process of manufacture.

The table is made of wood.

The bridge is made of steel.

Here the material remains unchanged in the process of manufacture.

E EXERCISE 42

Fill in the blanks :—

1. He was digging the earth — a spade, when he was bitten — a snake.
2. The planet may be seen — the naked eye.
3. The ox was tied to the pole — a rope.
4. He stuck me — a stick.
5. He was struck — lightning.
6. His throat was cut off — a razor — the murderer.
7. He died — his own hand.
8. The prize is to be divided — these two boys.
9. The property will be divided — four brothers.
10. Wait — an hour.
11. He has been doing it — 1920.
12. He has been doing it — his infancy.
13. He has been living here — a long time.
14. I have been ill — Monday last.
15. The doll is made — plastic.
16. Threads are made — cottons.

(343) For, before : For is used in negative sentences to denote a space of future time, while before is used in both affirmative and negative sentences, to denote a point of time, past, present, or future; as, —‘The moon will not rise for five days’, but, ‘The moon will not rise (or did not rise) before midnight.’ ‘He came (or, will come) before dawn.’

(344) After, in, within, at, by : After refers to a past space of time, while in (‘পরে’ অর্থে) refers to a future space of time. Thus, we cannot say, ‘He will come after a few days’, ‘He died in a few days.’ —The correct sentences will be, ‘He will come in (পরে আসিবে) a few days,’ and ‘He died after a few days,’ respectively. To denote a point of time, after is used with all tenses; as ‘He will come or comes or came after 5 o’clock’.

Within also refers to a space of future time; but, whereas in denotes at the end of (শেষে), within denotes some time before the end of (মধ্যে). I shall go in a week = after a week has ended. I shall go within a week = before a week has ended.

At refers to a definite point of time; as, ‘He came at noon.’

By refers to a point of future time and means ‘some time before that.’ ‘It is used to denote the latest time by which something was or is to be done. The implication is that it may be done before then, but not after.’ : as, ‘You must be back by 5 o’clock.’ Applications for the post should be received by 25th April.

We reached the place in the same time = we took the same period of time (say, 5 hours) to reach the place; we might have started, and arrived at the destination, at different hours.

We reached the place at the same time = say 5 o’clock; we might have started at different hours.

We reached the place within the same time = say, 5 hours; it may be, one took 3 hours, another 4 hours, etc.

We reached the place by the same time = say, 5 o’clock, a little earlier, at a short interval from one another.

345) Until, unless : Both of these convey a negative sense (= गलतफ़ास ना, गदि ना), and should not be used with 'not' to express an affirmative idea. Thus, we write, 'Wait here until I come' (not, until I do not come). Similarly, for 'Unless you do not work hard, you will fail', write either 'Unless you work hard etc.' or 'If you do not work hard etc.'

E EXERCISE 43

Fill in the blanks :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. Come here — 5 o'clock. | 11. He finished the work — a month. |
| 2. He will go — three days. | 12. He will not be able to finish the work — three days. |
| 3. He went — three days. | 13. I shall not be able to finish the work — evening. |
| 4. I shall not go — three days. | 14. Will you come — Monday? |
| 5. The school shall not open — a month more. | 15. He came — a week. |
| 6. I came — five days. | 16. You may expect me — a week. |
| 7. The train will not arrive — 1 o'clock. | 17. I shall certainly finish the work — a month. |
| 8. He will not arrive — a month. | 18. I am ready to go — two hours. |
| 9. He will not arrive — Monday next. | |
| 10. He could not finish the work — three days. | |

CHAPTER XXVIII

USE OF SOME WORDS AND PHRASES

346) (a) But

(i) A Preposition (in the sense of except) :

All had left but me. I cannot but go ('to go' is the object). But for you, I would have been ruined (here the phrase 'for you' is the object of the preposition). He is all but ruined (here the gerund 'being ruined', or the clause 'that he is ruined' is the object of the preposition).

(ii) An Adverb (in the sense of only) :

He is but a child. He came but yesterday. We can but die.

(iii) A Relative Pronoun (who not or that not) :

There is none but wishes (= who does not wish) to be happy.

(iv) A Subordinating Conjunction (in the sense of unless, if—not, that—not, except that, etc.) :

It never rains but (= except that) it pours. Perdition catch my soul but I love thee (if I do not love thee). It cannot be but (except that) you are right.

(v) As a Co-ordinating Conjunction :

He is rich, but unhappy. He is poor, but honest.

Note

Usages like "All but he had fled" are due to a confusion of the use of but as a conjunction and as a preposition, i.e., of (1) 'All had fled but him.' and (2) 'All had fled but he had not.' The Oxford Dictionary, however, defends the construction by saying that but is a conjunction here = all had fled, but he had not; or all, if not he, had fled (but = if not). "Usage, however, permits the nominative (after but) when it is immediately followed by a verb to which it appears to be (though actually it is not) the subject, so that an accusative would sound strange, e.g., 'Everyone but she knew the answer'; 'The boy stood on the burning deck whence all but he had fled.'" —Current English Usage by F.T. Wood.

(b) As

(i) A Relative Pronoun :

This is the same book as that (as that is, as being complement to is). I want such boys as have passed. He gave the same answer as before (= as he gave before, as being the object of gave). This is not true, as (= a thing which) I said before. I am not such a fool as to believe that (as I should be etc. as being complement to should be).

(ii) A Simple Adverb :

Come here as soon as possible. He is as strong as Ram.

(iii) A Dependent (Conjunctive or Relative) Adverb :

He wept as (= while) he spoke. Do as (manner) you like. He took it just as (condition) it was. Come as soon as possible (as it is possible for you to come). I am not so clever as you. As a friend (= so far as I am a friend, or as a friend would advise you), I advise you to do this. I love him as (= as I love) my son. As a rule (as if it were a rule), he comes late. Be so good as (= as you should be good) to help me. He did not succeed as a poet (= as a poet would succeed, or so far as he is a poet). What is your intention, as (it) regards me?

(iv) A Conjunction :

As (= since) he is poor he cannot do this. Poor as (= though) he is, he can do this.

(c) As best—We sometimes come across sentences like 'He worked as best as he could.' 'I shall help you as best as I can'. But both are wrong. Best cannot admit of any comparison, being itself in the superlative degree. The correct forms will be :

He worked as best he could (= as he could do best).
I shall help you as best I can.

(d) Due to—"Unlike owing to, due to has never become a compound preposition, that is, due retains its adjectival function and must be properly related to the noun or pronoun it qualifies." (A.B.C. of Eng. Usage). Hence 'I could not come due to illness' is wrong because due does not qualify any noun here. We should write instead, 'I could not come on account of or owing to illness.' The following sentences, however, are correct :—

His illness was due to exposure to cold.
The accident was due to his carelessness.

because due is related adjectivally to illness and accident respectively.

Note

Students may remember that a sentence must never begin with the expression 'due to'.

But "Fowler, remarking that the prepositional use of due to was now as common as can be, said : 'Perhaps idiom will beat the illiterates ; perhaps the illiterates will beat idiom ; our grandsons will know.' Now that this construction can be found in The Times, and is freely used by BBC announcers it seems clear that idiom is fighting a losing battle." — The Complete Plain Word by Gowers.

(e) Doubt—"The clause after doubt in the positive is introduced by whether, not by that : 'I doubt whether Easter will be fine' ... But after doubt in the negative or interrogative, the conjunction is that : 'I do not doubt that ... Who doubts that ... ?'"

"... About and as to cannot govern a clause but may govern a noun or gerund after doubt : 'There is a doubt as to his sanity, his going' : 'There is no doubt about it,' but not, 'There is a doubt about whether he is sane' ; 'There is no doubt as to that it is so'. — A.B.C. of English Usage.
as to - ۱۲۴۲

(f) Other—is generally followed by than : I have no friend other than you. But both POD and COD have under none : 'This is none other but the house of God.' Nesfield uses besides also after other in the sense of 'in addition to' ; 'No other person besides my friend applied'.

In other than, rather than, than is a preposition, not a conjunction—Nesfield (pp. 268, 274).

(g) Write me, write to me—An indirect object is used after write only if there is a direct object; but the direct object may be used without an indirect. If a direct object is wanting, use to before the person written to, Thus—

I wrote you a letter; I wrote a letter; I wrote to you are all correct, but not I wrote you, which may pass only in business letters.

(h) Prevent—“The modern constructions are (i) prevent (transitive) noun from and gerund: ‘I prevented him from troubling you.’ (ii) prevent with a noun or gerund as object: ‘His decision will prevent argument.’ ‘I shall try to prevent his coming.’ The construction, ‘Prevent him coming, doing etc.’ is common in colloquial English, and is noted as ‘popular’ in O.E.D. But grammar demands the possessive qualifying the gerund.” —A.B.C. of English Usage. Where, however, the possessive form is not allowable, the objective form is freely used: I shall prevent the letter being sent (= the sending of the letter).

(i) Worth while—‘Is worth’ demands an object, and while, as a noun (= time) acts as this object in certain expressions. The question now arises, when does worth require while, and when is it able to stand alone? The simple answer is that it requires while only when it has no other object, and does not require while when it has another object. Of the following sentences, those italicised are wrong—A.B.C. of English Usage :

(i) That was worth doing.

(ii) That was worth while doing, (doing is object; while is, therefore, superfluous).

(iii) It is worth doing the extra work, (doing is not the object, but the real subject, of the sentence, the it being anticipatory—‘Doing the extra work was worth while.’ So, while must be introduced as object).

(j) i.e., e.g., viz.,—should not be confounded: i.e., (id est) = that is to say; e.g., (exempli gratia) = for instance; viz., (videlicet) = namely. The first introduces another way, more comprehensible to the hearer, of putting what has already been said: it does not introduce an example, which is the function of e.g., Thus,

Be careful of your stops, viz., commas, semi-colons, etc. Be careful of your stops, i.e., the way in which you use commas, semi-colons, etc. Admission will be by tickets only, i.e., only those who will be able to produce admission tickets will be allowed to enter. The nations of the present day are interdependent, e.g., English has to depend on India for some raw materials and India has to depend on England for some finished products. They have got many new rights, e.g., they can form public associations, everybody has freedom of public worship, etc. He provides me with all the necessaries of life, viz., milk, bread, clothing, shelter, etc. There were only three men present there, viz., Ramesh and his two brothers.

(k) Provided—“A clause introduced by provided must express a stipulation (i.e., a demand for the prior fulfilment of a condition) made by the person who in the main sentence gives a conditional undertaking or vouches conditionally for a fact.” (Modern English Usage): I shall go there provided the weather is fine. The following sentences are all wrong:

“When will the War Council at the capital decide provided the war is to continue?” “She and I agreed to stand by each other and to give our governors warning, provided they tried to make us renegades.”

“Provided that should not be used in writing, though the construction is by no means uncommon in colloquial and in business English.”

(l) Writing of numerals—(a) ‘When writing in words or reading a compound figure, and is placed before the last word’. As,

2,512—two thousand, five hundred and twelve.

10,050—ten thousand and fifty.

157—one hundred and fifty seven.

5,302—five thousand, three hundred and two.

It is "more usual to write a than one before hundred, thousand, etc. when these numbers stand alone but when other numbers are added one is more usual."

100— a hundred.	106— one/a hundred and six.
1,000— a thousand.	1,121— one thousand, one hundred and twenty one.

Note the writing of sums of money :

Rs. 1,125.60—Rupees one thousand, one hundred and twenty five paise sixty.
 Rs. 10.50—Ten rupees fifty paise.

(m) A foot and a half, one and a half feet, etc. :—In all such mixed statements of integers and fractions ($7\frac{1}{4}$ mill., 3 doz., $27\frac{1}{2}$ lb., etc.), Modern English Usage prefers "the older and better form"—a foot and a half, seven millions and a quarter, etc., to one and a half feet, seven and a quarter millions, etc., in all literary contexts. After one and a half, use a plural noun and a singular verb : one and a half lemons was enough.

CHAPTER XXIX

SAME WORDS USED AS DIFFERENT PARTS OF SPEECH

(347)

About :

Adv. : He is walking about.
Prep. : What do you know about him ?

Above :

Noun : I look for help from above.
Adj. : Give the substance of the above passage.
Adv. : Look above.
Prep. : He is above meanness.

After :

Adj. : His after life was miserable.
Adv. : He came soon after.
Prep. : There is none to look after me here.
Conj. : He went after we had left.

¹All :

Noun : I have lost my all. All is lost. —COD.
Adj. : All men must die.
Pron. : All of us know it. Are you all ready? —POD
Adv. : He came all on a sudden.

Any :

Noun : Point out the errors if there be any.
Adj. : Any pen will do.
Adv. : I cannot bear this any longer.

¹But COD treats All only as "adj., n. & adv." and gives "all of us" as an example of the use of all as a noun.

প্রতিদিনের Current Affairs, বিভিন্ন Update, গুরুত্বপূর্ণ খবর, চাকরির খবর, Motivational Quotes...

Telegram

Join Now

Click Here

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস

প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

WhatsApp

Join Now

Click Here

বিভিন্ন প্রতিযোগিতামূলক পরীক্ষার জন্য গুরুত্বপূর্ণ Free Study Materials, PDF ইত্যাদি দিয়ে থাকি...

As :

Rel. Pron.	:	This is the same book as that.
Simple Adv.	:	Come as soon as you can.
Conj.	:	As I am ill I cannot go.

Back :

Noun	:	He struck me on the back .
Adj.	:	He escaped by the back door.
Verb	:	He backed me in the trial.
Adv.	:	Come back as soon as possible.

Before :

Adv.	:	I saw him once before .
Prep.	:	He stood before me.
Conj.	:	Look before you leap.

Better :

Noun	:	Respect your bettors .
Adj.	:	He is a better singer than I.
Adv.	:	He knows English better than I.
Verb	:	Try to better your lot.

Both :

Adj.	:	Both the boys must be guilty.
Pron.	:	Both of them were present. Both were present.
Adv.	:	She is both dead and buried. — POD & COD .
Conj.	:	Both he and Ram must be guilty. ¹

But :

Rel. Pron.	:	There was none but shed tears.
Adv.	:	You are but (= only) a child.
Prep.	:	None but him was present there.
Co-ord. Conj.	:	He is poor but honest.
Sub-ord. Conj.	:	It never rains but it pours.
Verb.	:	But me no buts.
Noun	:	But me no buts .

By :

Adj.	:	His action surprised the by -standers.
Adv.	:	The train has passed by .
Prep.	:	Sit by me.

Close :

Noun	:	The ceremony came to a close .
Adj.	:	He is a close friend of mine.
Verb	:	The school closes at 4 p.m.
Adv.	:	Our examination is close at hand.

¹Here too COD & POD treat both as an adv. Chambers puts it as adv. or conj. See either and neither.

Down :

- Noun* : He has had ups and downs in life. He sleeps on a bed of down (feather).
Adj. : The down train is coming.
Adv. : The sun has gone down.
Prep. : The boat is sailing down the river.

Either :

- Adj.* : There are trees on either side of the street.
Pron. : Either of the pencils will do. Either will do.
Conj. : Either you or your brother should go. Either come in or go out.¹

Enough :

- Noun* : We have had enough of everything.
Adj. : I have money enough for the purpose.
Adv. : He is strong enough to walk.

Fast :

- Noun* : A well-timed fast is better than a cure.
Adj. : He is my fast friend.
Verb : He fasts every Sunday.
Adv. : Don't run so fast.

Few :

- Noun* : A few of his friends were present there.
Adj. : There are few men here.
Pron. : Few know where he is.

Note

POD and COD, however, do not treat few as a Pronoun, and regard it in the third example as a noun.

Half :

- Noun* : The half of ten is five—POD.
Adj. : We shall have a half-holiday today.
Adj. : He was half dead with fear.

Last :

- Noun* : He will fight to the last.
Adj. : I shall go by the last train.
Verb : It will last long.
Adv. : He came last.

Less :

- Adj.* : I want less sugar.
Pron. : I cannot take less.—POD.

¹The POD and COD treat either in such cases as "conjunction or adverb." See both and neither also.

- Adv.* : He is less clever than his brother.
Prep. : Pay me the price less the usual discount.

Like :

- Noun* : Like begets like. I have not seen the like of him.
Adj. with a : Men like him are rare.
Prep. force
Adj. : Like (similar) forces repel each other.
Adv. : He seemed angry like—POD.
Verb : I do not like him.
Prep. : Do not talk like that—POD.

Little :

- ¹*Noun* : I got little of his company. Wait a little.
Adj. : He is a little boy.
Adv. : He is little liked by the people.

Long :

- Noun* : He will come before long.
Adj. : It is a long story.
Verb : Boys long for holidays.
Adv. : I cannot wait long.

Many :

- Noun* : A great many stayed away. ²—POD.
Adj. : I have many friends.
Pron. : Many have seen the sight.

More :

- Adj.* : I want more money.
Pron. : I hope to see more of you. —POD
Adv. : Be more careful.

Much :

- Adj.* : The news gives me much pleasure.
Pron. : Too much of anything is bad.
Adv. : It will not harm me much.

Near :

- Adj.* : He is a near relation of mine.
Verb : The ship is nearing the shore.
Adv. : Come near.
Prep. : I saw the man near the station.

Need :

- Noun* : I am in need of your advice.
Verb : I need your help.
Adv. : He must needs go there.

¹The POD writes "noun or pronoun" for little in such cases.

²The POD treats many as a noun only when it is preceded by a good or a great.

¹Neither :

- Adj. : Neither report is true.
 Pron. : Neither of the report is true.
 Adv. : Neither I nor he knows (COD).
 Conj. : I know not, neither can I guess (COD).

Next :

- Noun : Details will be given in my next.
 Adj. : He came the next day.
 Adv. : He came next.
 Prep. : He sat next (also, next to) me in the class.

One :

- Noun : I am at one with you.
 Adj. : Give me one rupee.
 Pron. : One should obey one's parents.

Only :

- Adj. : He was the only son of his father.
 Adv. : He can only read.
 Conj. : You may go there, only remain silent.

Past :

- Noun : I cannot forget the past.
 Adj. : My past life was miserable.
 Adv. : I saw him hasten past.
 Prep. : It is half past three now.

Right :

- Noun : You have no right to do it.
 Adj. : Show me your right hand.
 Verb : I shall right the wrong.
 Adv. : He walked right across the garden.

Round :

- Noun : The watchman is on his rounds.
 Adj. : Draw a round figure.
 Verb : Who rounded the Cape of Good Hope ?
 Adv. : The earth moves round and round.
 Prep. : Drake sailed round the world.

Since :

- Adv. : He died two weeks since.
 Prep. : He has been ill since that day.
 Conj. : Since you are ill you need not go.

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটিস
 প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য
 Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

¹See also both and either.

So :

Pron.	:	So and so told me this. I said so .
Adv.	:	I am so glad you have passed.
Conj.	:	He was ill, so he could not go.
Interj.	:	A little to the right, so ! — POD .

Some :

Pron.	:	Some of them were present there.
Adj.	:	Give me some milk.
Adv.	:	Some fifty men were present there.

Still :

Noun	:	The thief came in the still of night.
Adj.	:	The night is still .
Verb	:	Still the child.
Adv.	:	He is still there.
Conj.	:	He was weak, still he went.

That :

Adj.	:	Who is that boy ?
Rel. Pron.	:	The books that I bought have been stolen.
Dem. Pron.	:	That is just what I want.
Adv.	:	I will go that far. ¹ — POD .
Rel. Adv.	:	It was yesterday that we came.
Conj.	:	He told me that he was ill.

Then :

Noun	:	I shall be ready by then .
Adj.	:	The then Governor approved the bill.
Adv.	:	He came to me then .
Conj.	:	If you are ill, then you may go. ²

Up :

Noun	:	He had ups and downs in life.
Adj.	:	The up -train is coming.
Adv.	:	The sun is up .
Prep.	:	He went up the hill.

Well :

Noun	:	Let well alone. A well was dug there.
Adj.	:	I am quite well .
Adv.	:	You have done well .
Interj.	:	Well , what do you want ?

What :

Int. Pron.	:	What is your name ?
Rel. Pron.	:	That is just what I want.

¹MEU condemns the adverbial use of that as "unliterary."

²The POD regards then even in such a case as an adverb; it does not treat it as a conjunction. But COD differs.

- Int. Adj.* : What book do you like best ?
Adv. : What (= partly) with illness and what with poverty,
 he could not continue his studies.
Interj. : What ! can this be true ?

While :

- Noun* : I worked for a while.
Verb : Do not while away your time.
Conj. : While I was reading, I fell asleep. —POD.

Worth :

- Noun* : He is a man of no worth.
Adj. with a : This house is worth a large sum.
Prep. force

Wrong :

- Noun* : He has done no wrong.
Adj. : You have followed the wrong path.
Verb : You have wronged me.
Adv. : He led me wrong.

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস
 প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য
 Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

CHAPTER XXX

APPROPRIATE PREPOSITIONS

(348) Certain words take particular prepositions after them. This is a matter of idiom. In a few cases the usage varies. Still students should carefully note the generally accepted usage. A few examples are given below :—

ABHORRENCE (ঘৃণা) of, ABHORRENT to — He has an abhorrence (hatred) of wine.
 Wine is abhorrent to me.

ABIDE by (মেনে চলা), with (a person), in, at (a place)—I shall abide by your decision. Abide (dwell, পাশে থাকা) with me, O Lord. I shall not abide (বাস করা) long in Calcutta, or at Bankura.

ABOUND (প্রচুর হওয়া) in (used before both the container and the contained), with (used before the contained only)— Wild animals abound in Indian forests. Indian forests abound with wild animals (or, in good timber).¹

ABREAST of, with—Read newspapers to keep abreast of or with (পিছাইয়া পড়িয়া নাই এমন ভাবে) the latest developments.

ABSENT from (a place)—He was absent from the meeting.

ABSOLVE (মুক্ত করা) (one) from (blame), of (sin)—I absolve you from blame. The priest absolved him of sin. (POD & COD).

¹Modern usage confines abound in and abound with to the two distinct senses of “be rich in” and “be infested with” respectively : vide POD.

ABSORBED in—He is absorbed in thought (deeply engaged, নিমগ্ন).

ABSTAIN from (বিরত হওয়া) —I shall abstain from smoking.

ABUT on (একই সীমায় মেশা) —The building abuts on the temple.

ACCEDE to—I cannot accede (agree, সম্মত হওয়া) to your request.

ACCESS to—We have free access to him (right of approaching, নিকটে যাবার অধিকার).

ACCESSIBLE to—He is accessible to all (অভিগম্য).

ACCEPTABLE to—Your offer is acceptable (গ্রহণযোগ্য) to me.

ACCLIMATIZE to—They will need some time to get acclimatized to the new surroundings.

ACCOMMODATE (one) with (a loan), (one-self) to (circumstances)—He accommodated (সাহায্য করিয়াছিল) me with a loan. We should accommodate (খাপ খাওয়াইব) ourselves to circumstances.

ACCOMPANIED (সঙ্গী হওয়া) by (a person), with (a thing)—I was accompanied there by my friend. He is suffering from fever accompanied (combined) with headache.

ACCOMPLISHED in (পারদর্শী) — The girl is accomplished in dancing.

ACCORD to, with—They accorded (gave) a grand reception to the leader. Your story accords (agrees) with his.

ACCORDING to; (In) ACCORDANCE with—According to (or, In accordance with) your orders I went there (অনুসারে).

ACCOUNT (verb) for, ACCOUNTABLE (responsible, দায়ী) to (a person) for (an action)—I have to account (হিসাব দেওয়া) for this money. We are accountable (responsible) to God for our deeds.

✓ ACCRUE (fall) to (one), from (a thing)—Great benefit will accrue (জন্মাবে) to the country from the measure. সেবে

✓ ACCUSED of—He was accused of theft. (ওপিত্ত্বুক্তে ষড়্ঠি)

✓ ACCUSTOMED to—I am accustomed (used, অভ্যস্ত) to such a life.

✓ ACQUAINTED with—I am acquainted (পরিচিত) with him.

✓ ACQUIESCE in—He acquiesced in (agreed to, রাজী হওয়া) the proposal.

✓ ACQUIT (one) of—I acquit (খালাস দেওয়া) you of the charge. দায়িত্ব থেকে নিল

✓ ADAPTED to (one's ability), for (a purpose), from (the original)—This work is not adapted to (fit for) my abilities. This story is adapted for school boys from a story of Rabindranath (উপযোগী করিয়া পুনর্লিখিত).

✓ ADD to—Add this to that.

✓ ADDITION to; (In) ADDITION to —There has been an addition to (সংযোজন, অতিরিক্ত যোগ) the family. During my absence, he will look after my job in addition to (অতিরিক্ত) his own duties.

✓ ADDICTED to—He is addicted (আসক্ত) to wine.

✓ ADEPT in—He is adept (proficient, দক্ষ) in music.

✓ ADEQUATE to—This amount is adequate to (sufficient, পর্যাপ্ত) our wants.

- ✓ ADHERE to—I still adhere (stick, লাগিয়া থাকা) to my plan.
- ✓ ADJACENT to—His house is adjacent (close, সংলগ্ন) to mine. (নিচে)
- ✓ ADJOURNED to, for—The meeting was adjourned (put off, মূলতুর্বি রহিল) to Sunday next (or for a week). (Stave off)
- ✓ ADMIT of (excuse)—Your conduct admits of no excuse.

Note

Admit is followed by of only when it has an impersonal subject (i.e., it or an abstract noun). But when the subject is personal, admit is not followed by of: I admit being in the wrong.

- ✓ ADMIT (one) to, into (a place, class, etc.)—He was admitted into the room. He was admitted to class VIII.
- (To take) ✓ ADVANTAGE of, (to gain) ADVANTAGE over—He took advantage of (সুযোগ লইল) my absence to steal my book. He gained advantage over me in the race.
- ✓ ADVANTAGEOUS to—The new rule is advantageous to us. (সুবিধাজনক)
- ✓ ADVERSE to—Your plan is adverse (against, প্রতিকূল) to our interests.
- ✓ AFFECTION for, towards (POD); AFFECTIONATE to, towards—He has affection for or towards me. He is affectionate to or towards me. ✓
- AFFINITY between (two things), of (one thing) for (another), to, for—There is an affinity between the two languages. The affinity of milk for water poses a problem. I feel a strong affinity to or for him.
- AFFIX to, on (COD)—Affix this stamp to or on the letter (attach, এঁটে দেওয়া).
- AFFLICTED with (a disease), at—He is afflicted with (suffering from) gout. She is afflicted (ক্রিষ্ট) at the death of her son.
- AFRAID of—I am afraid of him. He is afraid of doing this.¹
- AGOG with—The boys were agog with excitement at the start of the match.
- AGREE with (a person), on (a point), to (a proposal)—I agree with you on this point. "I agree with what you say" (POD). I agree to your proposal.
- AGREEABLE to—The climate of this place is agreeable to me.
- AHEAD of—He reached here much ahead of the scheduled time. The boy soon got ahead of others in the race.
- AIM at—He aimed at the flying bird.
- AKIN to—My feeling for him is akin to (সমজাতীয়) pity.
- ALARMED at, by, for—We are alarmed (ভীত) at (or, by) the news. He is alarmed for my safety.
- ALIEN (foreign, বিদেশী, স্বভাববিরোধী) *to*², ALIENATED from—Such rudeness is alien to his nature. He has been alienated (separated, বিচ্ছিন্ন) from his friend.
- ALIGHT from (a vehicle), at, on—He alighted from the car at the park. The bird alighted on the house top.
- ALIGN with—The people aligned with (extended close co-operation) the police to fight the dacoits.
- ALIVE to, with—I am alive to (conscious of, সজাগ) my danger. "The river is alive with boats" (POD).

¹Also 'afraid to wake him.'—POD.

²Also from (POD). "But to is getting the upper hand."—(MEU).

- ALLEGIANCE to—You must show allegiance (loyalty, আনুগত্য) to your leader.
- ALLIANCE (মিত্রতা) or ALLIED with, ALLIED to—England has formed an alliance with [or, is allied with (united with, মিত্রতাবদ্ধ)] France. The thing is allied to (of the same nature as, একজাতীয়) that.
- ALLOCATE to—The money was allocated to the club for social work.
- ALLOT to—Fifty shares were allotted to (assigned, বিলি করা) me.
- ALLUDE to—He alluded (referred, উল্লেখ করিল) to the story in the speech. ✓
- A LOOF from—Keep aloof (away) from such friends.
- ALTERNATE with ; ALTERNATIVE to—Light alternates with darkness (পর্যায়ক্রমে ঘটে). This question is alternative to (পরিবর্তে) that.
- AMATEUR at (অপুষ্টি, অপেশাদার)—He is an amateur at painting.
- AMAZED at—I am amazed (overwhelmed with wonder, বিস্মিত) at your conduct.
- AMBITION for ; AMBITIOUS of—I have no ambition (উচ্চাকাঙ্ক্ষা) for fame. I am not ambitious of fame.
- AMENABLE to—He is not amenable (বশ্য) to reason.
- AMOUNT to—What does the total amount to ?
- AMUSED at, by, with (POD)—I am amused (কৌতুক বোধ করিতেছি) at or by or with your story.
- ANALOGY to or with (something), between (two things) ; ANALOGOUS with—The teacher explained the mechanism of the human heart by drawing an analogy to or with the pump. 'The teacher drew an analogy between the human heart and a pump.' The mechanism of the nervous system of the body is in a way analogous with the mechanism of a telephone exchange.
- ANGRY with (a person) for (having done something), at, about (a thing)—He is angry with me for my having done this. He is angry at or about my failure.
- ANNEX to—Annex this slip to the letter (add, সংযোজিত করা).
- ANNOYED (displeasèd, বিরক্ত) with (a person) for (doing something) ; at (a thing)—He was annoyed with me for my going there. He was annoyed at my conduct.
- ANSWER (verb) to, for (one's conduct)—Answer to (reply or respond to) the roll-call. This place answers to (agree with, মিলে যায়) the description given in the book. You must answer for (explain, কৈফিয়ৎ দেওয়া) your conduct.¹
- ANSWER (noun) to (not of) (উত্তরে) ; (In) ANSWER to (উত্তরে) —The answer to the question is very simple. I said this in answer to his query.
- ANSWERABLE to (somebody) for (something) (দায়ী, কৈফিয়ৎ দিতে বাধ্য)—You are answerable to the teacher for your conduct.
- ANTECEDENT (adj.) to, (noun) of—Happenings antecedent to (পূর্ববর্তী) his disappearance are being examined. The antecedents (পূর্ব পরিচয়) of the person are not known to me.

¹Answer is also transitive : 'Answer me'.

ANTIDOTE (প্রতিষেধক) to—What is the antidote (medicine to counteract) to this poison? (Also against, for) (POD) & (COD).

ANTIPATHY to, against (COD)—I have an antipathy (strong dislike) to smoking, but not against or to him.

ANXIOUS about, for—I am anxious (uneasy) about the result. I am anxious for (earnestly desirous of) the prize.

APATHY towards—He has a great apathy towards his studies.

APOLOGISE (ক্ষমা চাওয়া) to (a person) for (rudeness)—You must apologise to him for your conduct.

APPEAL to (a person) for (redress) against (a decision)—I appealed to him for help. I shall appeal against your decision.

APPEND to—A certificate from the Headmaster is appended to the application.

APPENDIX to—Please look at the appendix to the main chapter.

APPETITE for—I have no appetite (hunger) for food.

APPLICABLE to (প্রযোজ্য) —Is the rule applicable to your case?

APPLY to (a person) for (a post)—I applied to him for the post.

APPOINT to (a post)—He was appointed to the post.

APPOSITION to (Wood), with (MEU under each)—This clause is in apposition to or with that clause.

APPREHENSIVE of—I am apprehensive (fearful, ভীত) of failure.

APPRISED of—We were duly apprised (informed, জ্ঞাত হওয়া) of the event.

APPROPRIATE to—Your remark is not appropriate to (fitting, প্রযোজ্য) the occasion.

APPROVE of—I approve of your action (অনুমোদন করা).¹

APT in, at—He is apt (clever) in mathematics, or at (quick) figures. (COD has only at after the word).

APTITUDE for—I have no aptitude (talent, স্বাভাবিক দক্ষতা) for music.

ARGUE with (a person), about or over (something), against or for (something)—
I do not want to argue with you about (or over) the decision. He argued against (or for) the bill.

ARRIVE at (সিদ্ধান্তে আসা)—Ultimately they arrived at a conclusion.

ASCRIBE to—Don't ascribe (আরোপ করা) any motive to my action.

ASHAMED of—I am ashamed (লজ্জিত) of your conduct.

ASK (a thing) of (a person)—He asked a loan of me.²

ASK (a person) for (a thing)—He asked me for a loan.

ASK (খোঁজ করা) about, after—He asked about or after you.

ASPIRE (আকাঙ্ক্ষা করা) after or to (POD)—I do not aspire after or to a high post (desire something high).

ASPIRANT to—My friend is an aspirant to the post of the Principal. ✓ ¹Also approve your action (without of).

²According to McMordie "We ask a thing from a person. Ask of is an old form, no longer in use." But this form is given in POD & COD.

- ASPIRATION for, after—I have no aspiration for (or after) riches.
- ASSENT to—I assented (consented, রাজী হইলাম) to the proposal.
- ASSIGN to—He assigned (নির্দিষ্ট করে দিল) the task to me.
- ASSIST in (সাহায্য করা)—I assisted him in his duties.
- ASSOCIATED with (a person) in (a business)—He was associated with you in the plot (জড়িত).
- ASSURE (নিশ্চিত করা) (one) of—He assured me of his help.
- ASTONISHED at—I was astonished (বিস্মিত) at your courage.
- ATONE for—You must atone for (make amends, প্রায়শ্চিত্ত করা) your sin.
- ATTACH to ; (be) ATTACHED to—Attach this slip to the letter (জুড়ে দাও). She is deeply attached to her younger brother (be bound to by love or affection, আসক্ত, অনুরক্ত).
- ATTACHMENT (আসক্তি, অনুরাগ) for—I have an attachment for the children of the school.
- ATTACKED by (a person), with (fever)—He was attacked by robbers on the way. He has been attacked with fever.
- ATTAIN to—He attained to (reached) greatness by dint of perseverance. (Also without to).
- ATTEND to, upon, at—Attend (listen) to your teacher. I attended upon (served, or looked after, সেবা করিয়াছিলাম) the patient. We attended (উপস্থিত ছিলাম) at the station for him (also without at).
- ATTENDED by (a person), with (a thing)—He was attended by his servants. The task is attended with difficulty.
- ATTRIBUTE (আরোপ করা) (a loss) to (a person)—He attributed the loss to me (held me responsible for it).
- ATTUNE to—Their minds were attuned (নিমগ্ন) to the music.
- AUTHORITY for, on, of, with, over, to—What is your authority (প্রমাণ) for such a statement? He is an authority (expert, প্রামাণ্য ব্যক্তি) on politics. I say this on the authority of the Oxford English Dictionary. He has no authority (personal influence, আধিপত্য) with or over his brother. Only the Secretary has authority (ক্ষমতা) to make payments.
- AVAIL (take advantage of, সুযোগ লওয়া) (oneself) of ; AVAILABLE to—I availed myself of his help. His help was available to me.
- AVAILABLE (লভ্য) to (somebody) for (a purpose)—The records are available to the auditors for scrutiny.
- AVENGE on—He will avenge (প্রতিশোধ নিবে) himself on you.
- ¹ AVERSE from, to (POD & COD)—He is averse (disinclined, পরান্বুখ) from or to work.

¹“To insist on from as the only right preposition in spite of more general use of to is one of the pedantries that spring of a little knowledge.” —MEU.

- AVERSION to (বিরাগ, বিতৃষ্ণা)—Do you feel any aversion to mixing with them ?
- AWARE of—He is aware (অবগত) of the fact.
- BAN (noun) on ; (verb) from—There is a ban (নিষেধাজ্ঞা) on the play. He was banned from entering the club.
- BAR to—There is no bar (obstacle, বাধা) to his trying for the post.
- BARE of—The field is bare of (without) grass. bare - খালি/অনাবৃত
- BASED on—What he says is based (প্রতিষ্ঠিত) on truth.
- BEG (a thing) of (a person)—He begged the favour of me. I beg of you to keep quiet.
- BEG (a person) for (a thing)—He begged me for the favour.
- BEG for (a thing) from (a person)—He begged for help from me.
- BEHAVE towards—Behave kindly towards the poor.
- ¹BELIEVE in—I do not believe (have faith) in his honesty.
- BELONG to—This book belongs to me.
- BENEFICIAL to—Exercise is beneficial to health (উপকারী).
- BENT on—He is bent (দৃঢ় প্রতিজ্ঞ) on going (determined to go).
- BEQUEATH to—He bequeathed (left by will, উইল দ্বারা দান করা) his all to me.
- BEREFT (deprived, বঞ্চিত) of—Bereft of children, he lives a lonely life.
- BESET with—He is beset (surrounded, বেষ্টিত) with dangers.
- BESTOW on—May God bestow (give, দান করা) His blessings on you.
- BEWARE of—Beware (take heed, সতর্ক হওয়া) of the enemy.
- BIAS (পক্ষপাতিত্ব, বৌক) against, towards—I have no bias (prejudice) against him (or towards anything particular).
- BLESSED with, in—He is blessed with (i.e., possesses) good health. He is blessed (i.e., happy) in his children.
- BLIND of, in (an eye), to (consequences)—He is blind of or in both the eyes².
He is blind (বুঝিতে বা বিচার করিতে অসমর্থ) to his son's faults.
- BLUSH (আরক্তিম-বদন হওয়া) at sight or word, with or for joy or shame, for another (COD)—He blushed with shame at his own mistake. I shall never give you cause to blush for me.
- BOAST of—Do not boast of your wealth.
- BORDER on—Your conduct borders on cruelty (সীমান্তবর্তী হওয়া).
- BORN of, in—He was born of poor parents. He was born in poverty.
- BORROW of or from—I borrowed the amount of or from him.

¹But, 'I do not believe him.' Note the distinction :

I do not believe him—do not believe what he says.

I do not believe in him—have no faith in his honesty or sincerity.

²COD and POD have "blind in one eye" (under "in"), and "blind of an eye." under "blind."
"I should think the phrase 'blind of one eye' is historical rather than current and I think that 'blind in one eye' is the more idiomatic." —Secretary, Clarendon Press, Oxford University, to the author.

BOUND for (home), by (contract), in (honour)—He is bound for (on the way to) England. I was bound by (আবদ্ধ) contract to pay the money. I am bound in honour to help you.

BOUNDED to—You should bow to your superiors. I had to bow to circumstances.

BROOD on or over (COD)—Do not brood (think sorrowfully) so much on or over your misfortune (চিন্তা করে মন খারাপ করা).

BURDENED with—He is burdened (ভারগ্রস্ত) with a big family.

BURST (ফেটে পড়া) into (tears), out (laughing)—He burst into tears at the sad news. He burst out laughing at my story.

BUSY at, in, with, about—He is busy at his desk. He is busy in doing his work (also, without in). He is busy with his lessons. He is always busy about nothing.

BUY (a thing) of (a person), but from (a shop)—I bought this thing of him (but bought this from his shop).

CALLOUS to—He is callous to (indifferent, উদাসীন) my suffering.

CAPABLE (সমর্থ) of; CAPACITY for—He is not capable of hard work. He has no capacity for hard work.

CARE for, about (COD); (take) CARE of—He does not care (verb) for me or for wealth, or about the result (has no interest in it). He has no care (n.) for me. Take care of your health.

CAREFUL, CARELESS of or about—He is careful (or careless) of or about his health.

CATER for, to (usually in the sense of pandering, evil inclinations)—The dispensary was set up to cater for the needs of the local people. Some newspapers cater to low tastes. নতুনতর খবর

CAUSE of (a preceding event), for (ground or justification for)—What is the cause of your failure? There is no cause for anxiety.

CAUTIOUS of; CAUTION against—He is cautious (সতর্ক) of giving (careful that he may not give) offence. Take proper caution against malaria. He cautioned me against thieves. সতর্ক করে সতর্ক করে

CERTAIN of; CERTAINTY of, about (POD)—I am certain of it. There is no certainty of or about it.

CERTIFICATE of—I want a certificate of character.

CERTIFY to (one's character)—I certify to his honesty.

CHARACTERISED (বিশেষত্বপূর্ণ) by; CHARACTERISTIC of—His plans are characterised by boldness. Boldness is the characteristic of his plans.

CHARGE (noun) against (a person), of (a thing)—What is the charge (অভিযোগ) against him? He took charge (ভার) of the affairs. (কর্ম)

CHARGE (verb) (a person) with (a fault), on (a person)—He was charged with theft. Theft was charged on him.

CHARGE (a payment) to (a person)—Give him one kilogram of sugar and charge the price to me (দাম ফেলা).

CHEAT of, out of (POD)—He was cheated of or out of his dues.

CLAIM upon or against (a person), to, for (a thing)—I have no claim upon or against him. I have no claim to this money. His claim for damage was accepted.

- CLAMOUR for—The people are clamouring for (জোরালো দাবী করা) more autonomy.
 CLEAR of (blame)—Keep clear of (free from) wicked friends.
 CLING (stick, লেগে থাকা) to—He clung to me through my troubles.
 CLOSE to (adj.)—His house is close to mine (near, সন্নিকটে).
 CLOSE with (verb)—He closed with (accepted) the offer.
 CLOTHED with (shame), in (dress)—Clothed with shame, she left the place. She was clothed in white.
 CLUE to (সূত্র) —Find out the clue to the mystery.
 COINCIDE with—Your story coincides (agrees) with his.
 COLLABORATE (সহযোগিতা করা) with (a person), in or on (something); (In) COLLABORATION with—The people collaborated with the police in rounding up the dacoits. 'Collaborate on a biography with a friend.' The relief work was carried out by government officials in collaboration with the villagers.
 COLLIDE with (ধাক্কা লাগা); (In) COLLUSION with (যোগসাজসে)—The lorry collided with the car. He acted in collusion with others to deceive me.
 COMBINE with (মিলিত হওয়া); (In) COMBINATION with—Hydrogen combines with oxygen to form water. Yellow colour in combination with blue produces green colour.
 COMMENCE on, with—The examination commences on the 5th instant. He commenced his speech with a short prayer. (আরম্ভ করা)
 COMMENSURATE (সমানুপাতিক) with—His pay is not commensurate with (not in the right proportion) his qualifications. (HORNBY gives to also).
 COMMENT upon, on (মন্তব্য করা)—Comment upon or on this passage. Do not make any comment on this issue.
 COMMIT to—Commit the passage to memory. (স্মরণ করা / মনে রাখা)
 COMMON to—This angle is common (সাধারণ) to both the triangles.
 COMMUNICATE (a thing) to (a person), with (a person) on (a thing)—Communicate (give) the information to him. I shall communicate (write letters, লেখালেখি করা) with him on this matter.
 COMPARE with (like things), to (unlike things); (In) COMPARISON with—Compare Akbar with Aurangzeb. Anger is compared (likened) to fire. "The tallest buildings in London are small in comparison with those of New York."
 COMPATIBLE with—You should drive the car at a speed compatible with (suited to, সুসঙ্গত) safety.
 COMPENSATE (a person) for (his loss), with (a substitute)—I compensated him for (to make good, ক্ষতিপূরণ করা) his loss. (But, we compensate a loss). I compensated the loss with a similar thing.
 COMPETENT for—You are not competent (উপযুক্ত) for the post.
 COMPETE with, for—He competed with me for the post (প্রতিদ্বন্দিতা করা).
 COMPLACENT about—You should not be complacent about your examination result.

COMPLAIN to (a person), against (another), of (a thing)—He complained to me against you, or of your conduct. He complained of headache.

COMPLY with; (In) COMPLIANCE with—He complied with (agreed to, সম্মত হইল) my request. In compliance with your instructions (নির্দেশানুসারে), the work was done.

¹COMPOSED of—What is water composed (made) of?

COMPROMISE with—(a person or party), on (an issue)—I cannot compromise with persons holding opposite views. There cannot be any compromise on this issue.

CONCEAL from—I concealed (kept secret, গোপন করিয়াছিলাম) this from him.

CONCEIVE of—I cannot conceive (think of, ধারণা করা) of such cruelty.

CONCENTRATE on, upon—You should concentrate on or upon your studies.

CONCERNED in (a plot), at, about (feel anxiety), for (= anxious for a person's welfare), with (having to do with)—Five men were concerned (mixed up, জড়িত) in the plot. I am concerned at your failure. I am much concerned about the result. I am much concerned for you. I am not concerned with this matter.

CONCLUSION of, to, from—There was a great applause at the conclusion of the concert. This is the conclusion to the story. You can draw some conclusions from the evidence.

CONCUR with (a person) in (his decision) or on (a point)—I concur (একমত হওয়া) with you in your decision (or on this point).

CONDEMN to, for—He was condemned (sentenced, দণ্ডিত হইয়াছিল) to death for murder.

CONDOLE with (a person) on (his loss)—We condoled (sympathised, সহানুভূতি প্রকাশ করিলাম) with him on his loss.

CONDUCTIVE (সহায়ক) to—Early rising is conducive to health (helpful).

CONFER on, with (a person) about (a matter)—I shall confer (give) a prize on the boy. I shall confer with (consult, পরামর্শ করিব) him about your prayer.

²CONFESS to (a sin); CONFESSION of (weakness)—I confess to this weakness. It is a confession of weakness.

CONFIDE in, to—Confide in (trust) me. Confide (tell in confidence, বিশ্বাস করে বলা) your secret to me.

CONFIDENCE in (আস্থা) —I have full confidence in your ability.

CONFIDENT of—He is confident (hopeful) of success.

CONFINED (আবদ্ধ) in (a room), to (bed)—He is confined in jail. He is confined to bed by gout.

CONFORM with (একমত হওয়া) (a person) on (views) to (a rule); CONFORMITY to; (In) CONFORMITY with—I conform (agree) with you on this point. Conform to (follow) (or, Act in conformity with) our rules. 'Conformity to fashion is not essential to the happiness of all women.'

¹Often confounded with comprise. Note that comprise is transitive, meaning 'consist of' 'containing' and requires no preposition after it. Write 'The family comprises ten members' or 'The family is composed of ten members.' See also under consist.

²*Confess* is also used as a transitive verb, when to is not required.

- CONFRONT with—He was confronted with a very difficult situation.
- CONFUSE with—Don't confuse (mix up, গোল পাকানো) liberty with licence.
- CONGENIAL to—This climate is congenial to my health (favourable, অনুকূল).
- CONGRATULATE (one) on (one's success)—I congratulate (অভিনন্দিত করা) you on your success.
- CONNECTED or CONNECTION with; CONNECTION between (two); (In) CONNECTION with—I am connected with that paper. He has no connection with me. There is no connection between the two. He came here in connection with an enquiry.
- CONNIVE at; (with the) CONNIVANCE of; (In) CONNIVANCE with—He connived at (tolerate, উপেক্ষা সহ্য করা) our faults. The plot was hatched with the connivance of (or in connivance with) (tacit permission of, পরোক্ষ সম্মতি বা প্রশয়) the authority.
- CONSCIOUS of—I am conscious of (aware, সচেতন) my weakness.
- CONSEQUENT on (or upon); or, (In) CONSEQUENCE of (ফলে) the failure of the bank many people have lost their all.
- CONSENT (verb) to, (noun) to, for—He consented to my proposal. I gave my consent to the proposal. He gave his consent for the marriage.
- CONSIDERATION (বিবেচনা) for; (In) CONSIDERATION of—Show some consideration for his youth. In consideration of his youth, he is let off this time.
- ¹CONSIST of, in—My family consists of (contains) six members. True happiness consists in (= is) contentment.
- CONSISTENT with (agreeing to)—Your action is not consistent with your principles (সামঞ্জস্যপূর্ণ).
- CONSPICUOUS for, by—He was conspicuous (পরিদৃশ্য) (remarkable) for his memory. He is conspicuous by absence (attracting notice, দৃষ্টি আকর্ষণকারী).
- CONSPIRE with (others), to (do something), against (somebody)—His enemies conspired with his soldiers to ruin him. They conspired against the leader.
- CONSULT with (a person) on or about (a thing)—I consulted with him (also, consulted him) on or about that matter.
- CONTACT with—I have no contact (সংযোগ) with him.
- CONTEMPORARY (noun) of, (adj.) with (of the same time, সমসাময়িক)—Akbar was a contemporary of, or was contemporary with, Elizabeth.
- CONTEMPT for, of—I have a great contempt (ঘৃণা) for him. He was guilty of contempt (অবজ্ঞা) of court.
- CONTEND with or against (a foe or difficulties), for (a thing)—He had to contend (compete) for the prize with or against a strong rival.
- CONTENTED with—He is contented (সন্তুষ্ট) with a little.
- CONTIGUOUS to—His house is contiguous (close) to mine.
- CONTINGENT on or upon—The success of the mission is contingent on or upon (dependent) the reception it gets from the public.

¹Not to be confounded with comprise, which does not require of. See under compose.

- CONTRAST (noun) to, between ; (In) CONTRAST with (বিপরীত)—Your action is a contrast to (or, is in contrast with) your profession. There is a great contrast between the two.
- CONTRAST with (verb)—Contrast (compare, তুলনা কর) Akbar with Aurangzeb. Contrasted with you, your brother is poor.
- CONTRARY to—You acted contrary to orders (opposite to, উল্টো).
- CONTRIBUTE to—Contribute (pay, সাহায্য করা) something to this fund.
- CONTROL of, over—He has no control (শাসন বা নিয়ন্ত্রণ ক্ষমতা) of or over himself.
- CONVERGE on—People converged on the parade ground.
- CONVERSANT with—I am conversant (well-acquainted, বিশেষ অবগত) with the history of the case.
- CONVERSE with (a person) on, about (a subject) (COD)—I shall converse with him on or about the matter (talk, কথা বলা).
- CONVERTED to, into—He was converted to Christianity. My joy was converted into sorrow (changed, পরিবর্তিত).
- CONVICT of—He was convicted of theft (punished, দণ্ডিত হইয়াছিল).
- CONVINCE of—I am convinced (satisfied) of your honesty.
- CO-OPERATE with (a person), in (a task)—I hope you will co-operate with me in this mission.
- COPE with—I cannot cope with (manage, এঁটে উঠা) so much work.
- CORRESPOND (চিঠিপত্র লিখা) with (a person) about (a thing), to, with—I shall correspond with (write to) him about the matter. 'The wings of a bird correspond (অনুরূপ হওয়া) to the arms of a man.' Your report corresponds (agrees) with his (মিলে যায়).
- COUNT for, upon—Our advice counts for nothing (i.e., is of no effect) with him. I count (depend on, নির্ভর করা) upon your help.
- COUNTER (adj., adv.) to, (verb) with—They acted counter (প্রতিকূলে) to the leader's wishes. They countered (প্রতিবাদ করা) our proposal with one of their own.
- COVETOUS of—He is covetous (greedy, লোভী) of wealth.
- CRAVE for (COD)—He craves (desires eagerly, আকাঙ্ক্ষা করা) for wealth.
- CREDIT to, with—Credit (জমা করা) the amount to my account. Credit my account with the amount. I credit him with good sense.
- CREDENCE to—I do not give much credence (বিশ্বাস, প্রত্যয়) to his report.
- CULMINATE in—He suffered misfortunes that culminated (সর্বোচ্চ সীমায় পৌঁছানো) in bankruptcy.
- CURE (v.) (one) of (disease) ; a CURE (n.) for (disease)—He is cured of his disease. Have you any cure for his disease ?
- DAWN on—The truth at last dawned on (became clear to) me.
- DEAF of an, in one, ear (COD), to (not listen to)—He is deaf of an (or in one) ear. He is deaf (শুনিতে নারাজ) to entreaty.
- DEAL in (trade in, ব্যবসায় করা) good ; with a person (behave, ব্যবহার বা বোঝাপড়া করা) ; with a subject (write or talk about it, আলোচনা করা) ; by or with person (treat in a specified way)—He deals in rice, but does not deal honestly with his customers. He deals with the subject in his new book. He dealt cruelly by or with me.

- DEAL out—He dealt out (বিতরণ করিত) equal justice to all.
- DEBAR (বঞ্চিত করা) from—He was debarred from (prevented) voting.
- DECIDE upon, or against (সিদ্ধান্ত করা)—I have not decided upon my plan of action. The case was decided against him.
- DEDICATE to (উৎসর্গ করা)—He dedicated the book to his mother.
- DEDUCE from—I deduced (inferred, সিদ্ধান্ত করা) the truth from his remarks.
- DEFEND from, against—I shall defend (রক্ষা করা) you from your enemy. I shall defend you against all attacks.
- DEFICIENT in—He is deficient in learning (weak, কাঁচা).
- DEFER to—The discussion was deferred (put off, মুলতুবী রাখা হইল) to the next meeting.
- (In)DEFERENCE to (শ্রদ্ধাজ্ঞাপনের উদ্দেশ্যে)—The women wore veils in deference to the customs of the country.
- DELEGATE to—The power was delegated to (entrusted, ন্যস্ত করা) the subordinates.
- DELIBERATE upon (discuss)—We deliberated long upon (considered) the matter (আলোচনা করিলাম).
- DELETE from—His name was deleted from (struck out) the list.
- DELIGHT in ; DELIGHTED at, with (COD)—He finds delight in books. He is delighted at or with the result. The child is delighted with his toys.
- DELIVER to, from—Deliver (অর্পণ করা) the letter to them. He delivered (saved) me from the trouble.
- DELVE into—You should delve into (make researches into, গভীর গবেষণা করা) the old manuscripts for information.
- DEMAND (a thing) from or of (a person) ; for (noun)—He demanded the amount from or of me. There is no demand for this book.
- DEMUR to—I do not demur (object, আপত্তি করা) to your request.
- DEPEND upon—You can depend upon my word.
- DEPENDENT (নির্ভরশীল) on—He is dependent on me.
- DEPRIVE of—He was deprived (বঞ্চিত হইয়াছিল) of all power.
- DEPUTE to—He was deputed to attend the meeting.
- DERIVED from—What is your income derived (got, প্রাপ্ত) from books ?
- DEROGATE (হীন করা) from ; DEROGATORY (হীনতাজনক) to—This will derogate from (or, This is derogatory to) his honour.
- DESCEND from ; DESCENDANT of—The Rajputs claim to be descended from (or descendants of) Sri Ramachndra.
- DESERVING of—His conduct was deserving (উপযুক্ত) of praise.
- DESIRE for, of—(POD) ; DESIROUS of—He has no desire for or of wealth. He is not desirous of wealth.
- DESIST (বিরত হওয়া) from—He desisted from (gave up) the attempt.
- DESPAIR (নিরাশ হওয়া) of—He despairs (is hopeless) of success.
- DESTINED for, to—He is destined (নির্দিষ্ট) for or to that service.
- DESTITUTE of—I am destitute (without, বিহীন) of any friend here.

DESTRUCTIVE of, to (POD)—Drinking is destructive (নাশক) of or to health.

DETACH from—He became detached (separated, বিচ্ছিন্ন) from his friends.

DETER from—He was deterred (prevented, নিরস্ত) from going there.

DETERMINED on—He is determined (দৃঢ়সংকল্প) on going home.

DETRACT from—This defect detracts (takes away) from his fame (কমান).

DETRIMENTAL to—Drinking is detrimental (injurious, ক্ষতিকর) to health.

DEVIATE from—I cannot deviate (go aside, অন্যপথে যাওয়া) from truth.

DEVOID of—Your story is devoid of (without, বিহীন) truth.

DEVOLVE upon, to (COD)—The charge of the family devolved (fell, বর্তিল) upon me on my father's death. The property devolved upon or to him (উত্তরাধিকার সূত্রে বর্তিল).

DEVOTE to—Devote (নিযুক্ত করা) some time to prayer every day.

DIE of (a disease), by (violence or weapon), from (a cause), for (something)—
He died of cholera ; or, by poison ; or, from overwork ; or, for his country.

DIFFER from, in, with, on, about—This thing differs from (is unlike, ভিন্নরূপ হওয়া) that in colour. I differ with (have a different opinion from, ভিন্নমত হওয়া) you on this point¹. Men differ in opinion about his conduct.

DIFFERENCE between ; DIFFERENT from—What is the difference between the two ? This thing is different from that².

DIFFIDENT of—I am diffident of success (doubtful, আত্মসন্ধিগ্ন).

DIGRESS from ; DIGRESSION from —The lecturer temporarily digressed from her subject (turn or wander away from the main subject, অপ্রাসঙ্গিক হওয়া) to deal with a related theory. Talking about money now would be a digression from the main purpose of this meeting.

DISAPPOINTED at, of, in, with (COD) (হতাশ হওয়া) —He was disappointed at your failure. He was disappointed of the prize (i.e., did not get it at all). He was disappointed in the prize (i.e., got the prize, but it did not satisfy him). I am disappointed with him.

DISAGREE with (ভিন্নমত হওয়া) one on (a point)—I disagreed with him on that point.

DISCRIMINATE (one thing) from (another), between (two things), against (somebody)—You should discriminate good boys from bad ones. We discriminate between good and bad boys. Do not discriminate against the poor.

DISGRACE to—He is a disgrace to his family (কলঙ্ক).

DISGUSTED with, at, by (COD)—I am disgusted (বিরক্ত) with, or by, or at his conduct. He was disgusted with me.

DISLIKE (অপছন্দ) to, for, of (POD & COD)—I have a dislike to (or for) the boy. I cannot shake off my dislike of him.

DISPENSE with (তাগ করা)—I dispensed with (do without) his services.

DISPLEASED with (a person) at or by (his conduct) (POD)—I am displeased (অসন্তুষ্ট) with him at or by his conduct.

¹COD writes differ with, and from also in this sense. But MEU prefers with in this sense.

²“That difference can be followed only by from, and not by to, is a superstition.”—MEU.
“Different from, to, than, all used by good writers past and present ; than chiefly where a prep. is inconvenient.” —COD.

- DISPOSE of (finish, ব্যবস্থা বা শেষ করা)—Let us dispose of our work.
- DISPUTE with (a person) about, on (a matter) (COD)—I had a dispute with (তর্ক করিয়াছিলাম) him about (or on) that matter.
- DISQUALIFIED for (a post), from (competing)—He is over-age, and is disqualified for (or from appearing at) the examination.
- DISSENT from—I dissent from your views (differ, ভিন্নমত হওয়া).
- DISSIMILAR to—This thing is dissimilar to that.
- DISSUADE (নিবৃত্ত করা) from—I dissuaded him from opposing the leader.
- DISTASTE for—He has a distaste (aversion) for publicity.
- DISTINCT from—“These families are distinct from one another.”
- DISTINGUISH between, from, by—Distinguish between the two. I distinguished you from him by your dress (পার্থক্য করা বা বুঝা).
- DISTRACT from—The loud music distracted me from study.
- DISTRUST of (অবিশ্বাস)—There is reason for your distrust of him.
- DIVERT from, to—The noise diverted (drew away, অন্যদিকে নিল) my attention from the book to the crowd.
- DIVEST of—He was divested (বঞ্চিত) of all power (all power was taken away from him).
- DIVIDE into parts, between, or among—It was divided into several parts. Divide the money between the two (or among the four) men present.
- DOMINEER over—He domineers (rules, কর্তৃত্ব করা) over the whole class.
- DOUBT (n.) about, of; DOUBTFUL of—There is no doubt about or of his honesty. I am doubtful of his honesty.
- DUBIOUS of or about—I feel dubious of his sincerity. He feels dubious about what to do next.
- DUE to—No money is due to me (payable) from him (প্রাপ্য).
- DULL of (hearing), at (work)—He is dull of hearing (কানে ঝাটো). He is dull (slow, কঁচা) at Physics.
- DWELL in (a place), upon (a subject)—He dwells in this house. He dwelt long upon (discuss, আলোচনা করা) the subject.
- EAGER for, after, about (COD)—He is eager for (or after) fame, or about the result.
- EASY of—He is easy of access (সহজগম্য).
- EFFACE from (মুছিয়া যাওয়া)—Exposure to sun and rain has effaced the inscription from the plaque. In course of time his memory effaced from my mind.
- EGRESS from—The plan shows sufficient egress from (বহির্গমনের পথ) the stadium.
- EJECT from—Lava ejected from the volcano destroyed the village.
- ELICIT from—I elicited (drew out, বের করা) the information from him.
- ELIGIBLE for—He is eligible for the post (qualified, যোগ্য).
- ELIMINATE from—He was eliminated from the tournament.
- EMANATE from—Real strength emanates (উদ্ভূত হওয়া) from learning.

EMBARGO on—The Government decided to lay an embargo on trade with enemy countries.

EMBARK at (a port), for (a destination), on or in (a vessel), on (a task)—We have to embark at Bombay for London on or in the ship. The students embarked on a drive for donation of blood.

EMERGE from, into (বের হওয়া)—The tiger emerged (came out) from the jungle into the open field.

EMIGRATE from, to—He emigrated from India. Many scientists emigrated to the U.S.A.

EMIT from (নির্গত হওয়া)—Smoke is emitted from the chimney.

¹ ENAMOURED of (very fond of, মুগ্ধ)—He is enamoured of this place.

ENCROACH on (one's right, territory, etc. or abs.—COD)—Do not encroach on my land or right (enter without right, অধিকার প্রবেশ করা).

ENCUMBER (one) with (something)—You should not be encumbered with unnecessary luggage when travelling.

END in—Vice must end (result) in misery.

ENDOWED with—He is endowed with (possesses, ভূষিত) talents.

ENGAGED (নিযুক্ত) with (a person) on or in (some work); to—I was engaged in conversation with him. He is engaged on books (or, in work). My daughter is engaged (betrothed to, বাগদত্তা) to his son.

² ENJOIN on, upon (অনুজ্ঞা করা)—This rule is enjoined (imposed) on all. 'Our leader enjoined upon us the necessity for strict secrecy'.

ENGROSSED in—He was deeply engrossed (নিমগ্ন) in his studies.

ENRAGED with, at—"He is enraged (ক্রুদ্ধ) with you for speaking against him. The bear is enraged at his keeper"—Mc.Mordie.

³ ENTER into (something) with (somebody), upon (a career), for (an examination or contest)—He entered into conversation with me. He has entered upon his new duties. I have entered for the examination. Have you entered for the long jump?

ENTERTAINED by (a person) with (music) at (a party)—We were entertained (বিনোদিত) by him with music at the party.

ENTITLED to—He is entitled (অধিকারী) to a reward for honesty.

ENTRUST with, to—I entrusted the thing to him. I entrusted him with the thing (বিশ্বাস করে দেওয়া).

¹ COD has only of after enamour: Nesfield has—'enamoured with a person, of a thing.' New Standard Dictionary by Funk and Wagnall has 'enamoured of a lady with study.' Imperial Dictionary of English Language by John Ogilvie has both of and with before a person or thing: to be enamoured of or with a lady; to be enamoured of or with books of science. For the last two references the author is indebted to Prof. Asis Das Gupta of Krishnagar College.

² "The construction with a personal object and an infinitive is not recommended"—MEU. But COD has "enjoin a person to do" and "enjoin conduct, action on a person."

³ "When enter means go into some specific place, no preposition is used; it takes a direct object (e.g. enter a room, enter a town). In older English enter into was often used for this purpose, but it is now obsolete"—F.T. Wood.

ENVY of (person) ; of, at (advantages) (POD) ; ENVOUS of—I have no envy (jealousy) of him. I have no envy at or of his success. I am not envious of his success.

EQUAL in (rank) with (a person) to (a task) ; EQUALITY with—I am equal in rank with you. I am not equal to (able to do) the task. He is to blame equally with his brother.

EQUIP (somebody) with (something) for (a purpose)—They equipped (সজ্জিত করিল) the boys with food and clothes for the journey.

EQUIVALENT to—One dollar is equivalent to rupees forty three in Indian currency.

ERASE from—The marks will have to be erased from the painting.

ERR in—The hunter erred in his calculations of the distance.

ESCAPE from—There is no escape (মুক্তি) from death.

ESSENTIAL to—Health is essential to (অত্যাবশক) success in life.

EVICT from—The tenants were evicted (বহিস্কৃত হইল) from the house for not paying the rent.

EXACT from—He exacted (drew out) promise from me.

¹EXCEL in—He excels in painting (সদৃশে শ্রেষ্ঠ হওয়া).

EXCEPTION to ; (with the) EXCEPTION of—I take exception (object, আপত্তি করা) to your remark. There is no exception (ব্যতিক্রম) to the rule. All were present with the exception (ছাড়া) of Ram.

EXCHANGE for, with—I often exchange ideas with him. What will you give me in exchange for this (পরিবর্তে লওয়া বা দেওয়া) ?

EXCLUDE from ; EXCLUSIVE of—Minors are excluded (kept out of, ত্যক্ত) from the list of voters. The price of the thing is Rs. 100, exclusive (ব্যতীত) of railway freight.

EXCUSE from, for—I excuse (ক্ষমা করা) you from attendance. What is your excuse for failure ?

EXEMPT from (অব্যাহতি দেওয়া)—He was exempted from the fine.

EXPECT from, of (আশা করা)—I did not expect this from or of him (POD).

EXPEL from (বিতাড়িত)—The man was expelled from the party.

EXPERT at, in—He is expert (সুদক্ষ) at the flute. He is expert in drawing.

EXPOSE to—Don't expose it (keep open) to the sun.

EXTERNAL to (বহির্ভূত)—These are considerations external to the main issue.

EXTORT from—He tried to extort money from his friends.

EXTRACT (verb) from, (noun) of, from—Oil is extracted from cotton seed. The extract of the fruit tastes sweet. This is an extract from the poem "Paradise Lost".

EXULT over (a person), at, in (his misfortune)—He exulted over (rejoice exceedingly, আনন্দোচ্ছাস করা) me at or in my misfortune.

¹"COD has "excel—surpass (others in quality, in doing) : be pre-eminent (in, at thing, in quality, in doing)."

FAITH in, with—Have faith in God. He broke faith with me.

FAITHFUL to—The dog is faithful to its master.

FALSE to—I cannot be false (unfaithful, বিশ্বাসঘাতক) to my friend.

FAMILIAR with, to—I am familiar (intimate) with him. His face is familiar (well known) to me.

FATAL to (destructive)—This mistake is fatal to his prospects.

FAVOUR (verb) with—Will you favour us with an interview?

(In) FAVOUR of—He spoke in favour (পক্ষে) of my son.

FAVOURABLE to, for—His report is favourable to me. This time is favourable for attack.

(The) FAVOURITE of; (a) FAVOURITE with or of (COD)—He is the favourite of (or a favourite with or of) his master.

FEAR (n) of; (v) for—He is in fear of (or, fears for) his life.

FEARFUL, FEARLESS of—He is fearful, or fearless, of danger.

FEED (intr.) on; (trans.) with—Cows feed (খায়) on grass. Feed the cow with grass.

FEEL for (a person) in (his trouble)—I feel for you in your trouble.

FIGHT for (the poor) with or against (the rich)—He always fought for the poor with or against the rich.

FIRE (গুলি করা) at, into, upon (COD)—He fired at the bird. The police fired into or upon the mob.

FIRE with—Fired with (উদ্দীপিত) zeal, he set about his task.

FIT for, out, up—You are not fit for the post. The ship was fitted out (equipped, আবশ্যকীয় জিনিস দ্বারা সজ্জিত হইয়াছিল) for the voyage. He is fitting up his house for the guests.

FIX in, on, to (COD); up—The idea became fixed in his mind. He fixed his eyes on me. Fix this stamp to the envelop. The date of the meeting has been fixed up.

FOND of, FONDNESS for—He is fond of sweets. He has great fondness for sweets.

FOREIGN to—Rudeness is foreign to his nature (বিদেশীয়, স্বভাববিরুদ্ধ).

FORGETFUL of—He began to work forgetful of (ভুলিয়া) everything else.

FREE (adj.) from (danger), of (tax), of (money); (verb) from, of—He is now free from (danger). The goods arrived free of tax. He is free of his money (lavish, মুক্ত হস্ত). This medicine freed me from or of pain.

FROWN on, at (a person) (to express displeasure, ভুকুটি করা)—He frowned on or at the boys who created the trouble.

FRUITFUL in (ফলপ্রসূ)—His brain is fruitful in clever tricks.

FRUITLESS of (নিষ্ফল)—Your labour is fruitless of any gain.

FULL of; FILLED with—The cup is full of (filled with) milk.

FURNISH (something) to (somebody); (somebody) with (something)—I furnished the information to the committee. The committee was furnished with the information. We furnished the library with new books.

GLAD of (help), at (success)—I am glad of (i.e., for receiving) your help. I am glad at your success.

GLANCE at (an object), over (a subject)—He just glanced (looked for an instant, ক্ষণিকের জন্য দৃষ্টি দিল) at me and then went on with his work. Please glance (চোখ বুলান) over this letter.

GLORY in—I glory (take pride, গর্ব করা) in your success.

GOOD for (nothing), at (cricket)—He is good for nothing. He is good at cricket.

GRAB at—He grabbed at his collars (take roughly). He grabbed at the opportunity and lost no time to secure the job.

GRATEFUL to, for—I am grateful (কৃতজ্ঞ) to him for his help.

GREEDY of, for (profit); GREED for (riches)—The shareholders are greedy (লোভী) of or for profit. He has no greed for riches.

GRIEVE at, for, about, over—I am grieved (ক্ষুব্ধ, দুঃখিত) at or for or about the loss. I grieve (দুঃখ বোধ করি) for him; he has lost his son. He grieved over his dead friend (McMordie).

GRUMBLE at, over, about—He grumbles at or about his lot (complains, অসন্তোষ প্রকাশ করা). There is no use grumbling over the past.

GUARD from, against, over—He guarded me from (or against) their attack. You must guard (সতর্ক হইবে) against such mistakes. He stood guard over the prisoner (পাহারা দিল).

GUESS at—He guessed (অনুমান করিল) at the truth. (Also without at).

GUILTY of—He is guilty (অপরাধী) of theft.

HAIL from—We hail (come) from Rajasthan.

HANG to, on, from—Hang (ঝুলাও) to or on or from a hook, or from the ceiling, or to or on the wall (POD).

HANKER after—I do not hanker (আকাঙ্ক্ষা করা) after wealth.

HARP (verb) on—He always harps on (talks repeatedly) his misfortunes.

HATRED of, for (ঘৃণা) (a person), of (a thing)—I have no hatred of or for him, or of that thing.

HEAR of or about, from—I heard of or about you from him.

(Pay) HEED to—Pay heed to what I say.

HEEDLESS of—I shall go, heedless (without caring, তোয়াক্কা না করিয়া) of effect.

HEIR of (a person), to (a property)—He is the heir of his uncle. He is heir to his uncle's property (উত্তরাধিকারী).

HESITATE at—He hesitates at nothing.

HIDE (a thing) from (a person)—I hide nothing from you.

HINDER from (বাধা দেওয়া); HINDRANCE to—He was hindered from going. There is no hindrance to his going.

HINGE upon—The whole case hinges (depends, নির্ভর করে) upon this point.

HINT at (সঙ্কেত করা)—I hinted at the coming trouble.

HOPE of, for; HOPEFUL or HOPELESS of—I have no hope (n) of or for success. I hope (v.) for success. I am hopeful (or, hopless) of success.

HOSTILE to—He is hostile (opposed, বিরুদ্ধে) to my plan.

HUNT after, for, out—Don't hunt after or for (অনুসরণ করা) pleasure. They hunted out the tiger (খুঁজিয়া বাহির করিল).

HURTFUL (injurious) to—Smoking is hurtful to health (ক্ষতিকর).

IDENTICAL with—Your opinion is identical with (the same as) mine.

IGNORANT of—He is ignorant of the fact (অজ্ঞ).

ILL with, of (fever), (go ill) with—He is ill with (or of) fever. It will go ill with you if you oppose me (তোমার ভাল হবে না).

IMMATERIAL to—This point is immaterial (অপ্রাসঙ্গিক) to our case.

IMMERSED in (plunged, নিমজ্জিত)—He is immersed in debt.

IMMUNE from, against, to (COD)—He is immune (secure, মুক্ত) from or against or to infection.

IMPART to—Impart (give) the knowledge of the thing to him.

IMPATIENT of, at, for—He is impatient (intolerant) of (also at—COD under at) delay (অসহ্য বলিয়া অধীর). I am impatient for payment (eager to get, পাইবার জন্য অধীর).

IMPEDIMENT to (বাধা)—Such obsolete systems are great impediments to progress.

IMPERVIOUS to (অভেদ্য)—He is impervious to all arguments. These shoes are impervious to water.

IMPLICATED in—He is implicated (involved, কুকার্যে জড়িত) in the plot.

IMPORT (আমদানী করা) into (a country) from (another)—Watches are imported into India from Switzerland.

IMPOSE on, upon—The task was imposed on him (put, চাপান হইল). He tried to impose upon me (deceive, ঠকান).

IMPRESS (a thing) upon (one's mind), (a person or thing) with (ছাপ দেওয়া) (a mark)—I impressed the lesson upon him. I impressed him with the idea.

IMPUTE to—Do not impute (ascribe, আরোপ করা) motives to him.

INACCESSIBLE (অগম্য, অপ্রবেশ্য) to—This place is inaccessible to outsiders.

INADEQUATE (অপর্যাপ্ত) to, for—Our preparations were inadequate to the task. The resources are inadequate for such an ambitious project.

INCAPABLE of—He is incapable (অসমর্থ) of doing such a thing (not incapable to do).

INCENTIVE to (উৎসাহদায়ক)—This reward will be an incentive to (serve to bring forth) greater exertion.

INCIDENTAL to—All expenses incidental to (liable to occur, আনুষঙ্গিক) the meeting will be borne by the committee.

INCLINATION to, for—He has no inclination to (or for) study.

INCLUDE in; INCLUSIVE of—My name is included in the list. The price is Rs. 100, inclusive of (লইয়া) railway freight.

INCOMPATIBLE with—Such an action is incompatible with (not in harmony, বেখাপ্পা) his temperament.

INCONGRUOUS with—The account she gave at the trial is incongruous (বেমানান) with her earlier statement.

INCONSIDERATE of—You should not be inconsiderate of (সহানুভূতিহীন) the feelings of others.

INCONSISTENT with—His actions are inconsistent (অসঙ্গত) with his principles.

¹INCULCATE (an idea) upon, in (one) (COD)—He inculcated the idea upon or in my mind (impressed, সংস্কার জন্মাইয়া দেওয়া).

INCUMBENT (আরোপিত কর্তব্য) upon (somebody) to (do something)—It is incumbent upon you to warn the students of the evils of smoking.

INDEBTED to, for—I am indebted (ঋণী) to you for my success.

INDEPENDENT of—He is independent (স্বাধীন) of my help.

INDIFFERENT to—He is indifferent to my interests (উদাসীন) .

INDIGNANT with (a person) at (his conduct)—He is indignant (angry, ক্রুদ্ধ) with me at my conduct.

INDISPENSABLE to—Your help is indispensable to me (absolutely necessary, অত্যাবশ্যক).

INDULGE in, with (a thing given) ; INDULGENT to—Do not indulge (আসক্ত হওয়া, প্রশয় দেওয়া) in wine. You indulge him with your support. He is indulgent to his son.

INFECTED with—This house is infected (সংক্রামিত) with small pox.

INFER from—What do you infer from his reply (deduce, অনুমান করা) ?

INFERIOR to—This toy is inferior to that in quality.

INFESTED with—This room is infested (উপদ্রত) with rats.

INFLICT (impose) on—A heavy fine was inflicted on me (দণ্ডবিধান করা).

INFLUENCE (প্রভাব) with, over (a person), upon (his decision)—I have no influence with or over him. His speech had a great influence upon my mind.

INFLUENCED by—His decision was influenced by my advice.

INFORM against (a person), of (a thing)—He informed (complained to) the police against me. I informed him of it.

²INFUSE (ভিতরে ঢুকান) into—He infused (put) a new spirit into us.

INHERENT in—This right is inherent (জন্মগত) in us.

INITIATED into (taken in as member of a group, দীক্ষিত)—He was initiated into our party.

INJURIOUS (ক্ষতিকর) to—Smoking is injurious to health.

INNOCENT of—I am innocent of the charge.

INQUIRE of (a person) about, into (a matter)—I inquired of (asked) him about the matter. He shall inquire into the matter.

INQUIRE for or after (a thing sought)—Ask how or where he is. He inquired for or after me.

¹Don't write, "He inculcated my mind with the idea."

²*Infuse* and inspire are often confounded. Don't write "The army was infused with a new spirit."

INSENSIBLE to—He is insensible (বোধহীন) to all sense of shame.

INSIST on—He insists (জিদ করা) on my doing this (not to do).

Note

Insist may also be followed by a noun clause without a preposition: He insisted that I should do this.

¹INSPIRE (উৎসাহিত করা) (person) with (feeling); (feeling) into, in (a person) (COD)—His words inspired us with courage. His words inspired courage into or in us.

INSTIL into (infuse gradually, ক্রমে ক্রমে ঢুকান)—He instilled that idea into my mind.

INTENT on—He is intent (determined, দৃঢ়সংকল্প) on going there.

INTEREST or INTERESTED in—I take interest (or, am interested) in this matter.

INTERFERE with (a person or thing), in (matter)—Do not interfere (হস্তক্ষেপ করা) with me, or in my business (meddle). "Pleasure must not be allowed to interfere with (be an obstacle to) business." (Universal Dictionary).

INTERVENE in—You should intervene in the dispute and settle it.

INTIMATE (adj.) with, (verb) to—I am intimate (অন্তরঙ্গ) with him. Intimate to (inform) me the time of his arrival.

INTRODUCED to (a person), into (a room) (পরিচয় করান, ঢুকান)—I introduced him to my brother, or, into the family.

INTRUDE upon (a person, or his leisure), into (a place) (অন্যহৃত প্রবেশ করা)—Why did you intrude upon him, or into the room?

INVEST with, in—He was invested with (given, অভিষিক্ত হওয়া) full powers. He invested (deposited with, গচ্ছিত রাখিয়াছিল) his all in the bank.

²INVESTIGATION (তদন্ত) of, into—The investigation of the matter has started. The court ordered an investigation into the affairs of the company.

INVITE to (a party)—I invited him to dinner.

INVOLVED in—I am involved (জড়িত) in debt.

IRRELEVANT to—Your remark is irrelevant to (not to the point, অপ্রাসঙ্গিক) the discussion there.

IRRESPECTIVE of—The boys joined to do the task irrespective of (নির্বিশেষে) their caste and religion.

IRRITATED at, by, with—He is irritated at this disappointment. He was irritated with me for my silence. He was irritated (বিরক্ত) by being kept waiting so long.

ISSUE from—A bear issued from the forest (came out, বাহির হইল).

JEALOUS of—He is jealous of my fame (ঈর্ষান্বিত).

JEER at—Do not jeer at (taunt) him (বিদ্রূপ করা).

JEST at, about—Do not jest at (or, about) (make fun of) the sacred things (ঠাট্টা করা).

JOIN (a thing) to (another); (one) with or to (another); with (one) in (a thing or game)—Join this angle to that. The two families were joined with or to ¹See foot note 2, p. 183.

²*Investigate* is a transitive verb, and therefore takes a direct object. The police are investigating the matter (not investigating into or about).

each other by marriage. England joined with France to fight against Germany. I join with you in your opposition to the bill. I shall join in your game (also without in).

JUDGE by—Do not judge a thing by its appearance.

JUMP at (an offer), to (a conclusion), with (joy)—He jumped at (readily accepted) the offer. Do not jump to (form hastily) a conclusion. He jumped with joy to see me.

JUNIOR to—He is junior to me in service.

JUSTIFICATION of, for—What is the justification (ন্যায়সংগত যুক্তি) of or for his conduct ?

KEY to—What is the key (সূত্র) to the mystery ?

LABOUR at (a work) under (a difficulty), for (a cause)—He laboured at his work under great difficulties. He laboured hard for public good.

LACK of (অভাব) ; LACKING in (a thing)—I have no lack of friends. He is not lacking in politeness.

LAME of, in (one leg)—He is lame of or in one leg (COD).

LAMENT for or over—There is no use lamenting (অনুশোচনা করা) for or over the past (also without for or over).

LAUGH at—Do not laugh at the dwarf (বিদ্রূপের হাসি হাসা).

LAVISH (adj.) of (money), in (expenditure) ; LAVISH (v.) (favour) upon—He is lavish (মুক্ত হস্ত) of money, or in his expenditure. He lavished favours upon me (মুক্ত হস্তে দিল).

LEAN against, on, upon, to—He leaned against (হেলান দেওয়া) the wall for support. He leaned on (ভর করিল) his stick. I lean upon (depend, নির্ভর করা) you for help. He leaned to my opinion.

LEVEL (verb) (a gun) at, against (an object) (POD), (a house) with or to (the ground)—The hunter levelled (লক্ষ্য করিল) the gun at or against the tiger. The storm levelled the house with or to the ground (ভূমিসাৎ করিল).

LEVEL (adj.) with—This surface is in level with that.

LIABLE to (harm), for (দায়ী) (an action)—He is liable to (likely to get) punishment (দণ্ডনীয়) for neglect of duty.

LIBEL on—The play is a libel on human nature (COD).

LIKENESS (সাদৃশ্য) to—I knew him by his likeness to his father.

LIKING for—He has a liking for me.

LIMITED to (সীমাবদ্ধ)—Invitation was limited to members only.

LISTEN to, in (to), for—Listen to what he says. Did you listen in to the Prime Minister last night ? Please listen carefully for the telephone bell while I am in the kitchen.

LIVE in, at (a place), on (a good), by (means), for (an ideal), within, beyond (one's means)—He lives in Kolkata or at Ranaghat. He lives on milk only. Live by honest means, and for a high ideal. He lives within or beyond his means.

LONG for, after—Everybody longs (desires eagerly) for, or after happiness.

প্রতিদিনের Current Affairs, বিভিন্ন Update, গুরুত্বপূর্ণ খবর, চাকরির খবর, Motivational Quotes...

Join Now

Click Here

Telegram

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস

প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

WhatsApp

Join Now

Click Here

বিভিন্ন প্রতিযোগিতামূলক পরীক্ষার জন্য গুরুত্বপূর্ণ Free Study Materials, PDF ইত্যাদি দিয়ে থাকি...

LOST in (thought), to (sense of shame)—He is lost (deeply absorbed) in thought.

He is lost to (has nothing of) all sense of shame.

LOYAL (অনুরক্ত) to—He is loyal to his master.

MAD with, on or about or for or after—He is mad with anger. He is almost mad on or about or for or after the thing (COD).

MARTYR to—He died a martyr to (শহীদ) liberty.

MARRY (one person) to (another)—Ram was married to Sita.

MATCH (noun) for ; (verb) with—He is no match for me. This colour matches with (agrees with) that.

MEDDLE with, in—Do not meddle with (অনর্থক নাড়াচাড়া করা) his machine, or (interfere) in my affairs (হস্তক্ষেপ করা).

¹MEDITATE upon (চিন্তা করা) —He meditated upon (thought deeply over) the folly of his action.

MEET with (an accident)—He has met with an accident.²

MENACE to—‘The careless driver is a menace (ভয়াবহ বিপদ) to the other road users.’

MERGE with, into—Smaller states merged with the bigger ones. ‘Twilight merged into darkness.’

MINDFUL of—Be mindful of your duties.

MIX in (society), with (a person), up, in (জড়িত)—I shall not mix with you. He mixes in high life. He is mixed up (involved) in or with that plot.

MOURN for (the dead)—We all mourn (শোক করি) for him.

MOVED (বিচলিত) by (entreaty), to (tears), at (a sight), with (pity)—He was moved by my entreaty. He was moved to tears (or with pity) at the sight of my misery.

MURMUR at, against—They murmur (complain in low tones, অসন্তোষ প্রকাশ করা) at their low wages. People are murmuring against the new tax.

MUSE on—He mused (thought deeply, চিন্তা করিল) long on life’s changes.

NATURAL to—Such kindness is natural to him (স্বাভাবিক).

NECESSITY for, of, to (প্রয়োজন)—What is the necessity for this book ? The general felt the necessity of surrender (or surrendering). This is a necessity to me.

NECESSARY for, to—Industry is necessary for or to success.

³(In)NEED of ; (any or no) NEED for—I am in need of money. Have you any (or no) need for money now ?

NEGLECT of, in ; NEGLECTFUL of ; NEGLIGENT of, in (অমনোযোগী)—He was fined for neglect of duty, or for neglect in doing his duty. You are neglectful or negligent of duty. You are negligent in your work.

¹But when meditate means “to have in mind to do or make,” it does not require any preposition : He meditates resignation. Generally, we meditate upon a past action, but meditate a future one.

²But, we meet a person.

³The COD gives only of after need.

¹NEGOTIATE with (somebody), on (an issue)—We decided to negotiate with him on our wage revision.

OBJECT to—I object to that remark (আপত্তি করা).

OBJECTION to, against (a proposal), against (a person)—I have no objection to or against the proposal (or, against him).

OBLIGE (অনুগ্রহীত করা) (a person) with or by (doing)—He obliged me with a loan, or by giving me a loan.

OBLIGED to (a person), for (a thing)—I am obliged (কৃতজ্ঞ, বাধিত) to you for your kindness.

OBLIVIOUS of, to (POD)—He sat quietly oblivious of or to his surroundings.

OBSESSED by or with—He was obsessed with or by the idea.

OBSTACLE to (বাধা)—Poverty is often an obstacle to higher studies.

OCCUPIED with (a business), in (doing a thing)—He is occupied with his books. He is occupied in writing a letter.

OCCUR to—The idea never occurred to me (মনে হয় নাই) .

OFFEND (লঙ্ঘন করা) against (a rule) ; OFFENDED with (a person), at (an action) ;
OFFEND to—You have offended against (violated) good manners. I am offended (displeased, বিরক্ত) with your conduct. The smell of this acid is offensive to me.

OFFICIATE for, in—He officiated (পরিবর্তে কাজ করিয়াছিল) for me in that post.

OPEN to—Your plan is open to objection.

²OPPORTUNITY for (action), of (doing)—He had no opportunity (সুযোগ) of going there. This is your opportunity for action.

OPPOSED to—I am opposed (বিরোধী) to the proposal.

OPPOSITE (n.) of—The verdict was the opposite of what had been expected.

OPPOSITE (adj.) to—His house is opposite to mine. (Also, without to).

OPPOSITION to—He offered strong opposition to the bill.

OPT for (something), out of (something)—I opted for mathematics as my additional subject. He opted out of (chose to take no part in) the committee.

ORIGINATE with or from (a person), in or from (a thing) (COD)—The idea originated with or from him. The fire originated in or from the kitchen.

OUST from—He was ousted (বহিস্কৃত) from the society.

(To be) OVERCOME with, by (emotion) etc., (COD)—He was overcome with fatigue, or by my entreaties.

OVERWHELMED with, at—He is overwhelmed with grief at his brother's death (অভিভূত).

OWE to—I owe (be indebted for) my all to him (ঋণী হওয়া).

PARALLEL to—The straight line is parallel to that.

PARODY on or of (a poem)—This is a parody on (or of) a poem of Milton (a composition in imitation of another to make others laugh at him, বিদ্রুপাত্মক নকল).

¹But negotiate a treaty, an agreement, terms, etc.

²COD & POD allow "opportunity to do" also.

- PART from, with (say good-bye to), with (give up) (COD)—It is painful for a mother to part from or with her son. I cannot part with this book.
- PARTAKE of—Let us partake of some food (take a share).
- PARTIAL to; PARTIALITY for (পক্ষপাতী)—He is partial to his friend. He has no partiality for his friend.
- PARTICULAR about (সতর্ক) —He is very particular about his health.
- PARTY to—I am not a party to this decision.
- PASSION for (strong enthusiasm, প্রচণ্ড আসক্তি)—He has a passion for music.
- PATIENT under (difficulties), of (suffering); PATIENCE with—He is patient (সহিষ্ণু) of his sufferings. Be patient under difficulties. He lost all patience with me.
- (At) PEACE with—I want to live at peace with you (শান্তিতে) .
- PECULIAR to (নিজস্ব বৈশিষ্ট্য)—That style of play is peculiar to him.
- PENETRATE through, into, to (COD) (অনুপ্রবেশ করা)—The enemy penetrated through our lines into or to the village.
- PENITENT for—He is penitent for his faults (অনুতপ্ত).
- PERMIT of—Your conduct permits of no excuse.
- PERSEVERE in—He persevered in his attempts (বারবার চেষ্টা করা).
- PERSIST in—He persisted in disturbing me (লাগিয়া থাকা).
- PERTAIN to—The building and the land pertaining (অন্তর্ভুক্ত) to it were sold off.
- PERTINENT to—Points pertinent (প্রাসঙ্গিক) to the subject only will be discussed here.
- PINE (আকুলভাবে আকাঙ্ক্ষা করা) for—The exiles pined (desired strongly) for their native country.
- PITY (অনুকম্পা) for—Have pity for the poor.
- PLAY at (a game), on (an instrument), with—They are playing at cricket.¹ He is playing on a harp. I shall not play with you. He played with (treated insincerely) my feelings.
- PLEAD with (a person) for or against (something)—He pleaded with me for justice (or, against the wrong done to him, ওকালতি করা).
- PLEASED with (a man), about (one's conduct), at (before a gerund)—I am pleased with him or about his conduct (সন্তুষ্ট). I am pleased at finding him here.
- PLUNGED in (thought), into (water)—I found him plunged (engrossed, নিমগ্ন) in thought. He plunged (dived) into the river.
- POINT out, at, to—Point out the mistakes here. He pointed (নিশানা ঠিক করিল) his gun at me. His speech pointed to some of our defects.
- POLITE in, to—He is polite (ভদ্র) in his manners (or to strangers).
- PONDER on, over—Ponder (চিন্তা করা) well on or over my advice.
- POOR in (spirit)—Don't be poor in spirit.
- POPULAR with, for—He is popular with all for his goodness (জনপ্রিয়).

¹Also without at in this sense.

POSSESSED by or with (the devil, an idea) (POD), of (wealth)—He is possessed with or by the idea and cannot give it up. He behaved as if he were possessed by or with the devil. He returned possessed of vast wealth.

PRECAUTION against—Take precaution (সতর্কতা) against cold.

PREFER (one) to another ; PREFERABLE to—I prefer (like better) health to wealth. Health is preferable to wealth.

PREFERENCE to, over (COD), for (a thing)—I give him preference to or over his brother. I have no preference (বিশেষ পছন্দ) for any of the candidates.

PREJUDICE against ; PREJUDICIAL to—I have no prejudice (bias, বিরুদ্ধে সংস্কার) against intercaste marriage. Smoking is prejudicial (harmful) to health (ক্ষতিকর).

PRELUDE to—The song is a prelude to the main function.

PRE-OCCUPIED with—He was pre-occupied with his own problems.

PREPARE for (COD), against (danger) ; PREPARATORY to—He is preparing for the examination. Prepare against the coming danger. He is packing up preparatory to departure.

PRESENT (উপঢ়ৌকন দেওয়া) (a thing) to (a person), with (a thing)—I presented the book to my sister. I presented my sister with the book.

PRESIDE at, over—He presided at the table (or, over the meeting).

PRETEND to ; PRETEXT for (ছুতা) ; (on or under the) .PRETEXT of—I do not pretend (ভান করা) to high birth. What is your pretext for opposing me ? He went inside the house on (or under) the pretext of inspecting the installations.

PREVAIL on, with, over or against—I prevailed on (persuaded, রাজী করান) him to go home. My argument did not prevail (prove effective, কার্যকরী হওয়া) with him. I prevailed over (or, against) (overcame) all difficulties (জয় করা).

PREVENT (one) from (going)—I prevented him from going.

PREVIOUS to—Previous to (before) that, he was a clerk.

PREY to (greed)—noun. He is a prey to greed (শিকার).

PREY upon—verb. Anxiety preyed upon (exert wasteful influence upon) my mind (ক্ষয় করা).

PRIDE (n.) in ; PRIDE (v.) (oneself) on ; PROUD of—He takes pride in or prides himself on his rank. He is proud of his rank.

PRIOR to—Prior to (before) that, he was a clerk.

PROCEED with (a thing already begun), to (a new thing) ; from (the source) ; against—He did not look at me, but proceeded with his work. He bade me good-bye, and proceeded to work. Light and heat proceed from the sun. I shall proceed against you in a court (নালিশ করিব).

PROFICIENT in, at (POD)—He is proficient (strong) in or at music.

PROFIT by—We profit by experience.

PROFITABLE to—This transaction is profitable to me.

PROFUSE in—The garden is profuse in roses.

PROHIBIT from—I prohibited him from going.

PROMOTE to—He has been promoted to a high post (পদোন্নতি হইয়াছে).

- PROMPT (চটপটে) in (answer), at (figures)—He is prompt in his answers. He is prompt at figures.
- PRONE to—He is prone to (খারাপ দিকে প্রবল বৌক থাকা) idleness.
- PROOF against—He is proof against temptation (প্রলোভনের অতীত).
- PROPORTIONATE to (আনুপাতিক)—Punishment should be proportionate to the offence.
- PROTECT from or against; PROTECTION against—I shall protect you from or against dangers. Take proper protection (সাবধানতা) against cold.
- PROVIDE against (the evil day), for (children), (one) with (a thing)—You must provide against (পূর্বে ব্যবস্থা করা) evil days or for your children. I provide (supply, সরবরাহ করা) him with food (or, I provide food to or for him).
- PRY into (inspecting closely, উকি দিয়া দেখা)—I do not like prying into your secrets.
- PURGE of or from—The club was purged of or from bad people.
- PURSUANT to; (In) PURSUANCE of (অনুসারে)—Pursuant to (or, In pursuance of) (following) your orders, I went there yesterday.
- QUALIFIED for—He is qualified for the post.
- QUEST for; (In) QUEST of—The quest for knowledge is an endless one. He went off in quest of food.
- QUICK at, of—He is quick at figures, or of understanding (চটপটে).
- QUARREL with (a person), about, for, over (a thing)—They quarrelled with one another about or for or over the house.
- READY at (figures), for (departure), in (answers)—The clerk is ready (quick) at figures. We are ready for departure. He is ready in his answers.
- REASON for (n.), with, about (v.)—What is your reason for doing it? Don't reason (argue, তর্ক করা) with me about that matter.
- REBEL against (বিদ্রোহ করা)—The soldiers rebelled against the king.
- RECOMMEND to, for (something)—I recommended him to my friend for the job.
- RECONCILED with, to (enemy), to (an unpleasant situation)—He is reconciled (reunited, পুনর্মিলিত) with or to his friend. He has become reconciled to his lot.
- RECOURSE to (অবলম্বন করা) —Do not take recourse to unfair means to get the thing.
- RECOVER from—He has recovered from his illness.
- REFLECT (প্রকাশ করা) on, upon—Your rude behaviour reflects only on (or upon) your nature.
- REDUCED to (poverty)—He has been reduced to poverty.
- REFER to, for—Refer the matter to him for inquiry.
- REFERENCE to—This has a reference to your letter dated 5th April.
- REFRAIN from—I refrain from (do not make, বিরত হওয়া) making any remark now.
- REGARD (noun) for—I have no regard (respect) for him.
- In (or With) REGARD to—In (or With) regard to that matter, I have nothing to say (সম্বন্ধে).

REGARDFUL or REGARDLESS of—He is regardful (or regardless) of the feelings of others (সতর্কদৃষ্টি বা উদাসীন). He opposed me regardless of the consequences.

REJOICE in, at—“No one rejoiced (উৎকৃষ্ট হইয়াছিল) at (or in) their success more than she.”—McMordie.¹

RELATION of (one) to (another); between (the two)—What is the relation of the moon to the tides? What relation is he to you? What is the relation between the moon and the tides?

RELATED to (a family); RELATIONS with—I am related to him. This letter relates (সংশ্লিষ্ট) to that. My relations with him are good.

RELEVANT to (প্রাসঙ্গিক)—Your remark is not relevant (pertinent) to the point.

RELIEVE of, from—This will relieve (উপশম করা) you of or from pain.

RELY on (নির্ভর কর)—You may rely on my word.

REMARKABLE for—He is remarkable (noted) for his strength.

REMEDY to (COD) (cure, প্রতিকার)—There is no remedy for this disease. (Nesfield has ‘remedy for or against snakebite.’)

REMIND (one) of (a thing)—I reminded him of his promise.

RENDER into—Render the passage into (পরিণত করা) English.

REPENT of; REPENTANCE for—I repent (অনুতাপ করা) of my rudeness. I feel repentance for my rudeness.

REPLACE (one thing) by, with (another)—Replace this old chair by (or, with) a new one (পরিবর্তে বসান). —COD².

REPLY to—I have sent a reply to his enquiry.

REPOSE (confidence) in (a person), in, on (a bed), on (a pillow)—Repose (place, স্থাপন করা) confidence in God. He reposed (lay) in or on bed for some time (শয়ন করিল). He reposed his head on a pillow (রাখিল).

REQUIRE (a thing) of (a person)—I required a loan of him.

REQUISITE (প্রয়োজনীয়) for—Sincerity and hard work are the chief requisites for success.

RESEMBLANCE to (somebody, something), between (A and B)—She bears a striking resemblance to her sister. The movie bears little resemblance to the original novel. The resemblance between the two signatures was remarkable.

RESIGN (oneself) to—I resigned myself to fate (আত্মসমর্পণ করা).

RESISTANCE (বাধা) to—The soldiers offered resistance to the enemy attack.

RESOLVE into (factors), upon (determined)—Resolve (analyse) the expression into factors. He is resolved upon going away.

RESORT to—We must resort to (use) force to put them down. People resort (come) to the temple from everywhere.

¹ Nesfield has ‘rejoice at the success of another, but ‘in one’s own success.’ But COD does not make any such distinction.

² But we ‘substitute one thing for another.’ See under substitute “When replace is active it has for its object the name of the thing that is replaced and is followed by with ... When the verb is passive with the thing that is replaced, as its subject, by is used But in a passive sentence where it is necessary to use by to denote an agent, with must be used before the name of the thing that is substituted.” Current Eng. Usage by F.T. Wood. But COD has—‘to fill up place of (by, with)’.

RESPECT (শ্রদ্ধা) for—I have great respect for him.

¹(In) RESPECT of—He is senior to me in respect of (সম্বন্ধে) service.

¹(With) RESPECT to—We had a talk with respect to (about, সম্বন্ধে) that matter.

RESPECTFUL to—He is respectful to his elders.

RESPIRE from—I need some respite (বিশ্রাম) from the heavy work.

RESPOND to—Respond (উত্তর দেওয়া) to the roll-call.

RESPONSIBLE to (an authority) for (one's action)—I am responsible to the Board for my action.

REST with, upon—It rests (depends, নির্ভর করা) with you to grant my prayer. I rest upon (rely on, নির্ভর করা) your promise.

RESTORE to (ফিরাইয়া দেওয়া) —Restore (give back) his property to him.

RESTRAIN from—He was restrained from taking a hasty decision.

RESTRICT to (সীমাবদ্ধ করা)—Admission was restricted to students only.

RESULT (noun) of (a test); (verb) from (a cause), in (a consequence)—The result of the examination is out. Misery results from vice. Vice results in misery.

RETIRE (অবসর লওয়া) from (business), into (loneliness), to (bed), on (pension)—He retired from service on a pension. He retired into loneliness in his old age. Let us retire to bed.

REVENGE on, for—He took revenge (প্রতিশোধ) (or He revenged himself) on me for opposing him.

REWARD (a man) with (something) for (service)—He rewarded me with the post for my help to his boy.

RICH in—India is rich in minerals.

RID of—Get rid of (পরিত্যাগ করা) your bad habit. Apply chemicals to get rid of (নিষ্কৃতি বা অব্যাহতি পাওয়া) the pests.

ROB (a man) of (his money)—The man robbed me of my all.

ROW (verb) with (a person), over or about (something)—He is always rowing with his friends over or about trifling matters.

RUDE to (someone), about (something), of (one)—Don't be rude to anybody. He was rude about my objections to the proposal. It was rude of you to interrupt the lady when she was speaking.

SACRED to (a god)—The temple is sacred (উৎসর্গীকৃত) to Lord Bishnu.

SAD at—He was sad at leaving school.

SADDLE (somebody) with (something)—I was saddled with (put under responsibility) the heavy tasks.

SANGUINE of (success)—I am sanguine (hopeful) of success.

SATISFIED with, of (the truth)—I am satisfied (সন্তুষ্ট) with him (or his conduct). I am satisfied of the truth of what you say.

SATISFACTION in, at, with—I find satisfaction in helping the poor. Great was his satisfaction at or with my result.

SATURATED with—His clothes were saturated with rain water.

¹The two phrases do not mean the same thing. In respect of = in point of some quality, and is preceded by an adjective. With respect to = about, and qualifies some noun or verb. We cannot write 'We had a talk in respect of that.' or 'He is senior to me with respect to service.'

SAFE (adj.), SAVE (v.) from—He is safe from danger. I saved him from the danger.

SEARCH for ; (In) SEARCH of—We searched for it there. I went there in search of him. Our search for the thing was of no avail.

SECEDE from—A group of people seceded from the party.

SECURE (নিরাপদ) against (attack), from (harm)—The town is secure against attacks. His money is secure from robbers in a bank.

SEEK for, after (খোঁজ করা) (a thing), of or from (a person) (POD)—We sought for it there (also, without for). We all seek after happiness. We sought help of or from him.

SENIOR to—He is senior to me in service.

SENSIBLE of ; SENSITIVE to—I am sensible of (aware, অবগত) the risk I run. She is very sensitive to cold (ঠাণ্ডায় কাহিল হয়).

SENTENCE to, for—He was sentenced to death for murder.

SEQUEL to, of—The division of the land was a sequel (ফল স্বরূপ) to the agreement. The famine was a sequel of the flood.

SHAME at, for—I feel shame at or for your conduct.

SHORT of (fund)—I am short of funds.

SHRINK from—He shrank from going there (পশ্চাদ্দপদ হওয়া).

SICK (ill, tired, disgusted) of, for (a thing)—I am 'sick (পীড়িত) of a fever' (COD).

I am sick (বিরক্ত) of this idle life. I am sick for my home (অত্যন্ত আকুল).

SIDE with—He sided with me (দলে আসিল).

SILENT about, on (a thing)—He is silent about or on that point.

SIMILAR to—This thing is similar to that (সদৃশ).

SIMILARITY of (one thing) with (another), between (two things)—Point out the similarity (সাদৃশ্য) of this with that (or, between the two things).

SIMULTANEOUSLY (একই সাথে) with—The members of the opposition raised their hands simultaneously with the members of the ruling party on this issue.

SIN against—You have sinned against God, and must suffer.

SINK in (mud), into (the sea), upon (the ground), under (a burden)—He sank in mud up to the knees. The ship sank into the sea. He sank upon the ground quite exhausted. The horse sank under the heavy load put upon it.

(The) SLAVE of—He is the slave of his passions (ত্রীতদাস).

(A) SLAVE to—He is a slave to his passions.

SLOW of (speech), at (figures), in (doing a thing)—He is slow of speech or at figures or in making up his mind.

SLUR on, over—This will put a slur (a blame, কলঙ্ক) on his name. He slurred over his son's faults (passed lightly over, দোষ লঘু ভাবা).

SMELL of (wine) (verb)—This glass smells of wine.

SMILE at—He smiled at (greeted with a smile) me. He smiled (laughed jeeringly) at your threat (উপহাসের হাসি হাসিল).

SMILE upon (অনুগ্রহ করা)—Fortune smiled upon (favoured) him at last.

SNEER at—Don't sneer (smile to show disrespect) at me (অবজ্ঞায় নাক সিটকান).

SNATCH at—A drowning man snatches at a straw (ধরিতে চেষ্টা করা).

SORRY for—I am sorry for my mistake.

SPEAK with, to, about, for, of, on—I do not speak with him. I spoke to him about the matter. His conduct speaks well for him. He speaks highly of you. He spoke on the subject.

SPECIFIC for, against (প্রকৃত প্রতিবেধক)—What is the specific for this poison? There is no specific against cancer.

SPITE (hatred and anger) against—He has a spite against me (আক্রোশ).

STAIN upon, with, in—Your action is a stain (blot, spot) upon your character. The cloth was stained with ink. Stain (রঞ্জিত করা) the glass in blue.

STAND on, by, in, to, for, at—He stood on the ground ; by what he said ; in the street ; at attention ; on ceremony ; on his rights ; on the balcony. It stands to reason. I shall stand for my friends who stood by me through all difficulties.

STARE at (a person)—He stared at me (এক দৃষ্টিতে তাকাইল).

START for, from (a place), at—He started from home for Calcutta. He started at (was startled by) my sudden entrance (হঠাৎ চমকিয়া উঠিলেন).

STARTLED at (surprised) (হঠাৎ চমকিত হইলেন)—He was startled at the sight.

STICK at (nothing), to (a thing)—He sticks at nothing (will use every means, কিছুতেই পশ্চাদপদ নয়) to gain his point. Stick to your point (লেগে থাকা).

STRANGE to—This name is strange to me (অপরচিত).

STOOP to—I cannot stoop to (lower myself) such meanness.

SUBJECT (noun) of, for (বিষয়); (verb and adj.) to (অধীনে)—What is the subject of or for enquiry? We were subjected to great hardships. We are subject to death.

SUBMIT to (বশ্যতা স্বীকার করা)—The rebels submitted to the king (gave in).

SUBORDINATE to—He is subordinate (lower in position) to me in service.

SUBSCRIBE to—(a fund) I shall subscribe to the fund. He subscribes to that paper. I don't subscribe to his views (agree).

SUBSEQUENT to—This happened subsequent to (after, পরবর্তী সময়ে) my departure.

SUBSIST on (a food)—We subsist on rice (live by eating).

SUBSTITUTE (one thing) for (another)—Substitute single words for the following phrases.¹

SUCCEED to (a property), in (an object)—He succeeded to (inherited) his father's estates. Jahangir succeeded to (came after) Akabar (also, without to). He succeeded in his object.

SUCCUMB to—The pedestrian succumbed to the injuries.

SUFFICIENT for—This amount is sufficient for our purpose.

SUFFER from (fever), for (one's misdeeds)—I am suffering from malaria. You must suffer for your misdeeds.

SUITABLE for, to (one), to (an occasion)—This house is not suitable for or to me. The speech was not suitable to the occasion.

SUITED to, for—Your remark is not suited to the occasion. He was not suited for the post.

¹See Note under "replace".

- SUPERIOR to—He is superior to me in all respects.
- SUPPLEMENT to—This volume is a supplement (পরিপূরক) to that.
- SUPPLY (a person) with (a thing), (a thing) to (a person)—He supplied us with food. He supplied food to us.
- SURE of—I am sure of success.
- SURETY for—I stand surety for him.
- SURPRISED at, by—I am surprised at or by his conduct (বিস্মিত).
- SUSCEPTIBLE to, of—He is susceptible to cold. The statement is not susceptible of proof.
- SUSPECT of—I suspect him of treachery.
- SUSPICIOUS of—He is suspicious of my motive.
- SYMPATHY for, with—I have no sympathy for or with him.¹
- SYMPATHISE with, in—I sympathise with you in your misery.
- TALK with, to, of, about, over—“I was talking to or with Jones about or of or over it” (COD).
- TAMPER with—Take care that the records are not tampered with.
- TANTAMOUNT to—His request was tantamount to (equal in effect to, গুরুত্ব একই) a command.
- TASTE of (আস্বাদ) —(1) Experience (noun and verb) : I have had some taste of misery. Thou shalt soon taste of death. (2) To have the flavour of : This dish tastes of garlic.
- TASTE for (liking for, রুচি)—He has no taste for music.
- TESTIFY to—He testified to my honesty (bore witness, সাক্ষ্য দিয়াছিল).
- TESTIMONY to ; (In) TESTIMONY of—The incident stands testimony to his honesty. He was presented with a gift in testimony of the appreciation of his long service.
- THANKFUL to, for—I am thankful to you for your help (কৃতজ্ঞ).
- THINK of, about—What do you think of or about him ? He thinks of going away.
- THINK over—Think carefully over his advice.
- THIRST for, after—We all thirst for or after happiness.
- TIDE over—He has tided over (overcome) the difficulty.
- TIRED of (waiting), by (a walk), or with (exertions)—I am tired of (বিরক্ত) waiting, by the long walk, or with (ক্লান্ত) exertions.
- TOLERANT of—We must be tolerant of opposition (সহিষ্ণু).
- TOUCH at (a place), upon (a subject), with (pity)—This train does not touch at that station. He touched upon (referred to, উল্লেখ করিল) the subject in his speech. He was touched (moved, বিচলিত) with pity at my misery.
- TOY with—He toyed with the idea of (think not very seriously about) setting up a free dispensary.
- TREAT with (a person), of (a subject), (one) to (a dinner)—He treated well with me. This book treats of (discusses) music. He treated us to (gave us) dinner.
- TREMBLE with (fear)—The child trembled with fear.

¹“The exception sometimes taken to following sympathy with for instead of with is groundless.” —MEU.

TRIBUTE to—They paid tribute to the departed soul.

TRIUMPH over—He triumphed over his troubles (won, জয়লাভ করিল).

TRUE to—Be true to your word.

TRUST (a thing) to (a person); (a person) with (a thing); TRUST to (one's judgement), in (God)—You may trust (entrust) the work to me, or trust me with the work (বিশ্বাস করে দেওয়া). I cannot trust to (rely on) his judgement. Trust in God.

TYRANNISE over—He tyrannised over (oppressed) the people.

UNAWARE of—I was totally unaware of the incident.

UNCALLED for—The statement was uncalled for (neither desirable nor necessary, অযাচিত).

UNCARED for—The child was left uncared for (অযত্নে পালিত).

UNEASY (অস্বচ্ছন্দ) about—I am uneasy about the effect of his action.

UNEQUAL to—He is unequal to the task.

UNION, (In) UNISON, with—I seek union with Ram with whom I quarrelled. They act in unison with one another.

UNITE with—I am now united with him.

UNITED (married) to—She is united in marriage to an engineer.

URGE upon—We urged the point upon his consideration.

(The) USE of; (any or no) USE for; (to be of) USE to (one) for—What is the use of this (or, of my going there)? Have you any use for it? I have no use for it. This book is of great use to me for success in the examination.

(To be) USED to—He is used to such hardships (অভ্যস্ত).

USEFUL to (a person) for (a purpose)—This book is useful to students for success in the examination.

VAIN of (dress)—She is vain of her dress (অহঙ্কারী).

VARY from; (at) VARIANCE with—Your story varies (differs, পৃথক হওয়া) from his. Your story is at variance with his.

VERSED in—He is well versed (learned) in politics.

VEST (a power) in (a person), (a person) with (a power)—That power was vested (ন্যস্ত) in me. I was vested with that power.

VEXED with (a person), for, at (a thing)—He is vexed (বিরক্ত) with me for opposing him. He is vexed at my opposition.

VICTIM of (বলি)—He was a victim of the earthquake disaster.

VICTIM to (folly)—He died a victim to his own folly.

VIE (প্রতিদ্বন্দ্বিতা করা) with, in—They vied (competed) with one another in their eagerness to honour me.

(In) VIEW of; (with a) VIEW to—In view of (considering, বিবেচনায়) what you say, I pardon you this time. He came here with a view to (উদ্দেশ্যে) getting (in order to secure) my approval.

VITAL to—Rest and care are now vital to his health (স্বাস্থ্যের পক্ষে অত্যাবশ্যক).

VOID of (sense)—Your remark is void of (without) any meaning (শূন্য).

VOUCH for—Can you vouch for (express confidence, প্রত্যয় সহকারে বলা) his honesty?

VULNERABLE to—He is vulnerable to criticism.

WAIT for—(a person), at (a place), upon (attend on)—We waited for you at the corner. I waited upon (attended, সেবা করা) the guest.

WANT of (noun); WANTING in—I have no want of money now. He is wanting in common sense.

WARN (সতর্ক করা) (a person) of (danger), against (a person or a thing or a doing) (COD)—I warned him of his danger. I warned him against his neighbour (or gambling).

WEAK of (understanding), in (mind)—He is weak in mind and of intelligence.

WEARY (adj.) of, (verb) with—I am weary of their constant quarrel. I do not want to weary him with further requests.

WINK at (দেখিয়া না দেখা)—Do not wink at (ignore) your son's faults.

WISH for—I do not wish for riches.

WITNESS against, for, to, of—The doctor will act a witness against (or for) the defence. His clothes are a witness to his poverty. This man is a living witness of my loyalty.

WONDER at—We wondered at his ignorance.

WORTHY of (favour)—He is worthy of praise.

YEARN (আকাঙ্ক্ষা করা) for, to—We yearned for a glimpse of the popular leaders. He yearned to return to his home.

YIELD to—The rebels yielded to the king (surrendered, বশ্যতা স্বীকার করিল).

ZEALOUS for, in—He is zealous (eager) for freedom. Be zealous in a good cause.

ZEST for—I have no zest (interest, অনুরাগ বা আগ্রহ) for the work now.

CHAPTER XXXI

GROUP VERBS

(349) Many verbs when followed by prepositions or adverbs acquire an idiomatic sense. Thus : I shall call on (visit) him. Here the verb call has been grouped with the preposition on, and call on acquires an idiomatic sense quite different from the normal meaning of the words call and on. Verbs when grouped in such manner are called Group Verbs or Phrasal Verbs.

(350) Act

Over-exercise acts upon (affects, ক্ষতি করে) one's health. Acting upon (নির্ভর করিয়া) the news, I went there.

This machine does not act up to (আশানুরূপ কাজ করা) my expectation.

He acted for me (on behalf of) while I was ill. (জোরো পক্ষে) অর্থে
I acted on my brother's advice. অর্থে

(351) Bear

He bore away (won, জয় করিয়া লাভ করিল) the first prize.

He bore down (overcome) all resistance.

He bore off (বিজয় গর্বে বহন করিল) the prize.

Your point has no bearing on (relevance, সম্বন্ধ) the present case.

Your report bears out (confirms, সমর্থন করে) his story. Dr Roy will bear me out what I have said.

Pride bore him up (sustained, তাজা রাখিয়াছিল) in adversity.

I cannot bear with (tolerate, সহ্য করা) such conduct.

(352) Blow

The wind blew away (removed) the dry leaves.

The door opened and the boys blew in (into) the room (arrive noisily, cheerfully, হৈ হৈ করে ঢোকা).

The chimnies blow off (emit, নির্গত করা) thick smoke.

The child blew out (put out, নিভাইয়া ফেলিল) the candle.

The storm will soon blow over (stop blowing, থামিয়া যাইবে).

The engine blew up (exploded). A storm is blowing up. His abilities have been greatly blown up by his friends (exaggerated, অতিরিক্ত করা).

(353) Break

The thief broke away (freed himself) from the jail.

His health broke down (ভেঙ্গে পড়ল) through over-work.

The sun broke forth (হঠাৎ প্রকাশিত হইল) from the clouds.

The robbers broke in (forced their way in) at night. Horses are being broken in (trained, শিক্ষা পাইতেছে) for military purpose.

Last night a thief broke into (entered by breaking) my house.

The mob broke in upon (হঠাৎ জোর করিয়া ঢোকা) the meeting.

He broke off (stopped, হঠাৎ বন্ধ করিল) in the middle of his speech.

Smallpox has broken out in the town. The thief broke out (প্রাদুর্ভাব হওয়া) of the prison (escaped by breaking).

They broke (forced a passage) through the main gate..

The meeting broke up at 5 p.m.

He has broken with me (part from, বিচ্ছেদ ঘটেছে).

(354) Bring

His ruin was brought about (caused, ঘটান) by his own folly.

I shall bring back (return, ফিরাইয়া দেওয়া) the book tomorrow. If you are going to the shop, please bring me back a packet of tea. The sight of the fair brought back (restored) old memories. The change in place brought him back to health (restored to).

This will bring down (কমান) the prices of things. The enemy aircraft was brought down.

This tree brings forth (produces, উৎপন্ন করে) good fruit.

The subject was brought forward (উত্থাপিত হওয়া) for discussion in the meeting.

Can you bring forward (এগিয়ে নিয়ে আসা) (produce) any proof of what you say? The ceremony has been brought forward from June 15 to June 13.

My business brings in (yields) good income. They tried to bring in (introduce) a new fashion (or a new custom). The legislators will bring in (উত্থাপিত করা) a new bill on secondary education. They have brought in experts to tackle the situation.

We brought off a grand victory.

Over-eating brings on (causes, ঘটায়) dyspepsia. Plenty of rains is bringing the crops on nicely.

He has brought out (published, বের করেছেন) a new edition of his book. Proper training will bring out the best in him.

The patient was brought round (ভাল করান) by careful nursing. After much persuasion, we managed to bring him round (win over).

He was very ill but proper medicines and good nursing brought him through (restored to health).

The boy fainted but was soon brought to (জ্ঞান ফিরান হইল). The ship was brought to by open shelling (came to stop).

The rebels have been brought under (subdued, বাগ মানান).

He was brought up by his aunt (reared, লালিত পালিত হওয়া). We brought up some important matters for discussions in the meeting.

355 Burst

A tiger burst forth (issued suddenly, হঠাৎ বাহির হইল) from the jungle.

She burst into (কান্নায় ভাঙ্গিয়া পড়িল) tears at the sight of her son's misery.

He burst out weeping like a child.

The rebels burst upon (came suddenly, হঠাৎ উপস্থিত হইল) the king.

356 Call

I shall call at (visit a place, কোনখানে যাইয়া দেখা করা) your house tomorrow morning.

Mr Roy will call by me (pay a short visit) tomorrow.

I called for (demanded, চাহিলাম) his explanation. The situation calls for (requires) immediate action.

His heroism called forth (elicited, উদ্বেক করিল) the admiration of all.

Please call in a doctor (invite, ডাকিয়া আনা).

The strike was called off (cancelled). The noise called off (diverted) my attention.

I shall call on (visit a person, দেখা করিব) you tomorrow. He called on (appealed to) me for help. ~~স্বাক্ষর করি~~ অনুমোদিত কর।

The troops were called out to restore order. (Summon-চলব জমা) * Troop-জনতা / Troops-সৈন্যদল।

The teacher is called over the roll. ~~to~~ ^{to} subdue ^{নত}.

I called to (addressed loudly, দূর হইতে ডাকিলাম) him from the roof.

He was called upon (ordered) to explain his conduct. I shall call upon (visit) him tomorrow. I now call upon (invite) Mr Roy to address the meeting. I cannot call up (remember, স্মরণ করা) his name. (Recollect - স্মরণ করা)

357 Carry

He carries about (নিয়ে বেড়ায়) a pistol wherever he goes.

He was carried away by his enthusiasm. (চালিত হয়ে ২৩২)

He was carried away or off (বাহিত হইল) by the current. Cholera has carried off (taken the life of) many of my men. He carried off (own) all the prizes.

I shall carry on (continue, চালান) the work in your absence.

I shall carry out (execute, পালন করা) your orders.

He carried the bill through the council. Only courage carried him through (বিপদ-আপদ কাটাইয়া উঠিতে সাহায্য করা) the crisis.

358 Cast

He is casting about for (looking for, তকে তকে থাকা) an opportunity to escape.

He has cast aside or away or off (rejected, পরিত্যাগ করা) his old coat.

He was cast down (depressed, স্তিমিত হওয়া) by his failure. She cast down her eyes at the mention of her husband's name. (disappoint - হতাশ হওয়া)

If you come to me, I shall not cast you out (reject, দূরে সরিয়ে দেওয়া).

359 Clear

Ask the servant to clear away (পরিষ্কার করা) the table. The mist has cleared away.

(সম্পূর্ণ) He worked overtime to clear off arrears of work. Clear off (get out) from here.

The sweeper cleared out the drain. Please clear out (leave) from the room.

The weather is clearing up.

360 Come

How did it come about (happen, ঘটনা)?

I came across (met, দেখা পাওয়া) him on the way.

The night guard came after (পিছনে তাড়া করা) the thief with a big stick.

Come along (hurry, তাড়াতাড়ি করা), it is getting late. The garden is coming along (growing) nicely.

The truth is very difficult to come at. He came at (attacked) with a sharp weapon.

The handle of the umbrella came away (became detached, খুলে গেল).

Jobs are difficult to come by (to obtain). How did you come by that cut on your forehead? (বড়ো ঝড়ো)

My father came down generously (made a generous gift of money). The roof came down (collapsed, ভাঙ্গিয়া পড়িল) suddenly. The prices of commodities came down (কমে গেছে) after the budget.

He came down with (paid, চুকিয়ে দেওয়া) my dues.

None came forward to stand witness.

He came in for (received) punishment for his conduct.

He comes of (is descended from, জন্মগ্রহণ করা) a good family. Nothing came of his proposal (it led to no result).

The ceremony comes off (takes place) tomorrow. He came off (fared, ফল দেখান) victorious. A button has come off the coat.

Come on ! Let us join the race. How is your garden coming on ?

The secret came out (became exposed, প্রকাশ পাইল) at last.

They have come over to (changed sides, পক্ষ পরিবর্তন করা) our side. A change came over him after his son's death.

He came round (recovered, ভাল হইল) very soon. He has come round to my opinion (changed views, মত পরিবর্তন করা). Won't you come round (revisit) and see me sometime ?

His monthly expenses come to a high figure. We have not yet come to any conclusion. He fainted, but soon came to (recovered, সংজ্ঞা লাভ করিল) consciousness.

I fell ill before the examination but luckily came through. The message has just come through (arrived).

I came upon (met by chance) my friend at the hotel. The enemy came upon (fell on, আক্রমণ করিল) us from behind.

Your essay does not come up to (is not equal to) expectation.

I gave the chase and soon came up with (got hold of, নাগাল পাইলাম) the thief.

(361) Cry

Do not cry down (decry, খাটো করা) your enemy.

I planned to take part in the tournament but cried off (abandoned, পরিত্যাগ করা) at the last moment.

The beggars cried to (begged) the rich man for food.

A trader cries up (extols, বাড়িয়ে বলা) his own goods.

(362) Cut

He cut down the tree with an axe. Cut down your expenses.

He cut in (to take part suddenly, হঠাৎ অংশগ্রহণ করা) in the middle of our talk.

He lives in a foreign country, cut off (separated) from his kith and kin. He was cut off (died) at an early age.

One of the aircraft's engines cut out (stopped functioning). He is cut out (suitable, উপযুক্ত) for this job. I cut him out (defeated) in the competition.

He was cut up (grieved, মর্মান্বিত হওয়া) by your criticism. He cut up (টুকরা করিয়া কাটিল) the roast.

(363) Do

They have done away with (abolished, উঠাইয়া দিয়াছে) that rule.

This plank will do for (serve as, টেবিলের কাজ করবে) a table.

I am done for (i.e., ruined).

Doff (contraction of do off = take off) your coat.

Don (= do on i.e., put on, পরিধান করা) your coat.

I am quite down up (fatigued, অত্যন্ত ক্লান্ত) with the journey. Who is to do up (arrange, ঝুছান) your room every day?

What will you do with (what use will you make of) this bundle?

A politician has to do with (deal with) all sorts of people. Please return the book when done with (finished).

He cannot do without (ছাড়া চলে না) the services of a secretary.

364 Draw

My attention was drawn away (diverted, অন্যদিকে নেওয়া) by the noise.

I cannot draw back (recede, পশ্চাৎপদ হওয়া) from my promise.

The Rajdhani Express is drawing in (entering the station).

The Pujas are drawing on (এগিয়ে এসেছে). I shall draw on the bank for cash.

He drew out (prolonged, লম্বা করিল) his points at great length. Draw out the aching tooth. I cannot draw out of (withdraw from, পশ্চাৎপদ হওয়া) the contract now.

I drew to (felt attracted by, আকৃষ্ট হওয়া) the boy from the first day.

I drew up (drafted, মুসাবিদা করিলাম) a petition. The troops were drawn up (সাজান) in battle order.

365 Drop

His friends dropped away (became fewer, সরে পড়া) one by one.

Some friends dropped by to see me.

On my way back, I shall drop in (pay a casual visit, দেখা করিব) for a cup of tea.

My friends dropped off (সরে পড়া) one by one. The demand for the product dropped off (কমিয়া যাওয়া). He always drops off (falls asleep, ঘুমাইয়া পড়া) during the lecture.

Five of the runners dropped out (ceased to compete).

366 Fall

He has much fallen away (become lean, শীর্ণ হওয়া) since I saw him last. His friends fell away (left him, সরে পড়ল) in his misfortune.

They fell back (retreated, পশ্চাৎপদ হইল) under the charge.

We fell back upon (had recourse to, অন্য পস্থা ধরিলাম) a new line of defence.

He falls for (yields to charms, মোহিত হওয়া) every pretty face he sees.

The roof fell in (gave way). The captain ordered his men to fall in (to take places in the ranks, সারিবদ্ধভাবে দাঁড়ান).

I fell in with (met by chance, হঠাৎ দেখা হওয়া) him on my way to Bombay. I cannot fall in with (agree with or to, একমত হওয়া) your views.

The quality of Dacca muslin has much fallen off (হ্রাস হওয়া). False friends fall off (drop off, খসে পড়ে) in misfortune.

He fell on (attacked) me without any reason. The charge of the family fell on, (ন্যস্ত হইল) me after my father's death.

The brothers fell out (quarrelled) over their father's property. He has fallen out (quarrelled) with his friend Ajay.

The scheme fell through (failed) for want of funds.

They fell to (began eagerly, সাগ্রহে আরম্ভ করিল) eating.

(367) Get

I am too ill to get about (come out of doors). A rumour got about (spread) that he was ill.

The secret got abroad (became public, ছড়িয়ে পড়ল).

He has got ahead (surpassed) of all other boys in the class.

How are you getting along or on (doing, progressing) at school? How can I get along (manage to do, চালান) without money? He gets along well with his colleagues (maintains good relationship).

We could not get at (reach) the truth. What are you getting at (suggest)?

The prisoner got away (escaped) from the jail.

The situation will get back to normal.

The boy got beyond (নাগালের বাইরে যাওয়া) his depth and was drowned.

You can get by (be acceptable) with this dress in the party. It is difficult to get by (manage) with such a salary.

The mishap got him down (depressed). Please get down (write) his address. Let us get down to (কাজে লাগা) our job.

What time did the train get in (arrive)? Mr Roy will certainly get in (elected) this time. The rain can get in (enter) through the broken window pane. We have a long waiting list, I don't think your son will get in (admitted) this year.

He got into a carriage. He got into (বিপদে পড়িল) trouble there. In the hostel, he got into bad habits. What has got into (happened) you today?

He got off the car. He got off (escaped) unharmed. We got off (started) immediately after the lunch. His youth and inexperience got him off (saved him from punishment). You are lucky that you got off with only a fine.

How is he getting on (doing, progressing) at school? I cannot get on with (মিলিয়ে চলা) him.

Get out of the room. The secret will soon get out (become public).

He got over (overcame, অতিক্রম করিল) the difficulties.

It will take five hours to get through (finish) the work. I hope to get through (succeed in) the examination. He has not yet got through (succeed in) the examination. He has not yet got through (recovered from, সেরে উঠা) his illness. I tried to contact you over telephone, but could not get through.

Get up at five. An agitation was got up (stirred up, পাকিয়ে তোলা) against the bill.
Get up (prepare) your lessons carefully. He was fined for getting up (production) false evidence. The get up (binding, printing, etc.) of the book is excellent.

(368) Give

He has given away (দান করিয়াছেন) his all in charity. He gave away (সমর্পন করা) his daughter in marriage. The president gave away the prizes.

I at first opposed the proposal, but at last gave in (yielded, বশ্যতা স্বীকার করা). He has given in (tendered) his resignation.

This flower gives off or forth (emits, দেয়) a sweet smell.

He gave out (declared) that he was ill. My patience gave out (exhausted) at last.

They were given over (handed over) to the enemy. He gave over (হস্তান্তরিত করা) the charge to me.

Give up (ছেড়ে দেওয়া) this bad habit. I tried hard but ultimately I had to give up (abandon).

(369) Go

I am too weak to go about (move about, ঘুরে বেড়ানো). Go about (do) your business. A strong rumour is going about (is in circulation, চালু হওয়া) that he will leave us shortly.

He went abroad (away from home, especially to a foreign country) five years ago.

The dog went after (followed) the hare.

I cannot go against (বিরুদ্ধে যাওয়া) your will.

All arrangements are going ahead (making progress) to celebrate the occasion.

As you go along, you will find the job interesting. It is difficult to go along with (agree, মানিয়ে নেওয়া) you on this point.

Don't go aside (deviate, অন্য পথে যাওয়া) from the path of virtue.

The two brothers go at (attack) each other at the slightest provocation. They are going at it (making the best possible effort, যথাসাধ্য চেষ্টা করা) for all they are worth.

He has gone away (left) from here for good.

I cannot go back upon or from (fail to keep, খেলাপ করা) my word.

The boy went beyond (exceeded) his depth and was drowned.

He goes by (is known by, পরিচিত) a false name here. He talked of days gone by (past). It is a good rule to go by (to be guided by, পরিচালিত হইতে). I shall go by (কথামত চলিব) what my teacher says.

The sun has gone down. The price of butter has gone down. Netaji will go down in Indian history as a great patriot. He has gone down with fever.

He goes here for (is regarded as, বিবেচিত হয়) a scholar. All my work went for nothing. Shall I go for (fetch) a doctor?

The people went forth to welcome the leader. A rumour went forth (became public, জানাজানি হওয়া) that the prince was dead.

My supporters will go in for (favour, support) the abolition of that rule. I shall go in for the law (become a lawyer, আইনজীবী হইব).

The party went off well (passed, সম্পন্ন হওয়া). The pistol went off (was discharged) suddenly.

Go on (continue, চালিয়ে যাও) with your work. What is going on here?

Don't go out in the sun. The lamp went out (নিভিয়া গেল) suddenly.

He went over (changed sides) to the enemy. Please go over (examine, পরীক্ষা করা) the accounts.

I went through (experienced, ভোগ করিলাম) great suffering. I have gone through (examined fully) the book. I heard that the proposal went through (was accepted, গৃহীত হইয়াছিল) without any opposition.

The cost of living has gone up (বৃদ্ধি পাইয়াছে). The whole mine went up in flames.

He does not go upon (follow, অনুসরণ করা) any fixed principles.

I go with (agree with) you in this matter.

He has been going without food for two days.

(370) Hand

This legend has been handed down (passed on) from the past.

He has handed in (tendered) his resignation.

Hand on (pass on, সাঁপে দেওয়া) the book to your friend.

Hand over (deliver) the thief to the police.

(371) Hang

Why do you hang about/hang around (move suspiciously, সন্দেহজনকভাবে ঘোরাঘুরি করা) the examination hall?

I cannot hang back (hesitate, পশ্চাৎপদ হওয়া) when others are advancing.

He hung down (মাথা নীচু করিলেন) his head with shame.

I do not like to hang on (depend on) others for my bread. Would you hang on (wait) a minute, please? He hung on (বুলে থাকা) until the wire snapped.

People hung out (displayed) flags to welcome the President. Where do you hang out (live) now?

The debate has been hung over (postponed, মুলতুবি থাকা).

You should all hang together (support one another) and achieve the success.

Hang up (suspend, বুলানো) this picture in my study. I cut short the telephone conversation and hung up (replaced the receiver).

The crowd hung upon (listened attentively to) the speaker's words.

(372) Hold

Do not hold back (conceal, গোপন করা) anything from me. When others are moving on, I cannot hold back (lag behind, পিছনে পড়িয়া থাকা).

Only he held by (adhered to, লেগে থাকা) me in my danger.

Hold in (check, সংযত করা) your temper.

You should hold off (keep aloof, দূরে থাকা) from such agitation. Hold off for a minute, please.

He held on (stuck to, লেগে রইল) his course through all opposition.

The boy held on to (not let go) the rope to save himself.

He held out (extended) his hand (or, great hopes) to me. The rebels held out (resisted, বশ্যতা স্বীকার না করা) for months. The ration will not hold out (last) for more than a week.

The debate has been held over (postponed, মূলতুর্বী রহিল).

Do you still hold to (stick to, লেগে থাকা) your plan?

The brothers held together (একত্রে রহিল) for a long time.

Hold up (keep up, জাগিয়ে রাখা) your spirits for a few days more.

She was held up (exhibited, জাহির করা) before us as an example. All traffic was held up (stopped) for one hour. The dacoits held up (threatened to rob) the passengers at gun point.

I hold with (agree, একমত হই) you in this matter.

373 Keep

Fire keeps away or off (দূরে রাখে) wild animals. Keep away or off from evil company.

He is too fickle to keep at (stick to) anything.

I never kept back (concealed, লুকান) anything from you.

He failed to keep down (চেপে রাখা) his anger.

You must keep from (aloof from, দূরে থাকা) such friends.

It is wise to keep in (stay indoors, ঘরের ভিতরে থাকা) while it rains. The fire will keep in (continue burning) till midnight.

I cannot keep in (continue to agree, সব সময়ে সায় দেওয়া) with you any longer.

He kept on (continued) ringing the bell.

I was kept out (দূরে রাখা হইয়াছিল) of the business.

Keep to (stick to, লেগে থাকা) your promise. Keep to the left.

I shall keep up (maintain, রক্ষা করা) the prestige of my family. He kept up (remained awake, জেগে রইল) the whole night. Keep up your spirits despite all hazards.

Try to keep up with (keep pace with, সমান থাকা) the class.

374 Knock

He has no fixed place to live in, he knocks about (leads an unsettled life) at different places.

He was knocked down by the taxi. The building was knocked down.

The workers usually knock off (stop work) at five o'clock. I shall knock off (deduct) five rupees if you buy two pieces.

Ali knocked out his opponent in two rounds. I was knocked out (overwhelmed) by the news.

Please knock me up at five o'clock. She knocked up a meal (prepared hurriedly) for us. He was knocked up (tired) after the long chase.

375 Lay

He began to lay about him (deal blows, ঘুষি চালান) in anger.

Lay aside (cast aside, সরিয়ে রাখা) your formality. Lay aside (reserve, ভবিষ্যতের জন্য সরিয়ে রাখা) something for old age.

Lay by (store up for future use) something for old age.

No such rules are laid down (written, লিপিবদ্ধ) in the book. The king laid down (gave up, ছেড়ে দিলেন) the burden of State. He laid down (sacrificed, ত্যাগ স্বীকার করিলেন) his life for the country.

He laid out (expended) his all in business. The garden is well laid out (সাজান) I am laid up (confined to bed, শয্যাগত) with fever. He has laid up (stored) enough for old age.

(376) Look

He is looking about for (searching for, খোঁজ করা) a house.

He will look after my boy (take care, দেখাশুনা করা).

Don't look down upon (deride, ঘৃণার চোখে দেখা) the poor.

I looked for (expected, আশা করিয়াছিলাম) better treatment from you. Look for (search for) the letter in the box.

We look forward to (expect with pleasure, সাগ্রহে প্রতীক্ষা করা) his visit.

I shall look in (pay a short visit, অল্পক্ষণের জন্য দেখা করিতে আসা) when I pass by his house. I shall look into (enquire into, তদন্ত করা) the matter.

I look on (or upon) (regard, মনে করি) you as my best friend.

The balcony looks on (overlooks) (to) the river.

I looked out of the window. The captain ordered the men to look out (be on the watch, সজাগ থাকা).

The eagle is looking out for (on the watch for) prey.

Please look over (examine, পরীক্ষা করা) the applications.

I have looked through (examined carefully) the book.

Look (attend) to your own affairs. I look to (rely on, ভরসা করা) you for help.

Prices of all things are looking up (rising) every day. Please look me up (visit) on your way to the station. Look up (find out) the word in the dictionary.

After a dull period, the business is looking up (improving) now.

I look up to (respect) him as my elder brother.

(377) Make

The dog made after (pursued, পিছনে ছুটিল) the hare.

He made away with (destroyed, শেষ করিল) his own life.

The ship made for (moved towards) the port. Regular habits make for (contribute to) good health.

What do you make of (understand, বুঝা) the letter? This table is made of (composed of, নির্মিত) teak wood.

The man made off (ran away, পালিয়ে যাওয়া) with my bag.

I cannot make out (understand) what you say. He made out (প্রতিপাদন করিল) a strong case for me. Make out (prepare) a list of your books.

He made over (delivered, সমর্পণ করিল) charge to me.

Two boys are still wanted to make up (complete, পূর্ণ করা) the required number.

I shall make up (ক্ষতিপূরণ করা) my loss in six months. We made up (composed, মিটিয়ে ফেললাম) our quarrel. He has not yet made up (decided, মনস্থির করা) his mind. Nothing can make up for (compensate for) the loss of health.

(378) Pass

The clouds have passed away. He passed away (died) at night.

The rain has passed by. He passed by (ignored, উপেক্ষা করা) my faults.

He passed for (was regarded as) a rich man there.

The train has passed off (ceased gradually). He was punished for trying to pass off (deceive with, ঠকহিয়া চালান) false coins. The ceremony passed off well (was a success).

Let us pass on (proceed) to another subject.

My claim was passed over (neglected).

He passed through the crowd safely. He passed through (experienced) great hardships in life.

(379) Pick

Why do you always pick at (find fault with, খুঁত ধরা) me ?

Why should you pick on (single out for something unpleasant) me everytime ?

Can you pick out (identify) the culprits in this gathering? He picked out (played, বাজন) Russian tune in the violin.

Where did you pick up (learn) your English? The smugglers were picked up (arrested) by the police. Did you pick up (collect, সংগ্রহ করা) the shirt from the laundry? Share prices have picked up (improved in business, তেজীভাব হওয়া). Where did you pick up malaria? Suddenly the car picked up (gathered) speed and disappeared. Our TV cannot pick up (receive) Bangladesh. He fell ill but soon picked up (recovered, একটু একটু করিয়া শক্তি লাভ করা) health. I asked him to pick me up (give me a lift, গাড়িতে তুলিয়া লওয়া) on way to office.

Where did you pick up with (met, সাক্ষাৎ হওয়া) that queer fellow ?

(380) Pull

The labourers are pulling at (trying to remove, টানিয়া সরান) the heavy machine. Failing to yield me, they started pulling me apart (criticise unfavourably, নিন্দা করিয়া বেড়ান).

We decided to pull down (demolish, ভাঙ্গিয়া ফেলা) the old building. He looks much pulled down (lowered in health or spirits, ভগ্নোদ্যম, ভগ্নস্বাস্থ্য).

He is pulling in (earning, রোজগার করা) a lot of money, I suppose. He was pulled in (detained, arrested) by police for questioning. The train pulled in (entered the platform) on time.

The children pulled off (removed, খুলে ফেলা) the cover as soon as the packet was presented to them. Our team pulled off (achieved, সাফল্য লাভ করা) a brilliant victory.

The train pulled out (left) of the station. He was pulled out of (সমস্যামুক্ত হওয়া) the difficult situation. The lorry pulled out from behind the car.

He is in great difficulties but he will pull through (overcome, বিপদ কাটাইয়া ওঠা) if we offer him a little help. He was critically ill but has pulled through (recovered).

They are pulling together (work in harmony, মিলেমিশে চলা) nicely.

I pulled up (stopped) the car as the traffic police showed his hands. He was pulled up (reprimanded, তিরস্কৃত হওয়া) for his insubordination. Initially he was trailing but soon he pulled up with others (improved relatively).

381 Put

I hear many stories that are being put about (spreading rumours).

He failed to put across (communicate successfully, সঠিকভাবে বোঝানো) his ideas to the committee.

You should put aside (save) sufficient money for your daughter's marriage. Put aside your work and listen to me.

Put away (lay aside, সরাইয়া রাখা) enough money for the old age. I tried much but had to put away (give up) the idea of building a house of my own. The pet was suffering much and it had to be put away (put to death).

Put back (restore, ফিরাইয়া রাখা) the book in its proper place.

Put by (lay aside) something for future days.

The rebellion was put down (suppressed, দমন করা) with a high hand. Put down (write, লেখা) your name on this paper.

He put forth (exerted, প্রয়োগ করা) all his energy in the task. Trees put forth (অঙ্কুরিত করা) new leaves in spring.

The members put forward (preferred, উত্থাপন করা) a suggestion for consideration.

Dr. Chowdhury put forward (advanced) a new theory on solar energy.

I have put in (submitted, দাখিল করা) my claim. He has put in ten years' service.

He talked so fast that I could not put in (দোকানো) a word. Please put in (plead on my behalf) a good word for me.

Don't put off (postpone) your work. Put off (remove) your shoes.

Put on (wear) your clothes. The blame was put on me. He has put on (added) a lot of weight. Gavaskar and Viswanath put on ninety runs.

Put out (extinguish, নিভিয়ে দাও) the lamp. The death of the General put out (নিরুৎসাহ করিল) the soldiers. His eyes were put out (drawn out). He put out (stretched out, প্রসারিত করা) his hand.

The task was put through (carried out). After many attempts the telephone connection was put through. The trainees were put through (had to undergo) a rigorous schedule.

Put up (post) the notice here. Put up (raise) a fence round the garden. I am putting up (staying for some time, অল্প কিছুদিনের জন্য থাকা) with my friend. He will put up (lodge, বাস করা) at my place. They put up (offered) a strong resistance.

I cannot put up with (tolerate, সহ্য করা) this rudeness.

প্রতিদিনের Current Affairs, বিভিন্ন Update, গুরুত্বপূর্ণ খবর, চাকরির খবর, Motivational Quotes...

Join Now

Click Here

Telegram

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস

প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

WhatsApp

Join Now

Click Here

বিভিন্ন প্রতিযোগিতামূলক পরীক্ষার জন্য গুরুত্বপূর্ণ Free Study Materials, PDF ইত্যাদি দিয়ে থাকি...

382 Run

The children started to run about (hurry from one place to another) in great panic.

I ran across (met by chance, হঠাৎ সাক্ষাৎ হওয়া) my old friend in the street after a lapse of twenty years.

They all ran after the thief (pursued, ধাওয়া করা). Do not run after money always. He is running against (fighting) heavy odds.

Now, children, run along (be off) !

The dog ran at (attacked) the hare.

His son ran away (left home) and joined the army. My servant ran away with (stole, লইয়া পলাইল) my watch. The business proposal will run away with (lead to expense) a lot of your money. They had a run away (easy) victory in the match.

The hunters ran down (ছুটিয়া ধরা) the fox. He looks much run down (exhausted, অতিরিক্ত পরিশ্রমে ক্লান্ত) through excessive labour. The motorist was run down by the lorry. The battery has run down (exhausted, শক্তি শেষ হইয়া যাওয়া).

He ran into danger (or debt) for his rashness. The bus ran into (collide with) the railing. The publication has run into ten editions. I ran into (met unexpectedly, হঠাৎ দেখা হওয়া) an old friend in the football ground.

The thief saw me and ran off (fled, দৌড়াইয়া পলাইল).

Our discussion ran on for hours together. The engine runs on diesel oil.

Water ran out of the tank. The garrison did not surrender until provisions ran out (were exhausted, ফুরিয়ে গেল).

A dog was run over by a tram car. The water of the river ran over (overflowed) its banks. He ran over (glanced over hastily, তাড়াতাড়ি চোখ বুলাইলেন) my petition.

He ran through (pierced, ভেদ করা) the boar with a spear. I ran through (examine quickly, তাড়াতাড়ি পরীক্ষা করা) the book in an hour. He has run through (used up, খরচ করে ফেলেছেন) his whole fortune.

The money required for the project will run to (amount) a few lacs of rupees. The boys ran up (hoisted) a flag on the pole. Our long stay ran up (caused to grow quickly) a big bill at the hotel. Price of petrol ran up (বাড়িল) to Rs. 38.00 a litre.

The cyclist ran upon (collided with) the lamp post. I ran upon (be engrossed with) a new idea to solve the problem.

383 Set

Set about (begin) your task without delay.

The High Court set aside (cancelled, বাতিল করা) the judgement of the lower court. He set aside or apart (সরিয়ে রাখল) some money for me.

The judge set down (recorded) my objection. The car set me down (left me descend, নামাইয়া দিল) on the way.

He set forth (exhibited, প্রচার করা) his views in a book. He set forth (started, বের হয়ে পড়লেন) on his journey.

The rain set in (began).

He set off (started) for Bombay. The frame set off (সৌন্দর্য্য বৃদ্ধি করিল) the picture.

The gains were set off (balanced) against losses.

He set his dog on (লেলিয়ে দিল) me.

He has set out (started) for England. He set out (ছড়িয়ে দিল) his goods for display.

Let us set to (begin) work at once.

They set him up (উপস্থাপিত করিল) as their candidate. He set up (স্থাপন করিল) a school there. They set up (raised) a hue and cry. He set up (পেশা শুরু করা) as a lawyer.

384 Stand

Do not stand against (বাধা দেওয়া) the force of time.

Please stand aside (সরে দাঁড়ান) to let the women pass. He stood aside (সরে দাঁড়ান) from the contest.

The total contribution so far stands at (যোগ করিলে দাঁড়ায়) rupees ten thousand.

The chief stood by (অনুরক্ত থাকা, পাশে দাঁড়ান) the king. I merely stood by (নিষ্ক্রিয় দর্শক রূপে পাশে দাঁড়াইলাম) when they fought. The army is standing by (কিছুর জন্য প্রস্তুত থাকা) to support the civil authorities.

The letter "X" stands for (প্রতীকরূপে ব্যবহৃত হয়) ten.

The hero is ill ; Dipu has been asked to stand in (substitute) for him. This is a pretty big amount ; let me stand in (share expenditure) with you.

I stood off (দূরে ছিলাম) from the quarrel.

He stood out (be conspicuous, বিশিষ্ট হওয়া) from the rest because of his height and dignified appearance.

The question will stand over (left for later settlement) for the present.

I shall stand to (stick to) my promise.

I stood up for (পক্ষ সমর্থন করিয়াছিলাম) my friend.

385 Take

I was taken aback (surprised) at this news.

The child takes after (resembles, দেখিতে একরকম) its father.

Do not take away (remove) books from the shelf.

I cannot take back (withdraw, ফিরাইয়া লওয়া) my words. Goods once sold cannot be taken back.

Take down (record) the notes. Take down the book from the shelf.

I took him for (regarded as, মনে করিয়াছিলাম) a doctor.

This will take from (lower) your reputation as a sensible man.

He has taken in (enclosed) this plot of land for a garden. I was taken in (cheated, প্রতারিত হওয়া) by the grocer. I cannot take in (understand, বুঝা) the meaning of the passage. We shall take in (admit) fifty boys this time.

Before selecting him, his health has to be taken into consideration.

Take off (খুলে ফেলা) your coat. Do not take off (mimic, অনুকরণ দ্বারা ঠাট্টা করা) a lame man. The plane took off at 7 a.m. "Take your hands off my shoulder." The morning bus service will be taken off (withdrawn) the route next week.

I decided to take on (undertake) the extra job. I shall take you on at table tennis (accept as an opponent).

Take out the aching tooth.

He will take over (গ্রহণ করিবেন) charge tomorrow.

He has taken to (habituated himself to, অভ্যাস করিয়াছে) gambling. I took to (became fond of, পছন্দ করা) the boy from the first.

He took up (adopted) my cause. "He took up a pen and began to write." This cot takes up (occupies) too much space. I shall take the matter up with the headmaster and see what can be done.

I was taken up with (absorbed in, নিমগ্ন) a book.

He took upon (দায়িত্ব নিয়াছিলেন) himself the burden of the family.

(386) Tell

His evidence told against (did harm to, ক্ষতি করিয়াছিল) me.

The superintendent told off (selected and appointed to a special duty) six policemen to guard the house. The servant needs to be told off (scolded, তিরস্কৃত করা).

Over-exercise tells upon (affects, হানি করে) one's health.

(387) Turn

The boys turned about and hurried for home.

I do not know why he turned against (became hostile, বিপক্ষে যাওয়া) me.

The sight pained me and I turned away (অন্যদিকে মুখ ফিরাইলাম) . Turn away (dismiss, দূর করা) the idea from your mind.

Don't turn back (ফিরাইয়া দেওয়া) a beggar from your door.

He turned down (rejected, অগ্রাহ্য করিলেন) my proposal.

I turned in (went to bed, শুইতে গিয়াছিলাম) early last night. We saw a hut and turned in (entered in passing) for shelter there.

Turn on (খোল) the switch. Turn off (বন্ধ করা) the switch. The case turns on (depends on) his report.

The boy was turned out (বের করে দেওয়া) for misconduct. Your report turned out (proved) to be true. The people turned out (assembled, জড় হওয়া) in large numbers to see the sight. The mill turns out (produces) 800 pairs of cloth everyday.

Turn to God and He will help you.

He did not turn up in time (appear, হাজির হওয়া).

(388) Work

The carpenter is working at the chair.

The water has worked in (penetrated) all round the packing box.

Please try to work in (introduce, উত্থাপিত করা) a few more illustrations on the subject.

You must work off (dispose of) the accumulated work. Unless you work off (get rid of, ক্রমশঃ পরিহার করা) your excess fat, you will fall ill.

He is working on a new scheme. The sufferings of the people worked on (or upon) (উদ্বেজিত করা) our feelings very much. They worked on (continued to work) till sunset. This engine works on diesel.

Work out (solve) this sum. The mine has been worked out (exhausted by working). The scheme did not work out well (proved unsuccessful). I have worked out (হিসাব করা) your share at Rs. 50,000. The engineers have worked out a method by which construction cost would be reduced considerably. The players are working out (undergoing exercise, গা গরম করা) in field before the match.

The mob were worked up (excited) by his fiery speech.

389 Write

Write down your name and address in a piece of paper. You can write him down as a useless fellow (take him to be).

Write off (prepare quickly, তাড়াতাড়ি তৈরী করা) a short account of the committee's performance during the last one year. The loss was written off (cancelled in writing, অপ্রাপ্য পাওনা বোধে বাদ দিয়া দেওয়া).

Please write out (write in full, পুরাপুরিভাবে লেখা) a copy of the agreement.

You should write up (complete, bring up to date) the lecture notes delivered yesterday. The reporters wrote up (wrote with praise) their performance in the match.

WORKED OUT EXAMPLE

A. (a) Fill in the blanks with suitable prepositions :

- | | |
|--|-----------------------------------|
| 1. I did not expect such a treatment — your hands. | 11. He came — a week. |
| 2. The train stops — all stations. | 12. He came here — rail. |
| 3. If you pay, you must pay — cheque and not — cash. | 13. The train is running — time. |
| 4. Tibet lies — the north of India. | 14. He said this — oath. |
| 5. The report must be completed — the next week. | 15. I am — the know of the thing. |
| 6. The hunter shot the lion — an arrow. | 16. He came — foot. |
| 7. It has been raining — the last one week. | 17. He is — school. |
| 8. I am — the dark — the matter. | 18. Do not go out — the sun. |
| 9. You have to pay me — advance. | 19. We live — rice. |
| 10. I have been ill — last Monday. | 20. He came — power very soon. |
| | 21. I did this — you. |
| | 22. The food is not — my taste. |
| | 23. I met him — the way. |
| | 24. Send the news — wire. |

Ans. 1. at ; 2. at ; 3. by ; in ; 4. to ; 5. by ; 6. with ; 7. for ; 8. in, about ; 9. in ; 10. since ; 11. for ; 12. by ; 13. on ; 14. on ; 15. in ; 16. on ; 17. at ; 18. in ; 19. on ; 20. to ; 21. for ; 22. to ; 23. on ; 24. by.

(b) Fill in the blanks with suitable prepositions :

1. There was a tension — the crossing — Raja Dinendra Street and Grey Street — north Kolkata when a truck knocked down one Sri Om Prakash — Monday evening. He was taken — R.G. Kar Hospital where his condition is stated to be critical.

Ans. at ; of ; in ; on ; to.

(c) Supply group verbs for the italicised words in the following :—

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. He did not appear in time. | 17. Can you tell me how this happened ? |
| 2. The meeting dispersed in confusion. | 18. He is much depressed . |
| 3. We postponed the discussion. | 19. He visited my house yesterday. |
| 4. The boy was expelled for misconduct. | 20. The rebellion was suppressed with a strong hand. |
| 5. They started on their journey. | 21. I do not remember his name. |
| 6. I shall support my friend. | 22. Raise your hand. |
| 7. He has established a school in his native village. | 23. Your report confirms my statement. |
| 8. I cannot tolerate such rudeness. | 24. The ceremony takes place tomorrow. |
| 9. He is regarded as a holy man. | 25. They attacked us suddenly. |
| 10. This will affect his health. | 26. The petition was drafted by me. |
| 11. I shall not divulge the secret. | 27. They have abolished the custom. |
| 12. He maintained the reputation of the family. | 28. The proposal failed for want of money. |
| 13. How did you get the money ? | 29. This mill produces good cloth. |
| 14. He will recover soon. | 30. He escaped easily. |
| 15. I cannot understand what you say. | 31. He was reared by his aunt. |
| 16. I met him on the way. | 32. Can you do this sum ? |
| | 33. The boy imitates his father. |
| | 34. Maintain the honour of the house. |

CHAPTER XXXII

DIRECT AND INDIRECT NARRATION

390

Ram says, "Anil will come".
 Ram says that Anil will come.

In the first sentence, Ram's speech is quoted in the actual words used by him, but in the second sentence Ram's speech is reported in the form of a narrative.

When a speech is quoted in the actual words used by the speaker, it is called the Direct speech or narration. But when the speech is reported in the form of a narrative, giving the substance or meaning of the words used by the speaker, without quoting his actual words, it is called the Indirect speech or narration.

The speech which is quoted in actual words ("Anil will come") is called the Reported speech and the verb (says) that introduces the speech is called the Reporting verb.

Study the following sentences :

Reporting Verb			Reported Speech
{	He	said,	"I am ill." — Direct Speech he was ill. — Indirect Speech
	He	said that
{	Ram	says,	"I want the book." — Direct Speech he wants the book. — Indirect Speech
	Ram	says that

General Rules

391 Assertive Sentences : (a) The conjunction that is generally used before the reported speech of the form of a statement.

(b) If the reporting verb is in the present or future tense, the tense of the verb in the reported speech is not changed at all.

- Direct : Ram says, "I shall go."
 Indirect : Ram says that he will go.
 Direct : He has said, "I went."
 Indirect : He has said that he went.
 Direct : You will say, "I am ill."
 Indirect : You will say that you are ill.

(c) If the reporting verb is in the past tense, change the verb in the reported speech into the corresponding past form.

- Direct : He said, "I am ill."
 Indirect : He said that he was ill.
 Direct : He said, "I was ill."
 Indirect : He said that he had been ill.
 Direct : He said, "I do it."
 Indirect : He said that he did it.
 Direct : He said, "I am doing it."
 Indirect : He said that he was doing it.
 Direct : He said, "I have done it."
 Indirect : He said that he had done it.
 Direct : He said, "I did it."
 Indirect : He said that he had done it.
 Direct : He said, "I was doing it."
 Indirect : He said that he had been doing it.
 Direct : He said, "I can do the work."
 Indirect : He said that he could do the work.
 Direct : He said, "I may go there."
 Indirect : He said that he might go there.
 Direct : He said, "Ram will go."
 Indirect : He said that Ram would go.
 Direct : He said, "I shall do it."
 Indirect : He said that he would do it.
 Direct : He said to me, "I shall go, but you will stay."
 Indirect : He told me that he would go, but I should stay.

Simple present used as a future form becomes would + verb, not simple past.

- Direct : He said, "My son leaves for Delhi tomorrow"
 Indirect : He said that his son would leave (not, left) for Delhi the next day.

Note

- (i) The following points on punctuation marks should be carefully noted :
- (a) The actual words quoted in the direct speech are put within inverted commas (".....").
 - (b) No inverted commas should be used in the indirect speech.
 - (c) The reported speech in the direct narration begins with a capital letter and it is preceded by a comma.
 - (d) In the indirect speech, no comma should be used after the reporting verb.
- (ii) To express simple futurity, we use shall in the first person and will in the second and third persons. So in the last two examples, I shall in the Direct becomes he would in the Indirect. For the same reason, in the last example, you will in the Direct becomes I should in the Indirect.

(iii) Some are of opinion that when the reporting verb is in the past tense, "All the past tenses of the direct form either remain in the past tense or are changed into the past perfect tense. The past perfect tense is used chiefly when we wish to lay stress on the completion of the action." The first alternative certainly violates the rules of the sequence of tenses; still, it cannot often be helped. For example, take the following passage:

He said to me, "I went home in January. There I met my sister after a long time. She was a widow and was very eager to see me. My mother, too, wished me to see her."

Now, if we are to change the past tense of the Direct form into the past perfect in the Indirect, the rendering would stand thus:

He told me that he had gone home in January. There he had met his sister after a long time. She had been a widow and had been very eager to see him. His mother, too, had wished him to see her.

Now, so many past perfect tenses in a single passage is certainly bad English. If instead we retain the simple past indefinite of the original in the Indirect form from the second sentence, the rendering will be good English. Hence, the rule stated above. The rendering then stands as:

He told me that he had gone home in January. There he met his sister after a long time. She was a widow and was very eager to see him. His mother too, wished him to see her.

In the case of a short sentence, however, the past may be, and should ordinarily be, changed into the past perfect because that does not create any difficulty.

(d) If the Direct speech states a universal truth or a habitual fact, the tense of the verb in the reported speech is not changed. Direct speech যদি নিত্যসত্য বা নিত্যকার অভ্যাস বুঝায় তাহা হইলে Indirect speech-এ তাহার Verb-এর কোন পরিবর্তন হয় না।

Direct : He said, "Honesty is the best policy."

Indirect : He said that honesty is the best policy.

Direct : He said, "God is good."

Indirect : He said that God is good.

Direct : He said, "I take bath in the Ganges every morning."

Indirect : He said that he takes bath in the Ganges every morning.

(e) The Indirect speech should correspond in the persons of pronouns and verbs to the persons of the individuals in the Direct speech. Indirect speech-এ pronoun-এর Verb-এর person-টি যে ব্যক্তি সম্বন্ধে বাক্যটি হইতেছে তাহার সহিত সামঞ্জস্য রাখিয়া পরিবর্তিত করিতে হয়।

Direct : I said to him, "You are wrong."

Indirect : I told him that he was wrong.

Direct : He said to me, "I shall go, but you will say."

Indirect : He told me that he would go, but I should stay.

Note

(i) Boys often make a confusion in changing the persons of the reported speech. It may help them to remember that the first person (I, we, us, etc.) of the Direct speech is changed into the person of the speaker, and the second person (you, your, etc.) of the Direct speech is changed into the person of the man to whom the speech is addressed. Note the examples given above.

Also, note :

Direct : The Times of India says, "We shall discuss the matter in our next issue."

Indirect : The Times of India says that it will discuss the matter in its next issue.

Editorial we changes to third person in Indirect speech.

“Said to him”, “said to me”, etc. before “that” are not good English; write “told him”, “told me”, etc.

(ii) When there is uncertainty as to the particular person to whom the pronoun in the Indirect Speech refers, the name of the person should be placed in brackets.

- Direct : He said to Ram, “You are wrong.”
 Indirect : He told Ram that he (Ram) was wrong.
 Direct : Hari said to Jatin, “You will pass.”
 Indirect : Hari told Jatin that he (Jatin) would pass.

(iii) Sometimes the introductory portion is left out and the speech only is given. To turn such speeches into the Indirect form, the sentence should begin as He told Ram, or He told me or I told her, or something like this. Thus,

- Direct : I cannot do it.
 Indirect : He told me (or, I told him, or you told me) that he (or, I or you) could not do it.
 Direct : This is a nice house.
 Indirect : He says (or, He is saying or He will say) that this is a nice house.

E EXERCISE 45

(a) Change from the Direct into the Indirect form of speech :—

1. He said to me, “You are wicked; so I shall not play with you.”
2. You said to him, “I am ill; so I cannot come to your place.”
3. He said to you, “I was much struck by your eloquence.”
4. We remarked, “God is gracious.”
5. I said to my mother, “I shall always obey you.”
6. They said to me, “We have been your friends all through.”
7. She said to me, “You may rely on me for support.”
8. He said to Gopal, “You were a mere boy when I saw you last.”
9. I said to him, “The sky is blue.”
10. “He has done the work.”
11. “You will feel the consequences.”
12. “I am not angry with you.”
13. I said to them, “You have done wrong.”

(b) Change into the Direct form of speech :—

1. He said that he was sorry.
2. I told him that I had once seen him before.
3. You told me that as you did not know me, you could not help me.
4. The boy said that he would go.
5. The girl told her father that she would be glad if he would put her into a good school.
6. They told Ram that he had done wrong and must apologise to them.

(392) Interrogative Sentences : In converting such sentences,

(a) change the reporting verb into ask or enquire ;

(b) then add whether or if, if the question admits of one of the two answers yes or no ; but do not add whether or if, if the question is introduced by an interrogative pronoun, or adjective, or adverb (viz. who, which, what, why, when, where, how, etc.);

(c) and change the interrogative form into a statement. (a) Reporting verb-কে ask বা enquire-এ পরিবর্তন কর ; (b) যদি প্রশ্নটির উত্তর “হাঁ” বা “না” দিয়া করা চলে তবে ask বা enquire-এর পর whether বা if বসায় ; অন্যত্র কিছুই বসাইবে না ; (c) প্রশ্নটিকে statement-এ রূপান্তরিত কর।

The conjunction “that” is never used in such cases.

- (a) Direct : He said to me, "Are you ill?"
 Indirect : He asked (or enquired of) me if (or whether) I was ill.
 Direct : My father said to him, "Is not poverty a curse?"
 Indirect : My father asked (or enquired of) him whether or if poverty is not a curse.
 Direct : You said to Ram, "Will you help me?"
 Indirect : You asked Ram if he would help you.
 Direct : You said to me, "Do you hear me?"
 Indirect : You asked me if I heard you.
- (b) Direct : He said to me, "What are you doing?"
 Indirect : He asked me what I was doing.
 Direct : He said to me, "When will you go home?"
 Indirect : He enquired of me when I would go home.
 Direct : You said to me, "Why have you failed?"
 Indirect : You asked me why I had failed.

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটিস
 প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য
 Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

Note

- (i) No question mark (?) is used in indirect speech.
 (ii) If the introducing verb itself is interrogative, the reported speech is followed by a question mark: Did she tell you why she went there?

393 Uses of "Whether" and "If" :

(a) In case of Yes/No questions, if and whether are used in the indirect almost in the same meaning.

He said to her, "Are you happy?"
 He asked her if/whether she was happy.
 "Do you know Sandip?" he said to me.
 He asked me if/whether I know Sandip.

(b) When a choice has to be made or there is an alternative possibility, whether (generally followed by or) is preferred.

He said to her, "Do you want to go by tram or by car?"
 He asked her whether she wanted to go by train or by car.
 She said to me, "Will you take tea or coffee?"
 She asked me whether I would take tea or coffee.
 "Shall/Should I wait for them or go on"? he wondered.
 He wondered whether to wait for them or go on.

or, He wondered whether he should wait for them or go on— Thomson & Martinet.

(c) Mark the difference between the use of whether or not and if :

"Do you want to insure your luggage or not"? he asked.
 He asked whether or not I wanted to insure my luggage.
 or He asked if I wanted to insure my luggage or not— Thomson & Martinet.

(d) If the yes/no question contains an if clause, whether is preferred to if (to avoid the use of two ifs).

He said to her, "If it rains, will you go there?"
 He asked her whether she would go there if it rained.

E EXERCISE 46

(a) Turn into the Indirect form of speech :—

- I said to him, "When will you do it?"
- He said to me, "Do you like the work?"
- They said to her, "Who are you and what do you want of us?"
- You said to them, "Have you seen the man who came to me the other day?"
- I said to him, "When did you see me and what do you think of me?"
- He said to me, "Is there no hope for me?"
- I said to him, "Will you go to Calcutta?"
- She said to me, "Did you write to me before?"
- He said to her, "When did you come to my place?"

(b) Turn into the Direct form of speech :—

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. She enquired when I would be able to help her. | 4. They enquired of me who I was and why I was opposing them. |
| 2. They asked the boy why he had failed in the examination. | 5. I asked him if he would compete for the medal with my brother. |
| 3. The boy asked his mother what she was sorry for. | 6. He asked me how I did the work. |

394 Sentences with Question Tags :

A sentence with a question tag is not really a question. It is rather a tentative statement, and as the speaker is not absolutely sure, he adds a question tag to ask for some reassurance. So in changing such sentences from direct to indirect speech, we have to find a way of conveying the element of doubt that the question tag suggests. Depending on the context and the tone in which the words are said, a range of different verbs such as think, hope, believe, etc. may be used to express that idea in indirect form. As,

- | |
|--|
| Direct : Robert said, "John is a good boy, isn't he? " |
| Indirect : Robert said that he thought John was a good boy. |
| Direct : I said to Indira, "You can speak French, can't you? " |
| Indirect : I said to Indira that I thought she could speak French. |
| Direct : The teacher said to the boy, "You will do the job, won't you? " |
| Indirect : The teacher told the boy that he hoped he would do the job. |
| Direct : Rabin said, "The captain did not agree to go, did he? " |
| Indirect : Robin said that he didn't believe that the captain had agreed to go. |
| Direct : She said to me, "Maya can't speak Hindi, can she? " |
| Indirect : She told me that she didn't think Maya could speak Hindi. |
| Direct : Amal said, "They will not go, will they? " |
| Indirect : Amal hoped they would not go. |

Note

A reference to the Oxford University Press on the above topic brings the following reply from the Senior Editor, English Language Teaching Division :

"The second issue you raised, about changing sentences with question tags from direct to indirect speech, is rather more difficult. In fact, there is no way in English to render a question tag in indirect speech, so we have to find another way of conveying the element of doubt that the question tag suggests. So your rendering of Robert said, 'John is a good boy, isn't he?' as Robert asked if John was not a good boy is not quite correct. Your rendering would be correct if the original question had been 'Isn't John (or Is John not) a good boy?' However, what Robert is actually saying is not really a question—rather it's a tentative statement. Robert is saying that he thinks John is a good boy, but he's not absolutely sure, so he adds the question tag to ask for some reassurance. Consequently, my preferred rendering of the sentence in indirect speech would be Robert said that he thought John was a good boy.

So, here are my suggested versions of your sentences :

Robert said, 'John is a good boy, isn't he?'

Robert said that he thought John was a good boy.

I said to Indira, 'You can speak French, can't you?'

I said to Indira that I thought she could speak French.

The teacher said to the boy, 'You will do the job, won't you?'

The teacher told the boy that he hoped he would do the job.

Robin said, 'The captain did not agree to go, did he?'

Robin said that he didn't believe that the captain had agreed to go.
 She said to me, 'Maya can't speak Hindi, can she?'
 She told me that she didn't think Maya could speak Hindi.
 Amal said, 'They will not go, will they?'
 Amal hoped they would not go."

E EXERCISE 47

Change from Direct to Indirect form of speech :—

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. He said to me, "They will never come, will they?" | 7. He said to me, "You aren't angry, are you?" |
| 2. She said to me, "You can speak German, can't you?" | 8. Ramen said, "The rain will stop soon, won't it?" |
| 3. He said to me, "You can't speak French, can you?" | 9. He said, "Rina is very fond of sweets, isn't she?" |
| 4. I said "Everybody will go there, won't they?" | 10. Partha said to me, "You will come to Kolkata, won't you?" |
| 5. He said, "Your son lives in Delhi, doesn't he?" | 11. Sita said to Asha, "You haven't any house, have you?" |
| 6. The teacher said to him, "Amal has done well in the examination, hasn't he?" | 12. I said to Ram, "You did not sing in the function, did you?" |

(395) (a) Imperative sentences : In converting such sentences, change the verb into the Infinitive form, and the reporting verb into some such words as 'tell', 'request', 'command', 'beg', 'entreat', as the sense of the speech may require. Reported speech-এর verb-টিকে Infinitive form-এ এবং reporting verb-টিকে অর্থানুযায়ী tell, request, command, beg, entreat, etc.-তে পরিবর্তিত কর।

- Direct : My friend said to me, "Go home at once."
 Indirect : My friend told or advised me to go home at once.
 Direct : He said to me, "Do not go there."
 Indirect : He told or advised or ordered me not to go there.
 Direct : I said to him, "Please explain the passage."
 Indirect : I requested him to explain the passage.
 Direct : The general said to the soldiers, "March on."
 Indirect : The general ordered the soldiers to march on.
 Direct : I said to him, "Excuse me, Sir."
 Indirect : I begged him to excuse me.

Note

(i) Tell may often be used to express 'request', 'order', 'command' etc. It is, therefore, often safer for students to use tell in the Indirect form when they may be in doubt about the proper word to introduce the reported speech.

(ii) Vocatives may be omitted, as in the last example, or may be dealt with as below (সম্বোধনটিকে বাদ দেওয়া বা অন্যভাবেও পরিবর্তন করা চলে) :

- Direct : He said, "Ram, go there."
 Indirect : He told Ram to go there.
 Direct : He said, "Friends, lend me your ears."
 Indirect : Addressing them as friends, he requested them to lend him their ears.
 Direct : He shouted, "Stop you, villain."
 Indirect : He shouted to the villain to stop. Or, He ordered the villain to stop. Or, Calling the man a villain, he ordered him to stop.

(iii) In the Indirect form, such expressions as please, sir in the Direct are left out, or they are rendered by such expressions as kindly, politely, etc.

(b) Given below are a few more examples :

- Direct : He said to me, "You better/had better consult a doctor".
 Indirect : He advised me to consult a doctor.
- Direct : "Please, please don't go there", said my wife.
 Indirect : My wife begged/implored me not to go there.
- Direct : "Don't forget to bring the medicine", he said to me.
 Indirect : He reminded me to bring the medicine.
- Direct : "If you'd just sign the paper", said the clerk.
 Indirect : The clerk asked me to sign the paper.
- Direct : "Stay here", the officer said to the soldier.
 Indirect : The officer ordered the soldier to stay there.
- Direct : "Don't go near the fire, boys", he said.
 Indirect : He warned the boys not to go near the fire.
- Direct : "Don't worry", she said to me.
 Indirect : She advised me not to worry.
- Direct : "Come in", she said to me.
 Indirect : She invited me to go in.
- Direct : "Go on, try once again", said Partha.
 Indirect : Partha urged/encouraged me to try once again.

(c) Questions expressing command, request, etc.

Sometimes sentences beginning with why/will you/would you/could you are questions only in form, not in sense. They do not seek information but express requests, invitations, commands. They are converted into indirect speech in various ways.

- Direct : "Will you keep quiet"! the teacher said to the students.
 Indirect : The teacher told/bade/ordered the students to keep quiet.
- Direct : "Why don't you see a doctor"? he told me.
 Indirect : He advised me to see a doctor.
- Direct : "Would/could you show me your ticket please"?
 Indirect : The ticket checker asked the passenger to show him his ticket.
- Direct : "Would you join me in the dinner"? he said to me.
 Indirect : He invited me to the dinner.
- Direct : "Could/would you give me a hand"? she said to him.
 Indirect : She asked/requested him to give her a hand.
- Direct : "Will all visitors please move to the right"?
 Indirect : The guide asked all visitors to move to the right.

(d) Imperatives with question tags : In converting such sentences into indirect speech, the question tag at the end of the sentence is left out.

- Direct : "Close the door, won't you"? he said to me.
 Indirect : He asked/requested me to close the door.
- Direct : "Don't go there, will you"? said Arati to me.
 Indirect : Arati asked/requested me not to go there.

396 Even when the introductory verb is in the past tense, would, should, might, could and must do not normally change.

- Direct : She said, "I would help him if I could."
 Indirect : She said that she would help him if she could.
- Direct : He said to me, "You must leave the place."
 Indirect : He told that I must leave the place.
- Direct : The man said, "Could I speak to Mr. Ray?"
 Indirect : The man asked if he could speak to Mr. Roy.

- Direct : He said, "I might be there."
 Indirect : He said that he might be there.
- Direct : I said to him, "Would you like to see the picture?"
 Indirect : I asked him if he would like to see the picture.
- Direct : She said to me, "I could give you some money on loan."
 Indirect : She told me that she could give me some money on loan.
- Direct : He said, "The boys should be able to do the sum."
 Indirect : He said that the boys should be able to do the sum.
- Direct : He said, "I should go there."
 Indirect : He said that he should go there.
- Direct : She said, "I couldn't come on Monday."
 Indirect : She said that she couldn't come on Monday.
- Direct : The police said, "The thief must be somewhere around."
 Indirect : The police said that the thief must be somewhere around.
- Direct : He said to the children, "You mustn't play with fire."
 Indirect : He told the children that they mustn't play with fire.

397 (a) When Let in the Direct speech expresses a proposal or suggestion, we use should for let, and change the reporting verb into propose or suggest. যদি Direct speech-টি Let দ্বারা আরম্ভ হয়, এবং এই Let দ্বারা কোন proposal বা suggestion বুঝায়, তাহা হইলে reporting verb-টিকে propose বা suggest-এ পরিবর্তিত করিবে এবং পরে let-এর স্থানে should ব্যবহার করিবে।

- Direct : He said to me, "Let us go home."
 Indirect : He proposed or suggested to me that we should go home.
- Direct : I said to him, "Let us have some music."
 Indirect : I proposed or suggested to him that we should have some music.

(b) But when Let does not express a proposal, it should be changed into might or might be allowed, or into some other form according to the sense. যদি Let দ্বারা proposal না বুঝায়, তবে let কে might বা might be allowed বা অনুরূপ form-এ পরিবর্তিত করিবে।

- Direct : He said "Let him do whatever he likes."
 Indirect : He said that he (a third person) might (or might be allowed to) do whatever he liked.
- Direct : He said, "Let me come in."
 Indirect : He requested that he might be allowed to come in.
- Direct : He said, "Let me have some milk."
 Indirect : He wished that he might have some milk.
- Direct : He said to me, "Let him say whatever he likes, I shall certainly support you."
 Indirect : He told me that he (a third person) might say whatever he liked, but he (the speaker) would certainly support me.

E EXERCISE 48

(a) Turn into the Indirect form of speech :—

(I)

- "Come here."
- "Please give me a book."
- He said to us, "Do not vex me."
- I said to her, "Go to school, or you will be fined."
- They said to me, "Ram, tell your brother to see us."
- The Headmaster said to the boys, "Do not make any noise."
- She said to me, "Let me have it."
- She said to him, "Father, kindly excuse me this time."
- "Go there at once."
- The boy said, "Sir, please grant me leave of absence."
- He said to me, "Let me try."
- "Give him a book."
- The President said to the members, "Please obey the chair."

(II)

1. He said, "They would come tomorrow."
2. She said to me, "You should not go out at night."
3. The servant said, "I could not open the door".
4. "You must not neglect your study," said the teacher to the students.
5. They said, "We might win the match."
6. "Could you tell me where he lives?"
7. Mother said, "You must work hard."
8. He said, "I would certainly help him."
9. "Would you mind giving me the book?" I said to the man.
10. "I must go to the doctor", he said.

(b) Turn into the Direct form of speech :—

(I)

1. He told me to go home.
2. I requested him to lend me a pen.
3. The beggar entreated me to give him a rupee.
4. The father ordered the boy not to mix with such friends.
5. I requested them to speak to their headmaster about my prayer.
6. He proposed that we should go out for a walk.
7. The girl begged her father to allow her to go.

(II)

1. He asked if he could use my telephone.
2. The police told us that we should not go to the park at night.
3. You told me that you could do the job if I liked.
4. He told me that he must tell me about the incident.
5. You said that you might see him at the meeting.
6. She said that she would like to take classes.
7. I said that they must be wrong.
8. He said that nobody should disturb him.

398 Optative Sentences : In optative sentences, the reporting verb is changed into wish or pray, and the optative form is changed into a statement. Reporting verb-টিকে wish বা pray-তে পরিবর্তিত করিয়া ইচ্ছাবোধক বাক্যটিকে সাধারণ statement-এ পরিণত করিবে।

- Direct : He said to me, "May you be happy."
 Indirect : He wished or prayed that I might be happy.
 Direct : He said to you, "May God bless you."
 Indirect : He prayed that God might bless you.

399 Exclamatory Sentences : If the direct form is an exclamation, the reporting verb is changed to some such verb as 'exclaim', 'cry out', 'pray', 'wish', and the exclamation is turned into a statement. But new words and phrases have often to be introduced to express the full meaning. Reporting verb-টিকে অর্থানুযায়ী exclaim, cry out, pray, wish ইত্যাদিতে পরিবর্তিত করিয়া বাক্যটিকে সাধারণ statement-এ পরিণত করিবে।

- Direct : He said, "Alas! I am undone."
 Indirect : He cried out in sorrow that he was undone.
 Direct : He said, "What a fool I am!"
 Indirect : He exclaimed with grief that he was a great fool.
 Direct : He said, "Good-bye, my friends".
 Indirect : He bade his friends good-bye. (Or, He bade good-bye to his friends).
 Direct : He said, "Good morning!"
 Indirect : He wished me good morning.
 Direct : He said, "Congratulations!"
 Indirect : He congratulated me.

- Direct : "Bless his kind heart!" they cried.
 Indirect : They blessed him for his kind heart.
 Direct : "Bravo! well done!" they cried.
 Indirect : They applauded him, for (or saying that) he had done well.
 Direct : "So help me Heaven!" he cried, "I will never do so again."
 Indirect : He prayed to Heaven to help him in his resolve not do so again.
 Direct : He said, "By Jove! What a good news!"
 Indirect : He swore by Jove that it was a very good news.

N.B. It should be carefully noted that what, how, and who are sometimes used in exclamation to denote excess or absence, instead of introducing an interrogation. In such cases they should be replaced by great, greatly, very, very much or none in Indirect :—

- Direct : He said to me, "How happy you are!"
 Indirect : He told me that I was very happy.
 Direct : He said, "What a nice thing it is!"
 Indirect : He said (or exclaimed with joy) that it was a very nice thing.
 Direct : He said, "What was my joy to see the thing!"
 Indirect : He said that his joy to see the thing was very great.
 Direct : I said, "Who knew that this should happen!"
 Indirect : I said that none knew that that would happen.

Note

In indirect speech, the sentence ends with a full stop (.) and not an exclamation mark (!).

E EXERCISE 49

Turn into the Indirect form of speech :—

1. I said to her, "May you live long."
2. He said to us, "May you all succeed."
3. He said, "Well done!"
4. You said, "Good morning, my friend. I am glad to meet you."
5. You said, "By God! I never meant you any harm."
6. He said, "How charming the sight is!"
7. You said to me, "How clever your action was!"
8. I said to him, "What a nice fellow your brother is!"
9. You said, "Who does not wish to be happy?"
10. You said, "Had I the means to do it!"
11. He said, "My God! I am undone."
12. They said, "How cruel of him!"
13. He said, "Ah me! what a mistake it was!"

(400) Words indicating time and place : (a) Adjectives, Adverbs and Verbs in the Direct speech, expressing nearness, are often changed into similar words expressing remoteness :

Now	becomes	then	Hither	becomes	thither
Here	"	there	Thus	"	(in) that way, so
This	"	that	Today	"	that day, the same day.
Ago	"	before	Tomorrow	"	the next day, the following day
These	"	those	Yesterday	"	the previous day, the day before
Hence	"	thence	Last night	"	the previous night
Come	"	go

Last week/month	becomes	the week before/the previous week, etc.
Next week/month	"	the week after/the following week, etc.
The day before yesterday	"	two days before
The day after tomorrow	"	in two days' time
A year ago	"	a year before/the previous year

- Direct : He said, "I know this boy."
 Indirect : He said that he knew that boy.
- Direct : I said to him, "You will get it today or tomorrow."
 Indirect : I told him that he would get it that day or the next day.
- Direct : He said to me, "Come here."
 Indirect : He told me to go there.
- Direct : You said, "I shall go there the day after tomorrow."
 Indirect : You said that you would go there in two days' time.

(b) But if now, here, this, etc. refer to things present before the speaker at the time he is reporting, no change is necessary.

- Direct : She said, "I knew this boy."
 Indirect : She said that she knew this boy.
- Direct : I said, "We can never be happy here."
 Indirect : I said that we can never be happy here (= in this world).
- Direct : He said to me, "I have no friend here."
 Indirect : He told me that he had no friend here.

Note

Students often change "it" into "that" in the indirect. But that is wrong; "it" remains unchanged.

E EXERCISE 50

(a) Turn into the Indirect form of speech :—

1. I said to him, "I may go tomorrow."
2. He said to me, "Come again any time today."
3. He said to you, "I cannot attend to you now."
4. He said to me, "Go hence."
5. You said to me, "I was well yesterday, but today I am rather sick."
6. He said to me, "Why do you treat me thus?"
7. I said to them, "We cannot be quite happy here."
8. She said, "I have no hope here on earth."
9. She said, "I saw these boys yesterday."

(b) Turn into the Direct form of speech :—

1. He told me that he had seen me the previous day.
2. You said that it was wrong to act in that way.
3. I hoped that you would go to Calcutta the next day.
4. The boy said that he had no sleep the previous night.
5. I said that I could not finish that work till the next day.
6. I said that I should go away that day.

(401) Questions and Answers : "Yes" and "No"— In changing answers into the Indirect form, sentences are to be given completely by supplying the words understood.

Direct speech-এ যেসব কথা উহা থাকে Indirect speech-এ তাহা পূরণ করিয়া দিতে হয়।

- Direct : "What is your name?" "Ramesh."
 Indirect : I asked him what his name was. He replied that his name was Ramesh.
- Direct : I said to him, "How long will you stay?" He replied, "For five days."
 Indirect : I asked him how long he would stay. He replied that he would stay for five days.
- Direct : He said to me, "Are you ill?" I replied, "No (or Yes)."
 Indirect : He asked me if I was ill. I replied that I was not (or that I was).
- Direct : He said to me, "Do you know Ram?" I said, "No."
 Indirect : He asked me if I knew Ram. I replied that I did not.

The force of Yes and No may be implied in the main verb :

- Direct : Yes, Sir, I shall go.
 Indirect : He promised that he would go.
 Direct : No, Sir, I have not seen it.
 Indirect : He denied that he had seen it. Or, He denied having seen it.

Note

The cumbrous forms replied in the negative, replied in the affirmative should be avoided.

402 Miscellaneous :

Comment clauses (parenthesis) like you see, as you know, to tell you frankly, etc. and words like well, very well, okay, now, so, etc. used just to introduce a sentence are usually left out in the Indirect speech.

- Direct : The receptionist said, "Well, what can I do for you" ?
 Indirect : The receptionist wanted to know what she could do for him.
 Direct : He said, "To tell you frankly, I don't have any information about her".
 Indirect : He said that he didn't have any information about her.
 Direct : He said to Ramen, "You see, we are all with you in this matter".
 Indirect : He told Ramen that they were all with him in that matter.
 Direct : The teacher said, "Now, listen to me, boys".
 Indirect : The teacher asked the boys to listen to him.
 Direct : She said to me, "So, what is your opinion" ?
 Indirect : She asked me what my opinion was.
 Direct : "Okay", he said, "Anil can see me tomorrow".
 Indirect : He said that Anil could see him the next day.

403 The combination of different kinds of reported sentences requires careful treatment. Let us take the passage :—

(a) He said to me, "Who are you? What do you want? Go away."

The reported sentences, taken separately, are changed thus :

- (i) He asked me who I was.
 (ii) He asked me what I wanted.
 (iii) He told me to go away.

The reporting or introductory verb asked is common to the first two sentences : but in the last, we have a new verb told. Therefore, asked, placed only once at the beginning, may serve for the first two sentences together, like a common factor in mathematics ; but the new verb told has to be used in introducing the third sentence. Thus, put together, the Indirect form should be :

He asked me who I was and what I wanted, and told me to go away.

(b) Consider again the passage :

He said to me, "Why are you silent? Speak out. Can't you hear?"

Taken separately, the passage runs thus in the Indirect :

He asked me (i) why I was silent and (ii) (he) ordered me to speak out and (iii) asked me if I could not hear.

Here, asked is common to the first and third clauses no doubt : yet, as they are not consecutive, 'asked' cannot be taken as a common factor, but has to be repeated. To express this force of repetition, we use again with asked in the third clause, and separate it altogether in a new sentence for the sake of proper English. The passage will then stand in the Indirect speech as :

He asked me why I was silent and ordered me to speak out. He asked again if I could not hear.

A general rule may, therefore, be laid down that :—

(i) When sentences of the same kind occur consecutively in the reported speech, the reporting or introductory verb is to be used only once in the Indirect speech ; but, when the sentences are not consecutive, the verb is to be repeated, often with the addition of again or also before or after it.

(ii) When sentences of different kinds are joined, different reporting verbs appropriate to the different sentences have to be used in the indirect form.

(c) Consider again the sentences :

He said to me, "Why were you absent? The Headmaster is angry. Go to him at once."

Taken separately, the sentences are to be changed thus :

He (i) asked me why I had been absent and (ii) said that the Headmaster was angry, and (iii) told me to go to him at once.

Put in proper, connected English, the passage stands thus :

He asked me why I had been absent. The Headmaster was angry ; so he told (or advised) me to go to him at once.

It has to be noted that the entire introductory portion he said that is altogether dropped from the second sentence (an assertive one), which is used independently ; and to maintain the link, a new word so is put between the clauses ("The Headmaster was angry" ; and the next).

This trick of dropping the entire introductory portion from assertive sentences when they do not begin the reported speech is very helpful to beginners.

④ Reporting Dialogues and Conversations :

Indirect speech is very frequently used in conversation—spoken and written—in reporting events, dialogues, narrating stories, etc.

A speech can be reported by the speaker, the listener or by a third person. Follow the examples :

Pintu : Last week I told Biju that my sister would fly to the U.K. very soon. (Pintu, the speaker, is the reporter).

Biju : Last week Pintu told me that his sister would fly to the U.K. very soon. (Biju, the listener, is the reporter).

Ranjan : Last week Pintu told Biju that his (Pintu's) sister would fly to the U.K. very soon. (Ranjan, a third person, is the reporter).

We usually report something said by someone in the past and use such verbs as asked, said, requested, etc. as reporting verbs. In reporting, the basic rules of changes in tenses and pronouns are the same as for changing from Direct to Indirect Speech. While reporting, the language should be simple in style, smooth and direct. Many irrelevant points are intentionally omitted while reporting.

Note the following example :

Dialogue Dr Sen had with Moni and Ruby yesterday.

Dr Sen : I am your friend's physician.

Moni and Ruby : We are your neighbours.

(i) As reported by Kajal, a third person :

Yesterday, Dr Sen told Moni and Ruby that he was their friend's physician. Moni and Ruby pointed out to Dr Sen that they were his neighbours.

(ii) As reported by Moni and Ruby (the listeners) :

Yesterday Dr Sen told us that he was our friend's physician. We told him (or, pointed out to him) that we were his neighbours.

(iii) As reported by Dr Sen (the speaker) :

Yesterday I told Moni and Ruby that I was their friend's physician. Moni and Ruby said that they were my neighbours.

Note the changes in pronouns. Use your common sense to change the pronouns.

Normally in real life situations, we do not report every sentence. Conversations and talks are reported in a summary form. Hackneyed expressions like "Addressing his friend by the name of Ramen etc." and mechanical conversion of "it" into "that" etc. should be avoided. Stress should be laid on reflecting the true mood of the passage rather than to be just "structurally correct." The report should be readable in the first place. Look at the following examples :

(a) Bimal : I am sorry, I missed today's match between Mohan Bagan and East Bengal. Could you tell me the result of the match, please ?

Ranen : Mohan Bagan won the match 2-0. Debu scored the first goal in the 3rd minute while Hira scored the other in the 26th minute.

(i) This dialogue as reported by Kamal, a third person :

Bimal was sorry to miss the match between East Bengal and Mohan Bagan. He learnt from Ranen that Mohan Bagan had won the match 2-0 in which Debu and Hira had scored a goal each.

(ii) This dialogue as reported by Bimal, the speaker, the next day :

I was sorry to miss yesterday's match between Mohan Bagan and East Bengal but I learnt from Ranen that Mohan Bagan had won the match 2-0, Debu and Hira scoring a goal each.

(iii) This dialogue as reported by Ranen, the listener :

Bimal was sorry to miss today's match between Mohan Bagan and East Bengal and asked me about the result. I told him that Mohan Bagan had won it 2-0, Debu and Hira scoring a goal each.

Here are some more examples :

(b) Raju : Kanu, where are you going ?

Kanu : I am going to meet Apu and his family.

Raju : Don't be late. We shall have to attend a party in the evening.

(i) As reported by Raju, the speaker :

When I learnt from Kanu that he was going to meet Apu and his family, I advised him not to be late as we should (would) have to attend a party in the evening.

(ii) As reported by Kanu, the listener :

When Raju learnt on enquiry that I was going to meet Apu and his family, he advised me not to be late as we should (would) have to attend a party in the evening.

(iii) As reported by Partha, a third person :

When Raju learnt on enquiry that Kanu was going to meet Apu and his (Apu's) family, he advised him (Kanu) not to be late as they would have to attend a party in the evening.

(c) Mother : What have you got in your hand ?

Ben : A whistle, mother.

Mother : How much did you pay for it ?

Ben : All the money father gave me yesterday.

Mother : What ! Did you give all the money for the little thing ?

Ben : Yes, and I think I've made a good bargain.

Ben's mother reports this to his father the same day :

Today I saw a whistle in Ben's hand. On enquiry I came to know that he had spent all the money you had given him yesterday to buy the whistle. He seemed to think that he had made a good bargain.

(d) On 26th July, Mr Misra came to Mr Dutta's house in the afternoon.

Mr Misra : Good afternoon. Is Mr Dutta at home ?

Kumar : I'm afraid, he is still at the office.

Mr Misra : Oh, I have already rang up at the office but I could not get him there. Would you give him a message, please ? It is about a meeting on Friday. I am sorry I will be away on that day, so I wonder if we can postpone our meeting until next week. I will ring back your father as soon as possible.

Kumar : Yes, I'll give him the message.

(i) Report by a third person :

Mr Mishra came to Mr Dutta's house on 26th July in the afternoon and learnt that Mr Dutta was still at his office. He left a message with Kumar, his son, that he would be away on Friday, the date on which a meeting had been fixed. He wondered if the meeting could be postponed to the following week. He would of course ring back as soon as possible.

(ii) As reported by Mr Misra, the speaker :

I went to Mr Dutta's house on 26th July in the afternoon and learnt that Mr Dutta was still at his office. I left a message with Kumar, his son, that I would be away on Friday, the date on which a meeting had been fixed and so wondered if the meeting could be postponed to the following week. I would of course ring back as soon as possible.

(iii) As reported by Kumar to Mr Dutta, the next day :

Mr Misra came to our house yesterday in the afternoon and learnt that you were still at your office. He left a message that he would be away on Friday when a meeting had been fixed with you. He wondered if the meeting could be postponed to the following week. He would of course ring you back as soon as possible.

(e) Study the following telephonic conversation in two forms—the actual speech (Direct) and the reported speech (Indirect) :

Actual Conversation

Sunil : Hello !

Subir : Hello ! Could I speak to Tushar ?

Sunil : I am afraid he is out. Can I take the message ?

Subir : Oh, well this is Subir here. I was wondering if Tushar will be free this afternoon. I am going to the book exhibition. I'd like him to come with me if he is free. When will he be back ?

- Sunil : He won't be long He's just gone out to get some stamps and envelopes. I don't think he is doing anything this afternoon.
- Subir : Well, can you tell him I shall wait for him at the gate at 2 p.m. ? If he doesn't turn up by 2-15, I'll go in.
- Sunil : Yes, I'll tell him. Good bye.
- Subir : Good bye, thank you.

Reported Conversation

Here is Sunil's reported speech. He reports to Tushar about the telephone call from Subir when Tushar comes back :

"When you were out, Subir telephoned. He wanted to know if you would be free this afternoon. He is going to the book exhibition. He would like you to go with him if you were free. He wanted to know when you would be back. I said that you wouldn't be long, and I didn't think you were doing anything. He said he'd wait for you at the gate at 2 p.m. and if you didn't turn up by 2-15 p.m. he'd go in."

Note

(i) Sunil is reporting to Tushar that very day though some time later ; hence the corresponding past forms of verbs are used in the actual conversation. Only one verb form 'is going' is in the present form indicating futurity (because Subir is going to the exhibition that very day). (ii) The use of the pronouns he (Subir), you (Tushar) and I (Sunil). (iii) Not every sentence from the beginning to the end has been reported—it's not necessary. It's the message which is important. The other bits at the beginning, and end are conventional ways of talking on the phone and do not have to be reported. In your grammar class or examination paper, however, every sentence has to be changed into the reported or indirect form.

(405) To Summarise a dialogue is to say in a few words what the main points are. Set out these points, leaving out details or examples unless they are necessary to understand the summary. Here is an example :

- Swapna : I have often noticed that you avoid walking under ladders. Why ? Are you superstitious ?
- Jyotsna : Of course not. I avoid it because I feel it is dangerous. By the way, I heard your examinations start from tomorrow. I'll keep my fingers crossed, hoping for your success.
- Swapna : There you are ! Keeping fingers crossed is a sure sign of being superstitious.

The main points in the above dialogue between Swapna and Jyotsna are :

1. Swapna wants to know if Jyotsna is superstitious.
2. Jyotsna says that she is not superstitious.
3. Jyotsna explains that she avoids walking under ladders, because it can be dangerous.
4. When Jyotsna says that she will keep her fingers crossed, she shows that she is sometimes superstitious.

The Summary of the above dialogue might be :

Swapna asked Jyotsna if she (Jyotsna) was superstitious. Jyotsna replied that she was not. She avoided walking under ladders not out of superstition but because it could be dangerous. Later she (Jyotsna) offered to cross her fingers for Swapna's success in the examination showing that she was superstitious, after all.

EXAMPLES WORKED OUT

Change the sentences to Indirect Speech :

- A. 1. "What did you eat last night?" asked my mother.
2. "Do not go out in the sun," said the teacher to the boys.
3. "Please be seated," said the host to us.
4. "Where do you propose to go tomorrow?" said the employer to him.
5. "What are you doing here?" he cried in a gruff voice.
6. "I cannot understand why the Spring is so late in coming," said the Selfish Giant.
"I hope there will be a change in the weather."
7. "Perhaps you have left it in the garden," my aunt would suggest.
8. "It's yesterday's paper!" he would shout, throwing it down upon the table.
9. The young woman said, "I cannot catch smallpox because I have had cowpox. Everybody in the neighbourhood has proved this to be true."
10. "How selfish I have been!" the Giant said. "Now I know why the Spring will not come here."
11. The teacher said to Mohan, "Please open the window."
12. The doctor said, "You have a mild attack of rheumatism. Take an injection."
13. "My garden is my own garden", said the Giant, "I will allow nobody to play in it but myself."
14. "Climb up! little boy", said the Giant.
15. The child asked her mother, "Do you think it is greedy to ask for more sweets?"
16. The father said, "Bring me the book, son."
17. He said to his teacher, "My father died last night."
18. The teacher said to the student, "Leave this room at once."
19. George said to Rebecca, "I came to India today, and I will leave for England tomorrow."
20. The father said to his son, "Have you done well in the examination?"
21. "Let me go. Let me go. Let me go. I am tired," I cried.
22. "Oh, I am glad. Oh, I am glad," I exclaimed. "I had no relations till yesterday—and now I have three."
23. "Good morning, Mrs. Poole", said Mr. Rochester. "How is Moli today?"
24. "Please, please trust me, Bevan!" Wayne shouted. "You will have to trust me."
25. "We have been here for two months and are going to stay here for one month more," she said.
26. (i) The teacher said to me, "Have you done the sum?" I said, "No".
(ii) "Good Heavens!" said the old man, "what a shocking news!"
(iii) "Goodbye! dear friend," said the patriot, "we will meet again."
(iv) Corrie: What the hell are you doing?
Mrs. Meldon: I'm destroying your foul invention.
27. (i) "Which do you think is the best Sunday paper?" asked the teacher.
(ii) He said to her, "Whose typewriter are you using?"
(iii) "How dirty the house is!" he observed.
28. (i) "Which chair am I to sit on?" asks he.
(ii) She keeps saying that she is a failure. (Change into Direct speech)
(iii) Our friend says, "I have won the match!"

5. Amal — I am sorry Sandip, I have got a bad report about you from your headmaster.
 Sandip — Is it about an incident in the playground?
 Amal — Yes, and more. As to the particular incident, I am shocked that you could sink so low.
 Sandip — The boy called me names, and I lost my temper and hit him.
6. Nihar — Father, some of my friends are going on a tour during the Puja vacation. I should like to go with them if you permit.
 Father — What is your plan?
 Nihar — We propose to begin with Agra and end with Mussoorie.
 Father — Have you made an estimate of expenses?
 Nihar — Yes, they will not exceed Rs. 800 per head. We shall travel second class on concession tickets and put up at cheap hotels.

(c) Report the following conversations in a summary form. Do not try to report every word of every line :

1. Sudeshna : Jharna, will you be going to Digha for the week-end?
 Jharna : Yes.
 Sudeshna : I'll take you in my car if you like. I'll be going on Friday.
 Jharna : Thanks for the offer, but I can't go on Friday. There's an operation case on Thursday and I must be here to check on the patient.
2. Vidyasagar : Mother, why don't you use the new woollen shawl? Don't you like it?
 Bhagabati Debi : You have certainly bought a nice warm shawl for your mother. But I have many sons and daughters in this village. Many of them haven't got anything for use in winter. How can I use mine?
3. Traveller : Excuse me, is this the way to the railway station?
 Local man : Yes, it is. Walk straight ahead for about two minutes and then turn right at the second crossing. You'll get there in a minute. It's on the right.

4. "No, I won't do it," said William. He was afraid of killing his little son. But little Walter was a brave boy. He wanted to save his father from the cruel Gessler. So he said, "I'm not afraid, father. I know you can shoot the apple." then he put the apple on his head and stood under the tree. "Now, shoot, father," he said, "I won't move." — Imagine you are Walter. Report this to a friend of yours.

CHAPTER XXXIII

PHRASES

406 Phrases are of six kinds :

(1) A Noun Phrase does the work of a Noun :

To ride well requires practice. His going home is uncertain. He likes to play tennis. He enjoys walking by the river-side.

(2) An Adjective Phrase does the work of an Adjective :

He gave me a chain of gold (= a gold chain). He is without fear (= fearless). It is the deed of a hero (= a heroic deed). I am free from blame (= blameless). He is a man of fame (= a famous man). This is a cycle made in England (= an English cycle). The house built long ago (= the old house) fell down.

The Adjective phrases in the above examples stand for the Adjectives given within brackets. But not all Adjective phrases can be replaced by Adjectives. For examples :

The man in the street knows it. The tree in front of my house has been cut down. A boy desirous of winning the prize must work hard.

Note

The same phrase may be Noun or Adjectival according to use. Thus, walking by the river-side is Noun in "He enjoys walking by the river-side", but Adjectival in "The boy walking by the river-side is my brother."

(3) An Adverbial phrase does the work of an Adverb :

He was at the place (= there). He worked with care (= carefully.) He came at a great speed (= quickly). I want it at this moment (= now.) You can get it in all places (= everywhere). He will come before very long or at an early date (= soon). He fell down on this spot or at this place (= here).

But not all Adverbial Phrases can be replaced by Adverbs :

He came to see me. We fell from the tree. Come into the garden. This must be done at any price. He lives on a small income.

Note

The same phrase may be Adjectival or Adverbial according to use. Thus, in "He is in the room", the phrase is Adverbial; but in "The men in the room rushed out", it is Adjectival.

(4) A Prepositional Phrase does the work of a Preposition :

He stood in front of me. She is at the point of death. He persevered in the teeth of all opposition. He could not come on account of illness.

Note

Note that the whole phrase in front of in the 'first sentence' is adverbial, qualifying stood; but in front of is prepositional.

(5) A Conjunctive Phrase does the work of a Conjunction :

Come as soon as you can. No sooner had he left the place than the fire broke out. Not only he but his brother also were present.

(6) An Interjunctive Phrase does the work of an Interjection :

What a pity! By Jove! Good heavens!

Note

The term verbal phrase is used by some for group verbs. He laughs at me. He looks down upon me. But as there is a finite verb in it, the term phrase cannot be properly applied.

E EXERCISE 52

(a) Pick out the Noun Phrases in the following :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. To err is human ; to forgive, divine. | 8. He was accused of having committed a theft. |
| 2. I like to read. | 9. Children are fond of playing games. |
| 3. He enjoys playing football. | 10. Walking in the sun is sometimes injurious to health. |
| 4. I want to do the work. | 11. I promise to go there. |
| 5. Running so fast is very creditable. | 12. He loves walking alone by the sea-side. |
| 6. To do that was risky. | |
| 7. He tried to oppose me. | |

(b) Pick out the Adjective Phrases in the following :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. A man of sense can never do so. | 6. Careless of dangers, he proceeded on his way. |
| 2. He gave me a cow of white colour. | 7. He lived in a house built of stone. |
| 3. The book on the table is mine. | 8. A friend in need is a friend indeed. |
| 4. It is a chain of gold. | 9. He is a boy devoid of common sense. |
| 5. A boy, neglectful of his duties, can never shine in life. | 10. This is a watch made in Switzerland. |
| | 11. I want the advice of a medical man. |

প্রতিদিনের Current Affairs, বিভিন্ন Update, গুরুত্বপূর্ণ খবর, চাকরির খবর, Motivational Quotes...

Join Now

Click Here

Telegram

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস

প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

WhatsApp

Join Now

Click Here

বিভিন্ন প্রতিযোগিতামূলক পরীক্ষার জন্য গুরুত্বপূর্ণ Free Study Materials, PDF ইত্যাদি দিয়ে থাকি...

11. He lived a life of purity and simplicity.
 12. The news of his death reached there at last.
 13. What does the boy in the street shout about ?
14. They did the work in a careless manner.
 15. He was absent on account of his son's illness.
 16. He left the room in a fit of anger.

CHAPTER XXXIV

CLAUSES

(407)

As he is ill, he cannot come.
This is the boy who did it.

In the first sentence, each of the parts "As he is ill" and "he cannot come" is a complete sentence, having a subject and a predicate of its own. Each of these two small sentences again forms part of the big sentence "As he is ill, he cannot come."

Similarly, in the second sentence the two small sentences "who did it" and "This is the boy" are parts of the big sentence "This is the boy who did it".

Such small sentences which form part of a big sentence are called Clauses.

A Clause is a group of words having a subject and a predicate of its own, but forming part of a bigger sentence.

This means that : A Clause is a sentence forming part of a bigger sentence.

In the above examples, "As he is ill", "he cannot come", "This is the boy", "who did it" are all clauses.

(408) Kinds of Clauses :

Clauses are of three kinds :

- (A) Principal Clause
- (B) Subordinate or Dependent Clause
- (C) Co-ordinate Clause

(409) Principal and Subordinate (Dependent) Clause :

As he is ill, he cannot come.
This is the boy who did it.

In the first sentence, the clause "he cannot come" can stand alone and makes a complete sense by itself. But the clause "As he is ill" cannot stand by itself as a sentence without depending on the clause "he cannot come".

Similarly, in the second sentence the clause "who did it" has to depend on the clause "This is the boy" to convey the complete meaning.

A clause that is dependent on another clause is called a Subordinate or Dependent Clause.

The clause which stands by itself and on which the Subordinate Clause depends is called the Principal Clause.

In the examples above, “he cannot come” and “This is the boy” are Principal Clauses. “As he is ill” and “who did it” are Subordinate or Dependent Clauses. Note the following examples :

Sentence	Principal Clause	Subordinate Clause
I know where he is.	I know	where he is.
The book that you gave me is lost.	The book is lost	that you gave me.
If you come you can meet him.	you can meet him	If you come.

Remember, finite verb is the main indication of a clause. Every clause must have a finite verb and the number of finite verbs in a sentence indicates the number of clauses. Finite Verb-ই clause-এর মূল জিনিস। প্রত্যেক clause-এর একটি finite verb থাকিতে হইবে, এবং একটি sentence-এ যতটি finite verb ততটি clauses থাকে।

(410) Co-ordinate Clause :

He went home and then left for Delhi.
He is poor but will help you.

In the first sentence, either of the two clauses “He went home” and “then (he) left for Delhi” can stand by itself as a complete sentence without depending on the other. They are of equal rank and are connected by the Co-ordinating Conjunction and.

In the second sentence, the clauses “He is poor” and “he will help you” do not depend on each other to make a complete sense. They are of equal rank and connected by the Co-ordinating Conjunction but.

Such clauses are called Co-ordinate Clauses.

A Co-ordinate Clause is of the same rank as another and is connected by a Co-ordinating Conjunction with the latter.

Thus, a clause may be co-ordinate with a Main clause, or with a Subordinate clause.

Co-ordinating clauses are connected with each other by co-ordinating conjunctions such as and, but, yet, or, not only—but also, either—or, neither—nor, therefore, etc.

Note the following examples :

He left the place, but I remained there.	Either you must come or I shall go.
He is lame and cannot go there alone.	I cannot come for I am ill.
	Read or you will fail.

(411) Subordinate Clauses are of three kinds :

- A. The Noun Clause does the work of a noun.
- B. The Adjective Clause does the work of an adjective.
- C. The Adverbial Clause does the work of an adverb.

A. The Noun Clause or Nominal Clause

(412) The Noun Clause does the work of a noun and it is usually introduced by the conjunction that, expressed or understood, or by an interrogative pronoun or an interrogative adverb :

I know that he is ill. They say (that) he is dead. That he is ill is known to all. I know what he wants. I shall enquire who did it. I asked him if (or whether) he was there. I know why he did it.

(413) The Noun Clause may be :

(a) The subject of a verb :

That he is ill is known to all.
When he will come is uncertain.

(b) The object of a verb :

I know when he will come.
He said that he would go.

(c) The object of a preposition :

I know nothing of what he will do.
It depends on how he behaves.

(d) The complement to a verb :

That is what we expected.
The truth is, he is ill.

(e) In apposition to a noun or it :

There is a rumour that he is dead.
It is true that he has come.

E EXERCISE 53

(a) Pick out the Noun Clauses from the following and parse them :—

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. I know that you are right. | 9. That he is intelligent is admitted by all. |
| 2. I heard what he had said. | 10. It is said that he will resign. |
| 3. When he will go is not known. | 11. I know nothing about what he will do. |
| 4. It is clear that he did it. | 12. The girl asked me if I had seen her father. |
| 5. I know where he lives and what he does. | 13. They promised that they would try. |
| 6. There is a rumour that he will return soon. | 14. I asked him if he knew when the examination would commence. |
| 7. Why he said so is a mystery. | 15. It is known that he is a rogue. |
| 8. Can you say when he will come? | |

(b) Substitute Nouns or Phrases for the Noun Clauses :—

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1. I know where he was born. | 6. I wish that you would succeed. |
| 2. We have heard that he is ill. | 7. I doubt if he can do it. |
| 3. The report that he is dead is false. | 8. When he will go is uncertain. |
| 4. Everything depends on how he behaves. | 9. I resent that you are so rough. |
| 5. I noticed that you were absent. | 10. The jury declared that the prison was innocent. |

Model :—

I know why he was angry — I know the reason of his being angry.

He admitted that he had seen me — He admitted having seen me.

We have heard that he has died — We have heard the report of his death. Or, We have heard of his death.

(c) Substitute Noun Clauses for the italicised portions :—

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. I admit my fault . | 8. You must listen to my speech . |
| 2. This is his birth-place . | 9. I hope to succeed . |
| 3. The time of his arrival is not known. | 10. I know him to be guilty . |
| 4. We have heard of his success . | 11. He told me the manner of his escape . |
| 5. There is no truth in your statement . | 12. There is no truth in the report of his death . |
| 6. The teacher noted your absence . | 13. I assure you of my help . |
| 7. I wish you long life . | |

Model :—

I have heard of his failure — I have heard that he has failed.

I do not believe his statement — I do not believe what he says.

B. The Adjective Clause

(414) Adjective Clause does the work of an adjective in a sentence qualifying a noun or a pronoun.

I know the boy who did it.
 This is the place where he was born.
 I have lost the book (which) you gave me.
 This is the reason why he failed.

In the above sentences, the clauses in italics qualify the words “boy”, “place”, “book” and “reason” as Adjectives. Hence these are all Adjective Clauses.

(415) The Adjective Clause is introduced by—

- (a) Relative Pronouns — who, which, that, as.
- (b) Relative Adverbs — when, where, how, why, whence, as.

This is the boy who did it. I shall give a prize to one that will be able to complete the work. I know the time when he comes. He lives at the place where I lived. This is the reason why he failed.

(416) But the Relative Pronoun is often omitted, when, if retained, it would have been in the objective case :

That is the man (whom) I saw. The book (which) he bought has been lost. I have forgotten the story (that) he told me.

Note

(a) It will be noted that who, which, why, when, where, etc., introduce both Noun and Adjective Clauses. But there can be no confusion if one bears in mind that the clause introduced by them is noun only when they are interrogative (pronouns or adverbs) introducing dependent questions, and adjective only when they are relative (pronouns or adverbs), i.e., when they qualify antecedents :

Noun Clauses	Adjective Clauses
Tell me who did it .	I know the boy who did it .
Tell me when he will come .	Tell me the time when he will come .
I know why he said so .	I know the reason why he said so .
I know how he did it .	Tell me the way how he did it .

(b) For Clauses introduced by “what” see Art. 449.

(417) Adjective Clauses are sometimes introduced by the relative pronoun but : There is none but wishes (= who does not wish) to be happy.

(418) Clauses introduced by who, which, when, where, etc. are subordinate adjectival only when the words are used in a restrictive sense, restricting and defining the antecedents. But when the words are used in a continuative sense to give further details, the clauses they introduce are co-ordinate.

Restrictive and hence, subordinate Adjectival	{	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The book which I bought is lost. 2. I know the boys who are present. 3. I know the place where he lives.
Continuative and hence, Co-ordinate	{	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. My horse, which (= and it) is in the stable, is an Arab. 2. I saw him yesterday, when (= and then) he gave the news. 3. I went to your father, who (= and he) promised to help me.

Note

(a) A restrictive clause may be introduced by that ; but a continuative clause is never introduced by it.

(b) As stated in Art. 129 (b) Note (a), a Relative pronoun or Adverb, when used in a continuative sense, generally takes a comma before it. But the presence of commas is not the decisive mark of a Relative Pronoun or Adverb being used in a continuative sense. Restrictive clauses also may have commas before and after them :—

(i) William, who did not much like the journey, said it was too deep for them to venture on. — A.B.C. of Eng. Usage, p. 47.

(ii) Among the men, who came here today, not one turned out to be honest. Man has the power of making instruments, which bring into view stars, whose light has taken a thousand years to reach the earth. — Nesfield.

(iii) Whilst the authors of all these evils were idly and stupidly gazing on the menacing meteor, which blackened all their horizon, it suddenly burst — Oxford Course in English Composition, p.10.

In the above examples the clauses in italics are treated as (subordinate) adjectival by the authorities concerned.

E EXERCISE 54

(a) Pick out the Adjective Clauses and parse them :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. The book that you gave me is lost. | 7. I want such a pen as will write well. |
| 2. I know the day when he will come. | 8. This is the same book as that. |
| 3. Do not mention the time when you saw me. | 9. I have lost the watch I bought the other day. |
| 4. The girls you saw are my sisters. | 10. Only such boys are wanted as can speak fluently. |
| 5. This is the house I bought. | 11. This is the story you told me. |
| 6. He is the best boy that I have ever seen. | |

(b) Substitute Adjective or Adjective Phrases for Adjective Clauses :—

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1. I know the place where he was born. | 6. A servant who is faithful always serves his master. |
| 2. Everybody loves a boy who speaks the truth. | 7. The boys that will succeed will get prizes. |
| 3. I know the time when he will arrive. | 8. Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown. |
| 4. The tree that stood in front of my house has been blown down. | 9. The reason why he failed is known. |
| 5. I want a pen that is made in India. | |

(c) Substitute Adjective Clauses for Adjectives or Adjective Phrases :—

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1. The boy sitting by me is my brother. | 6. I have been to his place of residence. |
| 2. Only a boy of perseverance will succeed. | 7. The men in the room rushed out. |
| 3. Water to drink should be pure. | 8. He informed us of the date of his arrival. |
| 4. No bareheaded person was allowed to enter. | 9. I know the path leading to his house. |
| 5. Give me a pair of cloths made in India. | 10. They accepted the proposal put forward. |
| | 11. He loves his native village. |

(d) State whether the clauses introduced by "who", "which", "when", "where" in the following sentences are restrictive or continuative :—

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. I have seen the boy who stood first in the examination. | 8. The girl lived in Dacca, where she was a student. |
| 2. My brother, who has seen you, will pardon you. | 9. The girl went to the village where she had been a student. |
| 3. The place where he was born has been washed away by the Padma. | 10. The girl lives at her native village where she is a student. |
| 4. This is Calcutta where he was born. | 11. I went to the boy, who promised to help me. |
| 5. He failed, which is a mystery. | 12. I went to the boy who had promised to help me. |
| 6. I bought the horse which had won the race. | 13. I know your brother who is a pleader. |
| 7. I have bought a horse which will win the race. | |

C. The Adverbial Clause

(419) Adverbial Clause does the work of an adverb in a sentence modifying a verb, adjective or another adverb. Adverbial Clauses can be introduced by any of the subordinating conjunctions excepting that used in Apposition :

(1) Adverbial Clauses of Time indicate time and are introduced by when, while, after, before, till, until, since, etc.

Wait until I come. He came when I was there. Strike while the iron is hot. He came after I had left.

(2) Adverbial Clauses of Place indicate place and are introduced by where, whence, wherever, etc.

Stay where you are. Return whence you come.

(3) Adverbial Clauses of Reason or Cause indicate reason or cause and are introduced by because, as, since, that, etc.

He cannot come because he is ill. As he is ill, he cannot come. Since you are ill, you need not come. I am sorry that you said this.

Note

The Subordinate clauses in sentences like I am sure you will succeed; He is satisfied that you are right; Be careful what you say may also be treated as Noun clauses with prepositions understood before them: I am sure "of" that you will etc. He is satisfied "of" that you etc. Be careful "of" what etc.

(4) Adverbial Clauses of Purpose indicate a purpose and are introduced by that, in order that, so that, lest, etc.

We read that we may learn. He works here in order that he may succeed. Walk slowly lest you should fall.

Note

For in order that, so that, lest, see Art: 292 (c) Note.

(5) Adverbial Clauses of Result indicate result and are introduced by that, so that, such that :

What have I done that you desert me? I am so tired that I cannot walk. He is such a fool that I cannot depend on him.

The conjunction that is sometimes understood.

He is so weak he cannot walk. You were so late I could not wait.

(6) Adverbial Clauses of Manner indicate manner and are introduced by as :
Travel as you like. It happened as I expected.

(7) Adverbial Clauses of Condition or Supposition indicate condition or supposition and are introduced by if, unless, in case, whether, on condition, provided (that), supposing that, etc .:

If I succeed I shall help you. I shall not go unless you come. I may come in case I have time. He will come provided he gets leave. I shall try, whether I succeed or not (succeed).

Sometimes, the introductory conjunction is omitted :

Had I been (= if I had been) rich, I would have helped you.

Were I (= if I were) present, I would have opposed you.

(8) Adverbial Clauses of Concession are introduced by though, although, even if, even, etc.

Though he is poor, he is honest. Even if I fail, I shall not give up hope. Although they were present, they said nothing.

Sometimes adverbial clauses of concession are introduced by pronouns or adverbs combined with ever, viz., — Whoever, whatever, whichever, however :

However strong you may be, I am not afraid of you. Whatever you may say, I do not believe you. Whoever he may be, he cannot be allowed.

(9) Adverbial Clauses of Comparison or Degree are introduced by so, as, such, as, as, as, than, the :

He is not so tall as his brother. He is as wise as you. She is taller than you. The more the merrier.

(420) The Relatives "who" and "which" make adverbial clauses when they signify cause or purpose ; See also Art. 129 (c).

Cause : My brother who (= because he) is ill cannot come. The picture which (= because it) was spoiled, has been thrown away.

Purpose : I shall send my brother who will (= that he may) do the work.

I have bought a dog which (= in order that it) would guard my house at night.

E EXERCISE 55

(a) Pick out the Adverbial Clauses and parse them :—

1. Wait until I return.
2. Stay where you are.
3. As he is ill, he cannot come.
4. He worked hard that he might win the prize.
5. If you sit idle, you cannot prosper.
6. I shall go whatever may happen.
7. Do as I tell you.
8. He spoke so loud that he could be heard by everybody.
9. Though he is weak, he will try.
10. I shall help him, whether you like it or not.
11. However rich you may be, I am not afraid of you.
12. I am grieved that you do this.
13. You cannot succeed until you give up your bad habit.
14. He came when we were playing.
15. Come as soon as you can.

(b) Substitute Adverbs or Adverbial Phrases for the Adverbial Clauses :—

1. He came here that he might see me.
2. I went there when it was evening.
3. He came after I had left.
4. He was angry with me because I had disobeyed his orders.
5. He walked slowly lest he should fall.
6. As he is ill, he cannot go to school.
7. He punished me that I might be warned for the future.
8. When I was a child, I often thought so.

(c) Substitute Adverbial Clauses for the Adverbial Phrases :—

1. He cannot come on account of his mother's illness.
2. He did not speak for fear of displeasing you.
3. He succeeded by dint of perseverance.
4. He is too weak to walk.
5. I returned home in the evening.
6. He acted according to instructions.
7. He tried with all his might.
8. He will arrive after your departure.
9. He was frightened to see the animal.
10. On his return he was given a rich reward.
11. We shall start after dinner.
12. I cannot do it without your help.
13. In spite of his opposition, I carried the point.

(421) Note that the nature of a clause depends upon the work done by it, and not upon its wording. The same clause may be a Noun clause, or Adjective Clause, or an Adverbial Clause, in different sentences, as in the examples given below :—

1. I know where he lives — Noun clause, object of know.
2. I know the place where he lives — Adj. clause, qualifying place.
3. I shall go where he lives — Adverbial clause, qualifying shall go.

E EXERCISE 56

(a) Distinguish between a Phrase and a Clause.

(b) Pick out the Phrases and Clauses from the following and state to which classes they belong :—

1. I hear that my father is ill.
2. He could not pass on account of illness.
3. The teacher was displeased with the boy who could not say his lessons.
4. The other day, when I was on my way to the station, I met a lame man lying on the road.
5. There is a tree in front of my house.
6. He is so much pleased that he has promised a donation.
7. In course of conversation he told me that he knew me to be a good man.
8. That was exactly what was expected.
9. Where he lives is not known.
10. I know what he wants.
11. Stay where you are if you would escape danger.
12. I have not heard from him since he left the place.
13. He did as he was asked to do.

(c) Substitute a clause for italicised portion in each of the following sentences and state to what class it belongs :—

1. I shall not move out till sun-set.
2. He has heard of your success.
3. I am surprised at your failure.
4. The tree in front of the house has been blown down.
5. I am hopeful of his recovery.
6. He levelled his gun at the birds flying overhead.
7. Everybody loves a dutiful boy.
8. His failure took us by surprise.
9. I believe his statement.
10. You cannot win the reward without my help.
11. This is my birth-place.
12. His innocence was clearly proved.
13. He left at day-break.
14. He returned to his native place.
15. But for your help I would have been ruined.
16. I met him on my way to school.
17. Tired by long walk, he rested under a tree.
18. The first boy will get a prize.
19. Water to drink must be pure.
20. I have heard about his arrival.

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটিস
প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য
Mijan's Diary / @DiaryofMijan

SENTENCES : SIMPLE, COMPLEX, COMPOUND

(422) Sentences are divided into three classes according to their structure :
Simple, Complex, Compound.

(423) A Simple sentence is one that contains only one subject and one finite verb, expressed or understood. It may have qualifying words, objects, etc. for the Subject and the Verb also. But the main thing is that it has only one subject and one finite verb.

Simple sentence—এ মাত্র একটি subject ও একটি finite verb থাকে। অবশ্য subject এবং verb-এর qualifying words, objects ইত্যাদি থাকিতে পারে। কিন্তু মূল জিনিস finite verb মাত্র একটি ও subject মাত্র একটি।

Note the subject words and the verbs given in italics in the following sentences :

I came.

I came home.

I came home yesterday.

The good boy obeys his parents.

Barking dogs seldom bite.

See also Art. 428.

(424) A Complex sentence is one that contains one Principal clause with one or more Subordinate clauses. The number of clauses will be the same as the number of finite verbs in the sentence.

Complex Sentence—এ মাত্র একটি Principal clause ও এক বা একাধিক Subordinate clauses থাকে। মনে রাখিও যতটি finite verbs ততটি clauses.

In the following examples, the clauses in italics are Principal :

I know when he will come.

This is the place where he was born.

As you are rich, you must help those who are poor.

The first sentence has only two finite verbs (know, will come) ; so it has two clauses :

I know—Principal clause.

when he will come—Subordinate Noun clause, object to “know”.

The Second sentence also has only two finite verbs (is, was born) ; so it has two clauses :

This is the place—Principal clause.

where he was born—Subordinate Adj. Clause, qualifying “place”.

The third sentence has three finite verbs (are, must help, are), so it has three clauses—two Subordinate and one Principal :

As you are rich—Subordinate Adv. clause, qualifying “must help”.

you must help those—Principal clause.

who are poor—Subordinate Adj. clause, qualifying “those”.

Similarly, in the following examples, the clauses in italics are Principal :

This is the boy who helped me. He stayed on until I arrived. Since you are ill, you need not go. Though he is my friend, I cannot support him.

(425) A Compound sentence is one that contains two or more independent clauses with or without any Subordinate clause joined together by co-ordinating conjunctions like and, or, then, but, else, however, therefore, still, yet, for, etc.

Compound sentence—এ একাধিক Principal clause থাকে, Subordinate clause থাকিতে পারে, নাও পারে।

I am weak, but I shall go.

I went there and found that my brother was ill.

The book which you gave me was a good one, but I have lost it.

The first sentence has only two finite verbs (am, shall go); so it has two clauses :

I am weak—Principal clause

I shall go — Principal clause

The second sentence has three finite verbs (went, found, was); so it has three clauses :

I went there—Principal clause

(I) found—Principal that my brother was ill—Subordinate Noun clause, object to “found”.

The third sentence has three finite verbs (gave, was, have lost); so it has three clauses :

The book was a good one—Principal clause.

I have lost it—Principal clause which you gave me—Subordinate Adj. clause, qualifying “book”.

④26 Co-ordinate clauses are also joined by a Relative Pronoun or Adverb, used in a Continuative, and not in a Restrictive sense, i.e., when the relative can be broken up into “and he”. “and it”, “and this”, “and there”, “but he”, etc. See Art. 418.

He helped me, which (= and this) was very kind of him.

I went to Calcutta, where (= and there) I stayed for one month.

I went to the Principal who (= and he) spoke kindly to me.

At last I found him, which (= and this) relieved me of my anxiety.

④27 Contracted sentences— Compound sentences often appear in a contracted or shortened form in order to avoid the needless repetition of the same word :

(a) With two or more predicates to the same subject :

He came and (he) delivered a lecture.

I was pleased but (I) could not do anything.

(b) With two or more subjects to the same predicate :

They as well as you are wrong.

Either he (must go) or his brother must go.

He is poor, but (he is) honest.

④28 (a) When two or more nouns are joined by and, they are not separate subjects to the same verb, but one compound (double or multiple) subject to the plural verb following. Thus, “He and his friend left the place,” “The man and his wife were poor” are simple sentences with “He and his friend” and “The man and his wife” as their compound or double subjects.— *Nesfield, Tipping. E. Smith.*¹

(b) When the subjects joined by and are inseparable, or when two or more nouns, joined by and, denote a single fact, the sentence is not Compound :

He and I are great friends. He and I agreed. Meera and Anjali are walking together. Curry and rice is my favourite dish. The sum and substance of his story is this.

The first sentence cannot be broken up into ‘He is a great friend’ and ‘I am a great friend’, ¹But MEU gives, “You and I would rather see that angel” as an example of a compound sentence.

because neither of these makes any sense. Similarly, the second and third sentences. In the fourth and fifth sentences, the subjects are the collective ideas conveyed by "curry and rice" and 'sum and substance'. 'He and I', 'He and I', 'Meera and Anjali', 'curry and rice', 'sum and substance' are compound subjects, and the sentences are all simple.

(c) 'When two nouns or phrases are connected by the conjunction "or", and the "or" is not used in an alternative sense, they should be regarded as constituting a single subject:—

A tribe or caste is part of a nation.

Here caste is used merely as another name for tribe. — Nesfield.

(429) Whether a sentence is complex or compound is determined by the number of its principal clauses, and not by the number and nature of its subordinate clauses. A complex sentence may have two or more subordinate clauses joined by co-ordinating conjunctions.

The boy who came here yesterday and whom you must have seen is my brother. As he is ill and the doctor has advised him rest, he cannot come to welcome you.

Similarly, a Compound sentence may have any number of subordinate clauses dependent on its principal clauses.

(a) I shall go there when you come, but return as soon as you leave the place. (b) As he is ill, he cannot move out, but we expect that he will come round before the ceremony ends.

Therefore, to determine whether a sentence with co-ordinating conjunctions is complex or compound, we shall see if the co-ordinate clauses are independent or subordinate. If independent, the whole sentence is compound; but if subordinate, the sentence is complex.

Note

(a) Some use the term "Mixed sentence"; but in view of the arguments given above, it is not desirable.

(b) Modern grammarians use the term Double and Multiple for sentences in which the clauses are linked by co-ordinating conjunctions:— Double for a sentence that consists of only two principal co-ordinate clauses; and Multiple for a sentence of more than two principal co-ordinate clauses.

Each of the coordinate clauses of a double or multiple sentence may have one or more subordinate clauses of its own. Thus, "He came and played", and the examples (a) and (b) above are double sentences. The following are examples of multiple sentences:

He came to the town, stayed for a few days and then returned to his village home. When he was ill, he consulted the doctor who had examined him before; but as the latter could not diagnose the disease this time, he went to my brother and sought his help.

E EXERCISE 57

State whether the following sentences are Simple, Complex or Compound; pick out the clauses and show their connection:—

1. I know that he will come.
2. When will you go home to see your brother?
3. Seeing this, he burst into tears.
4. They did not go there, but remained with me all the time.
5. There was a boy in our village who once saved a drowning girl.
6. When he will come is known to everybody.
7. I left the place after he had come.
8. As I am ill, I cannot go there; but I shall do the needful from here.
9. You must work hard; otherwise you will fail.
10. If you go there, you will be rewarded.
11. I do not want you to go there without your father's permission.
12. When I heard that the boy had fallen from the tree, I at once ran to his house and gave him all the help that I could give.

ANALYSIS OF SENTENCES

(430) In grammar, Analysis means the dividing up of a sentence into its various parts according to the work which they do in the sentence. The different parts of a sentence are :

- | | | |
|-----------------|---|--|
| Subject group | { | 1. The Subject |
| | | 2. Adjuncts to the Subject, if any . |
| Predicate group | { | 3. The predicate-verb, generally called the Predicate. |
| | | 4. Object, if any , with qualifying words. |
| | | 5. Complements, if any . |
| | | 6. Adverbial Adjuncts, or Extensions to the Predicate, if any . |

Note

Of these, the first and the third are essential to the sentence, the rest may or may not be present.

(431) The Subject is a word, or a group of words, that denotes the person or thing about whom or which something is said. It must be a noun or a noun-equivalent :

1. A Noun : Birds fly. India is our motherland.
2. A Pronoun : We laugh. They weep.
3. An Adjective : The virtuous are happy.
4. An Infinitive : To err is human.
5. An Infinitive Phrase : To have done that was risky.
6. A Gerund : Swimming is a good exercise.
7. A Verbal Noun : The writing of letters well is not easy.
8. A Phrase : Success at any cost was his aim.
9. A Clause : That you will come is known.
10. A Quotation : "All the world is a stage" occurs in Shakespeare.

(432) Adjuncts to the Subject are Adjectives or equivalents to adjectives. The principal Adjuncts of this class are :

1. An Adjective : A good boy is loved by all.
2. A Participle : Flying clouds are seen in the sky. The defeated team also got a cup.
3. A Participial phrase : The boy playing on the lawn is my brother.
4. A Noun or Gerund used as an Adjective : The street boy is laughing. Drinking water should be pure.
5. A Gerundial Infinitive : Water to drink should be pure.
6. A Noun or a Pronoun in the Possessive case : My brother is ill. His father's watch was stolen.
7. A Noun or an Emphatic Pronoun in apposition : Ramesh, my brother, is ill. He himself did it.
8. A Preposition with an object : A man of principle is liked by all.
9. An Adv. used as an Adj. : The then king did it. The down train is coming.
10. An Adj. Clause : Boys who work hard succeed.

Note

Articles are really attributes, and hence Adjuncts ; but they are treated by some as parts of the subject-word.

E EXERCISE 58

Pick out the Subjects and Adjuncts to Subjects :—

1. A good boy minds his lessons.
2. The letter-box is red.
3. A young man of strong character is required for the post.
4. Seeing me there, he dared not open his mouth.
5. A few flying birds, about ten in number, were shot down.
6. The report of his death is not true.
7. Having finished his work, he left for home.
8. The boy standing there is my brother.
9. The sweet days of our boyhood are gone for ever.
10. The city of Calcutta was formerly the capital of India.
11. The teacher, coming to know of his conduct, ordered him out.

(433) Adverbial Adjuncts are Adverbs or equivalents to adverbs. The principal kinds of Adverbial Adjuncts are :—

- (a) An Adverb — He speaks well. He acted wisely.
- (b) An Adjective used as an adverb — He died happy.
- (c) An Adverbial phrase — They walked side by side.
- (d) A Participle — He went away disappointed (or, weeping).
- (e) A Gerundial Infinitive — He came to see me.
- (f) An Adverbial object — He walked all day (or, five miles).
- (g) A Preposition with an object — We arrived in time.
- (h) An Absolute phrase — The sun having set, we left the place.
- (i) An Adverbial clause — He went away after I had left.

Note

Adverbial adjuncts are often confounded with complements. It will be well to remember that words, phrases or clauses which show how, when, why or where an action is performed, are adverbial adjuncts.

E EXERCISE 59

Pick out the Adverbial Adjuncts :—

1. He played very well.
2. She came to see my brother.
3. It is three feet high.
4. She said this to me.
5. The brothers walked three miles together.
6. He broke off in the middle of his speech.
7. This was said by him to my brother.
8. He worked hard to pass the examination.
9. The task was finished by him quickly.
10. My father having died, I had to take charge of the family.
11. I have come after a long time to see my brother.
12. I am angry with you for having opposed me.
13. He was punished for disobedience.
14. Dinner over, they left the place.
15. I gave a pen to him.

(434) (a) The Object must be a noun or a noun-equivalent :

1. A Noun — I like the boy.
2. A Pronoun — I like him. We did it.
3. An Adj. — Everybody loves the good.
4. An Infinitive — He likes to swim.
5. A Gerund — He likes swimming.
6. A Phrase — I know how to do it.
7. A Clause — I know that he did it.
8. A Quotation — He said, "Do it at once".

(b) The Object may have the same kinds of adjuncts as the subject.

(435) The Complement of the predicate may be :

- | | | |
|-----------------|---|--|
| (a) Adjective | { | We are ready (Subjective). |
| | { | We made him happy (Objective). |
| (b) Participle | { | It looks charming (Subjective). |
| | { | I found him tired (Objective). |
| (c) Noun | { | He was appointed chairman (Subjective). |
| | { | He called me a traitor (Objective). |
| (d) Possessive | { | The book is mine , not Ram's (Subjective). |
| | { | He made my cause his own (Objective). |
| (e) Infinitive | { | The water seems to boil (Subjective). |
| | { | I heard him say this (Objective). |
| (f) Noun Clause | { | The report is that he is ill (Subjective). |
| | { | We make ourselves what we are (Objective). |

E

EXERCISE 60

Pick out the Objects, Adjuncts to Objects and Complements :—

1. I found him dead.
2. He gave me his own book.
3. He seems to be happy.
4. The sun looks small from a distance.
5. I use a pen made in India.
6. This is a charming scenery.
7. He appears to be angry.
8. I want you to do this.
9. He ordered me to go.
10. He hit the dog on the street.
11. I consider him a fool.
12. They made him Secretary of the club.
13. He called me a liar.
14. I was called a liar.
15. The truth is this.
16. This house is his.
17. We found him guilty of the offence.
18. The story is this.
19. I heard him say that he wished to succeed in life.
20. He was appointed Headmaster of the school.

ANALYSIS (continued)

Let us now proceed to the practical Analysis of different kinds of sentences.

(436) In analysing a Simple Sentence, proceed as follows :

1. Find out the Finite Verb, and set it down as the Predicate verb.
2. Find out the Subject to this verb, and set it down as the Subj.
3. Put down the Adjuncts of the Subject, if any.
4. If the Predicate-verb is transitive, put down the Object or Objects with their qualifying words.
5. Put down the Complements, if any.
6. Put down the Adverbial Adjuncts, if any.

Note

(a) "Not", being an adv. of negation is always placed in the Extension column—Harding.

(b) The analysis of a sentence may be arranged in two ways—in a tabular form, and in the ordinary running form. The tabular form of Analysis is shown in the following pages, while the running form is shown in the Analysis of the examples in Arts. 445–450.

Examples:— (See page 269)

1. Having worked his way through the Mission School, the young Parsee made up his mind at the age of fifteen to go to Bombay.
2. These two fierce attacks made at the same time from their front and on their right quite broke up the Mahratta army.
3. In the jungles near Tellicherry, on the south-east coast of India, there is a kind of large monkey, often tamed by the natives.
4. About 327 years before Christ, Alexander the Great, King of Macedon, invaded India, having conquered on the way all the countries between Greece and India.
5. The Judge, accepting the verdict of the jury, found the prisoner guilty.
6. The other day my younger brother saw two men fighting with each other.

E EXERCISE 61

Analyse the following Simple Sentences :—

1. On hearing of my misfortune, all my friends ran to my help.
2. His new friend gave him the other day two good books.
3. Long ago, there lived in India a king named Asoke the Great, one of the greatest kings of all times.
4. Emperor Nasiruddin was an ideal ruler, never spending a single farthing from the Royal Treasury for his personal needs.
5. Having finished our work, we all left for our respective houses, happy and contented.
6. The other day the monitor of our class took a boy to task for disorderly conduct in the absence of the teacher.
7. Since my departure from Calcutta, I have been trying to the best of my power spread education among the simple village people.
8. Within a short time after the death of Muhammad, the religion founded by him spread to a considerable portion of the world.
9. An intelligent boy, the son of a very poor man, badly needs your help to be able to continue his studies.
10. Finding me absent, the servant of my neighbour, a lad of thirteen, entered my bed-room for the purpose of stealing my watch there.
11. Disappointed of the prize, the boy began to weep bitterly till the return of his father.
12. The other day, I met here a lame man, an old Kabuli with a bowl in his hand.

	Subject Proper	Adjuncts to the subject	Finite Verb	Complement	Adverbial Adjuncts	Object with qualifying words
1	Parsee	(1) the (2) young (3) Having School	made up	(1) at the age of fifteen (2) to go to Bombay	his mind
2	Attacks	(1) these (2) two (3) fierce (4) made at right	broke up	quite	the Mahratta army
3	Kind	(1) a (2) of large monkey, often tamed by the natives	is	(1) in the jungles near Tellicherry (2) on the India (3) there
4	Alexander	(1) the Great (2) King of Macedon (3) having India	invaded	About 327 years before Christ	India
5	Judge	(1) the (2) accepting jury	found	guilty	the prisoner
6	Brother	my younger	saw	fighting with each other	the other day	two men

13. The Headmaster expects his boys to be proud of their school.
14. Tired by long waiting, he came out, in utter disregard of my advice, to the riverside for news about the party.
15. After my recent failure, I dare not do anything without again consulting my parents and teachers.
16. His sister's husband being now dead, she wished him to leave college and assist her in managing the farm.
17. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy.
18. Being tired by a long walk, the traveller, a young man, sat under a tree.
19. In the village there lives an old man, Charu Babu by name, respected by everybody for his wisdom.
20. Charmed by the boy's honesty and courage, the Headmaster of the school made him captain of his class.

437 In analysing a Complex Sentence, proceed as follows :

(1) Divide the whole sentence into as many clauses as there are finite verbs, expressed or understood.

(2) Find out which of these clauses contains the principal assertion. Set it down as the principal clause, and the rest as subordinate clauses.

(3) Classify these clauses according to the function they discharge, i.e., state whether a clause is a noun clause or an adjective clause or an adverbial clause.

(4) Show the relation of the subordinate clauses to the principal clause and to one another.

(5) Analyse the principal clause and the subordinate clauses separately if full analysis is required ; otherwise, mere clause analysis will do.

Note

(a) Students will be able to easily determine the nature of a clause if they carefully remember the different words introducing different kinds of clauses, as stated in Arts. 412, 414-420 above.

(b) For Vocatives, Interjections, Parenthetical expressions, Quoted speeches, etc.— See Chapter XXXVIII.

(c) The connectives belong to the clauses they introduce.

(d) Prepositions governing a noun clause belong to the main clause ; but those governing an adjective clause belong to the subordinate one.

Examples (See page 271)

1. When I was a student, I was one day taken to task by the Principal of my college for having played on behalf of an outside club, though he had ordered us not to do so.

2. Having been informed that my brother who had gone to Delhi to attend the Legislative Assembly was lying seriously ill of fever there, I applied for one week's leave of absence in order that I might go to him to arrange for proper treatment.

E EXERCISE 62

Analyse the following Complex Sentences :—

1. I know that he was absent at that time.
2. There is no knowing when he will come.
3. Tell me where he lives.
4. Walking by the riverside, I came upon a man who had just come.
5. If you would prosper in life, never neglect anything.
6. It is a misfortune that you could not do anything to help him when he was in trouble.
7. Had I been present there when he was delivering his speech, I would have contradicted him with arguments which he could not meet.

Sentence or Clause	Kind of Clause	Connective	SUBJECT		PREDICATE
			Subject proper	Adj. to the Subject	Predicate Verb	Object with qualifying words	Adv. Adj.	Complement
1. (a) I was one day ... club (b) When I was a student (c) though he... do so	Principal Sub. Adv. Clause, qualifying was taken in (a) Sub. Adv. Clause, qualifying played in (a)	when though	I I he		was taken was had ordered		one day, by the ... club when not to do so	to task a student
2. (a) Having been informed, I applied absence (b) that my brother was lying ... there (c) who had..... Assembly (d) in order that treatment	Principal Sub. Noun clause obj. to prep. of understood, or Retained obj. to having been informed in (a) Sub. Adj. Clause, qualifying brother in (b) Sub. Adv. Clause, qualifying applied in (a)	that who in order that	I brother who I	having been informed my	applied was lying had gone might go		for one absence seriously ill of fever there to Delhi.. .. Assembly to him... .. treatment

8. You can never expect that, because you are talented, others will willingly make way for you in order that you may go ahead of them.
9. As I have never seen you previously, I cannot entrust you with such an important task unless I am permitted by my superior officer.
10. The other day, when I went to your father, he asked me if I knew anything of the boy that had applied to him for the post.
11. If you like I may point out to you the place where the accident occurred by which he lost his right eye.
12. Whatever you may say, I can never give you the thing you want till you assure me that you will not misuse it.
13. Though there is no dearth of candidates, I cannot say with certainty if any of them will be able to do all that you want.
14. Since you are determined to go, I advise you to see that you may not bring discredit upon the family to which you belong.
15. When the people were going to market, they found the Giant playing with the children in the most beautiful garden they had ever seen.
16. As I was absent at the time the incident took place, I had to depend for information about it on my friend who had seen everything with his own eyes from his house that stood close by.
17. History says that Socrates, when he was given the cup of hemlock, continued to talk to the friends who were standing around him as he drank it.
18. The man who does not see that the good of every living creature is his own good, is a fool.
19. If the rifle had not been a light one it would not have been possible for me to have moved it in the way it was imperative I should move it.
20. The two men, who were following a few yards behind me, came to a halt when they saw me stop.
21. Hearing that my friend had returned from Darjeeling where he had gone for a change of climate, I went to his house to see how he was.
22. However rich you may be, you can never be truly happy unless you win the love and respect of those with whom you live.
23. Though I was rather unwell, I had to do the work myself, because it was so secret a matter that it could not be left to others.
24. This is the place where I saw the man who went to this house.
25. As I am ill I cannot attend the meeting that will be held today in the Town Hall.
26. My brother whom you saw when you were there, was so ill that he could not sit for the examination.
27. The best thing for you will be to go to the place where you met the man who was inciting the people.
28. This is the place where I saw the man who had told me about the incident you speak of.
29. If you idle away your time, you will never be able to shine in life however intelligent you may be.
30. I know that when he was here he would often help the poor as much as he could.

(438) In analysing a Compound Sentence, proceed as follows :

(a) Break up the sentence into as many clauses as there are finite verbs, expressed or understood.

- (b) Find out the principal co-ordinate clauses.
 (c) Find out the subordinate clauses, if any, and show their relation.
 (d) Analyse each of the clauses separately if full analysis is required ; otherwise mere clause analysis will do.

EXAMPLES (See Page 274)

1. Though I was ill, I tried my best ; but, as ill luck would have it, all my exertion ended in smoke.
2. Long ago, when I was yet a student, I once went to Darjeeling, where I was charmed by the beautiful mountain scenery that greeted me on all sides.

E EXERCISE 63

Analyse the following Compound Sentences :

1. He came to see me when I was in trouble ; but when I asked him for pecuniary help, he pleaded inability.
2. On my return from school, I went to my mother to ask for food ; but I found that she was lying ill of fever and my younger sister was nursing her.
3. I am sorry that you have disobeyed my orders ; however, as this is your first offence, I let you off this time with a simple warning, and hope you will not give me any trouble in future.
4. We should all love India, where we were born and which is one of the oldest countries in the world, and should never do anything that may bring discredit upon her in any way.
5. Just as the destruction was completed Newton opened the chamber door, and perceived that the labours of twenty years were reduced to a heap of ashes.
6. I was in the same school with the person you speak of ; but as he was senior to me by a few years we did not mix much with each other.
7. As soon as he received my letter, he closed his shop and hastened to the thana to request the Police Sub-Inspector to come to my rescue, which the latter did.
8. After the seven years were over the Gaint had said all he had to say, for his conversation was limited, and he determined to return to his own castle.
9. Anxious to hear of his illness, I went to his house, but was relieved to see that he was much better.
10. Take him to your house, give him food and then send him to a hospital so that he may recover quickly.
11. I know you helped him, yet I am not angry with you, for he is your friend.
12. As there was a traffic jam on the way, I could not catch the train yesterday, so I returned home and shall leave by today's mail train.
13. The Giant was very kind to all the children, yet he longed for his first little friend, and often spoke of him.
14. The other children, when they saw the Ginat was not wicked any longer, came running back, and with them came the spring.
15. I could not do the work, but I hope you will not mind this.
16. Ram as well as Jadu was there when I was in trouble, but neither of them did anything to help me.

Note

It is not necessary that the principal clauses should be shown first and the subordinate clauses afterwards. The Clauses may be shown in the order of the original passage (vide examples in A.B.C. of Eng. Usage p. 47)

Sentence or Clause	Kind of Sentence or Clause	Connective	SUBJECT		PREDICATE
			Subject proper	Adj. to Subject	Predicate-Verb	Object with Adjective	Adverbial Adj.	Complement
1. (a) I tried my best	Principal		I		tried
(b) Though I was ill	Sub. Adv. Clause, qualifying tried in (a)	Though	I		was			my best	ill
(c) All my ... smoke	Principal, co-ordinate to (a)	but	exertion	all my	ended			in smoke
(d) As ill ... it	Sub. Adv. clause, qualifying ended in (c)	as	luck	ill	would have		it	as
2. (a) Long ago, I once ... Darjeeling	Principal		I		went			once, long ago, to Darjeeling	a student
(b) When I ... student	Sub. Adv. clause, qualifying went in (a)	When	I		was			yet
(c) where ... scenery	Principal, co-ordinate to (a)	where (= and there)	I		was charmed			by the.... scenery
(d) That ... sides	Sub. Adv. clause, qualifying scenery in (c)		that		greeted		me	on all sides

A FEW DIFFICULTIES IN ANALYSIS

(439) Quoted sentences—Some take a quoted sentence as a Noun Clause. But that is hardly defensible on the following among other grounds :

(i) A noun clause must be connected with the principal clause by some connective, expressed or understood ; but no such connective can be supplied before a quotation.

(ii) How to proceed if the quotation is a long one, containing two or more sentences? Let us take the sentence :

He said, "I cannot come to you today. My brother is ill and I have to attend on him. You may, however, expect me tomorrow."

The quotation consists of three sentences, which cannot be taken separately in their relation to the principal verb said, but have to be treated as a single part of speech, object to said.

A few other arguments are quoted from Matriculation English Grammar by L. Tipping (pp. 296-297)

(iii) "Clauses forming part of a sentence must be adapted to suit the nature of the sentence in which they stand, since they enter into its grammatical structure. But quotations are unalterable, they must always remain the same ; if their wording is changed, they cease to be quotations, and for this reason they are marked by inverted commas."

(iv) 'Quotations are included in sentences but do not enter into their grammatical structure, whether they consist of single words, phrases or even whole sentences. Thus in such a sentence as the accusative of "I" is 'me', if the quoted words entered into the grammatical structure of the sentence, we would have to say The accusative of "me" is "I", since of governs the accusative, and I, following the verb to be, must be in the nominative case. But this would manifestly be absurd.'

A quotation is, therefore, to be taken as a long compound word, a noun-equivalent, object to some transitive verb, and sentences like 'I said', 'I am ill' are to be treated as simple.

No doubt this jars upon our usual notion of a simple sentence as one that contains only one finite verb, expressed or understood ; but there is no help. Nor is such treatment so unusual. For example, "I was surprised by his I don't care attitude" contains two finite verbs ; yet I don't care cannot be treated as a clause ; it must be regarded as a single part of speech, a compound adjective, and the whole sentence is to be taken as a simple one. There is also the analogy of sentences involving parenthetical clauses, like "He is, I am sure, something of a poet," where the whole sentence has to be taken as simple, and the parenthesis is to be analysed separately (see the next Art).

If we like, we may analyse the quotation separately, as we do a parenthetical clause.

(440) Parenthetical expressions— In sentences like "His conduct, I believe, is good", "This is the boy who, I think, came the other day", the portions in italics are thrown in as independent elements. They may be taken out without injuring the sentences. Hence, they are to be treated as separate sentences parenthetically used, and not as subordinate or principal clauses, and are to be analysed separately, as below :

He is the man who, I believe, did it.

Clause Analysis :

1. He is the man—Principal Clause.
2. who did it—Adj. clause, qualifying man in 1.
3. I believe—Parenthetical Clause.

Similarly, Parenthetic Phrases, as the examples given below, are to be analysed separately from the rest of the sentence as "parenthetic phrases" :—

He is, to tell the truth, not quite frank.

I was, to be frank, much surprised.

(441) The Introductory "There"— In sentences like 'There is a man here,' 'There was once a king in India, named Dasaratha,' the first There has entirely lost its force as an adverb of place, and is used only to introduce the sentence. Still, it is customary to analyse it as an adverbial adjunct, though some prefer to treat it separately as 'introductory'.

(442) Interjections— As an Interjection does not generally enter into the construction of the sentence, it may be set down simply as an Interjection :

Ah! It was a sad experience. Alas! I am undone.

But when the Interjection is the object of a transitive verb, as in the example given below, it must be analysed accordingly :

"Bravo!" shouted the people.

(443) Vocatives— Vocatives usually stand in apposition to a noun or pronoun, expressed or understood, and may be analysed as such. Thus, in "Mookherjee, I shall help you", "Karim, go there," Mookherjee and Karim are in apposition to you, expressed in the first case, but understood in the other.

Some grammarians, however, assert that Vocatives have no grammatical connection with the sentence in which they occur, and hence, they are not to be included in the analysis.

(444) The Use of "It" :—

(a) For sentences involving it..... that :

"Two constructions, closely allied, but grammatically distinct, are often confused : (i) Antecedent 'it' followed by a defining relative clause with 'that' (who, which) ; (ii) 'it' followed by a clause in apposition, introduced by the conjunction 'that'" — Fowler. Thus, in the following examples, the Relative clauses are marked R, and the Conjunction clause, C :

It is money that I want (R). It is you that I gave it to (R). It is to you that I gave it (C).
It was a knife that I cut it with (R). It was with a knife that I cut it (C).

"The confusion ought not to arise, for always with a relative clause, and never with a conjunction, the complement of the main predicate is a noun or the grammatical equivalent of a noun." — Fowler (King's English).

(b) "It" followed by an infinitive phrase— In the following examples, we may analyse It as the formal subject, and the infinitive phrase as the real subject ; or we may treat It as the subject, and the infinitive phrase as the real subject ; or we may treat It as the subject and the infinitive phrase as in apposition to "It", and hence, an adjunct to the subject :

It is easy to say so. It is hard to believe him.

But in cases like "It is time to go now", the infinitive phrase cannot be treated either as the real subject or as in apposition to It. We must here analyse It as the subject, and the Infinitive as an Adverbial adjunct.

(c) “It” as the formal object : In sentences like

I found it difficult to do the work.

I shall see to it that he does his work.

“It” is used in a vague sense meaning something, namely. In analysing, we should treat It as the object of the transitive verb or preposition, as the case may be, and regard the Noun Clause or the Infinitive as standing in apposition to it.”

(445) Ellipses and omissions should always be supplied in analysing a sentence, as below :

(a) Sentence : He is stronger than I.

This is a Complex sentence, consisting of the following clauses :

1. He is stronger—Principal Clause.
2. Than I (am strong)—Adv. Clause, qualifying stronger.

(b) Sentence : He worked harder than ever.

1. He worked harder—Principal Clause.
2. Than ever (he worked hard)—Adv. Clause, qualifying harder.

(c) The conjunctions if, though, till, when, while, whether or often introduce elliptical adverbial clauses, the subject and the predicate being understood :

- (i) I shall certainly join if (I am) appointed.
- (ii) Though (he is) ill, he will attend the meeting.
- (iii) I shall stay on till (I am) relieved.
- (iv) He flared up when (he was) opposed.
- (v) He fell down while (he was) going up the steps.
- (vi) I shall support you whether (you are) right or wrong.

All the above examples are, therefore, complex sentences.

(446) Clauses introduced by “as” are often elliptical and present great difficulty to boys and girls. In some cases, the ellipses are so obscure that as may be regarded as making compound conjunctions. But in some cases the ellipses have to be supplied :

(a) He acted as before.

1. He acted—Principal Clause.
2. As (he had acted) before—Adv. Clause, qualifying acted.

(b) He gave the same reply as before.

1. He gave the same reply—Principal Clause.
2. As (he had given) before—Adj. Clause, qualifying reply.

(c) He came as usual.

1. He came—Principal Clause.
2. As (it was) usual (for him to come)—Adv. Clause, qualifying came in 1.

We may take as as a Rel. Pron. = which, i.e., the fact of his coming, subject to was understood. Then as usual = which was usual = and this was usual, so that the second clause is co-ordinate to clause no. 1.

(d) I am not such a fool as to do it.

1. I am not such a fool—Principal Clause.
2. As (I should be)—Adj. Clause, qualifying fool. Here as is a relative pronoun, complement to should be.
3. (If I were) to do it—Adv. Clause, qualifying should be.

প্রতিদিনের Current Affairs, বিভিন্ন Update, গুরুত্বপূর্ণ খবর, চাকরির খবর, Motivational Quotes...

Join Now

Click Here

Telegram

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস

প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

WhatsApp

Join Now

Click Here

বিভিন্ন প্রতিযোগিতামূলক পরীক্ষার জন্য গুরুত্বপূর্ণ Free Study Materials, PDF ইত্যাদি দিয়ে থাকি...

or,

1. I am fool—Principal Clause.
2. As (I should be) to do it—Adj. Clause, qualifying fool. Here to do is a gerundial infinitive, used adverbially to should be.

(e) Come as soon as you can.

1. Come as soon—Principal Clause.
2. As you can—Adv. Clause, qualifying the first as (or as soon).

or,

We may take as soon as a compound conjunction so that as soon as you can is adv. to come.

(f) Come as soon as possible.

1. Come as soon—Principal Clause.
2. As (it is) possible (for you to come)—Adv. Clause, qualifying the first as or as soon.

(g) Be so good as to help me.

1. Be so good—Principal Clause.
2. As (you should be good) to help me—Adv. Clause, qualifying so.

(h) He acted as if he were mad.

1. He acted—Principal Clause.
2. As (he would have acted)—Adv. Clause, qualifying acted.
3. If he were mad—Adv. Clause, qualifying would have acted.

We may also take as if as a compound conjunction and analyse the sentence as below :

1. He acted—Principal Clause.
2. As if he were mad—Adv. Clause, qualifying acted.

(i) As a friend, I advise you to do this.

1. I advise this—Principal Clause.
2. As a friend (would advise you)—Adv. Clause, qualifying advise.

(j) As you sow, so shall you reap.

1. You shall reap so—Principal Clause.
2. As you sow—Adv. Clause, qualifying so.

447 The use of “the the”—In sentences like

The more the merrier ; The more he gets, the more he wants ; the second clause is the principal, because when expanded, the sentences stand as “By how much more men there are, by so much merrier they are.” “By how much more he gets, by so much more he wants.”

Note

Sweet’s statement “the two clauses are so mutually dependent on each other that it is difficult to decide which is the principal clause. For grammatical purposes, we may regard the first as the principal clause simply on the ground of its coming first” is open to question.

448 Sentences in which the Subject is a Noun Clause, as in the examples given below, require careful attention :

That he is right is known. How he went there is known to all. Whether he will succeed is uncertain.

To say that the whole noun clause is the subject of the sentence does not meet the difficulty of clause analysis, where we have to break up the entire sentence into its component clauses, and show their relation to one another. We cannot call the whole sentence principal as is done by some, because that leaves the main question undecided—“Principal” what? — sentence or clause? Evidently, the whole cannot be a clause; it is a sentence; but we are required to find out the clauses. Again, we cannot call That he is right, How he went there, etc. principal clauses, because they do not stand independently and so do not contain the principal verbs. The best way to break up such sentences into clauses is as below :

- (a) 1. (That he is right) is known—Principal Clause.
2. That he is right—Noun Clause, Subject to is known.

- (b) 1. It (that he is right) is known—Principal Clause.
 2. That he is right—Noun Clause, case in apposition to It in 1.

Note

“When a Noun Clause is the subject of a sentence it is very common to use the word ‘it’ as the grammatical subject of the principal verb ... The noun clause is then in apposition to ‘it’ (Bain). In the above sentence, that is a conj., joining ‘he is right’ with ‘the fact’ (or It) is known, the fact or It being supplied to complete the sense.

(449) Clauses introduced by “what” present considerable difficulties, and hence, require a fuller discussion.

(a) When the what-clause is a dependent question, i.e., a question in the indirect form, it is a Noun Clause, object to the preceding transitive verb. Thus, in

I ask you what you want.
 Can you say what he requires?
 I know what he means.

The what-clauses are all noun clauses, objects to ask, say and know respectively.

(b) When what in a subordinate clause is a Relative Pronoun, we may proceed in any of the three ways :

Sentence : Show me what you bought.

- (i) Show me—Principal Clause.
What you bought—Noun Clause, object to show.
- (ii) Show me that—Principal Clause.
Which you bought—Adj. Clause, qualifying that.
What = that which.
- (iii) Show me that—Principal Clause.
What you bought—Adj. Clause, qualifying that.

Those who support the last form quote the sentence, “What I tell you in darkness, that speak ye in the light” to assert that the antecedent of what is that, which was formerly expressed, but is now understood.

Sentence : This is what I want.

- (i) This is—Principal Clause.
What I want—Noun Clause, complement to is.
- (ii) That is that—Principal Clause.
Which I want—Adj. Clause, qualifying the second that.
- (iii) That is that—Principal Clause.
What I want—Adj. Clause, qualifying the second that.

(c) When the what-clause is used as subject to some finite verb, we may proceed in any of the following ways :

Sentence : What he said is true.

- (i) (What he said) is true—Principal Clause.
What he said—Noun Clause, subject to is.
- (ii) It (= What he said) is true—Principal Clause.
What he said—Noun Clause, case in apposition to It.
- (iii) That is true—Principal Clause.
Which he said—Adj. Clause, qualifying That.
What = that which.
- (iv) That is true—Principal Clause.
What he said—Adj. Clause, qualifying That.

450 Miscellaneous :—(a) As soon as, no sooner than :

These Conj-phrases mean the same thing, but the Principal clause in the latter is the subordinate clause in the former, and vice versa :—

Principal clause	Subordinate clause
We started	as soon as the rain stopped.
No sooner did the rain stop	than we started.

(b) Rather than :

"I will suffer myself rather than (that) he should."

"Than is a preposition here, not conjunction, and the Noun Clause "that he should (suffer) is its object". — Nesfield (p. 274).

EXAMPLES WORKED OUT

Let us now work out a few passages by way of example. Only clause analyses are given :

(a) As Issac grew older, it was found that he had far more important matters in his mind than the manufacture of toys like the little windmill.

(b) The first thing that men learned, as soon as they began to study nature carefully, was that some events take place in regular order and that same causes always give rise to the same effects.

(c) When the children saw him they were so frightened that they all ran way and the garden became winter again.

(d) You have no idea how tired they are at times, but because they do not complain, you think everything is all right.

(e) The guilty trembled when they came before him, for they knew that his eyes would look straight into their guilt.

(f) When the King came to himself and was alone, pondering over the matter, he saw that the last angel had explained the mystery.

(g) I cannot avoid imagining that thus reigned by his lessons out of all my suspicion and divested of even all the little cunning which Nature had given me, I resembled, upon my first entrance into the busy and insidious world, one of those gladiators who were exposed without armour in the amphitheatre at Rome.

(h) Jack was just preparing to force his way through this thicket, when we were startled and arrested by a strange pattering or rumbing sound which appeared to us quite different from any of the sounds we had heard during the previous part of our walk.

(i) As Captain Lemuel Gulliver had not yet discovered the island of Lilliput, Issac did not know that there were little men in the world whose size was just suited to his windmill.

(j) How long I might have continued in this torpid state of simplicity I cannot tell, had I not been roused by seeing an old acquaintance whom I knew to be a prudent blockhead, preferred to a place in government.

Ans. (a) This is a complex sentence containing the following clauses :

1. As Issace grew older—Adv. Clause, qualifying was found in 2.
2. It was found—Principal clause.
3. That he had mind—Noun clause, case in apposition to it in 2.
4. Than the manufacture windmill (was)—Adv. clause, qualifying more important in 3.

- (b) This is a complex sentence containing the following clauses :
1. The first thing was—Principal clause.
 2. That men learned—Adj. clause, qualifying thing in 1.
 3. As soon carefully—Adv. clause, qualifying learned in 2.
 4. That some events order—Noun clause, subj. compl. to was in 1, coordinate to 5.
 5. That same causes effects—Noun clause, subj. compl. to was in 1, coordinate to 4.
- Connective—and.
- (c) This is a double sentence, containing the following clauses :
1. When the children saw him—Adv. clause, qualifying were frightened in 2.
 2. They were so frightened—Principal Clause, co-ordinate with 4.
 3. That they all ran away—Adv. clause, qualifying so in 2.
 4. The garden again—Principal clause, co-ordinate with 2.
- Connective—and.
- (d) This is a double sentence, containing the following clauses :
1. You have no idea—Principal clause, co-ordinate with 4.
 2. How tired they are at times—Noun clause, governed by the preposition of or about understood before the clause.
 3. Because they do not complain—Adv. clause, qualifying think in 4.
 4. You think—Principal clause, co-ordinate with 1.
 5. Everything is all right—Noun clause, object of think in 4.
- Connective—but.
- (e) This is a double sentence, containing the following clauses :
1. The guilty trembled—Principal clause, co-ordinate with 3.
 2. When they came before him—Adv. clause, qualifying trembled in 1.
 3. They knew—Principal clause, co-ordinate with 1.
 4. That his eyes.....guilt—Noun clause, object of knew in 3.
- Connective—for.
- (f) This is a complex sentence, containing the following clauses :
1. When the King came to himself—Adv. clause, qualifying saw in 3, co-ordinate with 2.
 2. (When the King) was alone matter—Adv. clause, qualifying saw in 3, co-ordinate with 1.
 3. He saw—Principal clause.
 4. That the last.....mystery—Noun clause, object of saw in 3.
- Connective—and.
- (g) This is a complex sentence, containing the following clauses :
1. I cannot avoid imagining—Principal clause.
 2. That, thus.....cunning, I resembled.....gladiators—Noun clause, object of imagining in 1.
 3. Which nature had given me—Adj. clause, qualifying cunning in 2.
 4. Who were exposed.....at Rome—Adj. clause, qualifying gladiators in 3.
- (h) This is a multiple sentence, containing the following clauses :
1. Jack was just.....thicket—Principal clause, co-ordinate with 2 and 3.

14. I hoped to converse with men in this world, simple and believing like myself, but I found them cunning and cautious as those in the world I had left behind.
15. At last they reached the door-way, where the Queen had watched hour after hour, not able to rest, in her terrible fear that something might have happened to her son.
16. The first opportunity he had of finding his expectations disappointed, was at the very middling figure I made in the university.
17. Though I have warned you again and again, and though every care has been taken to give you the best possible company here, you still mix with persons who are notorious for their wickendness, and one of whom was expelled from school for gross misconduct.
18. When he came to me in reply to my summons, I told him that unless he would finish the work before the Magistrate came, I would be put to great shame ; but he does not appear to give any thought to it and continues as lazily as ever.
19. You look to the sun, for he is your taskmaster, and by him you know the measure of the work you have done, and the measure of the work that remains for you to do.
20. Once a beautiful flower put its head out from the grass, but when it saw the notice-board it was so sorry for the children that it slipped back into the ground again and went off to sleep.
21. After a long and dangerous voyage, during which there happened many wonderful things about which you will some day hear, the Argonauts arrived at the land of the Golden Fleece.
22. Many a time during the long voyage, when Jason was in great danger and did not know what to do, he consulted that figurehead, and he always received good advice.
23. It was not entirely her fault, because she was sent by Jupiter to do this ; and his first intention was that she should bring evil only.
24. The people of Greece believed that if they did what was right, the gods would be pleased and would love them and send them wealth and happiness.
25. But, quick as a flash, Orpheus seized his lyre and drew from it such beautiful music that the dog crouched down at his feet, and licked the hands he had been ready to bite.
26. Nobody could explain why he so strongly disliked one whom he had once protected and whose conduct and character had won him friends wherever he was known.
27. When, contrary to the wicked hopes he had formed, his brother proved victorious, his anger and envy knew no bounds, and he swore he would burn the chamber where Orlando slept.
28. The more carefully nature has been studied, the more widely has order been found to prevail, while what seemed disorder has proved to be nothing but complexity.
29. Whenever you are arguing with someone about a point, remember that there is quite a good chance that you are wrong, however confident you feel about it.

CHAPTER XXXIX

SYNTAX

(451) A verb must agree with its subject in number and person ; as,
He is all ; I am happy ; They were happy.

(452) The Error of Proximity—The verb is sometimes made, through mistake, to agree in number with a noun or pronoun near it, instead of with its subject. This should be guarded against. অনেক সময় verb-এর number ইহার প্রকৃত subject

অনুযায়ী না লিখিয়া নিকটবর্তী noun বা pronoun অনুযায়ী লেখা হয়, এটা ভুল।

One of them was (not, were) present there. The best of the boys has (not have) got a prize. The presence of so many men is encouraging. Each of the girls is clever.

(453) (a) The Common Noun following one of the should be in the plural number. 'one of the' always follows the plural common noun.

He is one of the best boys (not, boy). One of the men (not, man) gave me the book. Lend me one of the pens.

Note

In the sentence "One of the rooms is closed", the subject is one of and the actual subject-word is one; hence the verb should be in the singular; The corrected sentence would be: One of the rooms is closed (not are closed).

(b) One of, followed by a plural noun or pronoun and relative clause, often leads to error because it encourages a singular verb: He is one of those persons who is never satisfied with his job. This is one of the buildings that was destroyed in the earthquake. The antecedent of who and that is not one, but persons and buildings respectively. It is therefore plural. The corrected sentences would be:

He is one of those persons who are never satisfied with their job. This is one of the buildings that were destroyed in the earthquake.

(c) One in ten boys is in default. Two in ten boys are in default.

(d) For more than one, more than two, see Art. 40, Note (d).

(454) When an Infinitive, a Gerund, a Verbal Noun, a Clause or Phrase is the subject, the verb is in the third person singular.

To err is human. Swimming is a good exercise. The writing of letters well is not easy. That he is ill is known to all. Success at any cost was his aim. What he says is not right.

(455) When a Collective number is meant, the noun, though plural in form, has a singular verb:

Fifty rupees is enough for me. Hundred cents makes one dollar. Three miles is a long distance. Eight rupees was the price of the thing.

But "Twice two is four" and "Twice two are four" are equally correct.—MEU under is, sec. 2. "In the type five times five is/are twenty-five, either is or are is correct"—MEU.

(456) The name of a thing or a country, though plural in form, takes a singular verb:

The United States of America is a rich country. The Folk Tales of Bengal is a good book.

(457) A Collective noun takes a singular verb when the things or persons are taken collectively, and a plural verb when they are taken separately.

একই প্রকারের অনেকগুলির সমষ্টি বুঝাইলে verb-টি singular হয়; সকলকে সমষ্টিভাবে না বুঝাইয়া স্বতন্ত্রভাবে বুঝাইলে verb-টি plural হয়।

The class is large. The audience are requested to take their seats. See Art. 12.

We must be consistent. Thus, we should write,

The Board has agreed to grant a bonus to its (not, their) employees. The mob do (not, does) not know their mind.

Note

(a) "Team was, team were": The use of was or were is determined by the sense, by the way in which 'team' is regarded. Regarded as a unit, team should be given a singular verb, e.g., 'The team was given an ovation' and the 'team has won the cup'. Regarded as so many individuals, team should be given a plural verb, e.g., 'The team were given medals for winning the cup' and 'The team agree among themselves' — Thomson & Irvine: Everyday English Usage.

But, six teams are participating in the contest.

(b) "Should a collective noun be considered singular or plural? In this matter, as in others, the fashion of grammar changes.....This is mercifully a question in which each may decide for himself; but once having decided, he must be consistent. If he treats his noun as a singular, singular it must be throughout."—A.B.C. of Eng. Usage.

(c) "Another difficulty arises with collective nouns that are followed by a partitive genitive. A number of people, books, towns 'are' or 'is'? Here the force of attraction is at work. If a plural noun follows the of, the verb is almost inevitably, and on the whole justly, made plural by attraction."—A.B.C. of Eng. Usage

(458) A singular collective noun followed by of and a plural noun (collective noun + of + plural noun) is used as a unit to denote a single undivided group of people or things and therefore, takes a singular verb. In such constructions, the number of the verb is determined by the singular collective noun, and not by the plural noun placed after of.

A group of people was helping.

A bunch of keys is kept in the drawer.

A crowd of students wants to meet the Principal.

A set of rules has been framed.

But, two groups of people were helping them.

(459) (a) If the Subject and Complement are of different numbers, the verb must agree with the Subject.

Our guide was (not, were) the stars. The stars were our guide. Germany's great need was colonies. Colonies were Germany's great need.

(b) Special attention is to be paid to the use of the number after "what", which may be both singular and plural. In each of the following sentences, what starts as singular because a singular verb follows it; but the next verb (belonging to that of that which) is made plural on account of the influence of the plural complement. This is wrong. নীচের বাক্যগুলিতে What-এর পরবর্তী প্রথম verb-টি singular, কিন্তু দ্বিতীয় verb-টি plural complement-এর আকর্ষণে ভুলে plural করা হইয়াছে।

What is required are (should be, is) houses at fair rents. What seems to be needed are (should be, is) strict measures. What strikes me most there are (should be, is) its beautiful roads.

The mistake is of the opposite kind in the following :

We have been invited to abandon what seems to be the most valuable parts of our constitution (read seem; abandon the parts of our constitution that seem). He decided, for what was good reasons, not to go there (read were; for reasons that were).

(c) Care should be taken about the use of the number in sentences beginning with introductory "there". There is used when referring to something singular; as,

There is a big tree near my house.

When referring to something plural, use there are; as,

There are many good schools in the town.

Errors sometimes occur in longer sentences; as,

There is my friend Rakesh, my parents and uncle Subhas to help me.

What is being referred to here is plural (friend Rakesh, parents and uncle Subhas) and the sentence should start with there are.

E EXERCISE 65

Fill up the blanks :—

1. The man who quarrels with his brother — not loved by anybody.
2. I know where the house of the brothers —.
3. These acts of the king — very unpopular.
4. To honour our superiors — our duty.
5. To ride — a good exercise.
6. That he will come — known to all.
7. This copy of 'Lives of Poets' — cost me fifty rupees.
8. Twenty shillings — one pound.
9. Sixty minutes — one hour.
10. The meeting — well attended.
11. The crowd — been dispersed by the police.
12. The jury — unanimous.
13. The jury — not unanimous.
14. The United States — a rich country.
15. A large number of men — present.
16. The train of my ideas — interrupted.
17. This state of things — been going on for a long time.
18. The pleasures of sin — short.
19. Ninety rupees — paid for the table.
20. The committee — unanimous on — opinion.
21. The committee refuses to give — opinion.
22. That he said so — never been denied.
23. Their best help — the village boys.
24. The boys — their best help.
25. What is said — words.
26. Words — what — said.

(460) Two or more singular subjects joined by and, expressed or understood, take a verb and a pronoun in the plural. একাধিক singular subject যদি and দ্বারা যুক্ত হয় তবে ইহাদের verb ও pronoun plural হয়।

Ram and Shyam were there, but they did nothing. She and her father have gone to their village.

Exceptions : (i) If the subjects denote the same person or thing (and দ্বারা যুক্ত Subject-গুলি যদি একই ব্যক্তি বা বস্তুকে বুঝায়) the verb and the pronoun should be singular :

"The Secretary and Treasurer has come"—Here the same man is both Secretary and Treasurer. If two different persons were meant, the article the would have been repeated before "Treasurer" and the verb would have been have. See Arts. 101 and 482.

(ii) When the subjects express a single idea (and দ্বারা যুক্ত noun-গুলির সমন্বয় যদি একটি মাত্র ভাব প্রকাশ করে) the verb and the pronoun are singular.

The long and the short of the story is this. A hue and cry was raised. Slow and steady wins the race. Bread and milk is his only food. All coming and going was forbidden.

(iii) When each, every or no is put before each noun (and দ্বারা যুক্ত noun-গুলির প্রত্যেকটির পূর্বে যদি each, every বা no থাকে), the pronoun and the verb should be singular :

"Each man and each woman gets a shilling", "Every star and every planet is the handiwork of God", "No friend and no relative cares for me."

Even when each or every is not repeated, the verb is singular :

Every man, woman and child was killed.—MEU. p. 24. “Every Tom, Dick and Harry plays golf nowadays.”—Good English by G.H Vallins.

(iv) When and is followed by a negative word as no, not, the verb and the pronoun should be of the same number as the noun or pronoun preceding and (and-এর পরে যদি no বা not থাকে তবে verb ও pronoun-গুলি and-পূর্ববর্তী noun বা pronoun অনুযায়ী হয়) :

‘A friend, and not a foe, greets you.’ ‘Two pens only, and no book, are required.’

(461) When a noun or pronoun is joined with another noun or pronoun by with, together with, or as well as, the verb agrees with the noun or pronoun preceding these (with, together with বা as well as দ্বারা কোন noun বা pronoun যুক্ত হইলে verb বা pronoun-টি এই কথাগুলির পূর্ববর্তী noun বা pronoun অনুযায়ী হইবে) :

‘Ram, with (or together with) his friends, was punished. ‘They, with their father, were punished.’ ‘I, with my brother, am to go’, ‘Ram as well as his friends is expected.

But it is better to avoid such constructions.

E EXERCISE 66

Fill up the blanks :—

1. Time and tide — for nobody.
2. Early to bed and early to rise — a man healthy, wealthy and wise.
3. Curry and rice — my favourite food.
4. Each man and each woman — given a rupee.
5. Every man and every woman — to suffer thus.
6. No man and no woman — ever heard of this.
7. I, and not my brother, — done this.
8. A few pencils, and not a pen, — wanted.
9. That eminent critic and statesman — said so.
10. The horse and carriage — at the door.
11. No man, no woman and no child — saved.
12. The hue and cry — stopped.
13. Each house and each tree — burnt down.
14. The king as well as his minister — surprised.
15. He as well as his friends — guilty.
16. The boys as well as their leader — run away.
17. The students as well as the Principal — arranged a party.
18. The Principal as well as the students — arranged a tea-party.
19. The captain with the soldiers — tried.
20. The soliders with the captain — tried.
21. The king with his guards — slain.
22. They with their leader — taken prisoner.

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটিস
প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য
Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

(462) Singular subjects joined by or, either—or, neither—nor, take singular verbs and pronouns (or, either—or, neither—nor দ্বারা যুক্ত singular subject-এর পর singular verb ও pronoun বসে) :

Ram or Shyam has to go there. Either he or his brother is guilty and must suffer for his misdeeds. Neither he nor his brother is guilty.

(463) (a) “If alternative members differ in number etc., the nearest prevails (Were you or he, was he or you, there? ; either he or you were, either you or he was), but some forms (e.g. was I or you on duty?) are avoided by inserting a second verb (was I or were you.... ?).—MEU under or, section 2¹.

(b) "When there are alternative subjects co-ordinated by or or nor, one singular and one plural, the verb agrees with the one which immediately precedes it".

"Neither the child nor her companions have been heard of since. Either the children or their nursemaid has taken the book"—F.T. Wood.

Neither the teacher nor the students are coming.

Neither the students nor the teacher is coming.

(464) When subjects of different persons are joined by either—or, neither—nor, the verb agrees with the subject nearest to it (either-or, neither-nor দ্বারা যুক্ত subject যদি বিভিন্ন persons-এর হয় তবে verb-টি নিকটতম subject অনুযায়ী হয়।) :

Either he or I am to blame. Neither he nor you are guilty. Either he or they are guilty.

(465) When subjects are joined by not only but also, the verb agrees with the subject nearest to it.

Not only he but also his brothers are in trouble.

Not only his books but also his money bag was stolen.

E

EXERCISE 67

Fill up the blanks :—

1. Either you or he — wrong.
2. Jadu, Madhu or Ramesh — done this.
3. Jadu or you — done this.
4. Neither the king nor his ministers — present.
5. Neither the sailors nor the captain — saved.
6. Either he or you — to blame.
7. Neither life nor property — respected.
8. Neither the moon nor the stars — visible.
9. Either I or they — in fault.
10. Man's happiness or misery — unreal.
11. Either your box or your books — burnt.
12. Either the boy or his friends — acted improperly.

(466) In the position of Nouns and Pronouns of different persons, the second person stands first, the third person second, and the first person last (বিভিন্ন persons-এর nouns ও pronouns একত্র লিখিতে হইলে প্রথমে second person, তারপরে third person এবং সর্বশেষে first person বসে) : (231)

You, Ram (or he) and I have been rewarded.

But in confessing faults, courtesy requires that the usual order should be reversed (কিন্তু দোষ স্বীকারে উপরের order-টি উল্টাইয়া যায়) : (132)

I, Ram and you are all guilty.

(467) When subjects of different persons are joined by and, the personal pronoun to be used for them should be of First Person, if one of the subjects is of that person ; of the Second Person, if one of the subjects is of that person, and none of the First (বিভিন্ন persons-এর subjects যদি and দ্বারা যুক্ত হয় তবে তাহাদের পরিবর্তে যে pronoun বসে তাহা First Person-এর হইবে, যদি subjects-এর একটিও ঐ person-এর হয় ; Second Person-এর হইবে, যদি subjects-এর একটিও ঐ person-এর হয় এবং First Person-এর কোন subject না থাকে) :

¹"Colloquial English, however, allows considerable latitude to the verb with an alternative subject."—A.B.C. of Eng. Usage.

Ram and I did our works. You and I did our duties. You and Leela did your lessons. You, Leela and I did our duties.

(468) The Relative Pronoun agrees in number, gender and persons with its antecedent :

I who am your leader command you. This is the lady who has lost her ring. Those who are guilty shall be punished. He was one of the best boys that were seen there. It is useless to me who have left the world.

(469) When a Relative Pronoun has apparently two antecedents of different persons, the verb and the pronoun agree with the antecedent nearer to them (বিভিন্ন persons-এর দুটি বাহ্যতঃ antecedents থাকিলে Relative Pronoun-এর verb ও person নিকটবর্তী antecedent অনুযায়ী হয়।) :

I am the man who helps you. You are the person who helps me. I am the man who has lost his pen.

Note

In the above sentences each relative has really one antecedent only (shown in italics). I in the first sentence, you in the second, and I in the third are not the antecedents of who.

(470) “To be” verbs take the same case before and after them :

Whom do you take me to be? Who do men say that I am? It is I.

Note

“But the fact remains that few people would say or write ‘It’s I’, ‘This is he’. ‘That’s she’. Usage, a trifle shamefacedly, admits the object form to such expressions, ‘It’s me’, ‘That’s her’.—Good English by G.H. Villins.

(471) The anticipatory It is used for masculine or feminine or neuter nouns, both singular and plural ; but the verb is singular.

It was I (or you, or he or she, or they) that did it. It was these books that I wanted.

Also note :

It is I who have made this house. It is Ram who has helped me. It is they who teach the poor boys in their spare time.

In the above constructions, the antecedents of who are I, Ram and they and not it. So the relative pronoun agrees in number and person with its antecedents, not with it. [See Art. 468 above.]

E EXERCISE 68

Fill up the blanks :—

1. This is the boy who — done it.
2. These are the boys who — done it.
3. Give me some mangoes that — sweet to the taste.
4. Who is the boy that — done it?
5. Who are the boys that — done it?
6. Those who — passed will be readily admitted.
7. You are the man who — guilty.
8. I am the man who — done it.

9. It — he who—guilty.
10. I who — your leader — you this order.
11. Each of these houses — a garden of—own.
12. It is I who — younger than you.
13. It is they who — done this.
14. It — I who — guilty.
15. It — you who — guilty.
16. You are the man who — to suffer for it.
17. Who do you think that I —?

(472) The Case of the pronoun following “than and “as” has to be determined by mentally supplying the verb :

I love you better than he (loves you). He loves you better than (he loves) me. He is not so strong as you (are).

Note

Than is a conjunction ; but it has come to be used as a preposition too in a few cases. [See Art. 284].

(473) A noun or pronoun in the Possessive Case should not be used as the antecedent to a Relative Pronoun (Possessive case-এর কোন noun বা pronoun কখনও antecedent হইতে পারে না) Thus, instead of writing,

“I went to the man’s house who is my friend.”

we should write,

“I went to the house of the man who is my friend.”

(474) Emphatic Pronouns can never stand alone as subjects. Hence, we should write :

He and I (not, myself) went there. I (not, myself) will do it.

But we can use :

He and I myself went there. I myself will do it.

(475) There are a few Adjectives, such as alone, asleep, afraid, awake, aware, alive, content, etc. that can be used only predicatively See Art. 68(b).

I am alone. He is asleep. They are content. He is afraid.

(476) Similarly, a few Adjectives, such as former, olden, etc. can be used only attributively : See Art. 68(a).

He is a former teacher of this school. This custom prevailed in olden times.

(477) Adjectives or Adverbs ? — To express some quality of the subject, use the Adjective, not an Adverb. Students will do well to remember that if some part of the verb to be can be employed as a connective, the Adjective is required ; but if any phrase denoting manner can be substituted, the Adverb should be used (subject-এর quality বুঝাইতে adjective, manner বুঝাইতে adverb বসে).

He looks angry. He left the place angrily. It tastes sweet. He spoke sweetly. We feel cold. We were received coldly. He feels sad. He left the place sadly.

(478) The use of that in such comparisons as the following should be carefully noted :

Ram’s house is better than that of Jadu. The brother of Karim is taller than that of Abdul. The population of India is larger than that of France. His name is as familiar as that of your brother.

If the first sentence were written as, "Ram's house is better than Jadu", it would have meant a comparison between Ram's house and Jadu, the man, — an absurdity. Similarly, in the other sentences. Conversely, note the absence of that in the following :

India is larger than France. The Indus is longer than the Ganges. I love your brother as much as Jadu.

(479) Adjective of different degrees cannot be joined by and : [See Art. 86].

- Incorrect* : He is the strongest and very tall boy in the class.
Correct : He is the strongest and tallest boy in the class.
Incorrect : This town is more populous and very prosperous.
Correct : This town is very populous and very prosperous.
This town is more populous and more prosperous.

(480) When objects of the same class are compared (একই জাতীয় জিনিষের মধ্যে তুলনা বুঝাতে), other should be inserted after any, all or no to show the exclusion or separation [Art. 80] :

Incorrect	Correct
He is better than any boy in the class.	any other boy
No boy is so good as he.	no other boy
The tiger is fiercer than all animals.	all other animals
No animal is so fierce as the tiger.	no other animal
He was wiser than all men.	all other men
No man was so wise as he.	no other man

But in comparison by superlatives other is not used :

He is the best of all the boys (not, all the other boys). The Himalayas are the highest of all mountains.

(481) (a) Each and every are followed by a singular number. In phrases like every three hours, every = each group of.

Every man must do his duty. Each of the boys was given a cup.

Note

"In 'tag' questions, however, the plural is permissible for everyone and everybody when the statement that precedes it has a collective rather than a distributive sense: e.g. 'Everybody can't be clever, can they?' 'Everyone present made a wild rush for the door, didn't they?' The tag for everything must always be singular: 'Everything looked beautiful, didn't it?' 'Everything has gone wrong today, hasn't it?' — Wood. See also Art. 249.

(b) Two Singular subjects preceded by each or every, even though connected by and, take a singular verb :

Each man and each woman was given a prize. Every student and every teacher is responsible for the good name of the class. [See Art. 460 (iii)]

(c) When the antecedent is plural, each is also plural :

The boys each have done their works ; we each (they each) have done our (have done their) works. — F.T. Wood. [Art. 146 (c)]

(482) Repetition of the Article : When two or more Nouns joined by and refer to the same thing, the Article is used only before the first ; but if they refer to separate things, the Article should be repeated before each. [See Arts. 101 & 460 (i)].

The Secretary and the Treasurer have done this (two separate men).

The Secretary and Treasurer has done this (one and the same man).

(483) When Adjectives joined by and qualify a single noun to refer to different objects, the definite article is repeated before each adjective if the noun is singular, or the definite article is placed only before the first adjective if the noun is plural. But the verb is plural in both cases (And দ্বারা যুক্ত বিভিন্ন adjectives একই noun-এর পূর্বে বসিয়া বিভিন্ন জিনিসকে বুঝাইলে (a) প্রত্যেকটি adjective-এর পূর্বে the বসিবে এবং noun-টি singular হইবে, অথবা (b) শুধু প্রথম adjective-এর পূর্বে the বসিবে এবং nounটি plural হইবে। কিন্তু উভয় ক্ষেত্রেই verb-টি plural হইবে।) :

The first and the second boy were rewarded.

The first and second boys were rewarded.

The black and the white cow were sold.

The black and white cows were sold.

If the same object is meant, the article is not repeated and the noun is singular :

The black and white cow = one cow, partly black and partly white.

The black and the white cow = two cows, one black, the other white.

The deaf and dumb man = one man, both deaf and dumb.

The deaf and the dumb man = two men, one deaf and the other dumb.

E EXERCISE 69

Correct :—

1. The first and second boy will get prizes.
2. There are two medals for the first and the second boys.
3. The Atlantic lies between the Old and New World.
4. I have read only the first and second chapter.
5. No mountain is so high as the Himalayas.
6. The Pacific Ocean is bigger than all oceans in the world.
7. The Ganges is holier to the Hindus than any river.
8. No man was so wise as Solomon.
9. Solomon was wiser than any man.
10. No fruit is so palatable as mangoes.
11. Iron is the most useful of all other metals.
12. No river is so holy to the Hindus as the Ganges.
13. The black and white cat quarrelled.

(484) A single Auxiliary may serve two Principal Verbs if the construction allows it :

I have lost him but got (= have got) you.

Some were acquitted, and some punished (= were punished).

But let us examine the following sentences :

He has been enrolled, but your brother resigned.

I have retired, and a new man appointed.

Expanded, these sentences become "He has been enrolled, but your brother has been resigned," "I have retired and a new man have appointed," which are wrong. The correct forms are :

He has been enrolled, but your brother has resigned.

I have retired, and a new man has been appointed.

485 Two Auxiliaries may be used with one Principal Verb or Adjective when the form of the latter allows it :

I never have, nor ever will hurt anybody. I did not, and will not, go there. They are and have been, always active.

But let us examine the following sentences :

I never have, nor ever will, go there.

They have and will always help me.

Expanded, the sentences become "I never have go there, nor ever will go there," "They have always help me and will always help me," which are wrong. The correct forms are :

I have never gone there, nor will ever go.

They have always helped me, and will always help me.

486 Prepositions come before their objects except (i) when the object is the relative pronoun "that" :

This is the man that I spoke of. I heard the story that was talked about.

(ii) Often when the object is an interrogative pronoun, or a relative pronoun understood :

What have you come here for? What are you wondering at? This is the boy (that or whom) I spoke of. It is the thing (which) I asked for.

487 One preposition is sometimes wrongly made to do the work of two. Thus, the following sentences are wrong :

He has come and will return to Japan.

He was appointed and dismissed from the post.

The correct forms should be :

He has come from and will return to Japan.

He was appointed to the post and dismissed from it.

488 Correlatives are pairs of words that are regularly used together (শব্দযুগল সর্বদা একত্র ব্যবহৃত হয়). They are sometimes called correlative conjunctions ; but that is hardly correct, because a member of the correlatives may be something other than a conjunction.

Here are some of the important correlatives :

(1) Both—and :

Both Ram and (not, as well as) Kali were present there.

He is both rich and (not, as well as) powerful.

Note

If as well as is to be used, drop both : as, "Ram as well as Kali was present there." "He is rich as well as powerful."

(2) Either—or ; Neither—nor :

Either he or his brother was there.

Neither the boy nor his brother was present.

(3) Not only—but also :

Not only he but his brothers also were present. He insulted not only me, but also my brother. He is not only foolish but also wicked.

Note

"With the correlatives not only ... but also, it is perhaps rather pedantic to insist that the also must never be omitted. A sentence like the following may be regarded as quite acceptable English: Not only beginners, but even experienced craftsmen, may learn much from this book" —Wood.

(4) As—so :

As you sow, so shall you reap. As I am ill (so) I cannot go.

Note

Good English requires that the clauses introduced by as, the causal conjunction, should precede the main clause.

(5) As—as ; so—as :

He is as poor as you. He is not so poor as you. He is as eager as you are. He is not so eager as you are.

Note

(a) Modern usage prefers 'so—as' for negative sentences. But see Art. 292(g) Note.

(b) Guard against the use of "like" after "as" or "so". The following sentences are wrong:

He is not so strong like (should be, as) you.

I am as eager like (should be, as) you.

(6) So—that :

He is so angry that he cannot speak.

He is so weak that he cannot walk.

(7) Such—as :

Only such boys are wanted as (not, who or that) have passed.

The defect was such as to cause anxiety.

(8) Such—that :

Such was his misfortune that nobody helped him.

The defect was such that it caused anxiety.

(9) The same—as ; the same—that :

This is the same book as (not, like) that.

He is the same person as (or, that) I saw yesterday.

But "Is this the same as, or the same that, or the same, you showed me before?" —POD.
See also Art. 134.

(10) No—sooner—than :

No sooner did I sit down than they left the place.

No sooner had he gone than I reached the place.

(11) Hardly—when (MEU and ABC of Eng. Usage) :

Hardly was he gone when the party broke up.

Hardly had he left the house when it began to rain.

Note

But Nesfield gives both before and when after hardly.

(12) Scarcely—before or when (MEU) :

Scarcely had he left the house when (or before) it began to rain.

He was scarcely gone before (or, when) we reached the place.

Note

In clauses beginning with no sooner, hardly, scarcely the auxiliary precedes the subjects as shown above.

(13) Other—than, besides ; else—than, but : [Art. 346(f)]

Give me other books than this. He has no other friend than you. I have none else than (or, but) you. No other person besides (in addition to) my friend applied.

Note

A.B.C. of Eng. Usage, Good English by Vallins, Current Eng. Usage by Wood, and Nesfield, give than after else, but Row & Webb and Wren and Martin give but after it.

(489) Each member of the correlative should be followed by words of the same class (Correlatives-এর উভয় অংশের পর একই জাতীয় part of speech বসে।). So the following sentences are wrong :

(i) He not only went to you, but also to your father. (ii) He helped me not only with men but also gave me some money. (iii) He neither offended me nor my brother. (iv) Neither did he work nor sleep. (v) He helped me both with men and money. (vi) I did this both for you and him.

In the first sentence, 'not only' is followed by a verb, but 'but also', by an adverb phrase. In the second, 'not only' is followed by an adverb phrase, but 'but also', by a verb. In the last, both is followed by a preposition, but 'and' is followed by a pronoun. The correct forms should, therefore, be :

(i) He went not only to you but also to your father ; or, He not only went to you but also went to your father. (ii) He not only helped me with men but also gave me some money ; or, He helped me not only with men but also with money. (iii) He offended neither me nor my brother. (iv) Neither did he work nor did he sleep ; or, He neither worked nor slept. (v) He helped me both with men and with money ; or, He helped me with both men and money. (vi) I did this both for you and for him ; or, I did this for both you and him.¹

E EXERCISE 70

A. Transform the following sentences so that they may contain the correlatives noted in the margin :—

(a) Both—and :

1. I did this for you ; I did this for your brother.
2. He went to my place ; his father went to my place.
3. This exercise is good for the heart ; it is also good for the lungs.
4. You will get the thing at my shop ; you will get it also at my brother's shop.
5. I want to see you ; I want also to warn you.

(b) Neither—nor :

1. He is not happy ; he is not miserable.
2. I do not want you ; I do not want your brother.
3. He did not offend me ; he did not please me.
4. I have not seen him ; I have not heard of him.
5. I have not seen him ; I have not seen his brother.

(c) Not only—but also :

1. I did this for you ; I did this for your brother.
2. He was wealthy ; he was also healthy.
3. He was wealthy ; his friend also was wealthy.
4. I made a chair and sold it also.
5. I shall support him with money ; my brother also will support him with money.
6. I shall support him with money ; I shall support him with men.

(d) No sooner—than :

1. As soon as I came out, the room fell down.
2. He entered the room immediately after I had left it.
3. As soon as the sun set, we began our journey.
4. As soon as they saw me, they shouted in joy.
5. It began to rain immediately after they had left.

(e) Scarcely—before or when ; Hardly—when :

1. No sooner was he gone than we reached the place.
2. As soon as the rain ceased, we set out on our journey.
3. No sooner did I see you than I was reminded of my own childhood.

¹But MEU writes of the form In both India and Australia as "formal, and is often shrunk from as a remedy worse than the disease." (Under both, sec 3).

MISCELLANEOUS CORRECTIONS

NOUNS

490 Nouns omitted :

Incorrect
 He went to his elder.
 He lives in the boardings.
 Give me some blotting.
 I went to yours (Art. 66).
 I bought some paper, ink and others.

Correct
elder brother.
boarding house.
blotting paper.
your house.
other things. (Art. 156).

491 Singular for Plural :

My circumstance is bad.
 I cannot continue my study any more.
 No order has yet been passed. (a)
 No pain was spared.
 He has obtained full mark.
¹Three-fourth of the work is done.
 [Art. 40 Note (g)]
¹Three-fourth of the men is dead.
 I like vegetable.
 More than two boys was present
 there.
 Is the old always wiser than the young?
 The police has not made any arrests so far.
 I have taken my meal.
 One of the boy is there.
 He is out of spirit. (b)
 He has gone out of door.
 He is out at elbow.
 I feel out of sort today.
 His wonder knew no bound.

circumstances are my studies..... (Any more is unnecessary) orders have pains were full marks
 Three-fourths of the work is done.
 Three-fourths of the men are dead.
vegetables were present [Art. 40(d)]
Are the old have my meals boys spirits doors elbows sorts bounds

¹Fractions like two-thirds, three-fourths are treated as singular or plural according as they denote amount or number.

Incorrect	Correct
There is a lot of people there.	are a lot of people
He is one of the bright student in the class.	students
I have seen him lots of time (c)	lots of times
I like apple more than orange .	apples more than oranges . Or, I like an apple more than an orange.
All kind of books was displayed.	kinds of books were
The rich is not happier than the poor.	are
¹ A number of books has been purchased for the library.	have

Note

(a) But POD has under order: "Often plural; give orders, an order, the order, for something to be done The judge gave, made, refused an or the order."

(b) In the sense of "sanguine or buoyant mood or specified state of cheerfulness or despondency" the word is always used in the plural.

(c) Time is countable when it means 'occasion'. Lots of can be followed either by a plural countable or by a singular uncountable.

492 Plural for Singular :

Many a good boys failed.	boy
There are pains all over the body.	is pain
I give you my words .	word
He has kept his words .	word
He is skilled in needleworks .	needlework
He gave me many good advices .	much good advice
All his kiths and kins are against him.	kith and kin
The sceneries here are charming.	scenery is
There was a lot of traffics on the road yesterday.	traffic
He gave us wrong informations	information
Did you buy any fruits in the market?	any fruit
Many a men want to be rich quickly.	Many a man wants
He has sold all his furnitures .	furniture
He has purchased many furnitures .	many pieces of furniture
¹ The number of M.Ps have increased.	has
He has black hairs .	hair
This house is built of bricks .	brick
To laugh in one's sleeves .	sleeve

¹"Number, as noun of multitude in the type 'a number of + pl. noun', normally governs a plural verb. By contrast the type 'the number of + pl. noun' normally governs a singular verb.'-MEU See also Art. 40(k).

Incorrect	Correct
One of the boys there have stolen the book.	has
He has learnt the alphabets .	alphabet
Give the story in details .	in detail
Take care of your luggages .	luggage
Give me two dozens eggs.	dozen
More than one person have found it so.	has found. [Art. 40(d)]
A group of students were playing.	was
Six miles are a long distance.	is
I together with my brothers were stopped.	was stopped
I bought confectioneries for the child.	confectionery
The children had lots of fun in the fair.	fun
There is lots of times before the train leaves.	time
The conduct of many boys and girls are not what they should be.	is not what it should be
Here is the list of text books for the three-years ¹ degree course.	three-year
His whereabouts are not known.	is [Art. 28]
There are no bread s in the shop.	is no bread
Nothing ² but a few cottages, trees and ponds were to be seen.	was
His bona fides ³ are in doubt.	is
Mr Bose, accompanied by his wife and children, were present there.	was present
I met a seventeen-years-old girl there. (1)	I met a seventeen-year-old girl, etc. (or, I met a girl who was seventeen years old , etc. or, I met a girl seventeen years old , etc. or I met a girl of seventeen years of age , etc.)

Note

(1) "X- year/month/week/day- old, when used before a noun, does not have -s on the year/month/week/day part. When used after a verb and not before a noun, it does have -s, if X is two or more." —Hill.

We have a one-year-old son. We have a six-year-old daughter. Our son is one year old. Our daughter is six years old.

Similarly, five-year-plan etc.

¹ 'Three-years' is adjective and hence singular.

² Actual subject is nothing and nothing is singular.

³ Bona fides is singular. "... readers of this book are advised to construe bona fides with a singular verb" — MEU by Fowler (p.112); Current Eng. Usage by F. T. Wood (p. 42).

493 Misuse of the Possessive form : [See Arts. 138 and 473].

Incorrect	Correct
I have read Tagore's poems who is a great poet.	the poems of Tagore who
I am fond of Keat's poems .	Keats'
Go to the man's house who died.	the house of the man
I shall go by 3 o'clock's train.	3 o'clock train
Everybody loves Shakespeare and Tennyson's poems .	Shakespeare's and Tennyson's
Her house's number was not known.	The number of her house

494 Use of Negatives :

There is not anybody here.	There is nobody here
Anyone does not know the truth.	No one knows the truth.

495 Miscellaneous :

It is a nice poetry .	{ a nice poem . a nice piece of poetry . is nice poetry .
He gave false witness .	gave false evidence ; or, bore false witness
It is fifteen minutes past three o'clock .	past three
The clock has struck four hours .	four
The male (or female) were absent.	men (or women)
He applied for teachery .	teachership
I applied for lecturership .	lectureship
¹ The water of this place suits me.	climate
The weather of Calcutta suits me.	climate
Do you have a television ?	a television set ?
I shall go by the 5.15 o'clock train. (i)	the 5.15 train, or the quarter past five o'clock train
I had no rupees .	no money
Good night , sir, how are you? (ii)	evening
He promised me food and boarding .	board and lodging
Give me fooding and loding .	{ food and lodging board and lodging
His English knowledge is poor.	knowledge of English
You should not question my bona fide .	bona fides

¹If the quality of water is referred to, the sentence is quite correct.

Incorrect	Correct
He brought a few articles of clothes for me.	clothing ✓
There is no place in this bench.	room ✓
He has lots of rupees .	money
I want three breads .	three pieces of bread or loaves .
I saw a theatre last night.	saw a play
The audience of a football match are pleased when a goal is made .	The spectators of a goal is scored .
She has a fascination for birds (iii).	Birds have a fascination for her (i.e., birds fascinate her).
I quoted it from heart .	from memory .
Learn or say by memory .	by heart (POD).
I got a freeship .	a free studentship . ✓
He took much trouble to do it.	great pains to do it. ✓
My family members	the members of my family
He is my class-friend .	class-fellow or class-mate .
He is my cousin brother .	He is my cousin .
What is the cost of the pen ?	price ✓
I came on a private business .	a private piece of business or came on private business .
Credit it in my name .	to my account
He is a man of business . (iv)	man of action . ✓
He put on pantaloons or full pants (v).	put on trousers or drawers .
He puts on half pants . (v)	puts on shorts .
We sat in the shadow of the tree.	shade
She is an important staff . (vi)	important member of the staff .

Note

(i) When the number of minutes is specified, 'o'clock' is not used. It is correct to say, 'by half-past twelve o'clock train', but not: 'by the twelve and a half train' nor 'by the twelve and a half o'clock train', —Rowe and Webb.

(ii) Good night and good-bye are parting salutations; good morning, good day, good afternoon, good evening are either meeting or parting salutations—Rowe and Webb. But according to Chambers, good-night "is a common salutation on parting at night or well on in the day." Also McMordie.

(iii) The correction is applicable when the intended sense is that she has a strong liking for birds. 'She has a fascination for birds' means birds like her.

(iv) Man of business—one who is carrying on a trade.

(v) "Pantaloons, pants. The British words for these, except in uneducated and shop use, are trousers (or colloq, breeches) and drawers. American idiom differs."—MEU. COD has under pantaloons "pl. : chiefly U.S. and being ousted by pants."

(vi) Staff is collective. An individual is a member of the staff.

ADJECTIVES

(496) Misuse of Words :

Incorrect	Correct
I have a strong headache.	bad
This is more preferable than that.	is preferable to [Art. 87(d)]
Which do you prefer most ? ¹	drop most
It is a truthful report. ²	true or correct
A little number of boys remained. ³	small
He made many images, big and small .	big and little , or large and small ³
There is not any man in the room.	no man
This meat is hard .	is tough .
The world is beauty for him. ⁴	beautiful
Tom is their mutual friend .	common
He came today morning.	this morning .
He took care of me very much .	He took very great care of me.
He is in very much distress.	in great distress, or is very much distressed .
He felt very gaiety . ⁴	very gay .
The economical position of the country is bad. ⁵	economic position
He came yesterday night .	last night or, yesterday at night .
He went out with his head open .	bare .
He is a reputed headmaster ⁶ .	a headmaster of repute .
It is a clouded day.	cloudy
This garden is five times bigger than the other. ⁷	five times as big as
Whole India mourns for him.	The whole of India , (or, All India) mourns etc. (Art. 314)
No less than fifty men was present there.	No fewer than fifty men were
He acted well in comedies than in tragedies.	better

¹*Prefer* is an absolute term, and cannot be modified by more or most.

²*Truthful* generally applies to a person who is in the habit of speaking the truth.

³"The idiomatic antitheses are great and little, big and little, great and small, large and small, not large and little, nor big and small." —COD (under little)

⁴*Beauty*, gaiety are nouns.

⁵*Economical* means cheap, thrifty, not wasteful. Economic is the adjectival form of economics, the science of production and distribution of wealth.

⁶*Reputed* = generally considered to be (not famous): he is reputed to be a rich man.

⁷"Since the comparative indicates merely superiority, and is not in itself confined to any definite limit, there cannot be multiples of it. It can be modified only by adverbs of degree, like much, little, rather, scarcely, barely, far or by a statement of a definite amount, as five pounds heavier, ten shillings dearer" —WOOD.

Incorrect

- ↙ No fewer than fifty kilograms of sugar was wasted.
- ↙ He is a man of childish simplicity.
- ↙ He was much happy to see me.
- ↙ Of Ram, Shyam and Jadu, I like the former.
- ↙ This is a dining table.
- ↙ This is my dining time.

Correct

- No less than
- childlike*
- very* happy
- first* or first named
- dinner-table* (but Chambers gives both the forms).
- dinner-time*.

(497) Words misplaced :

- | | |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| ↙ Why did you take my this book ? | this book of mine ? |
| ↙ My all books are lost. | All my books |
| ↙ My brother's all books are lost. | { All my brother's books |
| | { All the books of my brother |
| ↙ His both brothers are ill. | Both his brothers |
| ↙ Give me a cold glass of water. | glass of cold water. |
| ↙ I spent rupees ten yesterday | spent ten rupees |

(498) In the Use of Articles :

- | | |
|--|--|
| ↙ I have great deal of work to do. | a great deal |
| ↙ Give me three and half rupees. | three and a half rupees, or, three rupees and a half. |
| ↙ The Magistrate failed to keep peace. | to keep the peace. |
| ↙ I took short sleep. | a short sleep. |
| ↙ Whole Bengal mourns for him. | The whole of Bengal, or All Bengal |
| ↙ People came from whole district. | the whole district. |
| ↙ She is in temper . | in a temper. |
| ↙ Always speak truth . | the truth. |
| ↙ Let us go out for walk . | for a walk. |
| ↙ The vacation is drawing to close . | to a close. |
| ↙ I shall try to give answer to the questions. | an answer |
| ↙ Give me hundred rupees. | a hundred rupees. |
| ↙ Benefit of doubt . | the benefit of the doubt |
| ↙ This is a slip of tongue (or, pen). | the tongue (or, the pen) |
| ↙ He made a fun of it. | made fun |
| ↙ Dont' make noise. | a noise. |
| ↙ The boy could not go to the school yesterday. (1) | go to school. |

প্রতিদিনের Current Affairs, বিভিন্ন Update, গুরুত্বপূর্ণ খবর, চাকরির খবর, Motivational Quotes...

Join Now

Click Here

Telegram

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস

প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

WhatsApp

Join Now

Click Here

বিভিন্ন প্রতিযোগিতামূলক পরীক্ষার জন্য গুরুত্বপূর্ণ Free Study Materials, PDF ইত্যাদি দিয়ে থাকি...

Incorrect	Correct
✓ He will go in for law (become lawyer).	for the law.
✓ He will go to the law (take legal action).	drop the
✓ I shall go to cinema today.	the cinema
✓ Late C.R. Das was a barrister.	The late
✓ He plays guitar well.	the guitar
✓ He lives in U.S.A.	the U.S.A.
✓ Brahmaputra is a big river.	The Brahmaputra
✓ We went for picnic .	a picnic.
✓ He caught me by hand .	the hand.
✓ Fire broke out in our flat.	A fire
✓ Have you listened to radio news this morning?	the radio
✓ I am of opinion that he is wrong.	of the opinion
✓ It is quarter to seven.	a quarter to
✓ Which colour do you like, the red or blue ?	the red or the blue?
✓ The man is mortal.	omit the
✓ He is a M.A. in Bengali.	an M.A.
✓ My house is near the Deshapriya Park.	omit the
✓ They elected him the President of the club.	omit the
✓ Meat is sold by kilogram.	by the kilogram.
✓ The book was in a good condition.(2)	omit a
✓ I get up early in morning.	in the morning
✓ I get up before the sunrise.	omit the
✓ He had headache yesterday. (3)	a headache
✓ I hope to be doctor one day.	a doctor
✓ I enjoyed the beauty of the nature.	omit the

Note

- ✓ (1) Go to school for study but go to the school to visit the school.
- ✓ (2) In good/bad condition, 'condition' is an idiom which does not take a.
- ✓ (3) But not a toothache, a backache.

PRONOUNS

499 Pronouns omitted :

✓ Suffice to say, you are wrong.	Suffice it to say
✓ I shall avail the opportunity.	avail myself of

Incorrect

- ✓ He absented from the meeting.
- ✓ He prides on his success.
- ✓ They enjoyed at the theatre.
- ✓ No boy in the class is so good as Amal.

Correct

- absented himself
- prides himself on, or takes pride in
- enjoyed themselves at
- No other boy

500 Pronoun inserted :

- ✓ He kept himself away from school
- ✓ I feel myself unwell.
- ✓ He tried his heart and soul.
- ✓ Commit this to your heart.
- ✓ I cannot call to my mind what happened.
- ✓ He is out of his danger.
- ✓ I have much work on my hand.
- ✓ Your letter is to my hand.
- ✓ He lost his patience¹.
- ✓ Commit this to your memory.
- ✓ Of all other boys he is the best.

- kept away
- feel unwell.
- tried heart and soul.
- Commit this to heart.
- call to mind what happened.
- out of danger.
- on hand.
- is to hand.
- lost patience.
- drop your.
- omit other

501 In the use of the Case :

- ✓ I want your reply at once.
- ✓ I shall take your leave.
- ✓ I hope to have your good report. (a)
- ✓ I cannot bear your separation.
- ✓ Follow in his steps who is wise (b)
- ✓ Let he and I go.
- ✓ Everyone except I was present. (c)
- ✓ There is trouble between he and I. (d)
- ✓ He is the man who, they say, the police arrested.
- ✓ The college of whose Principal he was is a renowned one.
- ✓ I saw the man whom they thought was dead.

- want a reply from you
- take leave of you.
- have a good report of, or about you.
- bear separation from you.
- in the steps of one who
- Let him and me
- except me
- between him and me.
- whom*
- of which* he was the Principal or, whose Principal he was².
- who* they.....dead ; or whom they thought dead.

¹But 'to lose one's temper' (not to lose temper).

²"It is legitimate to use whose of non-personal and inanimate thing"—Wood.

(28/2023)

Incorrect	Correct
✓ This matter should be discussed strictly between you and I . (d)	between you and me .
✓ All of us—Ajoy, Tapan, Bimal and me —was present. Bimal and I —were present.
✓ Some of you will have to come in their own cars.	your
✓ I wish I were him .	were he .
✓ It must have been her at the door.	she
✓ You didn't know that it was me who did it.	I

Note

- (a) Your good report = the good report brought by you.
 (b) See Art. 138, 473.
 (c) 'Except' is a preposition, and is therefore followed by the objective case.
 (d) "Between is a preposition, and any pronoun that follows it must therefore be in the accusative case."—Wood.

(502) Miscellaneous :

✓ I bought a pen and gave the same to him. (1)	gave it
✓ They met some day to discuss it. (2).	one (or on a certain) day
✓ One of the boys have fallen ill	has
✓ I and you shall go.	You and I
✓ Netaji was one of the bravest soldier that has fought for the country.	-----soldiers that have-----
✓ Calcutta is bigger than any city in India.	any other
✓ She was the best of all other singers.	all singers.
✓ We expected Mr and Mrs Roy's presence whom we found were nice people.	the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Roy who
✓ When one hears of an accident, he feels very sorry.	one feels
✓ Everything including the books were bought.	was
✓ Each of them came in their turn.	in his turn.
✓ One should do his duty.	one's
✓ The climate of Delhi is hotter than Calcutta.	hotter than that of Calcutta.
✓ No one should leave one's own seat.	leave his own seat.
Neither (or, Either) of them were present.	was

IncorrectCorrect

- | | |
|---|--|
| Each of the boys are good. | is |
| Neither he nor his brother were there. | was |
| Ram, Shyam and Jadu, each have come. | has |
| Each boy and each girl are present today. | is |
| A gap of two feet is there between each of the tables. (3) | between each table and the next |
| There will be a break of fifteen minutes between each session (3). | between the sessions |
| Either the boy or his friends is responsible for this. | are |
| Everyone must do their duty. | his |
| Neither of them saw each other . | saw the other. |
| The more you practice, you will get better . | the better you will get. |
| Neither of the four girls succeeded. | None of |
| The earlier we leave, we will get there earlier . | the earlier we get there. |
| Myself will do it. | I myself |
| The busier you become, lesser time you have for reading. | the less time you have.... |
| I want a reading room of myself . | of my own |
| Rabin and myself went there. | and I |
| He brought his small sister with himself . | with him |

Note

- (1) This use of the same is confined to legal or formal diction.
- (2) Some day is generally used of an uncertain point of future time. I shall go there some day.
- (3) Each is singular and there cannot be 'between' one.

VERBS(503) Passive for Active :

- | | |
|---|-------------------------|
| A quarrel was ensued. | quarrel ensued. |
| The book is belonged to me. | belongs to |
| He was seemed to be happy | seemed to be |
| The river is issued from a lake. | issues from |
| He was died of fever. | He died |
| This is hard to be believed . (1) | hard to believe. |
| This is not easy to be learnt . (1) | easy to learn. |

Incorrect

- ✓ He was despaired of success.
- ✓ The event was happened long ago.
- ✓ He was impossible to be convinced.
- ✓ He has been profited by the experience.

Correct

- He despaired
- omit was.
- It was impossible to convince him.
- He profited

Note

(1) Adjectives are generally followed by the active infinitive instead of by the passive infinitive.

(504) Misuse of Verbs :

- | | |
|--|---|
| ✓ He says me a fool. | calls |
| ✓ He says good English. | speaks or talks (COD) |
| ✓ He spoke a lie. | told (1) |
| ✓ He tells that he will go away. | says (2) |
| ✓ I told him, "Go away". | { said to him (3) |
| | { I told him to go away . |
| ✓ See the word in the dictionary. | Look up (4) |
| ✓ Please see my certificates. | look at (4) |
| ✓ When I went there, I saw him ill. | found |
| ✓ He will see my papers. | look over |
| ✓ Please see the pulse of the patient. | feel |
| ✓ Eat one's dinner. | take or have one's dinner. |
| ✓ He was so rude that I could not hear him. | listen to (5) |
| ✓ The distance was so great that I could not listen to him. | hear (5) |
| ✓ I forwarded myself as a candidate. | offered |
| ✓ You have made a wrong to him. | done (6) |
| ✓ He kept pass marks. | obtained or got |
| ✓ We once knew that he was honest, but now we find our mistake. | believed or thought (7) |
| ✓ He takes recourse to fraud. | has recourse |
| ✓ Can I come in, sir? | May I |
| ✓ He denied to help me and said me a fool. | refused, called me |
| ✓ He knows to swim . | how to swim. |
| ✓ I refused that I had done. | denied |
| ✓ Please hear his advice. | listen to his advice. |
| ✓ He will not go, I believe . | presume. (8) |
| ✓ Please grant me leave, as I intend to go home. | wish or want (9) |

Incorrect

- Do not catch my hand.
- Will you take a cigarette?
- He has thrown the milk.
- I hope it will take a week.
- They made two goals.
- I want to mend my pencil.
- I shall take leave of the master.
- When he was in Calcutta, he would read in the City College.
- They do not use to do so.
- He gave me a visit.
- He was tired, so he laid down.
- He stroke me very hard.
- The river has overflown its banks.
- My father admitted me into that school.
- He took admission into that school.
- I await for your decision. (15)
- I desire that he would win.
- I intend that he will be a doctor.
- I hope I shall not pass.
- It is lightning just now. (16)
- He has an interest in music. (17)

Correct

- catch hold of
- have
- spilt or upset
- I expect it etc.
- scored
- sharpen
- ask the master for leave (10)
- ask leave of the master.
- he read (11)
- do not do so, or, are not used to doing so. (12)
- paid me
- lay.
- struck [Art. 188 (b)]
- overflowed (13)
- got me admitted, or put me (14)
- was admitted, or got admission
- I wait for (or await) your decision. (wait for/await)
- he should win. [Art. 244 Note (c)]
- he shall or should
- I am afraid
- It lightened
- is interested in

Note

- (1) But we speak the truth (COD); and tell the truth, also tell a lie—(COD).
- (2-3) Tell in the sense of command or inform requires an indirect object. It is not generally used to introduce a direct speech.
- (4) See is a general term without any special effort or attention. Thus 'I could not see him,' because he was hidden or because I was blind; 'I could not look at him,' because his appearance was distasteful to me. —Rowe and Webb.
- (5) This mistake is exactly parallel to the misuse of see for look at. Hear is a general term, while listen denotes attention.
- (6) We make—a mistake, an error, a blunder; we do—wrong, harm, injury; we commit—a fault, a crime, an offence, sin. —Rowe and Webb. Also commit a blunder, error —POD.
- (7) "Know is generally used about what is true; we cannot know anything but an actual fact." —Rowe and Webb.
- (8) Believe generally denotes a settled conviction, or certainty of the mind and is too formal and serious a term to be used in sentences like the above which is a sort of enquiry—Ibid.
- (9) Intend signifies a fixed determination and should not, therefore, be used by a subordinate when making a request to a superior.—Ibid.
- (10) To take leave of: to part from, to bid farewell to.

(11) Would may be used to denote an action occasionally and irregularly repeated in the past, but not a systematic course of conduct.

(12) "The verb use in the sense of 'be accustomed' has all its faculties; 'I am used to it' is a familiar and legitimate modern usage; and ... the use of the auxiliary do with use in this sense has a respectable ancestry ... The odd thing is that we never say or write 'don't use' nowadays. But 'did, didn't use' cannot be altogether condemned if only because we have never really admitted 'used he?' and 'usedn't he?' as alternatives. Nevertheless, the construction is admitted to speech only; in writing a convenient paraphrase has to be discovered." — Good English by G.H. Vallins.

(13) Flown is the p.p. of fly; the p.p. of flow is flowed. See Art. 188(f).

(14) 'He has admitted me' may be used if he refers to the Headmaster or the Principal.

(15) "Await is always transitive but wait is not always intransitive." (Modern Eng. Usage). Hence 'await' is followed by a noun, pronoun or gerund, not by an infinitive; 'wait' may have the infinitive construction, as well as the normally transitive construction of await, and an intransitive used with for. The following sentences are correct :

"I await (or wait) your decision. I wait for you to decide (not await). They found him awaiting them. They found him waiting for them. I shall wait to bring him home (not await). I await (or wait) his ruling on the matter." A.B.C. of English Usage.

(16) Lightning is a noun, to lighten is a verb.

(17) To have an interest means to have a claim or share in something. If aptitude or curiosity is meant, the verb should be to be interested in.

505 In the use of the Tense :

Incorrect

- It is raining for a week.
- He is suffering for three days.
- The earth is moving round the sun.
- I have arrived yesterday.
- I have seen my friend long ago.
- You are not understanding my difficulties.
- Try hard so that you might win.
- I am looking forward to see you soon.
- I wish you will help me.
- I hope he would do well.
- We shall look forward to seeing you in the winter.
- When you will come here, I shall go with you.
- The crops will die before the rains will fall.
- Should you pass he will be happy.
- If I should meet a tiger I shall run.
- I accompanied the children in order that they reach safely. (time)

Correct

- has been raining*
- has been suffering*
- earth moves round
- arrived* [Art. 176 Note (b)]
- saw*
- do not understand*
- may*
- seeing*
- would*
- will*
- we look forward
- you come here (see Art. 335)
- rains fall.
- would be* [Art. 244, Note (b)]
- I should run.
- they should reach safely.

Incorrect

- As he is ill for two months, he is advised not to give the examination.
- It is high time government do something in this matter.
- I am living in Suri for a long time.
- Forty years passed since India has become free.
- My friend has gone out before I arrived.
- I have been in Delhi two months ago.
- You had better to go home now.
- When I returned home, he still didn't finish the job.
- As we discussed the matter, the phone rang.
- He assured he will come.
- She said she has never seen him before.
- If I would have known, I would'nt have gone.

Correct

- has been ill, sit for, or appear at
- did something (1) *
- have been living at Suri
- have passed since India became free.
- had gone out
- was in Delhi
- better go (2) *
- still hand't finished the job. ✓
- we were discussing
- would come
- had never seen
- had known (Art. 262)

Note

(1) Phrases like It's time, It's high time are used with verbs in the past tense even though the action refers to the present or future time.

(2) "Had better refers to the immediate future, but the form is always past. After had better we use the infinitive without to :

It's late — you had better hurry up". — Practical English Usage — Michael Swan [Also see Art. 213 (c)]

506 In the Interrogative Form :

- Where you are coming from? are you
- He asked why did I not go? I did not
- Tell me how are you? you are.
- He asked me what I want? what I wanted.
- I said to him why has he not gone. I asked him why he had not gone.
- Do you know who am I? who I am?
- I know who are you. who you are.
- Tell me what is his name? what his name is.
- Why you went there? did you go } (Art. 306 I, Note)
- How you can do it? can you
- Between whom the battle was fought? was the battle fought?
- How you like it? do you like it? (Art. 306 I, Note)

Incorrect	Correct
Do you know to whom are you speaking?	know whom (or, who) you are speaking to?
He is not a good boy, isn't it ?	is he ?
He can't swim, isn't it ?	can he ?
He can swim, can he ?	can't he ?
I must go, isn't it ?	mustn't I ?
You are going to the picture, isn't it ?	aren't you ?
You are not going to the picture, aren't you ?	are you ?

Note

The verb follows the nominative when the question is asked indirectly, but not otherwise.

507 (a) Misuse of Infinitive for a Gerund [See Art. 228] :

He succeeded to win the prize.	in winning
He persisted or insisted to go .	persisted in , or insisted on going .
Capable to do	Capable of doing .
He despaired to pass .	of passing .
Stop to write .	Stop writing .
I went there with the hope to see him.	hope of seeing him.
I could not help to do it.	help doing it.
I have finished to write .	finished writing .
You have no excuse to be late.	for being
He prevented me to go .	from going .
He is unequal to do it.	to doing it.
He has stopped to smoke	stopped smoking .
We are looking forward to see you.	to seeing you.
What are their reasons to say this?	reasons for saying
I did not do it with the hope to get something.	hope of getting
These are several manners to do it.	manners of doing it.
He was accused to be the culprit.	of being the culprit.
He was suspected to be the murderer.	of being the murderer.

Note

Verbs of prevention, except forbid, are followed by from and a gerund.

(b) Misuse of the Gerund for the Infinitive :

He came for seeing me.	to see
I went there for getting help.	to get

Incorrect

- ✓ The studying of scientific fiction is his hobby.
- ✓ I intend learning German.

Correct

- the study of
- to learn*

Note

For with a gerund is not used to express a purpose; it denotes a cause; as "He was punished for going there".

508 Miscellaneous:

ଅସଂସ୍କୃତ/ଅସଂସ୍କୃତ

- ✓ I wish I was dead.
- ✓ I would do it if I was he.
- ✓ Oh, that your misery was over!
- ✓ I would be surprised if he was successful.
- ✓ I am the man who am guilty.
- ✓ It is you who is guilty.
- ✓ You mistake in thinking this.
- ✓ I desire that he will win.
- ✓ He speaks as if he knows everything.
- ✓ I am anxious that he will recover.
- ✓ He need not to go.
- ✓ I need go there.
- ✓ You do not need go there
- ✓ I saw a dead ox walking there.
- ✓ Writing a letter it was posted.
- ✓ A house is capable of being built here.
- ✓ We left Calcutta on Sunday reaching Benaras the next day.
- ✓ Alarmed by his temperature, a car was sent for the doctor.
- ✓ Lying in bed, an idea occurred to me.
- ✓ Being a rainy day, we did not go out for a walk.
- ✓ I asked him to regularly take exercise.
- ✓ The old machines are substituted by new ones. ନିର୍ଦ୍ଦଳନ କରାଯାଇ

- I were
- if I were [Art. 210] ✓
- were* over. ✓
- he were [Art. 210] ✓
- who is [Art. 468]
- who are [Art. 468]
- are mistaken*
- should* win. [Art. 244, Note (c)]
- knew*
- should* [Art. 244, Note (c)]
- omit to.* ✖
- to go* ✖
- to go*
- While walking there I saw a dead ox. [Art. 220]
- Writing a letter I (or he) posted it. ✓
- could be built*
- We left Calcutta on Sunday and reached Benaras the next day.
- Alarmed ... temperature, we sent a car for the doctor.
- As I was lying in bed ... etc.
- It being* ✓
- to take exercise regularly*
- are replaced by (or with)* new ones, or, New machines are substituted for the old.

Incorrect

- Arriving late at the bus stop the bus went off without me.
[The bus did not arrive late]
- Seeing that the hour was late, it was decided to postpone the committee vote. (1)
- Unaccustomed to getting up early, it was difficult for him to go to work on time. (2)

Correct

- Arriving late at the bus stop, I missed the bus.
-was late, the committee decided to postpone.....
-getting up early, he found it difficult.....

Note

(1) & (2) — An introductory verbal modifier should be directly followed by the noun or pronoun which it modifies. Such a modifier will start with a gerund or participial phrase and be followed by a comma.

ADVERBS

509 Adverbs omitted :

- As I awoke the thief ran.
I do not know to dance.
¹He is regarded a fool.
Don't spend more than you can help.
They drove the enemy.
²He prefers to walk than to ride.

- ran out* or away.
how to dance.
as a fool.
you cannot help. (or you need or must or are obliged to).
drove out
rather than to ride ; or, He prefers walking to riding.

510 Adverbs inserted :

- He was cowed down by threat.
I cannot continue it any longer.
The boy was named as Raja by his parents
I shall try as best as I can.
You are kindly requested to reply sharp.
He is comparatively better today.
- He was elected as chairman.
He was appointed as Headmaster.
He was called as Asoke the Great.³
I considered him as my brother.³

- omit down.
continue it. (1)
omit as. Cf. He has been named as the next president of the club.
as best I can. [Art. 346 (c)]
You are requested to reply sharp kindly. (2) is better, or comparatively well [Art. 87(e) Note] drop as.
drop as.
drop as.
drop as ; or, regarded him as

¹As is not used after verb of naming, such as call, term, consider, style, name, entitle : but it is used after verbs of describing such as, represent, define, mention, regard, characterise. But see footnote next page for consider.

²"Prefer followed by simple than (not rather than) is not allowable."—A.B.C. of English usage. "Prefer than without rather is not English"—MEU.

³See footnote, above. But the Secretary, Clarendon Press, Oxford, wrote to the present author : "I think MEU is being too strict in condemning 'consider as a fool'. The idiom has now become so common as to be more or less acceptable." A.B.C. of Eng. Usage also writes, 'may be considered also as a sub. adj. clause' in p. 248.

Incorrect

We are united together.

Correct

drop together.

Note

(1) Any longer is superfluous.

(2) Kindly requested implies kindness on the part of the person making the request, but the speaker evidently asks for it of the person spoken to.

(511) Miscellaneous :

The stone is very hard to be broken.	too hard
I am too glad to see you.	very glad
This is somewhat true.	partly
I am quite sorry to learn this.	very
The boys went by and by .	one by one (1) by and by - shortly.
He became a district magistrate by and by .	in course of time . (1) → जल्दबाजी
There is some doubt as to whether he will go.	omit as to . and to - तक
Will you go there? Of course , I shall.	Certainly (2)
Do not stop on the way but go home directly .	direct . (3) direct - पुस्त directly - बेसुझाव
I hit him hardly .	hard
The medicine is distributed freely .	free (4)
I told him the story in details .	in detail
He had his bath, ate his breakfast and after all went to school.	then , or at last (5)
I have been ill long since .	for a long time .
He did it long before .	long ago , or long since .
He met me two days before .	ago .
I have not heard from him long since .	for a long time : or It is long since I heard from him .
It is ten years ago since they left this place.	ten years ago that or, ten years since they.....
I seldom or ever find them quarrelling.	seldom or never [Art. 271]
I could not arrive there timely .	in time (6).
The subject has been masterly treated.	in a masterly way . (6)
He behaved gentlemanly .	in a gentlemanly manner . (6)
He acted cowardly .	like a coward , or, in a cowardly manner . (6)
I never remember to have seen him.	I do not remember having ever seen him.

Incorrect

What do you prefer most ?
 He was so coward that he did not help his friend.
 He is suffering from fever since a week.
 Hurry up, else you will miss the train.
 Let us sit down for awhile.
 They had a real good time.
 You cannot succeed other than by hard work.
 He does his work very good.
 He is at the same class with me.
 Mr Sen is the person who is mostly to blame.
 The letter is written partially in French and partially in English.
 It is raining ; please stay indoor.
 There is some doubt as to whether he will go.
 I doubt that he will come.

Correct

omit most. (7)
such a coward (or so cowardly) (8) has been suffering from fever for a week.
or (or, or else) you will miss the train. [Art. 269(b)] sit down for a while or sit down awhile. (9) really (10)
except (or, otherwise than) (11)
very well (or, does very good work).
same class as I am. (12)
most (13) is a adverb and also adjective partly in French and partly in English.
indoors. (14) indoors is a adjective.
 omit as to (15)
if or whether he will come. (15)

Note

- (1) By and by = shortly, in a short time, and not gradually or after a series of intervals.
- (2) Of course should never be used except to denote a natural or inevitable consequence ;
as—Does not the earth move round the sun? Of course, it does.
- (3) Directly = immediately ; direct = straight.
- (4) Freely = liberally, (and not 'without any charge')
- (5) After all = in spite of all that has gone before to the contrary. It should never be used of a natural consequence.
- (6) Timely, masterly, cowardly, gentlemanly are all adjectives, — not adverbs. But Chambers uses the first three as adverbs also.
- (7) Prefer has a comparative sense : hence it cannot have more or most.
- (8) Coward is noun and cannot be preceded by adverb so. Instead, we can use such a. So can be retained if it is followed by the adjective cowardly (not adverb).
- (9) Awhile is an adverb meaning for a short time. It should not be confused with a while where while is a noun meaning period of time.
- (10) Real is an adjective. The adverbial really is required to describe the adjective good.
- (11) Other than is adjectival and not adverbial.
- (12) The same is followed by as, not with.
- (13) "The normal adverb of degree is most..... Mostly means 'for the most part though not entirely' : His stories were mostly about his travels in foreign parts". — Wood.
- (14) Indoor is adjective : indoor games, indoor serial. Indoors is adverb ; to go indoors.
- (15) In affirmative sentences, the verb doubt is followed by whether or if ; but in negative sentences, it is followed by that. As, I doubt if of whether he will go there, I do not doubt that he will pass.

PREPOSITIONS

(512) Prepositions omitted :

Incorrect	Correct
We dispensed his services.	dispensed with
I pray God.	pray to
I shall compensate you the loss.	} you for the loss.
I shall compensate the loss to you.
He is suffering fever.	suffering from
He meditates the past life.	meditates upon ¹
I informed him the matter.	informed him of the matter.
He refers me in the letter.	refers to me
Attend your work	Attend to
Open page 50.	Open at
I believe God.	believe in
He has partaken refreshments.	partaken of
How are you going with your studies ?	going on
He is musing the past.	musings upon ,
He availed the opportunity	availed himself of the opportunity
Your conduct admits no excuse	admits of
The prize was hotly competed	competed for
I confess some suspicion in my mind.	confess to
He tyrannised the people	tyrannised over
Do not boast your money.	boast of
He complied my request	complied with
I cannot conceive such cruelty.	conceive of
I begged him a favour.	him for a favour

(513) Prepositions inserted :

I regret at the delay.	omit at .
He resembles to his father.	omit to .
This violates against the rule.	omit against .
Recommend for me to him.	omit for .
² Investigate into the matter.	omit into .

¹ See footnote on page 186.

² Chambers uses investigate as an intransitive verb also.

Incorrect	Correct
Let us discuss about the matter.	omit about .
He opposed against us.	omit against .
He tried with heart and soul.	omit with .
He mediates upon going.	omit upon .
He ordered for my dismissal.	omit for .
They ascended on or up the hill.	omit on, up .
The family comprises of ten members.	omit of .
He picked up a quarrel with me.	omit up .
He pocketed up the insult.	omit up .
This feeling pervades through the country.	omit through .
He resigned from the post.	omit from .
This does not answer to my purpose.	omit to .
I shall combat with your views.	omit with .
I emphasised (or, stressed) on the point.	omit on , or, put emphasis (or, stress) on .
He left the place with bag and baggage.	omit with .
We reached in or to Calcutta safely.	omit in, to .
He could not cope up with the heavy work.	omit up .
He ordered for a cup of tea.	omit for .
He met with us there.	omit with ¹ .
He entered in the house.	omit in .
We have a culture of which we are proud of .	a culture we are produd of , or, a culture of which we are proud.

314 Misuse of Prepositions :

It was substitued by another.
(Replac)

He is absent at the meeting.

He is confined in bed

Cats live by milk

He is in that committee.

There is no remedy of this.

Another was substituted for it, or, It was replaced by or with another.

from

to

on

on

for (see under "Appropriate Prepositions").

¹But, he met with an accident.

Incorrect	Correct
He is good in mathematics.	at
He reads English to or near me.	with
I told him this in or at his face.	to his face.
Write with ink.	in ink
He gave me a cheque of Rs. 500.00	for
He presented a bill of Rs. 200.00	for
He passed as a nice man there.	for
There is no end of troubles.	to
This is the reason of his downfall.	for
He listened to the news by the radio.	on
He was invited at the meeting.	to
I went to his house to enquire of him.	after (1)
It is the most expensive car of the world.	in
We did not arrive at time.	in or on time
He stares me at the face.	in
I am tired with this work.	of this work
Arrange the subject matter into three heads.	under
He ate his meals in a brass plate.	from
Flour is made of wheat.	from
I devoted the time in reading.	to
He was appointed in that post.	to
What is the time in your watch ?	by
The chair is made from wood.	of
He has been here since many years.	for
He has an eye for his profit.	to
I shall inform this to him.	inform him of this.
I sat under the feet of a great teacher.	at
Is there no solution out of the difficulty ?	to , or of or for (COD).
I left my book to or near him.	with
He has a ring in his finger.	on
Do not jump at a conclusion.	to
He jumped to the offer of help.	at
Due to the accident, he could not go.	Owing to [Art. 346(d)]

Incorrect	Correct
He spent his all for this house.	on
The post is under or in my disposal.	at
You should not lose sight from the fact.	of
What is the reason of his sudden outburst?	for
His knowledge in English is poor.	of
He started for his journey.	started on
Call into question.	Call in question
He said this in front of the Headmaster.	in the presence of
I could not go for illness.	on account of
I could not attend office due to illness.	owing to illness.
The boy is only eight, and in that age he needs care.	at
She is a teacher of a high school.	in
He did it on his own accord.	of his own accord.
You must do it before a week.	within (2)
You must do it within the 7th.	before or by (2)
It is a quarter before five	to
I am interested about the matter.	in
It is difficult to me.	for
The examination will begin from 2nd March.	on
The family is composed with ten members.	of
You may buy two apples by a rupee.	for a rupee.
The child was run upon by a car.	over
The policeman took the patient at the nearest hopsital.	to
He has an account on that bank.	at or with
They departed to Tokyo.	for
The train is running in time.	to
They went to Delhi for business.	on
He is senior/junior than me.	senior/junior to me.
He is superior/inferior than me in all respects.	superior/inferior to me.
I prefer Ram than Shyam.	Ram to Shyam.
I shall look after the matter.	into

Incorrect

Correct

I congratulated him for his success.	on
Sri Lanka is in the south of India.	to (3)
He was born from rich parents.	of
I have no work on hand now.	in
He lectured about pollution control.	on
I caught him in the neck.	by
The boys were joking to each other.	with
He, on his part, will say nothing.	for
He is not in good terms with his brother.	on
He comes from a rich family.	of
He has been ill since ten days.	for the last ten days.
They went to Delhi a month before .	a month ago .
She has been absent from Sunday last.	since Sunday last.
The office will be closed after a few days.	in a few days.
He has been ill since childhood.	from childhood.
You have been suffering since two months.	for two months.
She is suffering from Sunday last.	has been suffering since Sunday last.
He begged this dress from me.	of
The speaker talked about the subject of national planning.	on
This is a task for which he is unequal.	to which he is etc.
At one's own initiative	on or of one's etc. (MEU)
He rested for some time between each stroke.	after each stroke ; or between the strokes ; or between every stroke and the next. (4)
Distinguish between each of the following pairs of words.	between the words in each of the following pairs (4)
The house stood between the junction of the two streams.	at the junction of etc. ; or between the two streams. (4)
I shall be there between four to five o'clock.	between four and five o'clock
He took the initiative of doing it.	in doing it (MEU)
It is a quarter after five.	past
I live with Rs. 400 a month.	on

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস
প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য
Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

Incorrect	Correct
What for did you do it ?	What did you do it for ? (5) [Art.486]
He walks with a speed of five miles an hour.	at a speed
Ram was married with Sita.	to Sita
The train stops on all stations.	at
There is a lane with houses in each side.	on (6)
He went there by horse.	on a (7)

Note

- (1) Enquire of—ask a person himself. I enquired of him = asked him, not after or about him.
- (2) Within refers to a period of time; by or before refers to a point of time.
- (3) In the south of means inside the southern part of. To the south of means outside and in a southerly direction from.
- (4) Between must not govern a singular noun or a single expression in which a distributive pronoun each, every is treated as a plural—MEU. A.B.C. of English Usage. "The formula for between when it is not followed by an actual plural is between 'x and y'; no conjunction other than and is permissible" —Good English by G.H.Vallins.
- (5) In such sentences for is always used at the end of the sentence.
- (6) In would mean that the houses were inside the lane.
- (7) But by train, by plane, by bus.

(515) Conjunctions :

He got a pension till his life .	for life, or till his death
He called me as a fool.	a fool
Unless you do not work hard you will fail.	If you do not work hard, (or unless you work hard) [Art. 345]
Wait until I do not return.	Wait until I return. [Art. 345]
We had better go home than to wait.	go home rather than wait.
When you are guilty, you must suffer.	As, or since [As, Since whereas-तबसे]
Work hard lest you do not fail.	lest you should fail. [Art. 292(c), Note (i)]
It was not long until he came.	before he came.
He gave me two thousand, five hundred ten rupees.	--- gave me two thousand, five hundred and ten rupees. [Art. 346(l)]
¹ Please tell me your new address, also your telephone number.	and also your or and your telephone number.
I doubt that he will come.	doubt if or whether he [Art. 346(e)]
I have no doubt if he will come.	no doubt that he will come.
Supposing if he comes here, what will he do ?	Suppose he comes here-----.

¹Also is not a conjunction.

Incorrect

Correct

You have to choose between Ram or Shyam

Ram and Shyam

I shall either say this to him or his friend.

I shall say this either to him or to his friend. [Art. 489]

Madras is as big, if not bigger than, Bangalore

as big as, if not bigger than, ^{mean} Bangalore

There was no other way open but to go.

than to go, ^{mean}

I went with them in order that they behave themselves.

in order that (or, so that) they should behave themselves. [Art. 292(c), Note (ii)] ^(in order that - 276)
^(so that - 276)

He is more polite, but not so intelligent as his brother.

He is more polite than, but not so intelligent as, his brother

The man was walking fastly lest he does not miss the train.

fast, lest he should miss ^{fast is an adverb.}

He is not so wise what he thinks.

so wise as

The teacher, as well as his students, all left for the trip.

omit all

He is not so strong like you.

so strong as you.

More than three times as many people came than had been expected.

as had been expected.

Meet me between three or five.

between three and five.

The choice is between glorious death or shameful life.

and

He not only met me but also my brother.

He met not only me but also my brother. [Art. 489]

Although he came, but I did not see him.

omit but (1)

It is necessary that you go there.

you should go there.

He is not so ill as he could not walk.

that he could not walk.

He was afraid lest he would not pass.

lest he should fail. [Art. 292(c), Note (i)]

Note

(1) Use either although or but, but not both at the same time.

(516) Incongruous construction (from an attempt to make one word do the work of two). [See Arts. 484, 485, 487]:

My watch is inferior and less costly than yours.

(Inferior - ^{নিম্ন} / ^{নিম্ন} / ^{নিম্ন} / ^{নিম্ন})

{ (i) inferior to, and less costly than, yours; (ii) inferior to yours and less costly.

yours - ^{তোমার}

Incorrect

He was appointed and dismissed from the post on the same day.
He was offered the post and accepted it.

I have not seen him act or sing.
Many were delighted and everyone contented.

He came and returned to Japan.
He is more polite but not so kind-hearted as his brother.

Correct

(i) appointed to etc. (ii) appointed to the post and dismissed from it etc.
and he accepted it (or, it was accepted by him).

or heard him sing. -
everyone was contented

came from and returned to more polite than, but not so kind-hearted as, his brother.

(517) Confusion of constructions :

In the following examples the first two forms are correct and the third is an incorrect mixture of these two :

- (1) { He is a boy of three years of age.
He is a boy three years old.
He is a boy of three years old¹.
- (2) { He died when he was thirty years old.
He died at thirty years of age.
He died at thirty years old¹.
- (3) { Mangoes of this kind are sweet
This kind of mangoes is sweet
This kind of mangoes are sweet
- (4) { He prevented us from going.
He prevented our going.
He prevented us going.
- (5) { He got the better of his enemy.
He got the upper hand of his enemy. MEU under hand
He got the better hand of his enemy.
- (6) { I have studied him at close quarters.
I have studied him close at hand. MEU under close
I have studied him at close hand. close at hand - ७१(२२)
- (7) { You must keep abreast of the times.
You must keep pace with the times.
You must keep abreast with the times.²
- (8) { Ram as well as Shyam was there.
Both Ram and Shyam were there
Both Ram as well as Shyam was there.

¹But these are used by many good writers and are given in COD under of (6) and old (3). MEU writes, "They are recognised idioms."

²But abreast with is used by many good writers and given in POD, COD.

- (9) { How does he maintain himself?
 How does he maintain his livelihood? (livelihood - जीविकोपार्जन)
 How does he obtain his livelihood?

- (10) { Learn or say this by heart.
 Quote this from memory. quote - स्मरणसे by heart - दिल से
Learn this by memory; or Quote this by or from heart.

- (11) { I could not help laughing.
 I could not but laugh.
 I could not help but laugh.

- (12) { What is the distance between the two posts?
 What is the distance between one post and the next? } MEU under What is the distance between each post? } between

- (13) { He has to give way to a better man.
 He has to make way for a better man.
 He has to give way for a better man.

- (14) { The committee consists (or is composed) of five members.
 The committee comprises five members. comprise - बनाकर देना/संभालना
 The committee is comprised of five members.

- (15) { Five members constitute the committee.
 The committee comprises five members.
 Five members comprise the committee.

- (16) { His example inspired (or infused) us with courage.
 His example infused (or instilled) courage into us. infused - मिला देना/संभालना
 His example infused (or instilled) us with courage.

- (17) { He wrote to me.
 He wrote me a letter. (gods)
 He wrote me. [Art. 346(g)]

- (18) { This news is too good to be true.
 This is a news too good to be true.
 This is too good news to be true.

- (19) { He is as strong as I am.
 He is strong like me. — so —
 He is strong like I am.

- (20) { He rose to the occasion.
 He was equal to the occasion. } MEU under rise.
 He rose equal to the occasion. } by hundreds

- (21) { Men came there by the hundred.
 Men came there by hundreds. } MEU under the by the hundreds, by the yards
 Men came there by the hundreds. } द्वारा

- (22) { A is a better man than B.
 Of the two A is the better man. } MEU (pp. 644)
 A is the better man than B.

- (23) { He did it of his own accord.
He did it on his own account.
He did it of his own account. } MEU under account, accord.
- (24) { The cause of the trouble is his rudeness.
The trouble is due to his rudeness.
The cause of the trouble is due to his rudeness.
- (25) { I gave him credit for doing it.
I gave him the credit of doing it.
I gave him the credit for doing it. } When 'the' is put before 'credit', use of instead of for (McMordie).
- (26) { There is no other alternative than termination.
There is no alternative but termination.
There is no other alternative but termination.
- (27) { I have the pleasure of doing it.
It is my pleasure to do it.
I have the pleasure to do it. } MEU under pleasure.
- (28) { Comparatively few men were present.
A comparative few men were present.
A comparatively few men were present. } MEU under few.
- (29) { I have an interest in doing it.
I have a motive in doing it.
I have a motive for doing it. } MEU under motive
- (30) { In future the boy will be a great scholar.
In course of time the boy became a great scholar. (in course of time)
In future the boy became a great scholar.
- (31) { The report was attributed to me
The report was fathered on me.
The report was fathered on to me.
- (32) { I took the opportunity of visiting him.
I took advantage of his presence to visit him. (gerund)
I took the opportunity of his presence to visit him.

Note

"Opportunity is followed by of and gerund, not by of and noun, which construction belongs to advantage"—A.B.C. of Eng. Usage.

- (33) { He refuses to do the work.
He objects to doing the work.
He objects to do the work. } MEU
- (34) { He treated us to a meal.
He entertained us at a meal.
He entertained us to a meal. } MEU
- (35) { They will tend our needs.
They will attend to our needs.
They will tend to our needs. } MEU under tend.

- (36) { He wrote to whoever invited him.
He wrote to whomever he invited.
He wrote to whomever invited him.
- (37) { I am as interested in this as you.
I am interested in this equally with you.
I am interested in this equally as you.
- (38) { The reason he was absent was that he fell ill. } [Art. 292(b),
He could not come because he fell ill. } Note (ii)]
The reason he could not come was because he fell ill.
- (39) { I haven't seen the picture and she hasn't either.
I haven't seen the picture and neither has she.
I haven't seen the picture and she hasn't neither.
- (40) { This newspaper has the largest circulation of all the morning papers.
This newspaper has a larger circulation than any other morning paper.
This newspaper has the largest circulation of any other morning paper (or, of all other morning papers.)
- (41) { He is a man who I know is honest.
He is a man whom I know to be honest.
He is a man whom I know is honest.
- (42) { After the match was over, I returned home.
The match being over, I returned home.
After the match being over, I returned home.

518) Repetition of the same idea in different words :

Incorrect : This is equally as good as that.

Correct : { These two are equally good.
This is as good as that.

Note

"Do not let as intrude between equally and the word it qualifies. Not equally as good, but equally good"— The Complete Plain Words by Sir Ernest Gowers.

Incorrect : He tried in vain, but he could not do it. ^{In vain - अर्थहीन}

Correct : { He tried, but he could not do it.
He tried in vain to do it.

Incorrect : He went there walking on foot.

Correct : { He went there on foot.
He went there walking.

Incorrect : That is the place from whence he came.

Correct : { That is the place whence he came.
That is the place from where he came.

whence, from where - येन्स

Incorrect : That is the cause why I don't go there.

Correct : { That is the cause of my not going there.
That is the reason why I don't go there.

(good)

Incorrect : A crowd of boys thronged into my room.

Correct : { A crowd of boys came into my room.
A number of boys thronged into my room.

Incorrect : ¹This is a new discovery to me. ✓

Correct : { This is a discovery to me.
This is a new thing to me.

Incorrect : I have come to a final conclusion.

Correct : { I have come to a conclusion.
I have come to a final decision.

Incorrect : Here is the book of that I told you.

Correct : { Here is the book of which I told you.
Here is the book (that) I told you of.

Incorrect : I am in entire charge of the whole work.

Correct : { I am in entire charge of the work.
I am in charge of the whole work.

Incorrect : He is a universal favourite of all.

Correct : { He is a universal favourite.
He is a favourite of all.

Incorrect : He has the entire monopoly of the trade.

Correct : He has a monopoly of the trade. (monopoly - 27/8/20)

Incorrect : He returned back to his village.

Correct : He returned (or, came back) to his village.

Incorrect : It has played an important factor in the matter.

Correct : { It has played an important part in the matter.
It has been an important factor in the matter.

Incorrect : It is quite all right.

Correct : { It is quite right. MEU under
It is all right. quite.

Incorrect : The activities of the club were limited only to games and sports.

Correct : The activities of the club were limited to (or, were directed only to) games and sports. (MEU, under tautology)

Incorrect : Women are on the same equality with men in this respect.

Correct : Women are in the same position as, or, on an equality with, men etc.

¹But "this is his new discovery" is correct. It means the had made other discoveries before.

Incorrect : He is comparatively better today.

Correct : { He is comparatively well today.
He is better today.

Incorrect : The licence was renewed again.

Correct : { The licence was renewed.(1)
The licence was given again.

Incorrect : Your dress is the same like mine.

Correct : { Your dress is like mine.
Your dress is the same as mine.

Note

(1) Similarly with any other verbs which contain the notion of again within itself, e.g., repeat, reconsider, recur, revive, reprint, reproduce, etc.

(519) Malapropism or confusion between words (similar to Mrs. Malaprop's in The Rivals by Sheridan).

Incorrect

It has only a vocal application.

I support your polity.

He is a man of unexceptional character.

He writes in a verbal style.

He portends ignorance.

He is respectively connected.

Correct

local policy or politics

unexceptionable

verbose

pretends

respectably

Unexceptional - अविशेष

(Unexceptionable - विशुद्ध)

(Verbose - अत्यधिक शब्द)

(Portend - चेष्टा गर्ने)

Respectively - क्रमशः

Respectably - शान्तिपूर्वक

(520) Order : (See Art. 489)

He is not strong in English but in Mathematics.

He not only helped me but also my brother.

I not only found him alive, but also cheerful.

Some countries have no sea port, such as Nepal.

I did it both for you and him.

You neither helped me nor him.

Either he did not know or lied.

Either this is true or, false.

The climate of India is hotter than England.

is strong, not in English, but in Mathematics.

He helped not only me but also etc.

I found him not only alive but also cheerful.

some countries, such as Nepal

{ (i) for both you and him¹
(ii) both for you and for him.

You helped neither me etc.

He either did not etc.

This is either true etc.

hotter than that of England.

¹See footnote in page 295.

Incorrect

I gave a doll to the girl whose head was off.

His knowledge of English is as good if not better than yours.

I exactly do not know.

He doesn't appear to be able to understand it.¹

I want to go home back.

I was rather helped by him than his brother.

This should only be used by you.

It is in the last but one page.

The last but three boys.

I ask your favour of doing this.

He enquired about your state of health.

I saw a dead cow walking across the field. (Art. 220).

He shot himself after reaching home with a gun.

Wanted for a baby a nurse three months old.

Wanted for a lady a piano sailing for England.

I eat when only I am hungry.

Their applications who are graduates will be considered.

²Please speak to the concerned clerk.

They wanted quickly to go home.

Not only he was a thief, but he was also a murderer.

Correct

I gave to the girl a doll whose head was off.

(i) is as good as yours, if not better. or,

(ii) as good as, if not better than yours.

{ I do not know exactly.
I do not exactly know.

appears to be unable (or, not to be able) to understand it.

I want to go back home.

I was helped rather by etc.

should be used only by you, or used by you only.

in the last page but one.

The last boy but three.

the favour of your doing this.

about the state of your health.

Walking across the field I saw a dead cow.

He shot himself with a gun after reaching home.

Wanted a nurse for a baby three months old.

Wanted a piano for a lady sailing for England.

only when

Applications of those who are graduates will be considered.

clerk concerned.

to go home quickly.

{ Not only was he a thief, but he was also a murderer.

{ He was not only a thief but also a murderer.

¹ It is the ability, not the appearing, which is lacking.

² When concerned precedes the noun, it means 'worried'. When it follows it, it means 'who is concerned (with that business)', 'who deals with that business'—Hill.

Incorrect

Neither it is good, nor it is bad.

He both offended him and his brother.

Exercise is good both for body and mind.

This house is not advertised for sale but for hire.

Correct

{ Neither is it good, nor is it bad.
It is neither good nor bad.

He offended both him and his brother.

{ is good for both body and mind.
is good both for body and for mind.

is advertised not for sale but for hire.

521 In Idiom :

Washed in tears

His fate shook in the balance.

He pelted stones at the frogs.

From the frying pan to the fire.

Many a time and often

To lie fully stretched

To bring to the bay

I care not a straw for him.

¹I shook his hand.

Put to prison.

Cutting jokes

To cut one's nose to spite one's face.

He is good in health.

To turn over a new page

He took his heart at this.

²I am thick and thin with him.

I turned every stone.

Copy this word by word.

To kill two birds in (or, at one stone).

bathed in tears

trembled in the balance

pelted the frogs with stones

Out of the frying pan into

Many a time and oft

To lie stretched at full length

To bring to bay

I do not care a straw etc.

{ I shook him by the hand.

{ I shook hands with him.

{ Put in prison

{ Sent to prison

{ Making jokes

{ Cracking jokes.

To cut off one's etc.

in good health.

To turn over a new leaf

He took heart at this.

thick or very intimate with him

I left no stone unturned.

word for word

To kill two birds with one stone.

¹But to shake one's hand is used by many good writers.

²Through thick and thin = through all difficulties. He stood by me through thick and thin. But "He is my thick and thin friend" (= so intimate a friend that he is prepared to go through all obstacles for me).

Incorrect

He took his birth in 1780.
 To give dust into one's eyes.
 Starvation stares at my face.
 Set at freedom
¹He earns his bread with the sweat of his brow.
 Don't let this escape your mouth or tongue.
 He drank lemonade at his heart's content.
 The troubles and disturbances were due to mismanagement on behalf of the organisers.
More you think of it the worse it becomes.
Figures and facts
 This excuse will hold no water.
 To be at the door of death
Lightning and thunder
 Last but not (the) least came Amal.

Correct

was born in 1780.
 To throw dust in one's eyes.
 Starvation stares me in the face.
 Set free, or, at liberty in or by the sweat etc. (COD).
 escape your lips
to his heart's content.
on the part of etc.
 The more you etc.
 Facts and figures
 This excuse will not hold water.
 To be at death's door
Thunder and lightning.
 omit the

(522) Particularlarisation of use :

Last evening or night or week or month,—but not last morning, day or afternoon. (COD).

Fast enemies

Addicated to a good habit

Finally, you have got it!

Devoted to a bad habit.

Abide by good consequences.

Prone to diligence etc.

I broke the news to him (said of a good news).

^{চাঞ্চল্যবান/দৃঢ়}
Fast friends²

Addicated to a bad habit.

At last you have got it!

Devoted to a good habit.

Abide by evil consequences.

Prone to a vice or weakness like idleness etc.

I broke the news to him (said of a bad news).

¹Fowler remarks that brow is here a misquotation for face. But COD gives both brow and face.

²But COD has sworn friends, brothers, etc. and also enemies.

[Sack]- পদচ্যুত ভ্রাতৃ/স্বজনপরি দয়া/থলে গা শুকা/বিছিন্ন ।

Incorrect

- This bodes good.
- A bevy of gentlemen
- Livelong week, month
- Water tomb or burial
- The child was left in charge of a servant
- Best friend (Best not appropriate here)
- Drawn fight or combat
- Lofty talk (Usually 'lofty' is used to qualify a man's loftiness)
- Condign reward etc.
- Glaring truth etc.
- Utter or sheer wisdom etc.
- Straight combat, single fight

Correct

- This bodes ill or no good.¹
- A bevy of ladies (bevy - अतिमात्रा हीम)
- Livelong day or night (Livelong day = अतिदिन, Livelong night = अतिरात्र)
- Watery grave in the charge of²
- Bosom friend ('Bosom' - intimate, close)
- Drawn battle or game (Drawn game - (1) अति (2) खिन्न)
- Tall talk (उच्चार्थ)
- Condign punishment etc.
- Glaring error etc. (Glaring - उत्तर (a negative sense))
- Utter or sheer folly etc. (Utter or sheer - उत्तर (a negative sense))
- Straight fight, single combat

523 Errors in parallel construction :

- The film was interesting, exciting, and well made.
- He died unloved, unknown, and without any money.
- The purpose of coming here is to see you and collecting donation.
- He was popular because of his sense of humour, his intelligence, and he could get along with people.
- and penniless. (निःश)
- and to collect donation, or, The purpose of coming here is seeing you and collecting donation.
- and his ability to get along with people, or, He was popular because he had a sense of humour, was intelligent, and could get along with people.

Note

In sentences containing a series of two or more items, same form has to be used for all the items in the series. There should be no mixing of infinitives with gerunds, adjectives with participial phrases, or verbs with nouns.

EXAMPLES WORKED OUT

A. Correct the following :

- (a) The matter was informed to him. (b) He spoke a lie and said me a liar. (c) I wish I was dead. (d) He caught me in the neck. (e) I asked him that why is he so angry upon me. (f) The English is very easier to learn than the language of French. (g) Honesty is more superior than riches. (h) The reason of my silence is due to my illness.
- (a) Even such a strong man like him cannot lift the box. (b) He investigated into the case, but did not succeed to catch the thief. (c) Such men that are idle can never

¹But COD has "bode : promise well or ill."
²In charge of here means the child was looking after the servant.

প্রতিদিনের Current Affairs, বিভিন্ন Update, গুরুত্বপূর্ণ খবর, চাকরির খবর, Motivational Quotes...

Telegram

Join Now

Click Here

চাকরির পরীক্ষার খবর ও নোটস

প্রদান করাই আমাদের মূল লক্ষ্য

Mijan's Diary/@DiaryofMijan

WhatsApp

Join Now

Click Here

বিভিন্ন প্রতিযোগিতামূলক পরীক্ষার জন্য গুরুত্বপূর্ণ Free Study Materials, PDF ইত্যাদি দিয়ে থাকি...